County zoning statutes

provide for the Zoning Board of Appeals to issue recommendations on applications, but final decision in cases of significance rests with the County Board. "Without the disclosure requirements, the County Board often could not know who it was dealing with in reality. Neither did the nearby villages, which in zoning matters are allowed statutory objections triggering super-majority vote requirements at the County level," he explained.

Henceforth, all ownership interests must be disclosed. "This will give everyone better information when considering these cases. Both the community and applicants will benefit as workable compromises in zoning matters will be easier to achieve."

Dr. Woods Opens Office

Floyd W. Woods, O.D. has announced that his newly remodeled offices at 5511 W. 95th St. are finally completed. The prominent Oak Lawn optometrist has spent the past 42 years building and maintaining a practice rooted in strong family values, friendly professional service and prices which his neighbors still appreciate.

"Our offices have been completely remodeled for the convenience of our patients. We have installed the most progressive computerized equipment; new instruments and an optical lab on premises so that we can fully serve our patients needs," related Dr. Woods.

According to Doug Woods, "we want people to be aware that we are quite familiar with all the new hi-tech lenses available in the marketplace. We discuss lenses that fit a person's needs, prior to frame selection. We specialize in new, thinner lenses and progressive, no-line bi-focals."

"We always offer free alignment and adjustment of frames or glasses and can handle most emergency repairs."

Rise In Lake Michigan Water Level Predicted

Lake Michigan will rise this summer and be even higher next summer, causing significant beach erosion, predicts Paul Handler, a retired University of Illinois physicist who also predicted the Mississippi River might flood this year. Handler's specialty, predicting long-term changes in weather, based almost entirely on the effect of volcanic eruptions on the global climate. He believes this effect overrides every other factor contributing to long-range weather. While some climatologists consider him an outsider whose ideas are too simplistic, he correctly predicted the end of the California drought two years ago.

Handler's Lake Michigan prediction is based on his studies of the reported water levels of the lake following the eruption of Krakatoa in Indonesia in 1883, and El Chichon in Mexico in 1983. In both cases, the amount of water in Lake Michigan peaked three years later, in 1886 and 1986. Further studies indicated that water levels have declined in the lake when large volcanoes are inactive.

His Mississippi River forecast, published in March in "Soybean Digest" and in the April issue of his newsletter, "Atlas Forecasts," also was based upon interpretations of the effects of earlier volcanic eruptions.

"I compared the time lag between the eruption of El Chichon in April 1983 and the last [Mississippi] river flooding, which was 12 months later," Handler said. Water in the Mississippi began to rise 20 months after the eruption of Mount Pinatubo in the Philippines in June 1991.

The reason for the eight-month discrepancy, Handler speculates, is that preceding the Pinatubo eruption, there had been a five-year drought that lowered subsoil moisture in the Midwest, while the subsoil already was wet in 1982 and 1983 before the El Chichon eruption. Since the soil at that time could not hold more moisture, flooding was more immediate.

In the "Soybean Digest" article, Handler predicted a cool, wet spring for the Midwest. In April, he wrote in "Atlas Forecasts" that the Mississippi might flood in May or June. It flooded in early July.

Handler's theory is that long-range climate predictions may be made by following the activity of volcanic eruptions near the equator. The eruptions produce a stratosphere aerosol of sulfuric acid and water that reduces the amount of sunlight reaching Earth's surface, which in turn, affects wind and rainfall patterns.

"DON'T SETTLE FOR COST, QUALITY OR SERVICE. CALL THE PEOPLE WHO CAN GIVE YOU ALL THREE."

THEODORE L. DESCH, SENIOR VP,
LAW & CORPORATE AFFAIRS

Health insurance is a balancing act. You don't want to realize cost savings at the expense of quality care. And you don't want to save money if it means losing out on the level of service you expect. So what's the answer?

Well, over the years, nobody has done more to manage cost and preserve quality than we have. Nobody is more responsive to the needs of your people. And no one has more doctors, hospitals and coverage plans to choose from. Cost. Quality. And service. If you don't have all three, you don't have Blue Cross."

WHEN YOU HAVE BLUE CROSS, YOU HAVE IT ALL.

- ☐ You are working with the pioneer in effective cost containment strategies.
- ☐ The carrier that's doing more to monitor quality.
- ☐ The most professional claims and customer response systems in the business.
- ☐ The most trusted health plans in Illinois.

POLICE CALLS

The following incidents were reported by the Oak Lawn Police Department. Readers are reminded that an arrest by police does not constitute a finding of guilt and only a court of law can make that determination.

On July 24th at 1:25 a.m., Darlene Rolidore of Burbank was stopped at 95th & Pulaski and charged with speeding, DUI and illegal transportation of alcohol.

At 3:09 a.m., Frank D. Secor was stopped on the 8800 block of Meade Ave. and charged with DUI, resisting a police officer, fleeing & eluding and speeding.

On July 25th, Polaris School, 4725 W. 107th St., had a 5 ft. x 8 ft. window in the cafeteria broken. Estimated cost to replace is $1,000.

Steve Phillips, an employee of Pete George's Chevrolet, 9440 S. Cicero, reported someone had punched out the door locks of eight vehicles and removed one spare tire from the cars. The burglars took one AM/FM stereo CD player and spare tire from six cars for an approximate loss of $349 each and from another car a spare tire and graphic equalizer, $1,689. Damage to the cars amounted to approximately $2,527.

The security agent at K-Mart at 4104 W. 95th St. told police he saw Jerry Whitten of Chicago allegedly take three Black & Decker electric drills, put them into a black duffel bag and bypass the cashier. He was stopped outside and charged with retail theft. The drills, which were returned to K-Mart, were valued at $152.51.

Kevin Smith of Chicago was charged with two counts of retail theft and Priscilla Derrick, also of Chicago, was charged with retail theft and on a warrant two counts of theft and hitchhiking. In 1951, he graduated from Illinois College of Optometry. In March of that year he started his own family practice in Oak Lawn. While working full time and raising a family, Dr. Woods attended night school at Loyola University, Chicago, where he earned a master's degree in education in 1974.

Dr. Woods is not only a respected professional, but also a man of civic awareness and pride. He has channeled community commitments into several groups and organizations. From 1964 through 1970, he served on the Hometown-Oak Lawn School District 123 school board; 1969 through 1976, he served on the State of Illinois Board of Optometry. He has twice been president of the Oak Lawn Kiwanis Club; served as Lieutenant Governor for the District Council, and was selected by his fellow members as their "Man of the Year" in 1978. Similar honors include "Citizen of the Year" by the Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce in 1987 and recipient of the Volunteer Service Award from PLOWS Council On Aging in 1989. Dr. Woods served as president of the Illinois Optometric Assn. in 1989 and 1990. In 1991 he helped to found the Midwest Eye Institute, a volunteer service facility which deals mainly with the correction of children's vision problems. Currently Dr. Woods serves as president of the Hospital War Veterans of Oak Lawn and is treasurer of the Educational Foundation of School District 123.

Mrs. Dorothy Woods, Floyd's wife, has logged 27 years in the field of optometry. Mrs. Woods is a graduate of Chicago's Parker High School and presently serves as office manager for the family enterprise. Mrs. Woods most recent project included the 'ground-up' renovation of the new 95th St. offices.

"I guess you could say I generated the job...checked the designs...chose the colors and furnishings...it was quite a project. I'm proud of what we accomplished!" Dr. and Mrs. Woods have six children and seven grandchildren.

Doug Woods is a 15-year veteran, certified as a fellow in the National Academy of Opticianary and by the American Board of Opticianary. Doug is a graduate of Oak Lawn Community High School and Joliet Junior College. Upon the completion of a four-year apprenticeship, Doug joined his father in the optical field. His responsibilities include the operating of each precision piece in the on-premise lab, grinding of lenses, emergency repairs, and maintenance of the retail stock & business. Doug and his wife Mary are expecting their first child this fall.

Ms. Debbie Urbanowski is a certified optometric technician. For the past two years she has handled pre-testing and screening of patients and instructs them in the proper care of contact lenses. She also oversees the follow-up care for contact lens patients.

Ms. Terry Hoffman is the newest addition to Dr. Wood's staff. Presently a part-time employee, she works as an administrative assistant to the office manager.

My small village of some 8,000 neighbors has grown to over 58,000 residents. And just as the Village of Oak Lawn has changed, so too have the needs and tastes of its residents.

Recently, we decided that my offices had to be completely remodeled. The rationale was simple! My staff and I wanted to provide our patients with the best optical service, selection and convenience in the Oak Lawn area. We invite our old and new friends to view our newly computerized optical lab and equipment. We hope to see you soon."

CANADIAN FISHING ALSO AFFECTED BY THE WEATHER In the 18 years that I have fished ISLAND LAKE in Northern Manitoba, the temperatures ranged from 50 F to 95 F. During our recent trip, the fast moving cold fronts produced daily cold rains, sleet, strong winds and temperatures ranging from 30 F to 60 F. We had to wear layers of warm clothing, plus rain gear every day.

I don't care where you fish, this type of weather is a turn-off for fish. Instead of GREAT FISHING, we experienced GOOD FISHING. We each caught and released hundreds of fish, had enough Walleyes for delicious shore lunches and our take-home limit of six Northerns and six Walleyes each. Our largest fish was a Northern Pike ONLY 16 1/2 lbs.

My fishing companions were TERRY BROPHY, Mount Greenwood, JIM GRADY and DAVE DUJAITAS, Orland Park, and JERRY BONNEVIER and son PERRY from LaGrange. The group decided to try for some big Northerns, so we arranged for a float plane trip to BEAVER HILL LAKE, a 45 minute flight from the lodge. Boats were on Beaver Hill, but six fishermen, three guides and outboard motors required three float plane trips each way. Before trying for the BIG ONES, we spent a few hours Brook Trout fishing on the stretch of the GODS RIVER that flows from Beaver Hill into the southeast corner of God's Lake. This stretch of river is all white water with huge boils and very little flat water. We had 2-4 lb. plus brookies on but lost them. This river and the ISLAND LAKE RIVER are noted for yielding trophy size (4 lbs. plus) Brook Trout.

On fly-in trips, weight and space are very limited. My newly acquired HUMMINBIRD PLATINUM ID-120 PORTABLE fish locator and depth finder confirmed what I had suspected for a long time - Beaver Hill Lake was loaded with big fish. This one trip was worth the purchase price of the Humminbird Platinum ID-120. This easy to use and totally self-contained portable unit fascinated the Indian guides who quickly learned to interpret the images.

We had many big fish on in Beaver Hill, PERRY had two witnesses to a fish he played out, brought to the boat only to have it roll over and cut PERRY'S line with its gill plates. The witnesses estimated the Northern Pike to weight between 25-30 lbs. Why is it the big ones always get away?

WHAT A DIFFERENCE A WEEK MAKES - Our party left Island Lake on Saturday, the next day MIKE HOULE, Midlothian, and three fishing buddies arrived for a week of fishing. Upon his return MIKE told me they caught numerous fish up to 20 lbs. The fishing was so good on Island Lake that they canceled a flyout fishing trip. In a short period of time, his party caught and released over 250 Northern Pike taken on one small bay. They had GOOD weather and they all got SUN-BURNED.

In order to maintain the excellent fishery in THE ISLAND LAKE WATERS, the entire area is designated for barbless hooks and fish size slots. When catching and releasing hundreds of fish per day, barbless hooks and quick return of fish to the water is the only way to go.

Island Lake derives its name from the numerous islands on this 40 mile wide by 60 mile long lake. The islands, with their varying structure are havens for fish, provide shelter from the wind and an ongoing change of scenery during those typically long boat rides on big Canadian waters.

SURPRISE - After landing what I thought was a good size Walleye, it turned out to be a Sauger, quite rare in this part of Canada. When my long time friend and Indian guide BILLY KNOTT got excited, we decided to measure the fish. This information was recorded and submitted to the proper authorities. Yesterday I received a MANITOBA MASTER ANGLER certificate and embroidered patch for the 55.88 cm (22.00 inch) Sauger caught in Island Lake.

Stock Car Racing

The race for the point title continues to heat up on Saturday, July 31st with all four divisions of NASCAR stock car action on the quarter-mile clay oval. Late Model, Sportsman, Lightning Rod and S.T.A.R. (Short Track American Racer) cars will compete in the continuing NASCAR/Winston Racing Series. Gates open at six, time trials at seven, race time 8 p.m.

As July comes to a close, the Late Model Championship race is still up for grabs. Dennis Erb, Sr. of Carpentersville leads but Bill Knippenberg, Sr. of Minooka looks to close the gap.

In the always-competitive Sportsman division, the battle for first could not be closer. Steve Fuller of Gary, IN used his double point night win on July 10th to grab a share of first place with Ted Loomis of Genoa.

Defending Lightning Rod Champion Elmer Fandrey of

Lemont looks to repeat last year's championship season while Woodridge native Dan Curatolo has other plans.

Santa Fe Speedway is located on the corner of 91st and Wolf Road.

Jet Car Burnout At Santa Fe Speedway

On Friday night, Aug. 6th, Santa Fe Speedway hosts a most unusual array of entertainment. Doug Rose's Green Mamba Jet Car Burnout lights up the sky with a captivating car burning exhibition. Plus, the tenth annual Illinois Championship Mud Boggs. Three divisions of mud racers attempt to cross Santa Fe's precarious 100-foot long, four-foot deep mud pit: stock, modified and cut. Gates open at six and the action begins at 8 p.m.

An eleven-time National Jet Car Champion and thirty-year drag racing veteran, Milwaukee native Doug Rose has propelled his jet racer to speeds in excess of 250 miles per hour. The J46 jet engine, once the powerplant for the Navy's F7U Cutlass fighter plane, not only pushes the 3100-pound Green Mamba to great speeds, but it is also the destructive force used to annihilate automobiles in a single blast.

On this night, Rose will strap himself into the Green Mamba, throttle the jet engine up to full power and kick in the after-burner. Shooting out an eighteen-foot blue flame, the jet car will accelerate down the front straightaway and deploy the safety parachute. Then, it's the legendary Jet Car Burnout. A chain will be connected between the Mamba and the car to be burned. Rose will don the special asbestos suit and strap himself in. Within minutes, Rose will accelerate the mighty jet engine to 10,500 RPM and annihilate the car.

Also on tap on this action-packed night, three divisions of world-class mud racers will attempt to cross Santa Fe Speedway's specially constructed, four-foot deep mud pit in a test of distance and time. Mud Patrol, Super Trooper, Time Traveler, the Witch, Wild One and more are all set to do battle.

Bull basketball players Will Perdue (pictured) and Corey Williams demonstrated the basic skills of basketball to a crowd of over 500 boys, girls and their parents, at a recent basketball clinic at Marist High School. They coordinated a variety of drills throughout the afternoon and awarded prizes to those boys and girls who participated in the drills. All those in attendance received complimentary Bulls/Gatorade sweat hands. This clinic is sponsored each year by Gatorade and the Bulls in conjunction with a variety of schools throughout the Chicagoland area.

Volleyball Champs

Congratulations go to the 2nd City Jammin' Volleyball team who won the United States Volleyball Association's Junior Olympic tournament in the 14-and-under age group on July 3rd.

Captain of the team Carrie McEnery of Orland Park, who has had two sisters play in the USVBA tourney, finally got her dream of being on a team which won it all. The dream became reality when McEnery and her nine teammates defeated last year's champions from Fort Wayne, Indiana, 15-4, 15-2 at the Kansas City Convention Center. McEnery's team was 12-0 for the tournament.

Most valuable player Katie Schumacher of Chicago and teammate Renee Nash of Worth were named All-Americans. Nash's sister also was on a national champion 14-and-under team.

The tournament was attended by 64 teams from across the United States and Puerto Rico. The team qualified for the tournament by winning a regional qualifying tournament May 1st in Milwaukee.

2nd City Jammin' finished the season with a 65-0 record against 14-and-under teams, but they also played older teams to get experience against tougher competition, according to Coach Chris Meyer, who also coaches women's volleyball at Illinois Institute of Technology.

Against teams of 16-and-under and 18-and-under girls, 2nd City Jammin' was 34-9. The last tournament the girls played before Kansas City was a 16-and-under tournament in Indianapolis, where they finished second out of 53 teams.

In a local 18-and-under tournament consisting of 24 teams, the girls finished fifth in which they defeated a team with five starters headed for the Division 1 schools on volleyball scholarships. The team even beat Schumacher's older sister's team in one tournament.

Except for Nicole Kacor of Chicago who will be in eighth grade, all six starters; Bell, McEnery, Nash, Mary O'Connor of Palos Park, Kim Prohaska of Chicago and Schumacher, will be attending volleyball powerhouse Mother McAuley this fall.

OYA Team Is Honored

The Orland Park Village Board honored the state champion Orland Youth Association (OYA) Metro-Travelling Team at its Monday, July 19th meeting. On July 5th, this team of 14 year olds defeated the Wheaton Travelling Team, 8-4, claiming the state title of the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU). Under the direction of Coach Kevin Leary, the Orland team took first in the state with an overall season record of 23 wins and one loss. At the board meeting, Mayor Daniel McLaughlin presented resolutions of commendation to each of the players, their coaches and manager.

Recycling Activity Book For Kids

A happy-go-lucky pooch named "Scoop the Newshound" brings a message about newspaper recycling to the Illinois State Fair from Aug. 13th to 22nd in Springfield. The smiling canine and other fun-loving animals appear in a coloring/activity book for young people.

The book was created by the Illinois Press Association and its non-profit subsidiary, the Illinois Press Foundation. David L. Bennett, executive director of the IPA and IPF, said, "Scoop the Newshound" delivers the important message that the newspaper industry is a leader in newsprint recycling.

"There are a lot of myths about newsprint waste and the use of renewable resources such as trees," Bennett said. "We hope to dispel some of those myths by educating young people in a fun way."

The IPA also is sponsoring a display at the fair about newsprint recycling. The display will be located on the second level of the Illinois Building.

"Scoop the Newshound" was created by Rich Pine, an editorial cartoonist from Woodridge. Pine donated the artwork for the book to the Illinois Press Foundation. Other donations include the printing by Tazewell Publishing Co. of Morton and the paper by Manistique Papers Inc. of Manistique, Mich.

The Illinois Press Association is the largest state newspaper association in the U.S. with more than 600 weekly and daily newspaper members.

LET'S DO LUNCH WITH THE 'STARS'.....Show business celebrities have long been known to possess a wide range of idiosyncrasies ranging from super egos to low self esteem. And because show business 'stars' depend a great deal on image, it is not uncommon to find that the eating habits of many motion picture and television stars reflect their personality and eccentricities. When you 'do lunch' or have dinner with a show business celebrity, you can expect almost any kind of gourmet experience, and it usually happens.

CONSTANCE BENNETT (inset), a famous motion picture star of the 1930s and 40s, would always order bacon burned black with a plate of Triscuits. Ms. Bennett, sister of another motion picture star, Joan Bennett, also insisted on having scalding hot coffee with her meal. She would take a few bites of the burned bacon, a Triscuit, a sip of the scalding hot coffee and then ask the waiter or waitress to pour out the coffee and bring her a clean cup with more scalding hot coffee. Before finishing her meal, she might ask the waitress to bring as many as six new cups of scalding hot coffee. She never used cream or sugar because she once told us it "cooled down the coffee."

VAN JOHNSON, poster-boy for all the World War II movies, and a 'star' who always seemed to end up playing the boy-next-door, would never have lunch with a member of the press before scouting out the restaurant the day before the appointment. Johnson had an aversion to crowded restaurants and would always want to make sure there was a table hidden away in a darkened corner of the room where he could sit facing the wall in hopes he would not be recognized while being interviewed and eating lunch.

GLORIA SWANSON, one of the great motion picture stars from the silent screen era and still later the star of "Sunset Boulevard" with William Holden, was probably the first health food fanatic in the U.S. Ms. Swanson would never go on location or appear in a play on the road that she would not have her own brand of distilled water shipped in by the gallons. The water had to be kept in a special refrigerator and not one used by other members of the cast and crew. She never ate meat, except for chicken from chickens raised on a farm where the chickens never left an enclosed house; only ate corn and other foods which were not grown using pesticides. When you would dine with Gloria, and perhaps order a steak, you would get a lecture on how you were destroying your digestive system. If she could win you over to her way of eating, she would proudly boast to anyone within earshot that you were one of her "converts." The last time we dined together, I ordered a steak rare with baked potato, butter and sour cream, and Gloria just shook her head, smiled and said; "I guess you will never be one of my converts."

PAT O'BRIEN (inset) was just the opposite of Gloria Swanson when it came to dining out. O'Brien's idea of a great meal was to go to the men's bar at Berghoff's on Adams in the Loop and order a ham or corned beef sandwich on rye bread and a stein of beer. Pat also loved chocolate and he would have me take him to a candy shop in the old Hilton Hotel where he would buy boxes of chocolate. Once when my wife Lois and I went with Pat and his wife Eloise to Milwaukee, his hometown, to promote his book "The Wind at My Back," Pat insisted I drive down an alley and park behind a neighborhood saloon. When I asked him what was so important about the neighborhood saloon, he looked at me and said, "they have the greatest buttered popcorn in the country in this joint."

ELKE SOMMER (inset) had eating habits very much on the order of Pat O'Brien. Elke will eat anything that isn't moving. Born in Germany, Elke likes hearty cuisine, pasta, and keeps her figure by playing tennis almost everyday. Elke never has to go on a diet because she is so active and burns off all the calories with a strenuous workout program.

GEORGE HAMILTON usually eats only one meal a day and always has a glass of grapefruit juice, or a half a grapefruit, after he is finished eating. Hamilton, who has a fetish about being tan and looking fit and trim, once told us the secret to not gaining weight is never snack or eat anything after your last meal. How about the refrigerator version of "The Club?"

Festa Italiana In Grant Park

The Amerital Unico Club of Chicago will present the 15th Annual Festa Italiana in South Grant Park, Lake Shore Drive and Roosevelt Road, across from the Field Museum, on Aug. 20th, 21st and 22nd.

Although entertainment and food is a major part of any festival, the arts and culture display is one of the highlights of Festa Italiana. This year's cultural display will focus on the biggest single event in the history of Italian Americans in Chicago which occurred 60 years ago on July 15th, 1933 when Italo Balbo and his squadron of planes landed in Lake Michigan in commemoration of the Century of Progress Exposition. There will be a special historical exhibit of photos, memorabilia, newspaper stories and videotape depicting this historical event.

In addition to the Balbo exhibit, the arts festa will feature the Italian American Theatre Company's Pucinella Traveling Puppet Theatre and the traditional display of paintings, sculptures and photographs by and about Italians and Italian Americans. The Pucinella Puppet Theatre traces its roots back to Renaissance Neapolitan Commedia Dell'Arte street performers. The cast includes Lionel Bottari, Frank Melcore, Jean Parisi and Gian Luca Ferma. They will perform in both Italian and English, using a pushcart/puppet stage which will be used in the arts tent, but will move around the Festa grounds on Saturday and Sunday afternoon. Many local artists will display their exhibits around a massive representation of the map of Italy created by designer John Buccell.

Gates open at 12 noon to 10 p.m. each day. Advance tickets are $5 and can be purchased at all Domlnick's Food Stores. Gate tickets are $6. Children 10 and under are admitted free. Take the free shuttles from either Soldier Field (east lot) or the Monroe St. parking garage right to Festa gate. For further information, call (312) 829-8888.

History."

Women Against Gun Violence

Women elected officials in Cook County rallied together as a bi-partisan group against Gun Violence at a recent conference at the Palatine Village Hall, vowing to "do something" about the pressing legislative concerns of gun violence.

"There are enough women elected officials in Cook County to have a significant impact on this issue," said Aurelia Pucinski, Clerk of the Circuit Court and co-organizer of the Conference along with Palatine Mayor Rita Mullins. Phillip Andrew, Executive Director of the Illinois Council on Handgun Violence also assisted in presenting the program.

"This is the beginning of a grassroots effort to save our children and our families from the horrible violence in our streets," said Pucinski.

The women attending the conference drafted and agreed to sign a resolution, containing federal, state and local legislative proposals, as a means to limit firearms violence. This resolution will call for the following: demanding the passage of the Brady Bill (allowing a seven day waiting period to purchase a gun providing time for a background check), imposing a strict liability on gun suppliers and manufacturers, significantly increasing the tax on guns and ammunition, banning assault weapons, limiting gun dealer licenses, passage of a Child Accident Protection Act, and abolishment of mail-order gun sales.

The women attending the conference hope to increase public awareness to the destruction caused by gun violence. "We will be contacting other women elected officials as well as community groups, schools and women's organizations to support this resolution," said Pucinski. The group will also work towards effective lobbying against the National Rifle Association.

The conference resulted in a unified front among women to work for a change in current gun legislation. "The goal of our conference was to build a consensus on what government can do to alleviate the ever growing epidemic of handgun violence in both the city and suburban areas," said Mullins.

Oak Lawn High Registration Days

Student accident insurance is available on an optional basis for a $14 annual premium. A student activity handbook will also be distributed.

Village Hires Four Emergency Communicators

A request to hire four emergency telecommunicators from the current Civil Service list was made by Village Manager Joseph J. Faber at the meeting of the Oak Lawn Village Board on Tuesday. It was approved by a 5-1 vote with Trustee Robert Streit casting the nay vote. He felt they should not be hired at this time unless there is a reduction made in the surcharge being paid by our residents. Mayor Ernie Kolb pointed out the agreement voted on at the last meeting covers this.

William Garrity, 10048 Marion Ave., asked the board to approve a consolidation of one lot next to his, both 30 ft., to make it one 60 ft. lot on which he plans to build a two-flat to be used by his family. Streit objected because he did not think it proper to put up a two-flat in a block of single family homes. Trustee Ron Stancik said the petitioner Garrity had complied with all the regulations required and there were none of the neighbors there to object at the public hearing. It passed 4-2 with Streit and Trustee Michael Walsh voting no.

Thomas Russian, attorney for Crown Mortgage Co., 6141 W. 95th St., requested the repeal of Ordinance #90-7-25 covering a parking variation, a loading berth variation, and a variation in the front yard in anticipation of planned construction which would extend west and south from the existing building and would be three stories in height.

After discussing pros and cons of acquiring more parking areas and vacant lots which could be used for parking, it was found one is in a blind trust and according to Russian, the attorney for that piece of property is asking an exorbitant price for it. It was finally agreed that the neighbors who were objecting, representatives from Crown Mortgage Co. and some of the trustees meet and see what can be worked out. The matter was postponed until the meeting of Sept. 17th.

In other business, Mayor Kolb presented an Oak Lawn Police Department commendation to Kristina Flutman, an 8-year-old who while playing with friends at the Pilgrim Faith Church lot, saw a male black subject exit the church carrying two fans. Fearing that a crime was being committed, Kristina immediately contacted the police by phone. Based on the information given by Kristina the offender was arrested when he was found hiding on a PACE bus at 95th & Cicero and the stolen merchandise was recovered. This offender has an extensive criminal history and is wanted in numerous theft investigations in this area. Kolb praised her for her quick response and attention to detail.

Village Clerk A. Jayne Powers reminded that the deadline for the display of vehicle stickers is Sunday, Aug. 15th and the village hall will be open on Thursday, the 11th, until 8 p.m. and on Saturday, the 14th, from 8:30 a.m. until 12 noon.

She also said Central Avenue at 108th St. is to be closed for about two weeks for repair of the railroad crossing. Repairs to the crossing at 111th St. begin about the 23rd.

The resignation of Randal A. Stancik from the business development commission was accepted with regret. Trustee Stancik recommended the appointment of William Goetz, 9327 S. 55th Ave., to the commission, which was approved.

Flood Donation

Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Illinois donated $5,000 to the Adams County Chapter of the American Red Cross to help victims of the flooding area along the Mississippi River.

The flood has directly affected Blue Cross employees from the company's regional office in Quincy, including six employees who may be forced to evacuate their homes.

"TAKE IT FROM A GUY WHO WAS A CONSULTANT. THE DAYS WHEN BLUE CROSS COULD BE CALLED INFLEXIBLE ARE ANCIENT HISTORY."

SHERMAN M. WOLFE, SENIOR VICE PRESIDENT, FINANCE

There was a time that Blue Cross and Blue Shield seldom made my recommended carrier list. I didn't think they were willing to design plans specifically for individual clients.

Well, I was wrong. And if you believe it's that way around here, you're not as well informed about us as you could be.

One of the big reasons we're thriving is that we build every plan exactly the way a client wants it. And our range of products, plus the power of our networks, helps us do that better than anybody else."

WHEN YOU HAVE BLUE CROSS, YOU HAVE IT ALL.

- ☐ Balanced Benefit Planning to meet financial as well as human resource objectives.
- ☐ Comprehensive plans that are tailor made for specific client objectives.
- ☐ A greater ability to negotiate more favorable terms than any other carrier.
- ☐ The most trusted health insurance company in Illinois.

WE HAVE IT ALL.

budget (buj'it) n. An itemized summary of estimated or intended expenditures for a given period along with proposals for financing them. A systematic plan for the expenditure of usually a fixed resource such as money or time, during a given period.

In 1593, William Shakespeare wrote "The Taming of the Shrew" and the author penned "I'll not budge an inch."

President Bill Clinton, 400 years after Shakespeare, wrote the now hackneyed phrase, 'wheeled and dealt' his budget through Congress in a manner which would have forced the Bard of Stratford on the Avon to re-write the line to read: "I'll budget an inch."

In truth, President Clinton may be a mix between William Shakespeare and Shakespeare's father who was a butcher. Legend has it that when the Bard was a boy, he exercised his father's trade, but when he killed a calf he would do it in high style and make a speech.

President Clinton arm-wrestled his budget through Congress by making concessions to members of his own party and then following it up with a Shakespearean speech.

When Shakespeare wrote "The Taming of the Shrew" he was referring to a woman, a 'shrew,' with a violent, scolding or nagging temperament.

President Clinton didn't become violent or scolding to anyone's knowledge, but he did display a nagging temperament which in the end tamed the wayward Democratic calves (Senators) who were not about to be led to slaughter in the next election without making sure the President followed through with concessions which were well beyond the scope of the original budget or his campaign pledges.

The budget, which passed the House of Representatives by a single vote and a Senate tie-breaking vote by Vice President Al Gore, is being hailed by the administration as a tax on only the wealthiest of Americans.

What the new bill will do is send many wealthy Americans scurrying to their financial advisors in an effort to find new tax shelters and loopholes to avoid the increase in taxes. In short, the new bill will be a bonanza for financial advisors who make a living finding ways to protect the rich from an increase in taxes.

The Democrats like to say that the new law raises taxes on only the wealthy, but in reality there are many ways the new law will dip into the pocketbooks of taxpayers who are not in the 'wealthy' bracket.

Everyone knows about the increase in gasoline taxes and taxes on many people who collect Social Security benefits.

The new law may affect others like employees who take classes paid for by their employers.

Hidden in the new law are restrictions on donations to a person's college and to other charities, as well as grandparents and others who set up trust funds for children.

One tax specialist even went so far as to say some people might want to think about refiling their 1992 taxes because the new law will deal retroactively with areas like tuition assistance and low-income housing credits. The new law changes income tax rates retroactive to Jan. 1, 1993.

One area to be affected by the new law is in the realm of small businesses, long known as the backbone of the American economy, yet under the new bill sole proprietors and others who pay taxes on business income at personal tax rates could be taxed at a much higher rate than a corporation.

A small business person who opts to change the structure of his company may find that he would be taxed as a corporation and again as a shareholder or employee.

Small business owners also face another deduction loss. It used to be that 80 percent of business meals and entertainment were deductible. Under the new law only 50 percent will be allowed.

And, if you are a small business person used to taking your wife on a business trip, you can forget trying to write off your spouse's travel expenses. The spouse, under the new law, will have to be a bona fide employee of the business paying the expenses.

If you are thinking of making a move to a new job, expenses related to the move are still deductible. However, under the new law you have to move at least 50 miles, not 35 miles as it was before and the costs of meals, temporary lodging near the new job and house-hunting expenses will no longer be allowed as deductions.

President Clinton's new bill which squeaked through Congress is mostly an increase in taxes with a promise to cut spending in 'out years.' Some of the 'out years' of spending cuts do not even come into the mix until after the 1996 election.

Historically, spending cuts proposed for years in the future never come to fruition because special interest groups, lobbyists, crank up the machinery and one by one the spending cuts never materialize.

President Clinton's budget, which has been enacted into law, is still to be tested by the power-brokers of Washington who will be taming the shrew in a way that only Shakespeare would describe for all interested parties as "I'll not budge an inch."

Highway Safety

Congressman William O. Lipinski (D-Ill.) on Friday introduced the Commercial Motor Carrier Safety Act to alleviate the hazards posed by commercial trucks carrying uncovered loads of loose materials.

The legislation has two key provisions:

- It requires the U.S. Department of Transportation to establish federal standards for the mandatory coverage of commercial loads.

- It directs the Secretary of Transportation to transfer 1.5 percent of a state's federal highway construction funds to state highway safety programs if a state does not adopt and enforce the standards by fiscal year 1996.

"The Commercial Motor Carrier Safety Act will protect the safety and property of our nation's drivers," said Lipinski. "Commercial trucks carrying uncovered loads are a constant source of flying rocks and debris on our roads. Traveling at sixty miles per hour, these materials crack and shatter windshields, dent and scratch cars, and present a dangerous distraction to other drivers. Requiring commercial trucks to cover their loads at all times is a simple step to prevent these incidences."

"With this bill," Lipinski added, "we can expect a number of benefits. Most important is enhancing highway safety and preventing accidents. But we will also see a substantial decrease in the frequency of damage to automobiles. Millions of windshields are replaced every year due to rock damage, and in Illinois alone we could expect this bill to prevent 25,000 breakages at a cost of more than $5 million. Because insurance companies pass on these costs in the form of higher insurance premiums for its customers, every driver would benefit."

'Returning Women'

The 'Returning Woman' program at Moraine Valley Community College offers a special program for the adult woman returning to college or those enrolling in college for the first time. The program consists of a block of classes, both daytime and evening, offered for women only.

"The world is changing, and more women are thinking about coming back to college or starting college for the first time," said Paula Adduci, a counselor with MVCC's adult center.

According to Adduci, the 'returning woman' program has a number of objectives including helping students meet challenges personally, socially and academically; write effectively and creatively; develop more self-confidence and self-direction, as well as study contemporary issues.

Morning classes offered through the program this fall include Composition I (COM-101), Human Potentials--College Success (PSY-100); and Introduction to Sociology (SOC-101). Evening classes will be Composition I and Human Potentials--College Success.

Through these courses, students earn regular college credits that can be applied toward a degree or certificate. The courses transfer to most four-year colleges and universities.

Counseling and child care for preschoolers during the day is available to students. For counseling information, or more specific information about the 'Returning Woman' program, call the college at (708) 974-5729.

Letter To The Editor

Editor,

We don't have to look very far to find a community that uses "Reduce, Reuse, Recycle" to the fullest. Naperville has been recycling for 22 years. It has curbside recycling of newspapers, mixed paper (chip cardboard, junk mail, etc.), corrugated cardboard, office paper, magazines, steel and aluminum cans, No. 1 and 2 plastics, polystyrene, paper and plastic milk cartons, juice boxes and 6-pack rings. It also has started a drop-off center for household waste such as paint thinners, furniture polish, etc. The recyclables are sorted at an intermediate material recovery facility (MRF) which handles 400 tons of recyclables a day. The Naperville facility is privately owned, cost $2 1/4 million to build and employs 100 people. The Cook County Solid Waste Committee, SWC, has included MRFs in its plan. The SWC states, "sufficient MRF capacity must be developed in the county or surrounding area to deal with existing and future recycling programs. Four or five large MRFs will ultimately be needed to provide for sufficient processing capacity for Suburban Cook County which should work in cooperation with private companies and sub-county agencies to develop additional MRF capacity."

But these plans are not likely to happen because the Cook County Solid Waste Plan includes the Robbins incinerator. If approved, this incinerator would open the door for other incinerators and thrust the Robbins incinerator into its final developing stages.

The developers of the incinerator have been promised $300 million interest-free money from the state for 20 years. Operators expect to burn 1,200 tons of garbage each day. One-third of this burned garbage will become toxic ash and according to the 7th Circuit Court, this ash will have to be buried in a toxic dump at horrendous cost to the taxpayer.

The incinerator will burn recyclable paper and plastics to fuel its large burners and employ 60 people. Approximately 250 garbage trucks will help transport the garbage every day. Even excluding the pollution argument, the incinerator does not seem a reasonable solution compared to aggressive recycling programs. But then again, the privately owned company with its undisclosed owners stands to lose $50,000,000 a year in revenue if the incinerator does not go up. No wonder the unknown owners are trying to cram this down our throats.

Sincerely,
Patricia J. Ruthenberg

Our families, our friends, our homes, our cars — over the years, they all change.

Our careers change, too. What we do for a living today isn't often what we were doing for a living five or ten years ago, or what we'll be doing five or ten years from now.

Change is the nature of our lives. But it doesn't have to catch us unaware. We can prepare for change and make it happen on our own terms.

Moraine Valley Community College helps thousands of adults turn over a new leaf in their careers — and their lives — by providing the outstanding higher education programs they need to keep up with our changing world.

Volunteers Needed

The small town of Oquawka, Illinois is in desperate need of volunteers and materials to aid in their flood cleanup efforts. Oquawka is approximately 60 miles south of Rock Island. Volunteers have come together and are working in conjunction with the Chicago office of the Salvation Army and the donation of two charter buses from Royal American Charter of South Holland, which are requesting volunteers to travel by bus to Oquawka this coming Saturday morning, Aug. 14th. The buses will return on Sunday evening, Aug. 15th.

We are asking, in addition to people ready to assist the people of Oquawka in general cleaning and repairing, that a professional each in carpentry, electrical and furnace repair volunteer for this worthy effort. Also, we need donations of cleaning supplies, school supplies, fans, face masks and building materials. We are also seeking a cash donation to the Salvation Army of $775 for the purchase of a high pressure cleaning hose with attachments for disinfecting.

There are approximately 75 houses in Oquawka in need of major cleaning and repair to make them habitable. Volunteers and people wishing to donate are asked to contact Col. Wehr at (708) 294-2000. You may also confer with Karen Thompson at Royal American Charter by calling (708) 331-2822 and Linda Gibson in Oquawka at (309) 867-2551 (Fire Dept.), (309) 867-2890 (home) or (309) 734-8383 (work).

Driver Alert

The Chicago Police Department, as well as all suburban departments, urge motorists to be particularly alert during the summer months to the potential for becoming victims of armed robberies and thefts. Motorists who leave car windows open while traveling during the warm weather months can follow some simple safety precautions to avoid becoming crime victims. Motorists can be vulnerable, for example, when patronizing gas stations -- particularly in stations located near expressways, which afford quick avenues of escape to offenders.

"Offenders thrive on opportunity and prey on victims who appear to be the most vulnerable or fail to follow simple crime prevention measures," Chicago Superintendent Rodriguez said. "Armed robbers and thieves find gas station patrons inviting targets because the victim is often preoccupied with thoughts of car maintenance, filling the gas tank, or walking to pay the cashier."

Police urge motorists to employ the following precautions:

- * Remain alert at all times for suspicious people and noises. Be prepared to drive away quickly. Keep a reasonable distance from the cars both in front and back of you. If you can see the rear tires on the auto in front, there is sufficient room to maneuver around to escape.

- * At gas stations, always remove the key from the ignition, even for that short walk from the gas pump to the cashier. Often, motorists remember to turn off the ignition, but fail to remove the keys. Also, keep all doors locked and windows rolled up. Wherever possible, use the full-service pumps and remain in the vehicle. Motorists should also attempt to fill their tanks from gas pumps closest to the cashier.

- * Never leave purses or other valuables on the car seat. To avoid temptation and minimize risks, all valuables and packages should be stored out of sight under seats or in the car trunk, but not exposed on car seats. Another tip is to either remove or cover jewelry.

- * If approached by a suspicious person, you may want to draw attention to yourself by sounding your horn or by talking loudly.

- * The most important crime prevention tip deserves repeating: Always remain alert. Keep your mind on your surroundings -- who's in front of you and who's behind you. Don't become distracted. Appear confident. Communicate the message that you're calm, confident, and you know what is happening. Trust your instincts. If you are uncomfortable in a place or situation, leave or draw attention to yourself.

By following the above common-sense suggestions, motorists can greatly reduce the likelihood of becoming crime victims.

Backlog Of Bills

The backlog of unpaid bills in the Comptroller's Office grew in July 1993, Comptroller Dawn Clark Netsch reported recently. The Comptroller's Office was holding $409 million in General Revenue Fund bills at the end of July 1993, as compared to a $223 million backlog a month earlier. Comptroller Netsch said General Revenue Fund revenues in July were down 9.5 percent from the same time a year ago, contributing to the growth in the backlog of bills and a decrease in expenditures for the month.

Transfers out for the month included an expedited $45.6 million Local Government Distributive Fund payment to help cash-strapped local governments affected by the flood.

Lapse period spending was $241 million lower in July 1993 than last July's. Fiscal 1993 General Revenue Fund lapse period spending is expected to be below the record high expenditures of the past two fiscal years.

Highway Map

The Illinois Department of Transportation announced the new 1993-94 official highway map is available for free distribution.

The map cover honors the 175th anniversary of Illinois statehood. The cover features a map of the Illinois Territory when it became a state in 1818, a picture of the first state capitol in Kaskaskia, a copy of the first Illinois constitution and the state seal.

The 1993-94 highway map is the first map completely done in-house at the Illinois Department of Transportation, which was made possible by creating a computer generated base map for the 1991-92 edition. The map features enhanced colors to make it easier to read, an update of the corporate limits of cities enlarged on the reverse side, and shows the completed Interstate 39 between Bloomington and Rockford and Interstate 155 between Lincoln and Morton. There were several hundred small changes made for the new version of the highway map.

Maps will be available in limited quantities at Department of Transportation offices throughout the state, or by writing to I.D.O.T./MAP, 2300 S. Dirksen Parkway, Springfield, IL 62764.

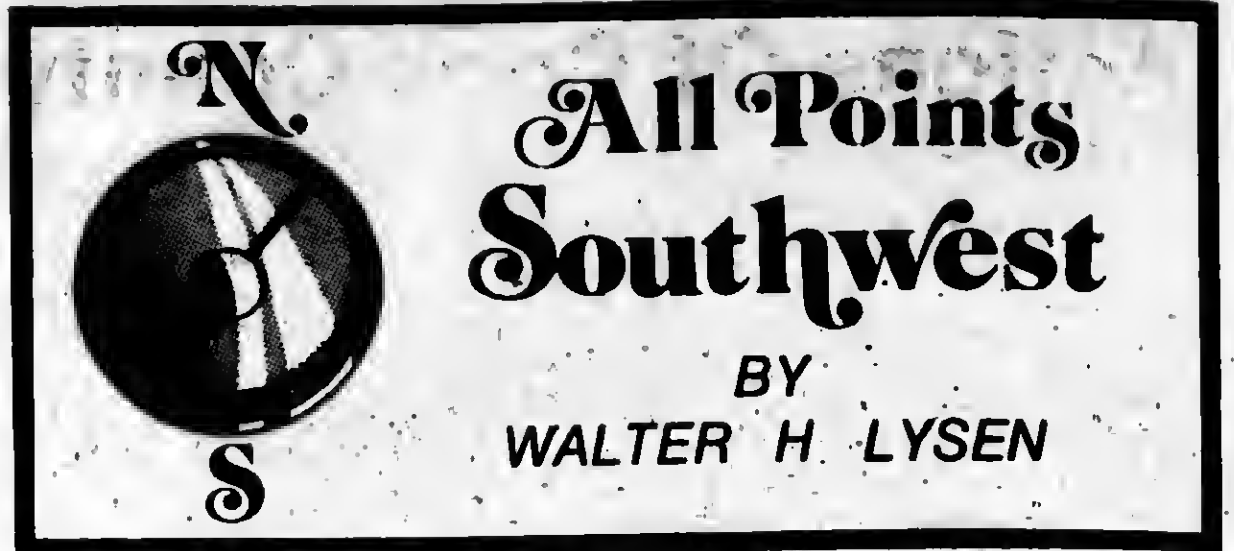

Penalties

Penalties for certain firearms violations will be enhanced now that the governor signed House Bill 1109 into law, noted State Rep. Terry Steczo (D-Oak Forest), a co-sponsor of the bill.

Steczko explained that the new law makes it a Class 2 felony to possess a firearm silencer, machine gun, sawed-off shotgun, bomb or grenade in or on the property of a courthouse. Steczo further explained that the law also makes it a Class 3 felony to possess firearms on the property of a courthouse while concealing one's identity.

Steczko noted that a Class 2 felony carries up to a seven-year prison term and a $10,000 fine. The minimum mandatory for Class 2 felonies is two years. Class 3 felonies carry up to a five-year prison term and a $10,000 fine, noted Steczo.

"Despite enhanced security measures, incidents of violence within our courthouses have increased. It is a tragedy that our citizens cannot feel safe in a court of law," Steczo said. "Hopefully, the increased penalties for these violations will serve as a deterrent to bringing weapons into a courthouse."

Cook County law enforcement officials are singing the praise of State Senator Patrick O'Malley (R-18th) for his sponsored Senate Bill 880 which was signed into law by Governor Jim Edgar. The bill allows the use of non consensual wiretap procedures by law officials investigating the illegal activities of drug dealers.

Senate Bill 880 expands Illinois' wiretap statute to allow its use for investigating criminal drug conspiracy, which covers the action of two or more people who conspire to deal drugs including the delivery to children or sale to minors on school property.

O'Malley says the legislation includes extensive protection against misuse and requires enforcement officials to receive training before they are allowed to conduct such surveillance.

How successful is off-track betting? According to the state's Department of Energy and Natural Resources (ENR) $1,358,256 was recently allocated to various aquariums, museums, park districts, conservation districts, villages and cities throughout the state. The grants, for general operating support and capital improvement, are distributed semi-annually from the Horse Racing Tax Allocation Fund.

One of the grant recipients was the Village of Crestwood, which received $160,805.61. Congratulations to Mayor Chester Stranczek and his administration for their foresight in obtaining a "Winner's Circle" off-track betting parlor for their village. No wonder Stranczek can consistently abate all of the property tax money (village portion), a real benefit to homeowners who are mired in tax payments.

The Chicago Reporter, a minority oriented monthly magazine, reports that birth rates among Latinos is 71 percent higher than among others. Mexican-American women top all groups with 107.7 children per 1,000 women, compared to blacks, with 89 children per 1,000 women. The rates for whites is 62.8 per 1,000. Cuban women have the lowest rate with 52.6 per 1,000. The Reporter says their figures were obtained from the Center For Disease Control.

ALL POINTS salutes the Nalco Foundation of Naperville for their $5,000 grant to St. Coletta's of Palos Park. The funds will help pay for special equipment needs for the disabled such as the purchase of vans, whirlpool baths, hospital beds and dressing and treatment tables.

The Nalco Foundation is funded by the Nalco Chemical Company, the world's largest producer of water and process treatment chemicals. Since its inception in 1953, The Nalco Foundation has made grants totaling more than $24 million to worthy organizations.

Conservative Democrats in the Tax Activist Sees Too Much 'Pork' In State Budget

The head of Illinois' largest taxpayer organization recently demanded that Senate President James "Pate" Philip apply a knife to the "astounding" layers of fat in the $30 billion state budget proposed for 1994 before raising $450 million by increasing the state income tax. "Taxpayers should not be socked with higher taxes to fund a $1.8 billion increase in the state budget," said Jim Tobin, president of National Taxpayers United of Illinois (NTU). "In just 4 pages of the 788-page budget for 1994, I found over $20 million of pork -- some literally pork -- that Philip could cut to pare down this corpulent, wasteful $30 billion state budget proposed for 1994."

"Rather than returning millions of dollars of funds to Illinois taxpayers that were unexpended by June 30th, 1993, Philip and his allies reappropriated funds to the Department of Agriculture for the following:"

STATE FAIRGROUND
Swine Pavilion renovation: $808,000
Renovation of livestock building including air-conditioning for animals: 2,597,476
Rehab of administration bldg. for bureaucrats: 2,566,567

Barn for cows:	1,200,000
Barns for horses:	500,000
Work on grandstand:	2,690,000
Rehab of 6 horse barns:	1,092,988
Rehab of 18 barns:	1,570,777
Construction of Crafts Bldg.:	4,543,277
DUQUOIN COUNTY FAIRGROUND
All-purpose building:	2,639,887
Total	$20,208,972

"Sen. Philip was quoted on July 7th as saying 'There's nothing left to cut in state agencies...there is only one place left to cut: education.' The examples above reveal Sen. Philip's priorities."

"It took me 30 minutes to find over $20 million in pork barrel projects. It should take Pate Philip less than one day to find cuts of $1.8 billion in the bloated budget proposed for 1994. I call upon Sen. Philip to vote 'NO' on the income tax extension, as he promised to do in writing, and to apply the knife to the abundant pork in this budget."

Southwest area are taking a hard look at the recent voting record of US Senators Paul Simon and Carol Moseley Braun and Congressman Bill Lipinski. Simon and Braun said there were things they didn't like in President Clinton's budget but voted with their president anyway. Lipinski said he couldn't endorse the bill so he voted no as requested by his constituents. He said his mail and phone calls were over 60% 'no.' Simon and Braun also said the majority of their mail and phone calls were anti-Clinton budget but, still went with the leader of their party....Very interesting for Lipinski next year and Simon four years from now. Braun still has almost six years to serve so what she has done now will probably be forgotten in 1998.

The talk that Lipinski will be stripped of some of his appointments better be re-checked by the Clintonites...from here it looks that Congressman Bill will be one of the few Congressional Democrats re-elected next fall--and Clinton will need all the help he can find the balance of his term.

Our editor Jerry Gibbons wants to clarify the word mandate. He points out "The New Webster's Dictionary of the English Language defines the word mandate: a command; an order, precept, or injunction. It is high time that President Clinton and his inside group be furnished with dictionaries, as their misuse of the word 'mandate' appears to be ingrained. It began with the 'mandate' claimed for Clinton's election, when if these lackeys look closely, their leader is definitely a minority president who received approximately 43 percent of the popular vote, hardly a 'mandate.'

"Now these democrats, along with their mentor, point to a two-vote margin in the House and a tie-breaking vote in the Senate by Vice-President Gore as a 'mandate' for Clinton's economic policy, despite the fact polls and the mail sent to legislators (and undoubtedly the President) indicate that the overwhelming majority of U.S. citizens do not support Clinton's budget. No matter, apparently, as the Washington DC power-brokers are determined to tell us what's good for us. Shades of George Orwell and Nineteen Eighty-Four. The prophet was just a few years off in his projection of a mind-controlled society."

"By the way Mr. Clinton, remember that the last Democrat re-elected President was Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1944," Gibbons added.

Actions Of Cook County Board

Dear Friends,

For the past couple of years, I have reported on significant construction projects to enhance the county's health and jail facilities. Although we realize that we are taking on a large financial burden, it is being done because of need and not choice. In a continuing effort to meet federal court edicts, the Cook County Board voted at the July 7th board meeting on another major addition to the current building program.

The new facility, a 150-bed hospital for inmates at Cook County Jail, will be built adjacent to the current hospital, known as Cermak Health Services. The building will be financed through bond issues and probably won't open until sometime in 1998.

The county has been faced with court orders that have charged that the jail is so overcrowded and facilities so inadequate, the county is violating inmates' civil rights. As a result, the county has undertaken numerous building projects in order to comply with these orders.

This latest step will go a long way in improving jail conditions, which are deplorable. Whether these individuals are criminals or not, the law entitles them to health care and to psychiatric care.

A new measure introduced by the General Assembly in Springfield which would recreate the office of Cook County Superintendent of Schools prompted a resolution from the Cook County Board at the July 7th meeting.

The resolution was co-sponsored by all six Republicans and by President Richard Phelan and six city Democrats on the board. The resolution explains that the people of Cook County have strongly and consistently stated their opposition to the continuation of the Cook County Regional Superintendent of Schools and the Board of Commissioners of Cook County successfully obtained bipartisan support of the Illinois General Assembly and Gov. Jim Edgar to abolish the office.

The General Assembly finally abolished the office because it recognized that the Superintendent of Schools performs services duplicative of those performed by the State Board of Education. Under current law, the duties performed by this office are to be assumed by the State Board of Education as of July 1st, 1994.

A special task force has been created to ensure the orderly transition of services and, consequently, the elimination of the office will result in a cost savings to Cook County taxpayers of over $2 million per year. The money that would be devoted to this unnecessary office could be sent directly to the schools and children of Cook County.

For these reasons, I oppose the re-establishment of the office of the Cook County Regional Superintendent of Schools and join the County Board in urging the General Assembly to oppose the passage of Senate Bill 937 as it relates to this matter.

The Metra Commuter Rail System has awarded a $2.6 million contract to Mid America Industrial Corp. of Elk Grove Village, the lowest of five responsible bidders, to build a new station in Homewood and rehabilitate the Richton Park station, both on the Metra/Electric main line.

The original Homewood station at Ridge Road and Harwood Ave., built as a "temporary" timber structure in 1926, will be rebuilt as a fully accessible "key station" in compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act.

Total cost of this project is $2.4 million, with funding coming from the Federal Transit Administration, Regional Transportation Authority and Metra. The Illinois Department of Transportation will provide an additional $131,000 to fund installation of the Amtrak elevator.

Construction is tentatively scheduled to begin sometime in August, with completion expected in the summer of 1994. The project will be done in two phases, beginning with the south side of the platform. The Richton Park station, a handicapped accessible "key station" at Sauk Trail east of Governors Highway, will be rehabilitated.

The contract cost is $60,000, with funding provided by Metra, IDOT and FTA. Metra forces will do the interior work. Work is expected to begin in July and be completed by winter. Train operations will remain unaffected.

Brookfield Zoo has long been recognized as a star attraction in the Forest Preserve District. The zoo reminds 2 million visitors a year of the importance of wildlife around the world and right here in Cook County.

To ensure that the zoo will continue to enrich the lives of its visitors, the Forest Preserve District Board of Commissioners recently approved the issuance of bonds to produce, over the next three years, $16 million for capital development and renovation programs at Brookfield Zoo.

The zoo plans to use the bonding money for major exhibits to enhance appreciation of natural animal and plant communities in Cook County and around the world. The funding will also help advance plans for major renovation of the entire 15-acre southwest quadrant of the zoo which will feature an exhibit emphasizing the importance of the diversity of life.

The Forest Preserve District Youth Opportunity Corps (YOC) received the 1993 Achievement Award from the National Association of Counties during its national convention from July 16th to 20th in Chicago.

By continuing to receive national attention, the YOC will help draw notice to the plight of economically disadvantaged youths in Chicago and suburban Cook County. The greater the public and private sector's awareness is of the program and its benefits, the greater the opportunity to secure additional funding.

Compromise On AG School?

Mayor Richard M. Daley called for a compromise on the ongoing controversy over a proposed $14 million expansion of the Chicago High School for Agricultural Sciences in Mount Greenwood. Daley, who had earlier said he supported Alderman Ginger Rugai (10th) who opposes the expansion, said Tuesday that he would like to see Alderman Rugai, community residents and the Chicago Board of Education reach a compromise within a few weeks.

Alderman Rugai's position is support of neighborhood residents opposed to the expansion plan because it is claimed the result would be increased traffic congestion in the heavily residential Mount Greenwood community.

Those in favor of the expansion say that the opposition is racially motivated as the school, with an enrollment of approximately 450, has a minority enrollment of about 85 percent. Mount Greenwood is predominantly white.

The supporters of the plan, including Alderman Robert Shaw (9th), claim Daley is double-talking in order to appease Mount Greenwood residents and that his "stalling tactic" is a political ploy.

Daley has expressed hope that the compromise can be reached if the parties agree to increase enrollment at the Ag School to "no more than 600", the figure bandied about since the expansion plan was advanced, approximately a year ago.

Two Men Hailed For Rescue Effort

At approximately 1:37 a.m., on Wednesday, a 1977 Ford LTD, southbound on Central Ave. near 106th St., ran into a barricade at the CSX Railroad crossing. The crossing is closed for repair. The driver of the car, Kevin Newton, 17, of Chicago Ridge, said that his brakes failed and he was unable to stop. The vehicle travelled a short distance after striking the barricade, then caught fire.

Two young men who witnessed the incident crossed the street and aided Newton and his two passengers. Newton was out of the car; one of the passengers was also out of the car, on the ground and the third individual was half-in and half-out of the car.

According to Chicago Ridge Deputy Police Chief Jarry Buroff, "the heroes were Michael Rio, 22, of Chicago Ridge and 21-year-old William Presto III of Mokena.

The injured driver and his passengers, Kirk Newton, 21, the driver's brother, and Steven Samanda, 17, of Bridgeview were taken by ambulance to area hospitals; Kirk Newton and Samanda to Christ Hospital, and Kevin Newton to Palos Community Hospital.

According to Buroff, Michael Rio is the son of Chicago Ridge Police Chief Michael Rio.

Buroff added that charges, including DUI, have been filed against Kevin Newton.

'First Generation' Savings Accounts

A dollar will still buy a few things today: A cup of coffee, a few stamps, perhaps a candy bar. And, at any one of the 70-plus branches of The First National Bank of Chicago, a dollar will open a First Generation savings account for children under 18 years.

First Generation savings accounts were developed by First Chicago to teach the importance and benefits of saving for a purpose.

"Young people are given more responsibilities and have more privileges than ever before. They also have more spending money than past generations," said Jerry Goldstein, who heads the bank's downtown and south branches. "We saw an opportunity to educate this group about financial awareness by making it easy and fun."

He added: "Children are confronted daily with advertising and media encouraging them to spend. We wanted to let them experience first-hand the benefits of saving money. A First Generation account offers a perfect opportunity for parents of any means to teach a child to save."

The minimum opening deposit for a First Generation account is only $1 with no limits as to the number or amounts of deposits or withdrawals that can be made. Therefore, a very young child can deposit his or her allowance weekly and watch the account grow. Teens can bank their paychecks and gifts.

No fees are associated with this account. Interest is compounded daily and credited quarterly. Each child receives a personal quarterly statement that shows the deposits, withdrawals, interest and balance, in an easy-to-read format.

Opening an account is simple. Children need to bring a parent, social security card, birth certificate and $1 to any First Chicago Bank. Photo identification is issued with each account, allowing the child to make his/her own deposits. First Generation accounts are available at most First Chicago branches.

The First National Bank of Chicago provides leading edge banking products and services to retail customers throughout the Chicago metropolitan area. Its branches in the downtown area, on the city's south side and in south suburban communities are located at One First National Plaza; 35 W. Wacker Dr.; Dearborn Station, 4730 W. 79th St., 4363 S. Archer; 8340 S. Kedzie; 6245 S. Western Ave., in Little Village, Pilsen, Burbank, Oak Lawn, Orland Park, Worth and Lansing.

Indicted In Killing Of Palos Hills Girl

A broad range of material evidence has been reportedly gathered against Steven Pfial, 17, accused of the July murder of Palos Hills resident Hillary Norskog, 13. Details have not been revealed, but prosecutors told Judge Thomas Carmody Jr. that they will prove Pfial was the killer. Pfial faces charges of two counts of first-degree murder and two counts of armed violence.

A Cook County Grand Jury had formally indicted Pfial for the murder and, although state's attorney's investigators did not disclose details of evidence compiled, they had earlier said a number of items linking Pfial to the killing had been recovered. The items include a knife, a car seat, socks, shoes, a hat and shirt worn by Pfial, all said to have been blood-stained.

Judge Carmody set Pfial's next court date for Tuesday, Aug. 24th, when the state's attorney is expected to arraign the suspect.

Transfer Pricing Rules Available

The Clinton Administration has pledged to capture revenues lost through abuses of them...the IRS aggressively enforces them...and multi-national companies with obligations in this area need to review and revise recordkeeping procedures surrounding them. They are U.S. transfer pricing rules. And, to keep tax professionals aware of the new tougher compliance climate surrounding these rules, tax and business law publisher Commerce Clearing House has issued "Understanding the New Transfer Pricing Rules" by Deloris R. Wright, an acknowledged expert in this field.

Transfer pricing is the act of charging real market prices for goods, services, loans or leases arranged between related companies. In recent years, transfer pricing has come to dominate international tax discussions in the U.S. since the IRS has been aggressively auditing the transfer pricing practices of U.S. parent companies and their foreign subsidiaries as well as U.S. subsidiaries of foreign enterprises.

The 136-page "Understanding the New Transfer Pricing Rules" examines the new temporary regulations issued in early 1993, discusses the current rules in their historical perspective, traces the U.S. government transfer pricing policies and legislative activities, and provides numerous examples of applications.

Code Section 482 allows the tax commissioner to force taxpayers, primarily corporations, to conduct all inter-company transactions at arm's length, meaning all such dealings must be conducted at market prices, as if the parties to the arrangements are unrelated. The temporary regulations deliver harsh penalties for transfer pricing abuses.

Wright, an internationally recognized economist, audited transfer pricing issues for the IRS before joining the accounting firm of Coopers & Lybrand where she is a partner heading its Transfer Pricing Group. With more than 14 years experience establishing and defending transfer pricing policies for both U.S. and non-U.S. owned companies, Ms. Wright has published widely and is a frequent speaker at transfer pricing seminars.

"Understanding the New Transfer Pricing Rules" (Item 5390) is available for $48 by calling 1(800)248-3248, Department 3376. Or write: Cash Item Department 3376, 4025 W. Peterson Ave., Chicago, IL 60646. Special discounts are available for quantity purchases.

Archer Road, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. Suggested donations, which will be accepted until Aug. 26th, are baby, cleaning and medical supplies and canned foods.

For further drop off locals call Catherina at (708) 371-7460.

PLOWS Ad Book

There is still time for local businesses, organizations and interested individuals to show their support for PLOWS Council on Aging by advertising in the 1993 ad book. A successful ad book campaign is especially important this year in view of reduced funding from the annual United Way Campaign. Non-profit organizations across the state are dealing with a $10 million loss over last year's contributions to the Chicago Area United Way.

Funds raised through the ad book make it possible for PLOWS to provide important services that allow the vulnerable elderly to avoid or delay institutionalization and to maintain their freedom, pride and dignity. This fundraiser makes it possible to continue services like chore/housekeeping, home-making, escort driving, home delivered meals, respite service, shared housing, case management, fuel bill assistance, Medicare assistance, income tax preparation, and information & referral.

In addition to regular ads, many individuals, clubs, or employers place a Memorial Ad as a way of remembering an event or significant person in a meaningful way that will enrich the life of area senior citizens.

The ad book will be distributed throughout the four township area beginning at the PLOWS Annual Luncheon on Oct. 22nd. Prices for the ads are $200 for a full page, $100 for a half page and $50 for a quarter page. Space is also set aside for patron listings that will include the names of individuals who would like to contribute between $10 and $49.

The deadline for receiving advertisements is Thursday, Aug. 26th. If you would like to be an advertiser or patron, call 422-6722.

Shirey Cadillac Installs State-Of-The-Art Exhaust Unit

Blowtherm U.S.A., a U.S./Italian manufacturer of automobile spray-painting booths for over 35 years, has installed the first carbon charcoal exhaust filtration unit in the United States to exceed emission standards set by the EPA. The unit was installed at Frank Shirey Cadillac, Inc. in conjunction with the new U.S. manufactured Ultra 3000 Downdraft Spray Booth. Although this is the first in the U.S., Blowtherm has manufactured and distributed the exhaust filtration unit for more than five years throughout Europe.

Shirey Cadillac's dedication to providing customers with a high-quality product and protecting the environment encouraged them to seek the technical expertise of Team Blowtherm. Although the state-of-the-art paint guns and top-quality paint dramatically increase the percentage of paint adhering to the automobile, the need for proper filtration of hazardous vapors and VOCs (volatile organic compounds) persists. Blowtherm's activated charcoal exhaust filtration unit and Ultra 3000 spray booth has enabled Shirey to increase the quality of their end product while decreasing harmful emissions to the atmosphere and employees.

The exhaust unit features a side suction turbofan, driven by a 10 HP motor, which moves 12,360 CFM of air through the booth. Incoming air is filtered prior to reaching the burner as well as directly after. This prep process efficiently removes solids from the air. After the air has entered the booth from the ceiling, it is drawn through the floor to the activated carbon charcoal filtration area. Utilizing 10 containers, each with 60 pounds of activated charcoal, the unit filters the highest possible amount of particulates and vapors from the air.

According to Shirey Cadillac representative Jules Audy, "our ownership continually strives to implement leadership initiatives in the automobile business. Our management recognizes its responsibility to provide an environmentally sound and healthful workplace. Our employees, customers and neighbors all benefit from this progressive attitude. It is no accident that Shirey Cadillac has become one of the fastest-growing dealerships in the United States."

The weather last week had me concerned that we had a short summer, but weathermen are predicting seasonable weather.

You are invited to join the Y Service League on Tuesday, Aug. 24th for a trip to Lemont. "Magnificent" is the only way to describe Montefiori, a magical place that was secretly transported from Northern Italy. The sweeping multicolored European-style gardens are alive with wildflowers, it's serpentine ponds are speckled with black and white swans and it's flowering trees and weeping willows are hung with cages of colorful parrots and other exotic birds—a pure FANTASIA! One can tour the beautiful gardens at one's own leisure or take a tour conducted by the Garden Clubs of Illinois. One may enjoy a glass of fine wine with a sumptuous summer buffet prepared by resident summer chef Agostino who will be joined by Robert Mondavis, culinary director, and together they will demonstrate the art to combining fresh garden cuisine with appropriate wines. The cost of the trip is $41.50 which includes the luncheon and coach transportation. Reservations can be made by contacting Sue Drinane at 425-5637 or Harriet Pollock at 425-4579. Vikings End Season In Third Place

The 1993 St. Laurence High School sophomore baseball team ended its season recently by finishing with a 21-9 record, including a 12-5 Catholic League South slate good for third place in the conference behind co-champions St. Rita and Mt. Carmel. The Vikes, finishing the season by winning 13 of their last 16 games, hit .363 as a team for the season and posted a staff earned run average of 2.73. The team averaged over 10 runs per game while allowing only four.

Big victories along the way included: a double-header sweep of Lincoln-Way on April 12th, an 11-2 win over conference rival and Catholic League North co-champ Brother Rice on May 6th, a 5-4 victory over St. Rita on May 10th which vaulted the Vikes into first place in the conference at the time, and a 3-1 victory over the Providence Celtics on May 17th. The Providence team finished its season with a 30-2 record.

"We had a very good year," commented second-year coach Mike Corbett. "We felt that this would be a team that would contend for a Catholic League championship and we did. We were in first place until the final day of the season and got beaten, so we didn't realize our only team goal. However, we put ourselves in position to win every game," he said. The 1992 edition of Corbett's sophomore team won the Catholic League championship finishing with a 23-5 record and a 15-3 Catholic League mark.

Pitcher Eddie Maggio was voted the team's MVP posting a 7-1 record and a 3.18 earned run average. Maggio posted the complete game victories over Rice and Rita. He also pitched a one-hitter against St. Ignatius, in a 7-0 whitewashing of the Wolfpack.

Other standouts included third baseman Mike Struck who batted .419 with 23 runs batted in; designated hitter Pete Carrig who batted .449 with a team high 31 RBI; pitcher/shortstop Randy Fiore who compiled a 4-2 mound record with a 2.16 ERA and batted .380 with 21 RBI; catcher Chris King who batted .356 with 15 RBI; right-fielder Jim Rochon who batted .342 with 20 RBI and a team-leading 23 walks; and left-fielder Ken Siwek who batted .517 with 26 RBI.

Other team members included: pitcher/outfielder Chris Bedalow who posted a 5-2 mound record (including 4-0 in the Catholic League) with a 2.52 ERA; first baseman Dan Benjamin who batted .275; catcher Eric Crane who batted .400 with 11 RBI; first baseman Dennis Dalton who batted .321 with 14 RBI; infielder Dan Dorgan who batted .404 with 21 hits and 21 RBI; outfielder Ed Escamilla who batted .344 with 13 RBI; pitcher Dan Keiner who posted a 3-0 record; infielder Tom Lotus who broke up the Argo game with a two-out pinch-hit home run in a 7-5, eight-inning win; infielder Jim Popovits who started at second and hit .319 with 15 RBI and 18 walks; center-fielder Brian Rousek who batted .277 with 13 RBI; and pitcher/first baseman Bob Rowell who batted .388 with 16 RBI and had a 2-2 pitching record with a 0.84 ERA despite missing the second half of the season due to an arm injury.

Assisting Corbett was assistant coach Matt Keane. The scorekeeper was Dave Daly.

"We had some great victories, fine individual performances, and a whole lot of fun during the year," said Corbett. "It was a letdown not getting a share of the conference championship, but we had a slow start, and to be able to make a run for the title and be in first place until the final day was an indication of how much character this team displayed," he said.

In addition, the team's collective grade point average was 3.17 and 10 of the 18 members of the team are in the honors program.

Susan Bain-Williams was sworn in as a new District 126 school board member at the District 126 regular monthly meeting on Wednesday, July 21st, at the administrative center. She is the mother of two children who attend Stony Creek School. Pictured, giving the oath of office is Joan Churin, District 126 service secretary, and Williams.

Free Lunch Plan

District 126 schools announced the policy for free meals for students unable to pay for meals, under the Illinois free lunch program and special milk program. Children from households that meet federal guidelines are eligible for free meals. Application forms are available at the principal's office in each school. To apply for free benefits, households must complete an application as soon as possible, sign it and return it to the school. Households should answer all applicable questions on the form. An application which does not contain all the required information cannot be processed and approved by the school.

Eligibility may be checked by school officials at anytime during the school year. School officials may ask you to submit papers showing that your child(ren) should receive free meals.

If your child receives free meals because of your income, you must tell the school if your household size decreases or your income increases by more than $50 per month or $600 per year. If your child receives meals because they receive food stamps or AFDC, you must tell the school when you are not receiving AFDC or food stamps for them. You may then fill out another application giving income information.

School officials use the information on the application only to decide if your child(ren) should get free meals.

You may apply for meals anytime during the school year. If you are not eligible now but have a change, such as a decrease in household income, an increase in household size, become unemployed or receive food stamps or AFDC for your child(ren), complete an application then.

In the operation of the child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color, national origin, age or handicap. If you believe you have been discriminated against, write to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

In defending the Robbins garbage burner, does Ray Murphy believe he is insulting the opposition by calling them "so-called environmentalists"? For Mr. Murphy's information, these activists happen to be the impetus behind the implementation of the most benign forms of waste disposal. Had it not been for these "so-called environmentalists," all volunteers in not-for-profit organizations, there would not be the current high levels of recognition of the solid waste problem, the education of the public in taking personal responsibility for overconsumption and waste, curbside recycling programs or competitive bidding in waste hauling.

It does not take a rocket scientist to look into your garbage can and determine ways to reduce the amount of garbage produced. According to the Cook County Solid Waste Plan, 60-70 percent of the total waste stream is recyclable or compostable. Subcounty plans call for 40-45 percent reduction or recycling of waste, some by the year 1996. No concrete provisions were made for Material Recovery Facilities (MRF's) for the collection, sorting, separating and processing of these recyclables although the plan states 4-5 large facilities would be needed to handle these materials. Without these facilities, recyclables will have to be landfilled or incinerated.

The Solid Waste Management Act of 1986 established that volume reduction at the source and recycling and reuse take precedence over incineration and landfilling. However, in granting approximately $300 million in interest-free money to the Robbins incinerator via the Illinois Retail Rate Law, legislators are subverting the intention of this hierarchy. One only needs to look to DuPage County, to their state-of-the-art MRF in Carol Stream, built for $10 million to recognize incineration is a fiscally unsound move.

South Cook County has been dumped upon long enough. The pollution problems of our area are overwhelmingly acute already. No one denies the need for economic development of Robbins. But let us utilize a solution that we can all live with. Bring jobs to Robbins via the development of a true MRF.

No, Mr. Murphy, I for one was not insulted by your statement. The only vested interest I have in this issue is the future of my children. When I look into the mirror of my little ones' eyes, I do not regret one moment of making a stand in a world where everything is disposable, right down to life itself. I wonder if so-called "corporate polluters and profiteers" can say the same.

Ruth D. Matkaitis
Oak Lawn

Joan Gorman of Oak Lawn and her friend Gerry Lozuk of Palos Hills found some great bargains at a recent giant-sized garage sale held in the gymnasium of the Southwest Chicago Christian School. The two women, who work in the office of Richards High School, were shopping on their lunch hour and having a good time doing it.

This very successful fundraiser, which netted approximately $975 after expenses, was a first-time effort put on by the Women's Coffee Break Bible Study Group of the Calvin Christian Reformed Church next door to the school on 101st and Central.

The leaders of Coffee Break who are 'resting up' for the summer, hoped to get an early start raising enough money to attend their convention in July of 1994 at Wheaton College.

Coffee Break is a warm and friendly place where neighborhood women of all faiths gather to share a cup of coffee and study the Bible. Their infant children are cared for in a free nursery with the preschoolers taking part in Story Hour where Bible stories, crafts, and singing abound. Coffee Break will meet weekly on Tuesdays beginning Sept. 14th with sessions at 9:30 a.m. and 7:15 p.m. for women who work outside their homes during the day. For more information, phone the church office at (708) 422-0790.

Book Discussion

During the week of May 17th, Oak Lawn Community High School English teachers, Barbara Whiteaker and Lilja Adomenas, organized a book fair in their English I classes. This fair was a lively production where students actively discussed books that they had read during what is called "Sustained Silent Reading," part of the English I curriculum. Every Monday students read a novel of their choice during the regular English period. At the end of each period, students are asked to respond to their reading in writing. The writing prompt that is given in the last 10 minutes is different each week and asks students to react in a meaningful way to the reading they have done that period. Each writing entry is kept in student journals. The purpose of this "Sustained Silent Reading" program is to cultivate the habit of reading and have students see that reading can be an enjoyable experience.

In preparation for the fair, each student had to make a bookmark designed to draw attention to the highlights of the book. Students also had to make posters designed to give fair goers a taste of the excitement contained in the book. Some posters had pictures depicting key exciting scenes from the book. Others had drawings of key characters, symbols or settings from the novels. As students visited each presenter, they were each given a bookmark and then a discussion concerning the book took place. The discussion followed a format that had been prepared by Mrs. Whiteaker and Mrs. Adomenas. Each student had to visit at least five presenters during the class period. Most students visited many more.

Offer CLEP Seminar

Wiretapping Plan Approved

Prosecutors recently acquired a new weapon in the war on street gangs as Gov. Jim Edgar approved a State Rep. Maureen Murphy (R-36) measure that allows law enforcement to snare drug-dealing gang members through broadening surveillance. Murphy, the House's lead sponsor, said current law governing surveillance was expanded to allow wiretapping of criminal drug use by gangs. Edgar signed her measure, Senate Bill 880, into law on Aug. 6th.

"The public wants prosecutors and police to curb gangs and their drug-peddling operations. They want their neighborhoods free from gang lords running their drug operations," Rep. Murphy said. "This new law tightens the net on the gangs' moneymaking drug deals."

Cook County State's Attorney Jack O'Malley, a proponent of tougher surveillance, sought this new authority to curb street gangs' use of telephones to conduct drug deals.

Murphy said the legislation specifies that in cases of criminal drug conspiracy by gangs, prosecutors can seek a court order to wiretap the suspect's residence to intercept transactions by phone. Conspiracy is defined as manufacture, delivery and trafficking of a controlled substance.

Last spring the Illinois Legislature overwhelmingly approved this measure, a bipartisan sign that the public wants tougher laws to combat gangs in Illinois, Murphy said.

POLICE CALLS

The following incidents were reported by the Oak Lawn Police Department. Readers are reminded that an arrest by police does not constitute a finding of guilt and only a court of law can make that determination.

On July 6th, Ruth Callaghan of Oak Lawn reported she had left her home to go shopping and returned two hours later and found things had been moved and discovered her Panasonic phone, jewelry and $300 cash were missing. Estimated loss is $3,000. There were no signs for forced entry.

Gary said, "It's not the courses that are upping my score, it's the aging process that plagues a lot of seniors like me. I guess I'm not ready to challenge Arnie just yet."

Former collegiate wrestling stars surround St. Rita Head Wrestling Coach John Pfeffer (top middle row) and young grapplers at the first annual St. Rita wrestling camp, attended by over 50 grammar school wrestlers from beginners to advanced competitors who benefited from the counselor's knowledge on technique and conditioning. INDIANA DNR SEEKS BOW HUNTERS TO PARTICIPATE IN WILDLIFE SURVEY - The Division of Fish and Wildlife is looking for deer archery hunters to assist in a wildlife observation survey this fall.

The survey uses deer bow hunter sightings to monitor upland species such as coyotes, foxes, ruffed grouse, wild turkey and, of course, deer.

The DNR will send you a hunting log and a postage paid return envelope prior to the opening day of archery season.

USER FEES FOR CONSERVATION APPROVED BY LEGISLATURE - Conservation Director Brent Manning said the Legislature's approval of increased user fees means all sites will be open and agency programs will be expanded.

The Legislature sent Gov. Jim Edgar the fee increase bill (S1105) on a 42-13 vote of the Senate and a 60-50 vote of the House. The Governor indicated he supports the bill.

"This increase in fees, which was strongly supported by the Department's constituents, means the Department will be better able to meet the outdoor recreational demands of the public," Manning said.

The fee increases are as follows: a sportsman's license from $13 to $18.50, a fishing license from $7 to $12.50, a new half-price fishing license for seniors at $6.25, a non-resident fishing license from $15 to $24, a 1-day Lake Michigan fishing fee from $2 to $5, a Lake Michigan salmon stamp from $2 to $6, a new inland trout stamp at $6, the commercial fishing fee from $25 to $35, the commercial non-resident fishing fee from $100 to $150 and a commercial mussel license from $25 to $50.

Also: a new half-price hunting license for seniors at $3.50, non-resident hunting license from $45 to $50, a five-day non-resident hunting license from $25 to $28 and a non-resident shooting preserve fee from $5 to $7. The annual resident hunting license will remain at its current level of $7. There will not be a Conservation site entrance fee.

An issuing fee of 50 cents for fishing and hunting licenses and stamps, as well as a 75 cent issuing fee for a sportsman's license remains unchanged.

Debuting in 1991 at Santa Fe Speedway, Car Train Racing involves a single driver piloting a "Train" of three cars chained together around a precarious figure-eight course. As many as eight teams compete at a time causing a virtual auto-junkyard in the middle of the track.

In the hotly-contested Sportsman division, Ted Loomis of Genoa, and his brother, Jim Loomis Jr. of Kirkland, hold the top two spots.

Defending Lightning Rod Champion, Elmer Fandrey of Lemont, looks to secure another title this season. Dan Curatolo of Woodridge, Bridgeview native Dave Brown and George Hayes of Villa Park are battling for the runner-up spot.

The race for this year's S.T.A.R. (Short Track American Racer) division championship looks much like last season, which is good news for defending champion Don Darrow. The Villa Park native owns a commanding lead over Ron Bliss of Hinsdale, the 1992 runner-up.

Santa Fe Speedway is located on the corner of 91st and Wolf Road.

Golf Tournament

The best amateur golfers in the state will face a difficult challenge at Urbana Golf & Country Club during the 63rd State Amateur Championship, Aug. 17-19. The course will play 6445/6452 yards, par 71. Included within that yardage are four par 4 holes that are longer than 415 yards, and three par 5 holes that measure more than 530 yards. Pioneer golf course architect Tom Bendelow, whose Illinois masterpieces include Medinah #3 and the South Course at Olympia Fields, designed the Urbana course and supervised the layout back in 1922.

The heavy rains and heat during the month of July have created many problems at golf courses throughout the state. "I have been in this business since 1968 and this past July had some of the most extreme weather conditions that I have ever seen," commented Urbana Superintendent Bill Lowery. Despite 8½ inches of rain in July, as well as continuous heat and high humidity, the course will be in Championship condition when play begins on Aug. 17th with the most significant factor being the rough. Barring any extreme heat over the next few days, the intermediate or "first cut" of rough will be mown at approximately 1½ inches, while the primary rough will be cut at a height of 3 to 4 inches. This will place a high premium on keeping the golf ball in the fairway.

The 1993 State Amateur field will not only have to contend with each other, they will also face the test of a very demanding golf course.

DePaul Alumni Golf Outing

The DePaul University Blue Demon alumni golf outing will be held Monday, Aug. 16th, at the Cog Hill Golf and Country Club. Golf and dinner costs $95 while golf alone costs $75 and dinner only costs $35.

The $95 cost includes green fees, cart, giveaway door prizes, lunch, locker room facilities, cocktails and dinner. All proceeds from the outing go to the DePaul University Scholarship Fund.

As part of the golf outing, golfers will be able to putt for prizes against former DePaul head basketball coach Ray Meyer. A hole-in-one contest as well as a drawing will also be held. The prizes for the drawing include a 27-inch color TV, Pro Select men's clubs and Pro Select women's clubs as well as DePaul men's basketball season tickets. A golfing week for two in Scottsdale, Ariz. will be the grand prize.

For more information on the outing, contact Karen Loiacono at (312) 362-8545.

An historic first meeting to form a Southwest Republican Women's organization took place on July 14th. Printing Contract Approved

Cook County Clerk David Orr received approval from the county board for a printing contract for the fall non-partisan elections. The contract for $132,400 was awarded to the lowest bidder in a competitive process initiated by Orr's office. Previously costs for the same work amounted to over $450,000.

"These savings prove what can be done to save tax dollars by applying good management practices," stated Orr. "In fact, we will save over $760,000 this year on printing contracts. We were told that competitive bidding wouldn't work for specialized printing, but after careful research we realized we could do it, and we were confident it would save money. Simply put, we saved over three-quarters of a million dollars this year because we made an important decision: competition works better."

"In 1993 alone we are projecting a savings of $760,000 in printing costs and $125,000 in overtime costs," Orr added. "I am very proud of my staff and the employees of the clerk's office. We have been able to control costs and actually spend less, when adjusted for inflation, while adding new programs and handling all the federal, state and county mandates imposed on us."

"People are looking to their elected officials for greater accountability and responsibility. I am convinced that if all public officials worked harder and were more creative we would not be constantly looking to taxpayers to give us more money. As our employers, the taxpayers have a right to expect that we do our jobs as efficiently and effectively as possible," he concluded.

Sertoma Accreditation

The highest honor a rehabilitation facility can achieve is accreditation from CARF (Commission on Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities). Sertoma Career Center received this accreditation in July through an intense three-day inspection from this national accreditation program. Sertoma Career Center was given the highest rating, a three year accreditation, for its programs serving people with disabilities. Ten programs were noted for exceptional quality: vocational evaluation, work adjustment, occupational skill training, job placement, work services, supported employment, industry-based programs, personal and social adjustment services, community living programs, respite programs and psychosocial rehabilitation programs. Sertoma Career Center has been accredited by CARF since April of 1978.

CARF is a national not-for-profit organization that establishes standards of quality for facilities that provide services to people with disabilities. Its sole concern is to promote quality services for people receiving rehabilitation services.

Although located in Alsip, Sertoma Career Center serves people with disabilities in 27 suburbs and parts of Chicago. Vocational training, job placement, and residential programs are the primary services Sertoma Career Center provides. Many other social services are included through the center which serves people with disabilities 16 years old through adulthood.

For more information on the center, call (708) 371-9700.

APOCALYPSE WACO....David Heilboner visited the elite FBI Academy in Quantico, Virginia just 10 days after federal agents were into their ill-fated standoff with self-proclaimed messiah David Koresh at the Branch Davidian compound in Waco, Texas. In the September issue of Playboy, Heilboner reveals some unsettling clues that help explain why the conflict ended in a fiery apocalypse. According to Heilboner, FBI negotiators are not required to study psychology. The author believes the FBI mistakenly classified Koresh as a manipulative fraud, rather than a deluded zealot. "Patience, humility and insight are among the most valuable weapons missing from the FBI arsenal," Heilboner writes. "In this battle, passion overtook reason. It led to a misreading of Koresh's character and to an unnecessary loss of life."

Vintage Songstress

Chicago cabaret diva Nan Mason plans to go back...way back that is, as she takes to the stage of the legendary Willowbrook Ballroom and unleashes her torchy, romantic renditions of the classic hits of the 1930's and 40's, returning the room and audience to the atmosphere and mood of a vintage nightclub.

With her own special blend of singing styles, Nan Mason has been called "the vocal equivalent to a three-ring play," captivating audiences throughout New York, Los Angeles and Chicago with her unique and expressive voice and persona.

"If it was written after 1950, chances are real good you're not gonna hear me do it," jokes Mason about her upcoming Willowbrook debut, which teams her with veteran music leader Neil Page and his newly-formed 10-piece Willowbrook Orchestra, representing a unification of talents from Chicago's top big bands and society orchestras.

What audiences can expect to hear, and dance to, is Mason and the Willowbrook Orchestra perfectly stylizing all the magical and romantic hits that somehow seem to transcend time, songs like "It Had to Be You," "Stardust," "Someone to Watch Over Me," "I Could Write a Book," "Stormy Weather," "When I Fall in Love," "Unforgettable," "Paper Moon" and "I Get a Kick Out of You." "It's what a new breed of listeners is calling the 'When Harry Met Sally' and 'Sleepless in Seattle' soundtrack stuff," says Mason.

"We're not necessarily talking about ballroom dancing here, but rather dancing in a great ballroom setting. We've tried to return the room to that universal image we all carry around in our minds of what 1930's and 40's nightlife must have been like. A place where you could go to dance, romance, listen to great music or maybe just people-watch," said Patricia Verderbar-Williams, whose grandfather first founded a simple outdoor dance pavilion on the site in 1921, and later replaced it with this sprawling 31,000 square foot entertainment landmark in 1930.

Nan Mason, together with Neil Page and the Willowbrook Orchestra, will perform at the Willowbrook beginning Saturday evening, Aug. 14th, and continue on Saturday evening, Aug. 21st, and Saturday evening, Aug. 28th from 8:30 p.m. to 12 midnight each night. Admission is $8 per person. The Willowbrook is located at 8900 S. Archer Road, Willow Springs.

Italian Fest To Be Held In South Grant Park

The Amerital Unico Club of Chicago will present the 15th annual Festa Italiana in South Grant Park, Lake Shore Drive and Roosevelt Road, across from the Field Museum, on Aug. 20th, 21st and 22nd.

Although entertainment and food are a major part of any festival, the arts and culture display is one of the highlights of Festa Italiana. This year's cultural display will focus on the biggest single event in the history of Italian Americans in Chicago which occurred 60 years ago on July 15th, 1933 when Italo Balbo and his squadron of planes landed in Lake Michigan in commemoration of the Century of Progress Exposition. There will be a special historical exhibit of photos, memorabilia, newspaper stories and videotape depicting this historical event.

In addition to the Balbo exhibit, the arts festa will feature the Italian-American Theatre Company's Pucinella Traveling Puppet Theatre and the traditional display of paintings, sculptures and photographs by and about Italians and Italian Americans. The Pucinella Puppet Theatre traces its roots back to Renaissance Neapolitan Commedia Dell'Arte street performers. The cast includes Lionel Bottari, Frank Melcore, Jean Parisi and Gian Luca Ferme. They will perform in both Italian and English, using a pushcart/puppet stage which will be used in the arts tent, but will move around the festa grounds on Saturday and Sunday afternoon. Many local artists will display their exhibits around a massive representation of the map of Italy created by designer John Bucci.

Sponsored by the Amerital Unico Club of Chicago, a service organization composed of Italian American business people, all proceeds are donated to charity. Past recipients include Villa Scalabrini, Austin Special School, Misericordia Home for Exceptional Children, Children's Memorial Hospital and Neediest Children's Fund.

An open-air mass will be celebrated on Sunday, Aug. 22nd at 1 p.m. by Joseph Cardinal Bernardin. A procession led by the Sicilian Marching Band, Knights of Columbus and Italian American War Veterans will precede the mass. Also included in the procession will be 15 Italian societies representing many towns from Italy. As is their custom, each town has special reverence toward an individual patron saint and will carry their banners in the procession.

Gates open at 12 noon to 10 p.m. each day. Advance tickets are $5 and can be purchased at all Dominick's Food Stores. Gate tickets are $6. Children 10 and under are admitted free. Take the free shuttles from either Soldier Field (east lot) or the Monroe St. parking garage right to festa gate.

Judge Sheila Murphy

Judge Thomas Condon

Speeding Up Judicial Process

Chief Cook County Circuit Court Judge Harry G. Comerford has urged all presiding judges to develop innovative methods of effecting justice to as many citizens as possible—as soon as possible.

In an effort to facilitate that initiative, Judge Sheila Murphy, Presiding Judge of the 6th Municipal District (Markham), recently announced a pilot project of assigning the most able judges to hear jury trials in both civil and criminal cases. Murphy has chosen Judge Thomas J. Condon to hear cases in both areas.

Condon, 42, will work closely with Judges Edwin J. Richardson, Supervising Judge of the 6th Municipal District's Civil Division and Judge John Wasilewski, Supervising Judge of the Felony Division in the 6th District.

Judge Condon has served in the 1st and 5th Municipal Districts prior to being assigned to Markham. His judicial experience encompasses civil matters as well as felony, traffic and misdemeanors. He is presently an Associate Professor at St. Xavier University where he lectures on Criminal Law and Procedure. He is a former Chicago police officer and has served as an Assistant Public Defender.

He holds a law degree from DePaul University and undergraduate degrees from Notre Dame University and St. Joseph's College. He has been honored for the past three years by the Constance Morris House, a shelter for victims of domestic violence for his dedication to the principles of his vocation.

Condon is married, has four children and is a Chicago resident.

Deadline For Income Tax Extension

Most of us have already filed our 1992 tax returns, but about 5.5 million taxpayers who received automatic extensions to file last April need to file their returns by Monday, Aug. 16th. Meeting that deadline avoids penalties. However, people with special circumstances, such as a hardship or illness, may request an additional two-month extension to file until Oct. 15th. Flood victims who live in federal disaster areas have already received an extension.

To get more time to file, send Form 2688 to the IRS by Aug. 16th. However, this extension is not automatic. You must tell us why you need more time. Those whose requests are denied usually have 10 days to file returns with IRS.

File your return on time even if you can't pay what you owe. You'll avoid the late filing penalty, which is 5% per month of the unpaid tax, up to 25%. Those who file but cannot pay may request a monthly payment plan by attaching IRS Form 9465, "Installment Agreement Request," to the front of their tax returns. Interest (7% a year) and a late payment penalty of one-half percent a month still apply. Forms 2688 and 9465 are available from all IRS offices or by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM. Last year, about 1.4 million additional filing extensions were granted by IRS. Since January, approximately 885,000 taxpayers have requested monthly payment plans, nationwide.

What Was Happening...

25 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK IN THE COMMUNITY

Headed by Trustee Leonard Cole, Oak Lawn officials and civic leaders this week are making plans for concerted action against any reduction in the passenger train service offered by Norfolk and Western railroad. The railroad, it was learned, is seeking to discontinue a flag stop of a St. Louis train that has been in effect here for about a year. Trustee Cole, in a letter to the railroad and the Illinois Commerce Commission, said he was planning to ask for increased service rather than to reduce the meager service now being offered residents.

Invitations to Oak Lawn residents to join neighboring Evergreen Park in observing its 75th anniversary from Aug. 9 to Aug. 17 was received by Village Trustee Jim Dwyer. A top hat was presented by Mayor Henry Klein at the July 10th parade which started at 95th and Western and continued to Oak Lawn Village Hall.

...

The Oak Lawn water tank at 95th and Cook avenue, for years the landmark of the village, is no more. Workmen this week are completing the finishing touches of wrecking the big elevated tank, which was erected in 1929 and was the first reservoir for municipal water. The original source of water was a deep well, sunk on the site beneath the tank. It held 125,000 gallons and had no trouble supplying the village at that time, including all fire hydrants. When Oak Lawn changed to Lake Michigan water the tank was used for storage. Two years ago a new water storage tank was completed at 98th and Menard, and the old water tank abandoned.

A page from Fairy Tales came to life at the Oak Lawn Village board meeting Tuesday night when a Jack-in-the-Box eating place, billed as a colorful, gay and tidy picture-book establishment, ran smack into three "contrary" trustees.

Thomas P. Barnicle, a representative of Foodmaker, Inc., had told the board he was ready to start erecting the new Jack-in-the-Box restaurant, as soon as a building permit could be issued. Barnicle said the site on the east side of Cicero ave., just north of 103rd street, was zoned for business, that the plans conformed to all village codes, and his firm wanted to get open for business.

Village Attorney Gerhardt Gliège told the trustees that in his opinion permission for a building permit should be granted. Then upspoke Trustee Philip Special. That area needs more parking space, he said. And the village should seek the property through condemnation.

According to Thomas W. Dillon, president of the Board of Commissioners of the Oak Lawn Park District, more than $8000 damage has been done to playground equipment and the comfort station at Simmons Park which is now kept locked at all times, over a period of eight months.

...

Mr. and Mrs. L.N. O'Brien of 51st Court, Oak Lawn, attended the recent Annual Conference of the National Association of Accountants in New Orleans, Louisiana.

The summer school program at Oak Lawn high school ended with a presentation by the State Auditor of Public Accounts, Michael Howlett talking to the American Government classes about his office and the Illinois Constitution. Howlett has long maintained an interest in high school students and has made himself available as a public speaker. Ronald Harley, instructor at Oak Lawn, said "utilizing resource people of the caliber Howlett represents brings the affairs of the state to the classroom and allows the students to meet in person those people that guide and determine the policy that the state will follow."

Approves Mayor's Appointments

At the July 27th Hometown City Council meeting, Mayor Robertson made the following appointments: Jack O'Donnell to the playground and recreation commission to fill the unexpired term of Michael Lynch until April 30, 1995 and Marie Weiss as Trustee on the Library Board of Directors until June 30, 1996. He also appointed Thomas Hughbanks to the zoning board of appeals until April 30, 1998 and Thomas E. Ryan Jr. to the ETSB 9-1-1 Board until April 30, 1996. All appointments were approved by the council.

In other business, Joseph J. Madden Sr., director of public works, reported that the light poles have been obtained. L and S Construction was going to charge $1,000 for picking up the poles and delivering them to the village, but Madden was able to have Matthew Paving allow the department to use of their flat bed trucks and by doing this the city was able to save the $1,000.

Michael Barnhart, director of public health and safety, stated that he has received a printout from the clerk's office, and it indicates that there are about 100 dogs and cats not licensed. Director Barnhart said that with his full time position he really does not have time to go door-to-door and write P-tickets, he feels that the police department will have to assist.

Vikings End Season In Third Place

The St. Laurence varsity basketball Vikings used the summer of '93 to prove that they'll be a team to be reckoned with when regular season play begins this winter. The Vikes capped off their summer with a third place finish at the Converse-Brother Rice Hoop Shoot recently. The Vikes beat Marist, Nazareth and Mt. Carmel in the 16-team tournament which featured all members of the Chicago Catholic League (with the exception of De La Salle) plus Andrew, Nazareth, Benet and Marist.

"I'm very pleased with the way we played at Rice," noted first-year Viking head coach Tom Pallardy. "We played very hard and made good decisions. I was happy with the intensity that we displayed."

The Vikes opened the tournament versus Marist and throttled the Redskins 71-54. In that game, Laurence used the inside-outside punch of 6'5" forward Keith Webster and 5'11" guard Matt Daley to ride to victory. Webster tallied 20 points on inside layups and jumpers and Daley canned 18 on outside jumpers and fast-break layups. Webster brought the house down with two thunderous dunks and Daley hit on all three of his 3-point attempts. Chris Hansen, another 6'5" forward, added 10 points.

St. Laurence then made the round of final four by knocking off Nazareth 67-65 in overtime. In that game, Webster again scored 20, Daley added 14 and Hansen, 10. The duo of Webster and Daley scored 18 of the Vikings' first 20 second-half points opening a lead they did not relinquish until the closing seconds of regulation. Hansen scored the game-winner with a layup after an offensive rebound with 5.9 seconds remaining in overtime.

"Daley has been shooting the ball well all summer," said Pallardy. "More importantly, his floor game is crucial to our running game. The ball has to be in his hands on our fast break and he gets it to the right spots if he doesn't shoot it himself. Webster and Hansen are also coming of age."

Despite 15 points by 6'2" guard Ken Warzynski, the Vikes then suffered a 56-47 setback to St. Francis de Sales in the semi-finals. St. Laurence bounced back in the third place game, however, by disposing of Mt. Carmel 71-57. This time Daley led the barrage scoring 18 points, including three 3-pointers, and Thom Herbeck (6'3" guard/forward) tallied 16. Forward Sean McQuillan, 6'3", also added 11 points. All are seniors which should bode well, according to Pallardy.

"We have seven returning players that have all had some floor time as juniors. It would be nice to go seven, eight, or nine deep in any given game. If we can get some significant contributions out of our juniors, we'll be in good shape," he commented.

"It's a nice balance to have outside shooting and two big men on the inside. We're playing a new style of defense too,

Concerning the maintenance of the lights along the back of Corcoran Road, Alderman Lyncey, stated that Michael Walsh, Trustee for the Village of Oak Lawn, has informed him that Oak Lawn will be happy to maintain the lights as soon as the city can get the paper work started. There should be a deed stating that the property is an easement and the lights would have to be moved onto Oak Lawn property.

The council voted to pass the annual appropriation ordinance for the fiscal year beginning May 1, 1993 and ending April 30, 1994. The ordinance is on file for inspection at city hall. Alderman Tyler stated that she would like everyone to know that there was $8,000 in the appropriation ordinance so the park board will be able to install the burn at Patterson Park.

Alderman Ryan said he feels that the park board should decide what they want to do, and let the city council know. The funds were appropriated. Mayor Robertson stated that he will send a letter to the park board informing them of the appropriation. Gregory Grochowski, building commissioner, said that he and some members of his department have worked on an idea for Patterson Park and if the park board is interested he will be happy to talk to them about constructing some type of barrier.

which the kids are starting to pick up. Defense to us is always a constant and I think we have more guys that are a threat to score than we've had in the past. I was happy to see us keep our composure throughout most of the tournament and was also impressed with how well we ran the ball and how hard we played," he concluded.

The remainder of the roster included: 6'5" junior forward Mike Flannery, 6'2" junior forward Jerry Gonzalez, 5'10" junior guard Brian Piejko, 5'11" junior guard Jim Rochon, 6'1" junior guard Ed Escamilla, 5'10" senior guard Pete Lotus, who started all four games, and 5'11" junior guard Steve Westin.

LOWER BACK PROBLEM

If you've been treated for lower back problem and the pain and discomfort are still there, you may be able to benefit from chiropractic treatment.

If your spine is out of alignment, this may be causing other problems in addition to lower back pain. Because the body's nervous system is closely integrated with the spine, any misalignment can cause painful irritation. Abnormal nerve function may affect whatever organs, glands, or tissues that are supplied by that nerve.

The nerves of the lower back, for example, are connected to certain organs and other structure in that area. If lower back apine misalignment is putting undue pressure on the nerves, you may be suffering from more than lower back pain. It may be having a direct effect on other areas of your body. A thorough examination can disclose exactly where the problem is and how it can be corrected.

If you have any health questions please feel free to call our office.

Mandatory Insurance For Drivers

Last Thursday Governor Jim Edgar signed legislation making the mandatory automobile insurance law permanent. The measure, implemented on a four-year trial basis which began on Jun. 1st, 1990, would have expired at the end of the current year.

In the time the law has been on the books, the number of uninsured motorists has dropped from 1.5 billion (20 percent) to approximately 500,000 (seven percent), according to the office of Secretary of State George Ryan. The law increases penalties for motorists who flout the law.

During the four-year trial period, insurance rates in Illinois increased at a rate lower than the national average for rate hikes. Also, the number of accidents reported to the Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) has fallen dramatically.

The new law allows chief circuit court judges to designate a court officer who can determine whether or not a vehicle was properly insured at the time the ticket was issued, a time-saver for the court and for the motorist. The law also doubles the reinstatement fee for first time offenders from $50 to $100.

Governor Edgar said, "This is a tough law based on fairness to the nearly 7,000,000 motorists who abide by the law. We are making a good consumer protection law even better."

Teacher Institute Pays

Oak Lawn Community High School District 229 officially begins the new school year with two days of institute programs; Monday, Aug. 30th and Tuesday, Aug. 31st. Ninety-six faculty members will participate in the institutes presented under the auspices of Dr. Lloyd Lehman, superintendent of the Educational Service Region of Cook County. Superintendent Dominick Frigo will welcome back the staff; Edward O'Malley, assistant superintendent-business, will update the staff about work done in the building and outside. New school principal Dr. Les Luka will introduce the new staff and present the theme and goals for the school year. Assisting will be the two new assistant principals, William Hill and Ms. Eve Panice.

The two-day institute theme is "Building a Community of Learners," which serves both as the focus for the two days and as guiding principle for the school year. It directly follows from the recently completed school mission statement which provides the bridge into the restructuring process undertaken last year. Translating the theme and mission statement into workable actions, Dr. Luka will present three components to be used as the guide to behavior and action this year, "Communication-Cooperation-Courtesy."

Time will be provided for the staff to review and discuss the school's mission statement; to review various procedures and plans; and also to work in departments to review the success of last year's implementation of the school goals and the "Power Hour" program.

On Wednesday, Sept. 1st, school operates on a shortened schedule; 10th, 11th and 12th graders report at 8 a.m. and dismiss at 10 a.m. Ninth (9th) graders will report at 10:30 a.m. and be assigned to various locations for a short meeting with the principal, assistant principals and deans. After a homeroom session, students meet in their various classes. At the end of the day, an assembly will be held to review any questions or problems the freshmen may have and to share information about extracurricular activities. Upperclassmen are to serve throughout the day as guides for the new students.

A special meeting for all freshmen and their parents is planned for Wednesday, Sept. 8th at 7:30 p.m. in the media center. This is an extremely important meeting where parents will learn both about high school expectations and the requirements and structure of each of the courses their children have. Department heads, teachers, and administrators will present insights into a successful school year and will be available for questions.

Current enrollment figures indicate 1,395 students will be attending OLCHS this year. To date, 389 freshmen, 334 sophomores, 341 juniors and 331 seniors have enrolled. Sophomores, juniors and seniors who have paid their fees and have picked up schedules are to report directly to their homerooms at 8 a.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 1st, with a shortened class schedule until 9:55 a.m. Those students without schedules are to report to the Spartan Gym at 8 a.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 1st, to pay their fees and pick up their class schedules.

The PACE Southwest Division will operate buses over routes convenient for students to ride to and from school. The fare is 55 cents for students with proper identification. On Wednesday, Sept. 1st, buses will run at 10:05 a.m. and at 2 p.m. to accommodate both early dismissal schedules. Buses will resume their regular 8 a.m. to 2:35 p.m. schedule on Thursday, Sept. 2nd.

Officer Charged

Charges brought against Alsip Police Officer Joseph Petruskas on Aug. 9th stem from an incident occurring on July 17th when Officer Petruskas fired his weapon at the tires of a fleeing automobile.

Village Attorney Peter Loutos explained that it was the consensus that Officer Petruskas "did not use good judgment" in his decision to fire his weapon. "The incident was not a life or death situation. The car had not been involved in a felony."

According to Alsip Police Chief Kenneth Woods, the particulars of the case could not be discussed at this time as the case will probably go to court.

A hearing before the Alsip Board of Fire and Police Commissioners was held on Aug. 18th. Chief Woods stated, after Monday night's village board meeting that it is usual at this preliminary hearing that a continuance is granted for the attorneys to prepare their cases. He expects the case will come before the board of commissioners sometime in September.

Traffic Fatalities

Traffic fatalities for July totaled 124 as a result of 114 accidents, an increase of 0.8 percent from the 123 deaths in July 1992, according to provisional figures released the Illinois Departments of Transportation and State Police.

Included in the July totals were 18 pedestrians killed in 18 accidents, 16 persons killed in 16 accidents involving motorcycles, 3 bicyclists killed in 3 accidents, and 3 persons killed in 3 railroad crossing accidents.

The provisional total of 725 deaths for 1993 is a decrease of 2.4 percent from the 743 deaths in 1992. The department's latest provisional figures indicate travel increased by 2.4 percent for the same time period.

Must Update Immunizations Before School Opens

With the approaching 1993-94 school year, the state health department issued a reminder to parents: for the first time, all children must show proof of a second dose of the measles vaccine.

"This second dose requirement has been phased in during the past three school years," said Dr. John R. Lumpkin, state health director. "Studies have shown that one dose of the measles vaccine does not provide the best protection. The best protection comes with a second dose of the vaccine."

In addition to the measles vaccine, students must also show proof of other required immunizations, unless they have provided a religious or medical exemption for school files. Individuals who are not properly immunized will not be permitted to attend school until requirements are met.

"We must see to it that our children are properly immunized. This is one of the easiest, most efficient methods of protecting the health of our young people -- and ensuring the well-being of everyone by reducing the spread of disease," said Dr. Lumpkin.

Children entering Illinois elementary and secondary schools for the first time must meet the following immunization requirements:

- Measles -- Two doses of live measles vaccine, with the first dose at age 12 months or later and the second dose at least one month after the first; a physician-diagnosed case of measles; or laboratory evidence of immunity.

- Polio (TOPV) -- Three or more doses administered at appropriate intervals with the last dose being a booster and received on or before the fourth birthday.

- Diphtheria, Tetanus, (lockjaw), Pertussis (whooping cough) DTP -- Four or more doses administered at the appropriate intervals with the last dose being a booster received on or before the fourth birthday.

- Mumps -- Vaccine at age 12 months or later or a physician-diagnosed case of mumps.

- Rubella -- Vaccine at age 12 months or later or laboratory evidence of immunity.

School districts must demonstrate at least 90 percent compliance with state-mandated immunization requirements by Oct. 15 each year or face a 10 percent loss of state aid.

Students born after 1956 who are entering public or private, four-year universities or colleges in Illinois for the first time must provide proof of the following:

- Measles -- Two doses of live measles vaccine at age 12 months or later, with the second dose at least one month after the first; a physician-diagnosed case of measles; or laboratory evidence of immunity.

- Tetanus/Diphtheria -- Three or more doses of DTP or tetanus and diphtheria vaccine, the last dose being within 10 years of enrollment.

- Mumps -- Vaccine at age 12 months or later or proof of a physician-diagnosed case of mumps.

- Rubella -- Vaccine at age 12 months or later or laboratory evidence of immunity.

Vaccines are made available to local health departments through state and federal resources. For information on obtaining immunizations, individuals may contact their physicians, local health departments or the Illinois Department of Public Health Immunizations Section at 800-323-GROW, TDD 800-323-GROW.

Honor WWI Veterans

The nation is mustering its World War I veterans one last time to honor them with a special medal commemorating their wartime service on the 75th anniversary of the Armistice that ended "the War to End All Wars." The medal is intended for every living U.S. veteran of World War I, estimated by the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) at between 30,000 and 40,000.

Samuel L. Holmes, director of the VA Regional Office in Chicago, said an estimated 3,600 World War I veterans live in Illinois.

Designed by the U.S. Army Institute of Heraldry and sponsored by the Chicago-based McCormick Tribune Foundation, the medal is being presented to veterans under the auspices of the Departments of Defense and Veterans Affairs.

The first medals will be presented at ceremonies in Chicago on Monday, Aug. 30th during the annual convention of the Veterans of World War I of the U.S.A. VA will distribute the medal to veterans beginning Sept. 1st.

To receive the medal, WW I veterans, or their representatives, can obtain an application from the VA Regional Office or call toll-free 1(800)827-1000, Holmes said.

Secretary of Veterans Affairs Jesse Brown said, "It is fitting that we honor these veterans whose service and sacrifice had such a profound effect on world history. But it is particularly fitting that we can extend this special honor on the 75th anniversary of that war's end."

Implementation of the $6 million 9-1-1 system was passed by voters on the April 1993 ballot. The service will add $1.25 to residents' phone bills each month.

"The emergency 9-1-1 system saves lives. I am eager to get all of Cook County operating under this system," Phelan added.

Third Annual Awareness Day

Cook County Board President Richard J. Phelan's Office of Employment Training (POET) is conducting its third annual Operation Access Career Awareness Day and Job Fair for Persons with Disabilities on Thursday, Aug. 26th from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. The event will be held at The Hilton Hotel and Conference Centre of Oak Lawn on Cicero Ave. at 94th St., and is sponsored by POET.

"I felt it was important to initiate this job fair in order to better serve persons with disabilities," Phelan said. "Everyone wins when a qualified, competent person is employed, and the job fair helps employers find qualified disabled persons ready, able and willing to work."

The job fair is open and free to anyone with disabilities, employers and agencies serving the disabled and interested in learning about how the American with Disabilities Act (ADA) affects them. In addition to opportunities for qualified employees to meet with potential employers, Career Awareness Day will feature seminars and instructional films about the ADA, as well as an "opportunity room" offering information about technological advances for the disabled, presentations about proper business attire designed for disabled persons and resume clinics.

The job fair, a part of Cook County's "Operation Access," is a Phelan initiative designed to enhance job and career opportunities for the disabled, as well as offer employers an opportunity to discover new strategies that will assist them in hiring qualified workers, while complying with the ADA.

Signed into law in 1990 by President Bush, the ADA strives for equal opportunity for the disabled in all areas, including employment, public access and transportation, and telecommunications. Parts of the ADA have already taken effect, including the enforcement of disabled access on all public buses and rapid rail vehicles. As of July 26th, 1992, employers with 25 or more employees were required by law to offer equal opportunity employment to all qualified individuals regardless of disabilities, and public places such as hotels, restaurants and theaters were responsible for providing reasonable access for people with disabilities.

To encourage and continue the transition into compliance with the ADA, additional funding is available from the Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) for some employers who hire disabled workers who require specialized training.

For registration information, call Barbara Ganan at (312) 782-3335 or TDD (312) 793-3184. For general information on the Job Fair for Persons with Disabilities, call Barbara at (312) 782-3335.

Grant Letters Late

The Illinois Student Assistance Commission (ISAC) announced recently that award letters for students receiving a Monetary Award Program (MAP) grant for the 1993-94 school year will be sent in mid-September.

"Due to a number of factors, the notifications are later than usual," reported Bob Clement, ISAC spokesperson. "Changes in the federal financial aid system, a delay in the decision on the federal Pell Grant amount and changes in the federal Department of Education's reporting of school codes all played a role."

Colleges and universities affected have been notified and ISAC has been working with student financial aid personnel at Illinois colleges to assist them in estimating MAP grant eligibility for their students.

ISAC received $213.2 million in 1994 fiscal year (FY) appropriations for MAP, an increase of $11.3 million or 5.6 percent over the FY 1993 appropriations.

MAP is the second largest need-based state grant program in the nation with almost $202 million awarded during the 1992-93 school year to approximately 110,000 students.

Reduce Damage From Flooding

It is as impossible to stop the Mississippi River from flooding as it is to prevent roads being jammed by "a crowd coming out of a major ballgame," says a University of Illinois water-systems expert. "No highway is big enough."

Like tornadoes and earthquakes, rainfall and melting snow are uncontrollable, said Ben Yen, a civil engineer with expertise in hydrology and hydraulics.

Nevertheless, Yen has developed a plan to lessen damage from future floods.

"Once we know the geometry of the channel, we can calculate how a volume of water moves along it. We also can calculate the carrying capacity of the channel and advise where to increase levee height to be compatible with other sections."

In a report prepared for this month's 25th annual meeting of the International Association of Hydraulic Research in Tokyo, he discusses a method to determine more accurately the flow of water any river can handle - so that levees can be built to a height that is cost-effective.

"To the public, it's the river's stage or elevation that's important," he said. "But technically, for flood warning and control, it's the amount of discharge that is important - but expensive, difficult, even dangerous - to measure during a flood."

Yen's method goes beyond calculating flood-elevation measurements, since neither advancing nor retreating surface waters exactly parallel what's going on at the bottom of the river, and the same volume of water may be higher or lower at different locations along the river. Instead, he considers the variations of a river's depth and width along its length based on data collected by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and U.S. Geological Survey when that river is flowing normally.

Using his plan, Yen can calculate the probability of a flood's magnitude in much the same way weather forecasters provide the probability of rain.

Yen's plan also provides for what he calls fuse plugs - intentional weak links - that would allow flood waters to overrun levees only in locations where to do so would be harmless. Furthermore, Yen believes that occasionally allowing flooding to occur - in cases of extremely high river levels - may be more cost-effective than safeguarding against it by building fortress-like levees.

"It might be wiser to put money in a bank than build huge levees that are rarely, if ever, needed," Yen said. "The interest on the money saved could pay for flood damage."

Carjacking Law

Secretary of State George H. Ryan's proposal to mandate prison terms for carjackers was signed into law by Governor Jim Edgar.

The new law, which takes effect immediately, recognizes vehicular hijacking as a unique category of crime, requires armed carjackers to serve more time than armed robbers and makes them ineligible for probation.

"With this law, we put carjackers where they belong - behind bars and off the streets," Ryan said. "We no longer have to worry about convicted carjackers being out on probation and threatening other innocent people."

Under Ryan's proposal, armed carjackers could face Class X felony charges carrying a minimum seven to 30 years in prison.

Even if unarmed, carjackers also could face a Class X felony, carrying a minimum six-year prison term, if their victims are disabled, age 60 or older or under age 16.

Other unarmed carjackers would face a four- to 15-year prison term.

Recycled Reading Program

Secretary of State George H. Ryan and WLS radio personality Ed Vrdolyak announced the "Recycled Reading" book drive.

The goal of the program is to provide books to libraries and literacy programs around the state that are in short supply.

"These are difficult times for libraries and literacy programs," Ryan said. "Many of them simply do not have a sufficient budget to keep their shelves stocked with materials. I appreciate WLS's commitment to helping alleviate that situation."

Ryan and WLS are seeking fiction and non-fiction books, best sellers, travel, self-help and how-to books that were published over the past three years. Anyone interested in donating books can drop them off at any of the 111 Secretary of State full-time driver's facilities throughout the state.

The "Recycled Reading" program runs through Aug. 20th.

Women's Seminar

Letter To The Editor

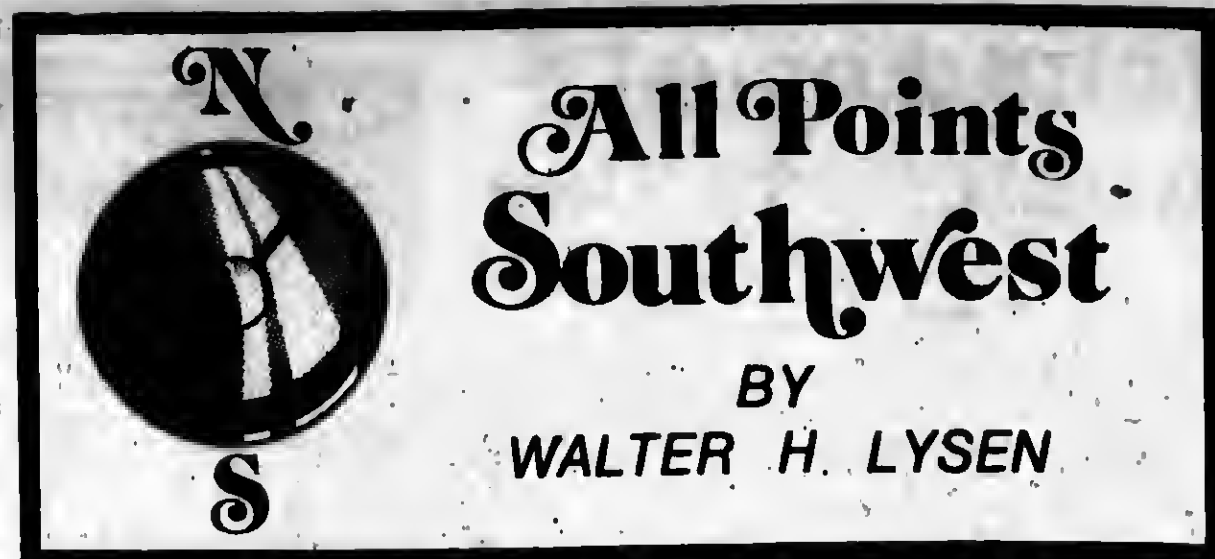

Letter to the Editor:

I would like to thank all the residents of Cook County who contributed to the Cook County Sheriff's Flood Relief Drive. Thanks to the generosity of hundreds of citizens and dozens of corporations, our effort was a tremendous success.

Volunteers from the Sheriff's Office collected an estimated 240,000 pounds of canned food, bottled water, medical supplies and other relief materials in just six days. The supplies were shipped downstate and distributed in flood-stricken river towns like Quincy, Jerseyville and Alton.

The Sheriff's Office has received countless phone calls from people in the flooded areas expressing their sincere appreciation for the aid that was provided by the citizens of Cook County. I commend all the volunteers and contributors who made this effort a success.

Sincerely,
Michael F. Sheahan
Sheriff of Cook County

Oak Lawn's most popular mayor ever.... Ernie Kolb will be honored Wednesday night Aug. 25th from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Oak Lawn Holiday Inn at his 17th Annual Summer Party.

How can I call him Oak Lawn's most popular mayor? Look at his margin of victory. Kolb and his Mayor's Coalition Party were returned to power last April in one of the biggest landslide victories recorded in Oak Lawn's history if not the entire Southwest area history. The Kolb-Powers ticket polled over 70% of the vote. Other Oak Lawn mayors were elected by 55 to 45% margins but none so great as 70%.

The Mayor's Coalition Party now holds five of the six trustee seats. His trustees are Cy Holesha, Ron Stancik, Mike Walsh, Marge Joy and Bill Keane. J. Quinn Mucker will be their candidate in District 3 two years from now. As one Oak Lawn resident said "We threw the bums out...they almost ruined our village. Now in two years we must get rid of the B.S...left."

Midlothian Mayor Tom Murawski's 8th Charity Golf Classic will be held on Monday, Aug. 23rd at Midlothian Country Club. Golf and dinner including carts and prizes is $125. Dinner only is $40. Two shot gun starts...one at 8 a.m. and another at 1:30 p.m. will get the day going. Police Chief John Bittin is chairman. Only 200 tickets are available. For more information call 385-2534.

Over 400 for golf and 650 for dinner were present to honor 25 year Evergreen Park Mayor Anthony Vacco at the United Home Owners Annual Mayor's Golf Tournament at Evergreen Country Club last week.

A crowd of over 5,000 was present at Crestwood's "9th Annual Evening Under the Stars" concert featuring Franz Benteler and his Royal Strings. Mayor Chester Stranczek addressed the audience at the end of the concert and upon their request promised a repeat of the performance in 1994.

The Worth Township Regular Republican Organization monthly meeting is scheduled on Thursday, Aug. 19th at the Johnson-Phelps VFW Post Hall, 9514 S. 52nd Ave. Meetings are called to order at 8:15 p.m. sharp by President Bob Buttala. With school board elections scheduled for this fall and Primary and General Elections next spring and fall, Buttala reminded that election judges as well as precinct workers are needed.

The Worth GOP Organization plans a 'Night at the Races' on Sept. 10th at Sportsman's Park. The fee of $15 a person includes a full buffet dinner, clubhouse admission, a racing program, free parking, a race named in honor of the group and a complimentary group photo in the 'Winner's Circle.' Call Bob at (708)448-1020 for more information.

James Lysen, City Planning Director of Lewiston, Maine, has won a grant from the Graham Foundation for Advanced Studies in the Fine Arts to study collaborative housing in Scandinavia. Lysen will take a three month sabbatical from his Lewiston position in August to gain first hand experience in co-housing - in which a number of households based at a single location share common facilities for living.

On his return to Lewiston in November, Lysen plans to write a paper detailing alternative forms of housing; case studies and architectural renderings of existing European renovation projects; designs for potential co-housing units with associated cottage industries or artisan studios within historic closed U.S. mills and commercial buildings and model ordinances for such uses.

James is the son of Stella and the late Clifford Lysen of Worth. He attended Worth Grammar School and Eisenhower High School in Blue Island.

James will have the opportunity to visit the home town of his grandfather the late Olaf H. Lysen who came to the USA at the turn of the century.

ALL POINTS extends condolences to Midlothian Mayor Tom Murawski and his family on the death of his half brother Robert J. Junicrowski of Des Plaines who died of cancer last week.

State Senator Patrick O'Malley (R-18th Palos Park) has figured out how to get the legislature to adjourn on time. His solution is with his co-sponsored Senate Bill 1112 which will eliminate per diems after June 30th.

"After living out of suitcases for several months most legislators are just anxious to get back to their districts and their families," O'Malley said. "Unfortunately, getting home has not been incentive enough. Hopefully the thought of covering their own expenses out of pocket will do the trick."

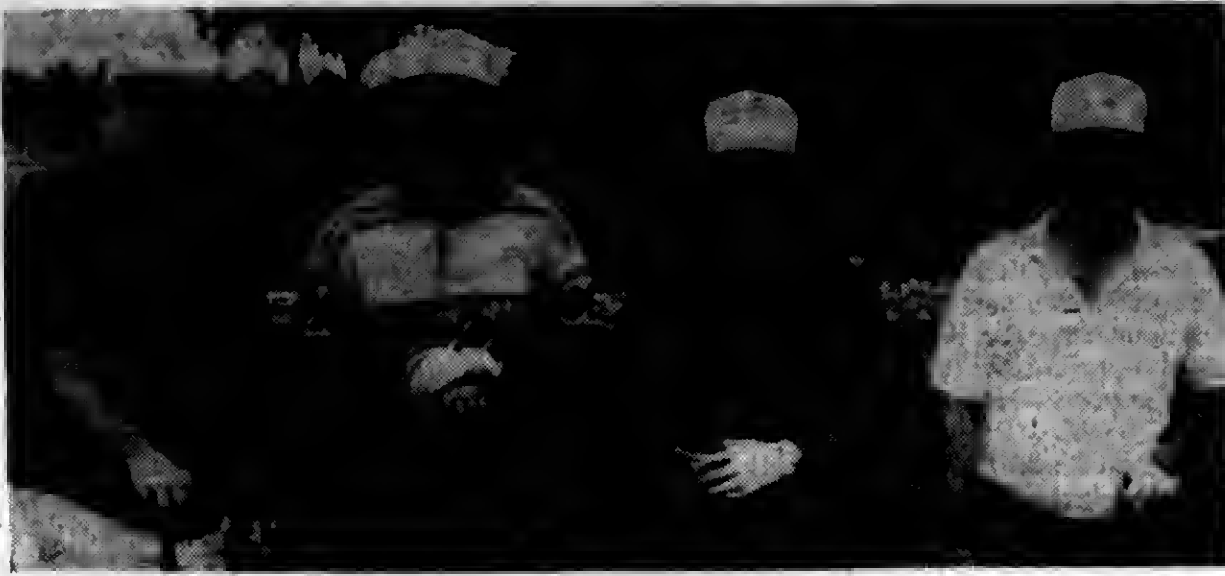

Cook County Clerk David Orr, who has been mentioned as a possible candidate for a number of offices including Governor, Mayor and County Board President, strongly criticized Mayor Richard M. Daley for his proposal to use revenues from gambling casinos to fund Chicago schools. At a press conference on Tuesday, Orr and a coalition of liberal aldermen and clergymen, called for a voter referendum on the issue of casinos for the city, on the March, 1994 Primary Election ballot.

In an apparent reversal of position, State Senate President James "Pate" Philip (R-23) indicated he is willing to back a hike in the sales tax and/or the income tax. The tax increase(s) would be supported by Sen. Philip only if property tax support for schools is abolished.

With the real possibility of Chicago schools not opening on time, Mayor Daley has requested a special session of the legislature to address the problem; Governor Jim Edgar has pledged 'no tax increases' and, along with the positions taken by Orr and Philip, the coming weeks are sure to prove very, very interesting... Campaign rhetoric and the realities of the world we live in seem, at least most of the time, to be incompatible.

Congressman Bill Lipinski (D-3) has a 'downstate flood relief convoy' which takes cleaning and medical supplies, baby supplies, toiletries and canned foods to victims of widespread flooding in downstate Illinois. Drop-off locations include Lipinski's district offices at 12717 Ridgeland, Palos Heights, and 5838 Archer, Chicago. Both are open from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, as well as the Village of Justice Fire Department, 7800 Archer, open from 8 a.m. to 12 midnight, Monday through Friday. Donations are being accepted through Thursday, Aug. 26th.

Monetary donations may be sent to Standard Bank & Trust, 2400 W. 95th St., Evergreen Park, IL 60642. Checks should be made payable to Congressman Lipinski's Flood Relief Fund.

The eighth annual Brother Rice Alumni Golf Outing attracted 144 golfers to Silver Lake Country Club in Orland Park recently. Tim Harrigan '73, of Oak Lawn shot a 75 to win the low gross award and Ed Kilcoyne '62, also of Oak Lawn, took low net honors with a 67. Longest drive awards went to Bob Martin '77, of Mt. Greenwood, and Kevin Tunney '73. Harrigan also finished second on both longest drive holes. Pat Maloney '63, and Dan Langosch '83, won the 'closest-to-the-pin' contest. For the second time, the outing featured corporate sponsors. On each tee, a sign displayed the name of a sponsor. In addition, most signs carried the name of a Rice alumnus who was the owner or employee of the sponsoring company. Corporate sponsors were also listed together on a professionally-painted sign on the first tee and received custom-embroidered shirts at the dinner. Each golfer received a custom-embroidered Brother Rice Alumni cap and a golf towel.

Maria Pappas Announces

Cook County Commissioner Maria Pappas formally announced her candidacy for county board president on Monday, pledging to address three concerns: excessive taxation, 'insider' deals, and patronage. The freshman commissioner, who says she has $46 in her campaign war chest, stressed, "It's time taxpayers get an honest count from county government."

She said she is not worried about finances. "I think the money will come."

Three years ago Pappas, an independent Democrat from the Near North Side, finished second in a field of 35 candidates vying for 10 county board seats from the city.

Pappas has been a vocal critic of County Board President Richard J. Phelan who is expected to run for Governor in 1994. She opposed the .75 percent county sales tax imposed last year and property tax hikes of $100 million passed by the county board over the past three years. She has also been a critic of patronage hiring.

Another county commissioner who has announced his candidacy for board president is John Stroger, a Chicago Ward Committeeman.

Claiming she has no "political IOUs," Pappas said she has never been a Ward Committeeman and has no patronage fiefdom to protect. She is an attorney and a psychologist who has been characterized by County Commissioner Mary McDonald, a Republican, as a "formidable candidate who is interested in good government."

Other potential Democratic contenders for the March, 1994 Primary Election include Circuit Court Clerk Aurelia Pucinski, County Clerk David Orr, County Assessor Thomas Hynes, Alderman Edward Burke (14th) and State Senator John Cullerton (6th District).

Nominations For Medals

Nominations are now being accepted from local police departments for the Sheriff's Law Enforcement Medal of Honor, Sheriff Michael F. Sheahan announced. The medal is designed to honor one police officer from every municipal police department in Cook County. These exceptional officers should consistently perform beyond the call of duty as demonstrated by their attitude, attendance, work ethic and professionalism.

The Sheriff's office is also requesting nominations for a special Award of Valor, nominating officers who have performed acts of heroism or bravery that deserve recognition beyond the Sheriff's Law Enforcement Medal of Honor.

A special awards ceremony, hosted by Sheriff Sheahan, will be held at 1 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 5th at the Chicago Cultural Center.

For more information, contact Laurie Roche, director of the Sheriff's Office of Community Services at (708) 974-6042.

Flood Assistance Is Delayed By Political Bickering

By Congressman Harris W. Fawell, 13th District
 "House Republicans and some Democrats Delay Flood Relief." That was the headline in many newspapers recently. What really happened was far different from what the headlines implied.

House Republicans and some Democrats were prepared to vote for the $3 billion flood relief bill. However, we requested an opportunity to offer an amendment to pay for it now by making cuts in some low priority spending so our children would not be stuck with more debt and interest payments for years to come. This $3 billion in new spending will cost an estimated $32 billion in additional interest over the next 30 years.

We also wanted to offer an amendment to strike an extraneous new pending program from the flood relief package that had nothing to do with flood assistance.

If these two amendments failed, the group was prepared to support passage of the flood relief measure that same day.

In early July, the House Appropriations Committee began working on the emergency funding bill to provide assistance to flood damaged areas. I was part of a bipartisan group of 17 House members -- a group headed by two members from flood areas -- which wrote to the Appropriations Committee urging the following: "There is no doubt assistance is needed to these devastated areas, but providing such assistance does not mean we should suspend our fiscal responsibilities...we believe it would be responsible to attempt to define offsets (cuts in other low-priority spending) for the proposed spending." A fair request given our $300 billion-plus deficits and $4 trillion debt.

In the first amendment, we proposed $3 billion in specific cuts in low priority programs to pay for the flood assistance. There are $260 billion in federal funds appropriated in previous years that have never been spent; they are called "unobligated funds." Nearly all federal programs have left-over funds. We looked at thousands of these programs, picked the 47 least meritorious, and proposed cutting only 16% of the unspent funds. Two examples of projects of limited merit:

- The Voice of America (VOA) and Radio Free Europe (RFE) cost taxpayers $225 million per year. VOA and RFE, relics of the Cold War, continue to broadcast to the former Soviet Union and Eastern Europe even though, after the fall of communism, these countries have ready access to private broadcasters of world news, including CNN. The Congressional Budget Office suggests eliminating VOA and RFE. Our proposal did not go that far. Rather, we would have cut their left-over funds by a one-time $118 million to help fund disaster relief.

- U.S. foreign aid to Egypt and Israel is $2.7 billion per year. Our proposal would have cut a mere $20 million in unobligated funds, 7/10ths of one percent, to contribute to aiding flood victims in the U.S.

Our other amendment would have eliminated new spending in the emergency flood assistance bill that had nothing to do with helping flood victims. We would cut a provision in the bill earmarking $80 million for expanding the "Youth Fair Chance" job training program to include a $100 per week stipend for 14-30 year old "youths." This earmark was added by Representative Maxine Waters (CA) which led my colleague Dick Amery (TX) to quip, "If you want to provide relief to the flood victims, you must first stem the 'waters.'"

On July 22nd, the Democrat leadership brought the flood assistance bill to the House floor. In order to bring a bill up for a vote, you have to have a "rule" for its consideration. This "rule" is very important because it dictates whether amendments may be offered. The "rule" on the flood assistance bill allowed no amendments. A vote was taken in the full House on the "rule," not the bill. All Republicans and 45 Democrats opposed this rule that allowed no amendments. It was defeated.

Our tactical goal was to defeat the "rule," so we could offer our amendments. Our amendments were ready to go. The House could have voted on a new "rule," on our amendments, and on the final bill that same afternoon. Allowing our amendments would have delayed passage of the bill by about two hours. We made it clear that, win or lose on our amendments, we wanted to pass the final assistance bill.

The Democrat leadership of the House -- which has complete control of what bills are considered and when -- pulled the entire bill from the floor that day. We objected. The next day, Friday, the Democrat leadership refused to bring it up for consideration. We objected. They then proposed that the House adjourn until Monday. We voted against adjournment so we could pass flood assistance. The Democrat leadership strong-armed enough Democrats who had voted with us initially to pass the adjournment resolution. So, against our wishes, the House adjourned for the weekend without passing the relief bill.

While the Democrat leadership refused to bring the bill up for a vote, it was working its public relations machine into a frenzy blaming Republicans for "gridlock," and saying we had "voted against flood disaster victims."

The bottom line is that the Democrat leadership simply did not want to allow a vote to cut any spending, no matter how unnecessary. They spent that weekend twisting enough arms to pass a "closed" rule, allowing no amendments, on Tuesday, July 27th. The bill passed, without offsetting cuts, that day.

MWRD Is Honored

Six Metropolitan Water Reclamation District plants were honored with gold and silver awards from the Association of Metropolitan Sewerage Agencies. In order to qualify for consideration for these awards, the wastewater treatment plants must provide secondary treatment and have a capacity of two million gallons per day. Each year, these six plants treat more than five billion gallons of wastewater. The plants showed exceptional operating qualities and were in compliance with the strict standards set forth in permits issued by the National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System.

"This is comparable to winning four gold and two silver medals in the Olympics. The real winners are the residents of the area who are enjoying cleaner water as a result of the district doing its job so effectively," said Commissioner Patricia Young, chairman of the committee on maintenance and operations.

The water reclamation plants are located in Chicago, Stickney, Skokie, Des Plaines, Schaumburg and Hanover Park.

Wiretaps Approved

Gov. Jim Edgar has signed legislation sponsored by State Sen. Patrick O'Malley (R-18) to allow the use of wiretap procedures by law enforcement officials investigating the illegal activities of drug dealers. Senate Bill 880 expands Illinois' wiretap statute to allow its use for investigating criminal drug conspiracy, which covers the actions of two or more people who conspire to deal drugs, including the delivery to children or sale to minors on school property. The bill is part of an anti-crime legislative package proposed by Cook County State's Attorney Jack O'Malley.

"Since it was first allowed in Illinois four years ago, nonconsensual wiretap has become a very useful investigatory tool," Sen. O'Malley said. "However, the law only allows it to be used in a very limited number of cases. This new law allows law enforcement officials to use nonconsensual wiretap to fight the drug dealers who conspire to sell drugs to our children."

O'Malley pointed out that the legislation includes extensive protection against misuse and requires law enforcement officials to receive training before they are allowed to conduct such surveillance.

Sponsored by State Rep. Maureen Murphy (R-36) in the House of Representatives, Senate Bill 880 has an immediate effective date.

15th Annual Festa Italiana This Weekend

The Amerital Unico Club of Chicago will present the 15th annual Festa Italiana in South Grant Park, Lake Shore Drive and Roosevelt Road, across from the Field Museum, on Aug. 20th, 21st and 22nd.

Although entertainment and food are a major part of any festival, the arts and culture display is one of the highlights of Festa Italiana. This year's cultural display will focus on the biggest single event in the history of Italian Americans in Chicago which occurred 60 years ago on July 15th, 1933 when Italo Balbo and his squadron of planes landed in Lake Michigan in commemoration of the Century of Progress Exposition. There will be a special historical exhibit of photos, memorabilia, newspaper stories and videotape depicting this historical event.

In addition to the Balbo exhibit, the arts festa will feature the Italian American Theatre Company's Pucinella Traveling Puppet Theatre and the traditional display of paintings, sculptures and photographs by and about Italians and Italian Americans. The Pucinella Puppet Theatre traces its roots back to Renaissance Neapolitan Commedia Dell'Arte street performers. The cast includes Lionel Bottari, Frank Melcore, Jean Parisi and Gian Luca Ferme. They will perform in both Italian and English, using a pushcart/puppet stage which will be used in the arts tent, but will move around the festa grounds on Saturday and Sunday afternoon. Many local artists will display their exhibits around a massive representation of the map of Italy created by designer John Bucci.

Headlining the entertainment package are: Dick Contino the virtuoso of the accordion; 1 Giullari di Piazza, this ensemble features Southern Italian Folk Music and Ritual dances; Pat Capuzzi of Midlothian, entertainer-extraordinaire, singer, comedian and master of ceremonies are just a few of the talents of this very charming and versatile entertainer. Pat Capuzzi has entertained at many local clubs and Italian Fests in and around Chicago. His down to earth, home-spun humor has a universal appeal. cosponsored by the Amerital Unico Club of Chicago, a service organization composed of Italian American business people, all proceeds are donated to charity. Past recipients include Villa Scalabrini, Austin Special School, Misericordia Home for Exceptional Children, Children's Memorial Hospital and Neediest Children's Fund.

An open-air mass will be celebrated on Sunday, Aug. 22nd at 1 p.m. by Joseph Cardinal Bernardin. A procession led by the Sicilian Marching Band, Knights of Columbus and Italian American War Veterans will precede the mass. Also included in the procession will be 15 Italian societies representing many towns from Italy. As is their custom, each town has special reverence toward an individual patron saint and will carry their banners in the procession.

Gates open at 12 noon to 10 p.m. each day. Advance tickets are $5 and can be purchased at all Dominick's Food Stores. Gate tickets are $6. Children 10 and under are admitted free. Take the free shuttles from either Soldier Field (east lot) or the Monroe St. parking garage right to festa gate.

For further information, call (312) 829-8888.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

I have read a number of letters to the editor in your, as well as other publications, decrying the conservative viewpoint of such individuals as Daniel John Sobieski. The writers apparently foam at the mouth when any 'politically incorrect' individual expresses his/her viewpoint. I have a sense of deja vu; perhaps I should re-read David Karp's classic novel of the wages of 'politically incorrect' thinking, One.

It is clear to me that, as I have maintained for years, today's 'liberal' is poised to 'defend to the death my right to agree with him/her.'

Oak Lawn Reviews

by Ann Bennett
422-0486

Really bad storms Sunday, but ours were mild in comparison to what happened farther south. We just had some power outages in some areas, blown over trees, etc.

It will be congratulations to Estella Schulz, who will mark her 107th birthday tomorrow, Aug. 20th. She was born in Centralia, PA in 1886 and moved to Oak Lawn in 1906 and lived with her granddaughter and husband Robert and Mary Jane Noerenberg and is now a resident at the Oak Lawn Nursing Home & Pavilion at 95th St. and Mayfield Ave. According to Mary Jane, Mrs. Schulz is of sound mind and "sharp as a tack." Mrs. Schulz has six grandchildren, seven great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild. There will be a party at the nursing home for Mrs. Schulz for her family and friends and residents of the home. May you have many more.

The Oak Lawn Area Chapter 3558 of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) will meet on Monday, Sept. 13th at Our Lady of Fatima K.C. Hall, 5839 W. 95th St. Lois Harris, program chairperson, has arranged for Mary Marney, a representative from Blue Cross and Blue Shield who will give the latest information on Medicare fraud. Everyone is invited. Felix Waitches is president.

The Country Thrift Shoppe, sponsored by the Auxiliary of Christ Hospital and Medical Center, at 1800 W. 95th St., will have a storewide sale from Aug. 19th through the 26th. Coats that were $10 to $15 each are now priced at $1 to $5 each. Sweaters, $5 each, are now $1, books which were $1 to $5 each are now marked down to 12 for $1, these are some of the markdowns. All of the merchandise has been marked down accordingly. The store is open on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The phone is 1-(312)-239-6985.

Congratulations to George and Florence Van who celebrated their 38th wedding anniversary on Aug. 15th. Florence also marked her birthday on Aug. 13th. May you have many happy years together.

Congratulations to Raymond and Frieda Vogel who celebrated their 32nd wedding anniversary on Aug. 11th. May you also have many more.

At last!!! The Homeowners in the Eagle Rige subdivision are at a point where their cement problems will be taken care of. Dr. Mohan Issa, a professor of engineering at the University of Illinois in Chicago, took the samples from five driveways last April and the report was read by Trustee Marjorie Ann Joy, 5th District, at the meeting of the board held Aug. 10th. Donald Hartz, the developer, acknowledged the concrete was not holding up, but blamed the problem on roadway salt that residents picked up on their cars. According to the civil engineers the tested driveways flaked because of "inadequate finishing." Trustee Cyril Holesha, 1st District, said that although Hartz's warranty maintains he is not responsible for the condition of the concrete, the village ordinance holds the developer responsible for all improvements and requires them to be responsible for problems.

Baptized Sunday, Aug. 8th, were Casey Richard and Kelley Anne, twin children of Richard and Krainas; Malia Anike, daughter of Thomas and Judith Kunst; Matthew Michael, son of Michael and Christine Medel; and Kenneth David, son of David and Shannon Panfil. Congratulations to all of you.

Despite the rain Sunday, the annual cookout sponsored by the Johnson-Phelps VFW Post & Ladies Auxiliary was a huge success. About 110 persons attended. The cake auction was also a success.

Dave Hillis, a field representative from the Social Security office will speak, at the post hall, on the rights and responsibilities with regard to retirements and new membership at 7:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

The annual 'Lite-a-Bike' program sponsored by the Johnson-Phelps VFW Post & Ladies Auxiliary, is on Saturday, Sept. 11th. Hot dogs and soda will be served to all participants. The safety testing will take place from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. on Yourell Drive. Russ Smukula and Penny Hempen are the commander and president.

Baptized at St. Gerald Church on July 25th were Stacey Lyn, daughter of Allen and Kathleen Byczek; Hollie Ann, daughter of John and Allison Clark; and Mark Andrew, son of Gregory and Deborah Freer. Congratulations to all of you.

Offers Small Business Loan Tips

While conventional wisdom in today's economic environment says that money is tight and bank loans are hard to come by - particularly for small or entrepreneurial businesses, a leading local banker disagrees.

"We're in the business to loan money," said Bob Douglas, senior manager, commercial real estate lending, with First Chicago Bank/Oak Lawn. "The problems is that many business owners buy into that conventional wisdom. And when they need to seek a bank loan, they'll find the experience a bit daunting."

Douglas stressed that the process will be less intimidating and prospects for success can be enhanced when the entrepreneur prepares before seeking the loan.

He offered some suggestions to help customers make their case:

- Do your homework on area small business-friendly banks. "Small business lending" guidelines vary from bank to bank. Some won't make loans for less than $1 million. Others have more modest guidelines. At First Chicago/Oak Lawn, for example, small business loans have been made for as little as $5,000, and for as much as $3 million.

Douglas also pointed out that the "fit" between the customer and the bank is crucial since banking is a relationship business. "Our small business customers find our bankers are most valuable when they can act as consultants and guide customers with solid advice," he explained.

One businessman, for example, came to First Chicago/Oak Lawn three years in a row seeking a line of credit. "We liked the business, but couldn't make the loan because the owner was taking all the equity out of the company at the end of each year," said Douglas. The result was a weak balance sheet. Douglas advised him to leave some of the earnings in the company to strengthen it. He did, and at the end of the three years, the owner had his line of credit.

- Present a good selection of financial and other materials without overwhelming your banker with information. What's necessary, according to Douglas, are three years of financial statements; either accountants' prepared audits or tax returns; and a personal financial statement from proprietors or owners.

"A formal business plan can be helpful to give your bankers background information on how you started your company. Equally important is your knowledge and background in the field, and business referrals who can verify that you know what you're doing," Douglas added.

It's also helpful, he said, to provide your banker with pertinent information that illustrates trends in your business. "I often tell people to market to their banker as they would to their customers," Douglas explained. "Announcements of personnel changes, new products or business developments help us gain added insight into their business. That makes it easier for us to respond to their needs."

- Be aware of the banker's role. "We can only take calculated risks," stressed Douglas. "Our primary concern is how the customer is going to repay his or her loan." Collateral is important, but secondary to cash flow. Even if loan applicants have considerable equity in their homes or in equipment, they must first demonstrate sufficient cash flow to repay the debt. By remembering that principle, their expectations won't be out of line with what the banker can realistically do, he added.

First Chicago Bank/Oak Lawn, 10440 S. Cicero, is one of more than 70 branches of The First National Bank of Chicago, which provides leading edge banking products and services to retail customers throughout the Chicago metropolitan area. The First National Bank of Chicago is the tenth largest bank in the country and a subsidiary of First Chicago Corp.

Stiffer Jail Terms For Gang Crimes

Early next year, Illinois judges can impose stiffer jail terms for violent gang-related crime under a new law co-sponsored by state Rep. Maureen Murphy (R-36). The measure, House Bill 122 (P.A. 88-0215), signed into law by Gov. Jim Edgar, takes effect on Jan. 1st, 1994. The new anti-gang law was overwhelmingly approved by the Illinois Legislature this past spring.

Murphy's law was part of the suburban House Republican legislative agenda on violent street crime. The package of bills was introduced earlier this year at a news conference in Evergreen Park. Another proposal, co-sponsored by Murphy, became law following successful action in Springfield this spring. House Bill 124 allows schools to better monitor gang activity within the classroom.

HB 122 allows the severity of the gang-related crime to become a major factor in sentencing gang members to stiffer prison terms.

"It's become obvious to the courts, prosecutors and police that present laws were not tough enough on gangs. We need a stronger message that tells gangs that serious crimes will draw a long time behind bars," said Rep. Murphy, one of the new law's lead sponsors.

The rapid spread of gangs to southwestern Cook County makes it necessary for state lawmakers to find new solutions, Murphy said. "We need to examine later this year new ways of curbing gang conscription, membership intimidation and drive-by shootings."

District 126 Board Meeting

The School Board of District 126, the Alsip, Hazelgreen and Oak Lawn Elementary Schools, held its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday, July 21st at the administrative center, 11900 S. Kostner. Susan Bain-Williams was sworn in as a new school board member. She is the mother of two children who attend Stony Creek School.

The board voted to continue the district's current vocational education occupational information program, an annual renewal of the district's commitment to continue to provide career education information to students, said Board President Reed Powers.

In personnel matters, the board regretfully accepted the letter of resignation from Lynn Novak, Stony Creek assistant principal. Mrs. Novak has accepted a principalship in District 109. The board wished Mrs. Novak well. Also, the board acted to hire Danielle Bartkowiak as 4th grade teacher and Cindy Wente as 3rd grade teacher at Stony Creek. The board acted to hire Jennifer Hansen as 4th grade teacher, Stacey Batchelor Ripp for the primary LD class and Kimberly Stacey as 6th grade teacher at Lane.

TraceyAnne Brougham was hired as district Chapter 1 teacher and Bonnie Matkowski was hired as a part-time teacher aide at Stony Creek and Karen Strenge as a part-time teacher aide at Hazelgreen.

Superintendent William Boucek reported that the district received $229,573 in earned interest for the 1992-93 school year. Last year the district received $325,000 (91-92) and $443,460 in 1990-91. Lower interest rates and lower balances have contributed to the decline in earned interest.

The board heard a first reading of a revised 'no smoking' policy which would prohibit all smoking in district school buildings. The board directed that this policy apply to all groups using the schools.

The board heard an update from Supt. Boucek on the recently concluded Illinois legislative session, and a report from Boucek on the 1992 Stanford Achievement Test (SAT)

Executive Director

United Cerebral Palsy Association of Greater Chicago elected a new chairman and announced the hiring of a new executive director at its annual board meeting on Aug. 5th. UCP is a $5.4 million agency that provides programs and services to adults and children with disabilities in Cook, Kane, Lake and DuPage counties. UCP's new chairman is Roger Hughes of Oak Lawn, who chaired the 1993 telethon that raised more than $1 million for UCP programs and services. He is president and CEO of DonTech, a partnership between Ameritech Publishing and Reuben H. Donnelley. He replaces John T. Trutter, UCP's chairman for the past 16 years.

Also at the meeting, UCP board president Rodney Joslin announced the hiring of Dr. Paul Dulle of Lemont, who will take over as executive director beginning Oct. 1st. Dulle has headed Southwest Cook County Cooperative Association for Special Education for 9 years and is nationally recognized as an innovator in special education, particularly at using technology such as computers and speech devices in classrooms. Dulle replaces Irving Korita, who retired last month after 33 years at UCP.

In the past three years, UCP/Chicago has focused on increasing access to technology that can overcome disability.

"The challenge ahead for United Cerebral Palsy is to complete Infinitec, our $17 million research center for assistive technology that will help level the playing field for children and adults with disabilities," said Hughes.

Nurse On TV

"RN Action," telecast on Wednesdays at 7:30 p.m., is a current and controversial health care show hosted and produced by Karon White Gibson, R.N., co-author of "On Our Own," St. Martin's Press and Avon paperback. Her unique talent and ability to extract diverse opinions on topics and various treatments from physicians and allied health care personnel have developed synergistic discussions or disagreement focusing on positive conclusion. Topics range from insurance reimbursement issues, impotence, stress, legislative health information, cosmetic surgery to child care, psychology and most recently, street savvy safety techniques demonstrated and discussed by two Chicago Officers who were decoys in the tactical undercover function (TUF Squad) the task force gang crimes unit and hostage barricade terrorist team.

Karon has been featured in "People" magazine, various TV talk shows as publicity for her 'non-fiction' novel depicting a nurse's experience from goldcoast to ghetto at an inner city hospital as a student nurse and an emergency room nurse on to the psychiatric unit of a community hospital, to the first aid station of major motion pictures. She is also president of a home care agency which pioneered the movement of home care in 1973 before it was fashionable. She was awarded the Businesswoman of the Year by the Chicago Chapter of the National Association of Women Business Owners, and is a member of the Committee of 200, a group of preeminent international businesswomen.

In other reports, Guenther Schmidt from Emil Mastandrea Architects and chief of maintenance Otto Hartl gave an update on the status of the summer life safety work at Stony Creek, Prairie Junior and Lane.

The next regular school board meeting is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 18th at the administrative center. "The public is always welcome to attend," said Board Vice-President George Lehman.

POLICE CALLS

The following incidents were reported by the Oak Lawn Police Department. Readers are reminded that an arrest by police does not constitute a finding of guilt and only a court of law can make that determination.

On Aug. 6th at 4:05 a.m., William G. Busch of Warrenville was charged with criminal trespass to property for allegedly breaking into a carnival booth at the Oak Lawn Family Fest when after-hours security officers found him rummaging through the closed booth. Although he claimed to be an employee of Spectacular Midways Carnival Co., he did not have permission to be in the area, according to police.

A 28 year old Bridgeview man was arrested for allegedly causing a disturbance at the festival at 10:54 p.m. James Summers was ejected and told not to come back. After Summers climbed over a fence to get back in, police arrested him.

James Moser, Sr. of Palos Hills was charged with disorderly conduct when police saw him carrying a liter of whiskey into the festival and was also charged with drinking in public.

On the 7th, Carl Valzaretto of Oak Lawn reported that 5-Star Landscaping, which was to do work at his house, was using some heavy equipment and when he came out to check his property, found there was damage to the northeast corner of his house. He has been unable to reach 5-Star and is interested in pursuing this incident since the damage to the brickwork is approximately $1,500.

School District 122 reported the school at 9700 S. Mansfield had three 3 x 4 ft. windows broken. Estimated damage is $300.

Charges are pending for a 28 year old Hickory Hills driver who allegedly hit another car and killed Patricia Stopps, 30, of Hoffman Estates, the passenger in the car. According to Deputy Police Chief James Houk, the man was heading west on 111th St. without the headlights lit on his Ford Bronco. When he reached Kostner Ave., he allegedly crossed the center line and hit the passenger side of a car driven by Kenneth Elexa, 32, of Chicago who was heading east on 111th, with Stopps in the passenger seat when he saw the other driver coming toward him. He tried to turn to avoid the oncoming car but was hit. Elexa and the driver of the Bronco were taken to Christ Hospital where they were treated and released and where Stopps was pronounced dead.

Amanda Novella of Chicago reported she had parked her car in the Dominick's lot at 87th & Cicero and when she returned she found someone had scratched her vehicle with a sharp object. Estimated cost to repair is $1,200.

Walter Lewandowski, manager of Glidden Paint at 9741 Southwest Highway, told police someone threw three rocks at the sign in front of the store. Four plastic sign panels were broken. Lewandowski said he had signed a complaint against a youth for criminal damage to the Glidden store and feels it may be retaliation. Estimated loss is $500.

On the 8th, John Malosti of Oak Lawn called police to report a fire in his 1992 Chrysler Fifth Ave. When police arrived, the car was engulfed in flames which were put out by the Oak Lawn Fire Department. A preliminary arson investigation was started.

James Murphy, 28, of Burbank was charged with resisting arrest and three counts of battery, and his girlfriend, Renee T. Galassi, 20, also of Burbank, was charged with battery on the afternoon of the 9th after police, responding to a car theft call, found Galassi and Murphy trying to cut a 'Club' security device from the steering wheel of a car. When police told them to stop, Murphy told them to stop, Murphy cursed the officers and ran off. When police tried to subdue him, he punched one officer in the chest. Galassi then ran up behind one of the officers and hit him, telling him to leave Murphy alone. Murphy continued to struggle while police attempted to handcuff him, and he punched an officer in the chest and kicked another officer as they tried to get him in the squad. Police said the car belonged to Galassi, whose mother had put the 'Club' on the wheel to prevent her from driving it.

Jim Rule of Burbank reported a 3x4 ft. plate glass window was broken at the Dearborn Heights School.

Brendan O'Reilly of Oak Lawn reported his front storm door with a 2 ft. x 3 ft. thermopane glass was broken with a BB. It will cost $183 to replace.

On the 11th at 3:30 p.m., John Koss of Oak Lawn reported he had parked his car in the lot at 5259 W. 95th St. and when he came out found the windshield and antenna were broken. Estimated loss is $400.

Robert Balenti, O.D., reported a male black removed from his store, 5718 W. 95th St., two pair of Laura Biagotti sunglasses, from a display in the optical office and fled. They were valued at $100.

On the 8th, Ernest Ambrose of Worth told police his clothing and other items had been put into a locker at the Chicago Health Club, 6700 W. 95th St., and he secured it with his own lock. When he returned later, he discovered the handle lock device on the door had been broken. In addition to the clothing, $400 cash and his door and car keys were missing, and a man's gold college ring and man's gold wedding band had been taken for an estimated loss of $1,000.

Free Golf Clinic Is Offered

Cook County Board President Richard Phelan announced that the Forest Preserve District of Cook County will be conducting a free golf clinic at the George W. Dunne National Driving Range, 163rd St. and Central Ave., Oak Forest, on Wednesday, Aug. 25th from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m.

"The golf season is still a long way from over in the Chicago area. We hope people attending the clinic will walk away having learned something they can apply to their game as they work to refine their game over the balance of the season," said Phelan. "The presentation of the golf clinic is also one way we would like to thank all of those people who have supported the Forest Preserve District's 10 golf courses and 4 driving ranges during the year."

The father and son team of George Kallish, Jr. and George Kallish III will provide instruction and demonstrations on the many aspects of the golfing game. The clinic is designed to teach some of the fine points of the game and to improve the skills of all golfers, regardless of their ability and experience. Everything from the basic fundamentals to hitting trick shots will be demonstrated by these two PGA experts.

The Kallishes will share their knowledge and skills which have earned them the recognition as two of the top players in the area. George Jr. has been a PGA member since 1967. His victory in the 1983 Illinois Senior PGA Open helped him earn the Senior Player of the Year award. For the last twelve years George Jr. has served as president of the Illinois PGA Seniors. George III received his formal training as a member of the golf team at Bavard Junior College and as a two-year golf letterman at Southern Mississippi University. In 1992, he won the Illinois Assistants Championship.

"The introduction of a free golf clinic is consistent with the forest preserve's commitment to providing recreation which is accessible and convenient for every resident of Cook County," Phelan said.

Earlier this season, the forest preserve introduced new reduced twilight rates for all 10 county golf courses for players teeing off after 4 p.m. In addition, a new 7-day advanced reservation system was installed. "These program changes have made it easier for golfers seeking access to the golf courses while virtually eliminating the problems associated with getting to the first tee," added Phelan.

Space is limited and reservations for the clinic are required and can be arranged by phoning (708) 687-1091. Free gifts will be handed out and refreshments are available. For additional information, call (708) 366-9420.

WOODS & BROOKS - An appropriate name for a company conceived around a Wyoming campfire after a great day of fly fishing. They discussed the day's activities, the beauty of the river and compiled a wish-list of improved fishing accessories they would like to have but were not available.

Their first product, a wood fly box they named THE NATURAL HATCH, was inspired by that experience. Since then they have sought to create other products that merge the timeless beauty of wood with unique and practical design features.

I field-tested that fly box in Montana and Wisconsin trout streams and was very impressed with its lightweight, flotation ability, drain and ventilation holes, lanyard eye, easy opening latch, rust proof interior housing and closed-cell foam liners that held most of my wet and dry flies.

Woods & Brooks has improved on the fly box by incorporating interchangeable snap-in trays that can be used with their NATURAL HATCH SYSTEM consisting of a fly box (your choice of select woods) and a portable system storage box that holds eight removable snap-in trays. These items fit into a field bag that allows easy access to the trays with additional storage space for the fly box, reels, line and fly dressing etc.

On a recent Bluegill fishing trip to a local farm pond, I selected the tray with small poppers, snapped it into the fly box and I was ready to go - no need to rifle through many fly boxes to select what I needed. The second tray in the box held small dry flies just in case a hatch occurred while I was on the water.

The NATURAL HATCH fly boxes and subsequent NATURAL HATCH SYSTEM were an instant success leading to world-wide sales. With a dedication to quality, attention to detail, WOODS & BROOKS have expanded their line to include sporting clay shell boxes and field bags, a line of specialty items plus custom designed products for businesses and organizations.

WOODS & BROOKS is at 11160 Southwest Highway, Palos Hills, phone (708) 974-9335.

HUNTING LICENSE SALES UP AS 27 STATES SHOW INCREASE - Paced by increased hunting license sales in more than half the states, the number of licensed hunters in the nation increased in 1992 for the first time in four years, according to an analysis of hunting license sales prepared by the National Shooting Sports Foundation. More than 15,746,000 men and women purchased hunting licenses in 1992, a 28,000 increase over 1991.

"While the size of the increase is modest, we think the broad-based source of the growth is significant and reflects positively on the future of the hunting and shooting sports," said Bob Delfay, president of the National Shooting Sports Foundation. "At NSSF, we have always emphasized that an increase or decrease in total license sales did not necessarily reflect a national trend because the difference was often the result of big swings in a few major states. Last year, however, 27 states showed license sales increases and few states had significant declines," Delfay said.

"While these figures do not indicate how many of the license purchasers were male or female, surveys by the NSSF and others have shown a significant increase in hunting license sales to women over the past several years. I would not be surprised if this was a major factor, here," Delfay added.

Michigan, with 1,171,721 hunters, took over the top sport as the nation's number one hunting state, barely edging out Pennsylvania by 1,119 hunters. Texas also topped the million mark with 1,045,858 hunters. Sorry to report, Illinois had a decrease of 5%.

Hockey Camper

Oak Lawn resident Rudy Moser is attending the Michigan Tech University Hockey Development Center (July 18-23) to improve and enhance his hockey skills. At the camp, he is honing his stickhandling, passing, shooting, skating and checking skills through rigorous drills and challenging scrimmages. In addition to his on-ice activities, he is training in the off-ice development center.

Each participant, not only is involved in classroom instruction, which includes video critique, but also receives a full written evaluation at the conclusion of the camp.

Michigan Technological University, home of three NCAA Championship hockey teams, started the hockey development center 22 years ago under its legendary hockey coach, John MacInnes.

Signs Letter Of Intent

St. Rita High School senior Pete Kelly recently signed a letter of intent to attend Purdue University in West Lafayette, Indiana on a baseball scholarship. Pete, a shortstop, led the squad in hitting this past season with a .463 average. He belted four home runs and had 42 RBI while committing only three errors for the entire season leading St. Rita to a 31-7 record and Catholic League South Section Co-Championship.

"Pete was a player who deserved all of the honors that he received because he was such a steady force throughout the season for our team," said Coach Jim Prunty.

In addition to his play on the field, Kelly, from Christ the King parish, was a fine student in the classroom, posting a 3.06 grade point average and ranking 51st in the senior class. Pete plans to study criminal justice at Purdue.

Student Apprenticeship For Graduation Credits

Gov. Jim Edgar has signed legislation to allow high school students to earn graduation credits for vocational and technical classes.

"This legislation, which complements the student apprenticeship program I first proposed earlier this year, will better prepare students for rewarding careers as productive and qualified members of the Illinois workforce," the governor said.

"These bills give those students who choose not to pursue a college degree more flexibility in meeting graduation requirements and a better opportunity to learn a trade or technical craft while still in school. They also will improve Illinois' chances of building and maintaining a world-class workforce prepared for the changes in technology we see in industry every day."

Signed by the governor were:

*House Bill 207, which allows students, upon authorization of local school boards, to satisfy one or more required courses for graduation by substituting a related vocational or technical course. The measure, which takes effect on July 1st, 1994, was sponsored by Reps. Thomas Walsh (R-LaGrange Park), Bill Black (R-Danville) and Sen. Brad Burzynski (R-Sycamore).

*House Bill 243, which encourages creation of apprenticeship vocational education programs for academic credit to high school students interested in work-related training with manufacturing companies. Gov. Edgar included $750,000 in the budget for fiscal year 1994 to launch the student apprenticeship system, which will closely link classroom schooling with workplace learning for those students who do not plan to pursue a baccalaureate degree after high school.

The governor also approved House Bill 76 which allows qualifying low-income senior citizens who own cooperative apartments to defer their property taxes through the existing senior citizen real estate tax deferral program. Currently, only single-family homes and condominiums are included in the tax relief program that allows qualifying seniors to defer their taxes until after their death or the time when the property is sold.

Society Aids Animal Flood Victims

Three kittens clinging for their lives on a bush surrounded by floodwaters in Niota, Illinois had some big city friends come to their rescue. Jerre Maines and Michael Ninichuk, both humane investigators with The Anti-Cruelty Society, were dispatched to the American Humane Association's Emergency Animal Relief Center in Ft. Madison, Iowa, on Aug. 2nd, 3rd and 4th to assist with the delivery of needed food, vaccines and other equipment to communities along the river. When a report of kittens stranded in Niota was called into the relief center, the Chicago team was dispatched. Three kittens were found clinging precariously to the top of a bush partially submerged by three feet of water.

The team drove as close as possible to the stranded kittens, and waded the rest of the way to complete the rescue. After luring the hungry kittens into a cage by using food, the six-week old kittens later accompanied Maines and Ninichuk back to The Anti-Cruelty Society in Chicago. One kitten has been adopted, and the other two are awaiting good homes.

To adopt a kitten, visit The Anti-Cruelty Society during adoption hours (weekdays from 12 noon to 6 p.m., weekends from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.). An adoption counselor will meet with potential adopters to ensure that the animals will go to a good home. Identification, landlord's approval of a pet (or a phone number where the landlord can be reached), and a $40 adoption fee should be brought to the interview. Adoption fees cover all initial vaccinations, a collar and i.d. tag, a cat carrier, veterinary exam and a feline leukemia test.

Also signed was House Bill 2149, which permits insurance policies for long-term care coverage to specifically permit premium refunds or reduced benefits in cases of policy cancellations or the discontinuance of premium payments. Effective immediately, it was sponsored by Rep. Currie and Sen. Art Berman, both Chicago Democrats.

and a $40 adoption fee should be brought to the interview. Adoption fees cover all initial vaccinations, a collar and i.d. tag, a cat carrier, veterinary exam and a feline leukemia test.

On their return trip home Ninichuk and Maines delivered 150 vaccines to the Humane Society of Scott Valley in Davenport, Iowa and pet food to Fruitland and Muscatine, Iowa for distribution to needy pet owners.

On Sunday, Aug. 29th, The Anti-Cruelty Society will be switching to fall/winter hours. Adoption hours at the shelter will be from 12 noon to 5 p.m., seven days a week.

Model DUI Program Gets $52,000 Grant

The Forest Preserve District of Cook County has been awarded a second grant for around $52,000 from the Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) and the Highway Safety Project to continue its alcohol enforcement program, announced Cook County Board President Richard Phelan.

"The district has had success with its alcohol safety program," Phelan said. "This additional grant will enable us to further our prevention efforts."

According to Joseph N. Nevius, general superintendent of the district, the grant enables forest preserve police to continue its special DUI program it began last year. District law enforcement officers have received a positive response for the program from the public.

"In just one year of this program, our officers have seen a reduction of the abuse of alcohol within the forest preserve," Phelan said. "The education of the public to the dangers of alcohol abuse while driving has been heightened by the district's special DUI enforcement unit. Consequently, more people are selecting designated drivers and behaving in a more responsible manner."

Last year officers conducted nine roadside safety checks at random forest preserve sites throughout the county to detect and apprehend motorists who were driving while under the influence of alcohol or drugs. More than 5,000 vehicles passed through the safety checks, according to Nevius. Additional roadside checks are planned for next year. The checks also served to detect persons who are operating an unsafe motor vehicle, driving without a valid driver's license, driving without adequate car insurance and driving without seatbelts.

"The district found these roadside safety checks to be instrumental in preventing abuse of alcohol and in detecting cars with safety problems," Phelan pointed out. "At the forest preserve district, we are committed to ensuring the public's safety while they use our facilities and when they leave for home."

The grant will also enable the district to specially train its officers in techniques such as the breathalyzer test, used for DUI detection.

STANDARD BANK AND TRUST CO.

*The annual percentage rate (APR) is based on prime plus one-half percent (0.50%) or prime plus one percent (1.00%), as determined by the amount of equity in the home. These rates vary, and are indexed to the prime rate, as published in the Wall Street Journal. Although this rate may change frequently, the APR will not change more than once each month, on the fifth (5th) day of the month, as determined by the published rate on the fourth (4th) of the month. As of June 05, 1993, the prime rate is 6.00%, so the APR is 6.50% and 7.00%. The maximum APR is 17.9%.

*The special offer applies to new home equity lines of credit of $10,000.00 or more, against real estate in Illinois. This offer does not apply to renewals of existing lines of credit.

*The special introductory annual percentage rate (APR) of 3.9% applies to the lesser of the first (1st) ninety (90) days, or the initial three (3) payments. This rate applies if customer maintains STANDARD BANK checking account, and home equity payment is automatically deducted from the account.

*Fees, normally quoted as an application fee of $100.00 and set-up fee of $150.00, are waived for this special offer. If a special appraisal or trust fees are required, they are charged separately. An annual fee of $20.00 is charged after the first (1st) year.

*The term is now set at seven (7) years. Monthly payments of interest are required, while principal can be reduced at any time. Printed checks and coupons can be ordered.

*This offer is subject to change without notice.

HEIDI FLEISS FUSS....Lost in all the media hoopla over Heidi Fleiss, the 27 year-old "Madam to the Stars," is the fact that Heidi's million dollar villa in the swanky Benedict Canyon section of Beverly Hills, California, is still listed on the Los Angeles county tax rolls as being owned by actor/producer Michael Douglas. Douglas sold the Tower Grove Place digs to Heidi's father, a well-known California pediatrician, who in turn gave Heidi the house, but after punching up the house on a computer it is still listed on Los Angeles county tax records as being owned by Douglas. Apparently the record keepers in Los Angeles' tax department are a little slow in bringing their files up to date. Also for the record, when Heidi was arraigned in the Los Angeles Criminal Courts Building, and pleaded "not guilty" to the charges of running a call-girl service and prostitution ring that catered to Hollywood celebrities, politicians and rich corporate heads, nearly 300 photographers, reporters and the always present paparazzi, twice as many as covered the Rodney King trial, descended on the criminal courts building. At one point Fleiss complained to her attorney that the cameramen tugged on her low-cut, thigh-high taupe silk designer mini-dress. She was also wearing black suede pumps with 5-inch heels and dark sunglasses. During the court proceedings, Fleiss turned and smiled to two of her friends, Victoria Sellers, daughter of the late actor Peter Sellers, and Bonita Money, aspiring actress who got into a hair-pulling tussle last year with Shannen Doherty of TV's "Beverly Hills 90120" at a Los Angeles nightclub, and whispered, "Oh man, I'm so (expletive deleted) mad." The media was so preoccupied with the Heidi Fleiss arraignment that actress Joan Collins, appearing in an adjoining court room on a $20 million lawsuit against a tabloid, was almost completely ignored.

FARRENTINO'S FOLLIES.....Actor James Farrentino, 55, has denied allegations that he has stalked and threatened the life of television producer Tina Sinatra, daughter of Frank Sinatra. Farrentino, who recently ended the five-year romance with Sinatra, was arrested on July 30 and charged in a Los Angeles court with one count of stalking, one count of ignoring a restraining order, and two counts of making annoying phone calls to Sinatra. Farrentino, who played a young attorney in the TV series "The Lawyers" from 1969 to 1972, is now free on his own recognizance and arraignment is slated for Aug. 27.

DEATH UNDER INVESTIGATION.....Donald Myrick, a native of Illinois and a former band member of the rock band "Earth, Wind and Fire," was shot and killed by a Santa Monica police officer on July 30 when the officer went to Myrick's apartment during a drug-related investigation. Police said Myrick was shot as he held a 7½ inch butane torch, used to start charcoal fires, which one of the officers mistook for a weapon. Myrick's musical career spanned four decades, including his work as a saxophonist for "Earth, Wind and Fire."

DISNEYLAND.....Hollywood insiders are calling author Marc Eliot's book, "Walt Disney: Hollywood's Dark Prince," trashography. The reason so many people are skeptical about the book is that much of the material could only have come from Walt Disney himself, who has been dead for years, or his brother Roy, who died several decades ago. Eliot alleges that when Walt was a kid he would sneak into his mother's room, put on her clothes and fantasize in front of the mirror. Another of Eliot's "secrets" in the book is that Walt was once a spy for the FBI. Most people who knew Walt scoff at the "spy" theory and even if he was a spy, as Eliot says, so what. He didn't "spy" against the United States. Maybe Disney was looking into whether "Bambi" was illegitimate, or "Snow White" had an affair going with one of the "Seven Dwarfs." Or maybe, Walt was questioning whether Mickey Mouse was gay, and that Minnie Mouse was really a Heidi Fleiss type and was arranging "dates" for Goofy. Come to think of it, Goofy could have used the services of Heidi Fleiss.

SPORTS TALK.....The state of California is in the midst of a financial crisis caused by cutbacks in defense contracts and the loss of 800,000 jobs in the past five years. Feeling the pinch of the financial crisis is UCLA, a state school, which has announced it will eliminate three successful athletic programs, including men's swimming and men's and women's gymnastics after the 1993/94 academic year. Peter Dalls, UCLA athletic director, said the cuts were necessary to cope with a budget deficit that now stands at $900,000. In addition to the elimination of the three sports programs, Dalls said UCLA plans to cut $100,000 in costs associated with the school's football program. Areas that will most likely be affected are recruiting, travel and clerical expenses. The swimming and gymnastics programs at UCLA have produced 30 Olympians and proudly boast a graduation rate of 98 percent over the past three decades.

Annual Air And Water Show

Record-breaking pilots, catapulting parachuters trailing smoke, and the precision U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds flying 18 inches apart are featured Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 21st and 22nd at the 35th Anniversary Chicago Park District Air and Water Show, the oldest and largest annual air and water show in the U.S.

An estimated two million people will attend the free event which salutes women in aviation and highlights performances by female pilots. The show is held from noon to 4:30 p.m. along the lake front from Oak Street to Fullerton Avenue, based at North Avenue Beach.

The Chicago Park District Air and Water Show welcomes back the U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds on their 40th anniversary national tour.

The show features a wide variety of military acts (subject to operation availability) including: U.S. Navy Seals dropping 200 feet from a helicopter into Lake Michigan to stage an "assault" on North Avenue Beach; U.S. Air Force F-15; Illinois Air National Guard KC-135 air refueling tanker; U.S. Air Force Reserve C-130; U.S. Air Force B1B Bomber; U.S. Coast Guard Air/Sea Rescue, performed annually in the show since 1958; F-117A, the Stealth Fighter used in Operation Desert Storm; Illinois Air National Guard G-16; U.S. Air Force A-10 "Warthog"; and U.S. Air Force C-141 "Starlifter."

The nine civilian acts are: World record-breaking pilot

Joann Osterud, flying an Ultimate 10-300S; Susan Dacy, from Harvard, in a 180 h.p. Great Lakes biplane performs a 1930's-type of demonstration reminiscent of the Barnstormer Era; Chicagoan Jan Jones, a U.S. Nationals winner, flies a Pitts Special S2S biplane enabling her to execute knife-edge spins, snaps lomcevaks (Czechoslovakian for "headache") and torque rolls; Don Johnson, a U.S. National aerobatic champion, flies a Rebel 300 that he built himself; Bill Leff, in an AT-6 "Texas" warbird, demonstrates maneuvers taught to military pilots of WWII and the Korean Conflict; Vlado Lencich, from LaGrange, flies a P-51 Mustang, the fighter plane that "won" WWII; the Liberty Parachute Team leaps from a plane flying nearly two miles above the crowds trailing red, white and blue "candy canes" of smoke and unfurl banners and flags including a 2000 sq. ft. U.S. flag, the largest flag flown by skydivers; Lima Lima flight team executes precision formation flying in six WWII training planes; and a Chicago Park District lifeguard demonstration featuring rescue techniques used in national lifeguard competition.

Kicking off the Chicago Park District Air and Water Show is the City of Chicago's Venetian Night, a traditional lighted and decorated boat parade, on Friday, Aug. 20th, beginning at 8:30 p.m. at Monroe Harbor Yacht Club.

For further information, call the Chicago Park District Air and Water Show recorded hotline at 1-800-532-8951.

Insanity Loophole Now Plugged

A loophole in Illinois' death penalty law was closed when Gov. Jim Edgar signed into law a State Rep. Maureen Murphy, (R-36) measure that repeals a legal trick used by murderers to escape execution. Rep. Murphy, said her legislation, Senate Bill 773, was designed to prevent death row inmates from escaping execution by feigning insanity as a ploy in last-minute court appeals. Both the House and Senate overwhelmingly passed it earlier this spring.

Illinois law had allowed the prisoner to delay execution indefinitely by pleading insanity any time prior to imposition of the sentence. Federal court rulings prohibit the states from executing a convicted murderer who is insane at the time the courts impose the death penalty.

Murphy's law repeals, old provisions that allows a person to declare to be mentally unfit prior to the execution.

"By faking insanity, murderers can continually postpone the inevitable. While they can't prevent their execution, they can delay it. Still, that's wrong because the victim's family and society as a whole are being denied just and swift punishment for the heinous crime," said Rep. Murphy, the measure's primary sponsor.

Rape In Daytime

A 15-year-old Oak Forest girl was reportedly raped in broad daylight on Monday. The incident happened near the Rock Island-Metra commuter station, 159th and Cicero.

The girl was walking, alone, at approximately 11:45 a.m. just west of the station when a man seized her, dragged her into the bushes and assaulted her, according to the report.

Police combed the area near the commuter station and called on the state police canine unit for assistance. However, no one matching the description of the assailant was found.

The victim was taken to South Suburban Hospital, Hazel Crest, for treatment.

Cook County Board President Richard Phelan appointed Dr. Edmund R. Donoghue Jr. as Cook County's Chief Medical Examiner at the Aug. 3rd board meeting. Donoghue has served as Cook County's Deputy Chief Medical Examiner since 1977.

"The office of the chief medical examiner provides a vital public service for the county," Phelan stated. "Dr. Donoghue has served this county with undue dedication for over 15 years. I am proud to name him chief medical examiner." Donoghue served under Dr. Steln, who was named the county's first medical examiner in 1976, until his retirement on March 31st.

Donoghue, 48, is a native of Chicago and a board certified anatomic and forensic pathologist. A graduate of the University of Notre Dame, Donoghue received his M.D. from the Medical College of Wisconsin.

Safety Belt Usage Is On The Upswing

For the second consecutive year, the use of safety belts by drivers in the south suburbs has increased, hailing the success of the South Suburban Regional Traffic Safety Program. Results of a survey conducted recently showed that 54% of the region's drivers buckle up, a 36% increase over the 40% usage recorded before the program began two years ago.

The third annual safety belt survey included observation of 4,000 cars at the same 20 locations where surveys were performed on the same day of the week and at the same time of the day in August of 1991 and 1992. The region's highest usage rate, 67%, was recorded at 80th Ave. near the commuter rail station in Tinley Park.

In addition, the survey revealed that 62% of the region's female drivers use safety belts as compared to 46% of male drivers. These figures represent a 27% increase in the usage rate for female drivers, and a 44% increase for male drivers since 1991.

WORKER'S COMP COVERS

For injuries which are job-related, Worker's Compensation will compensate the patient. This applies to chiropractic treatment as well as other types of health care. In fact, because of the savings in both time lost and costs, insurance companies are very favorable disposed to chiropractic treatment of injuries.

What kind of savings? Well, for every day a worker is off the job because of a job-related injury, it costs Worker's Comp, the company, and the individual money. Anything which can reduce the amount of time lost is a money-saver; and, over the years, chiropractic treatment has proven itself extremely effective in returning workers to full activity after certain types of injuries.

Of course savings in money may not be your primary interest, but it should be in your interest to be returned to full and vigorous health in the shortest possible time, and with the least chance of complications.

If you have any health questions please feel free to call our office.

Subdivision Is Approved

It was a 15-minute regular meeting of the Oak Lawn Village Board of Trustees on Tuesday evening.

The petition for a two lot subdivision, Duffy's Corner, at 9640 S. Cook Ave., was approved. The petitioner was able to purchase 10 feet of property from the neighbor to the north to meet the requirements of the ordinance.

William H. Felmon Jr. was sworn-in by Village Clerk Jayne Powers to the rank of firefighter.

Traffic review committee referrals approved include post east and westbound Mansfield Ave. to 'yield' for 96th St.; post north and southbound 52nd Ave. to 'stop' for 97th St.; post northbound Cook Ave. to 'stop' for Dumke Drive; and post the north side of 105th St. from Kolmar Ave. to the school's driveway, 'no stopping, standing or waiting on school days, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.'; and post the north side of 93rd St. from 125 ft. west of Tripp Ave. to the east line of Kostner Ave. 'no parking any time.'

An ordinance to reduce the number of Class 'I' liquor licenses was approved. Village President Ernest Kolb, who is also liquor commissioner, made the recommendation because Capri Ristorante at 5821 W. 88th St. is unable to come up with the money at the moment.

Kolb made the following appointments to the electrical commission: Bernard Malas, chief electrical inspector; Lynn Krauss, registered professional engineer; Stanley Malberger, electrical contractor; Redmond J. Lyons, journeyman electrician; Jack Wesselhoff, chief of the fire department; and David Manthe, Commonwealth Edison representative.

Trustee Ron Stancik proposed that something be done about getting a path for the use of bikers, walkers and joggers. He pointed out that there is really no safe place for residents to participate in these activities. Marjorie Joy reported she had participated in an educational summit and felt there were some ideas brought up that can be used by the village and said she will write up a synopsis for each board member.

Scavenger Tax Sale

Cook County Treasurer Edward J. Rosewell announced that a "Scavenger Sale" of tax delinquent property will commence October 4, 1993, and will include more than 49,000 properties with a tax delinquency of more than 267 million dollars.

The tax sale, which will be held in the second floor corridor of the County Building, 118 North Clark Street, will run through November 2.

Registration for the scavenger sale will open on Friday, September 3, and will require a $100 registration fee in order to make bids at the sale.

Registration forms are available at the Treasurer's downtown office, and the five suburban offices located at 16501 S. Kedzie, Markham; 1500 Maybrook Drive, Maywood; 5600 Old Orchard Rd., Skokie; 10200 S. 76th Ave., Bridgeview and 2121 Euclid Ave., Rolling Meadows.

Rosewell said that the 49,000 parcels to be sold at the sale will be published in local and community papers during the week of August 30.

The sale will include properties with a tax delinquency of two or more years. The minimum bid for all scavenger sales is $250 or one half of the taxes due if the tax liability is $500 or less. The owner of the property than has up to six months to redeem or buy back the taxes, except for single family homes (6 flats or less) which have a redemption period of two years. If the owner fails to redeem, the purchaser can file suit in the Circuit Court to seek deed to the property.

Rosewell cautioned potential bidders to thoroughly research properties before making a bid. A successful bid merely places a tax lien on the property, and gives no physical rights to the property until the court orders a deed.

The last scavenger sale was held in 1991. Rosewell cautioned that the sale is "not a get rich quick scheme" but can be a good investment.

Rosewell will make personal appearances at all six of his offices to meet last minute taxpayers, and to hear any suggestions or complaints they may have.

On Monday, Aug. 30th, Rosewell will be at this Markham office, 16501 S. Kedzie, from 8:30 a.m. to 10 a.m.; at the Bridgeview office, 10200 S. 76th Ave., from 10:30 a.m. to 12 noon; and at the Maywood office, 1500 Maybrook Dr., from 2:30 p.m. to 4 p.m.

On Wednesday, Sept. 1st, (the penalty date) he will be at his downtown County Building office, 118 N. Clark St., from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Rosewell has extended his office hours to 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily. Also, all Treasurer's offices will be open from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 28th, to accept tax payments.

"THIS IS ALL ABOUT HEALTH. SO WHAT COULD BE MORE IMPORTANT THAN QUALITY?"

JAMES F. WALSH, SENIOR VP,
DIRECT MARKETS & CORPORATE SERVICES

There's a watchword here at Blue Cross that pretty much defines what we're all about: If the money we spend on behalf of our clients isn't buying the highest quality health care, we go do our level best to improve the situation.

So, today nobody does more to assure the quality of care that's delivered to our customers than we do.

You see, we know great quality is the best way to go. We know that nothing costs more than substandard care. And, if things are done right from the start, you'll spend less in the long run."

WHEN YOU HAVE QUALITY HEALTH CARE, YOU HAVE IT ALL.

- ☐ The first health insurance carrier to link cost management and quality control.
- ☐ Quality control through Physician Practice Profiling to monitor utilization patterns.
- ☐ Patient Outcome Studies to monitor performance.
- ☐ The most trusted health plan in Illinois.

WE HAVE IT ALL.

Candidates Chosen For Federal Judicial Vacancies

Sens. Paul Simon and Carol Moseley-Braun have selected three candidates for federal judicial vacancies in Illinois' Northern Judicial District from finalists chosen by their Northern District Merit Commission.

The senators have jointly sent to President Clinton their selections of Chicago, attorney Ruben Castillo, Illinois Appellate Court Justice Alan Greiman, and Illinois Appellate Court Justice Blanche Manning. Simon and Moseley-Braun made their choices from a list of applicants interviewed and culled by the Northern District Merit

Commission, chaired by Illinois Appellate Justice Anthony Sciarano. The merit selection process is a first for Illinois and has led to record numbers of applicants for positions in the federal judiciary and for the U.S. attorney and U.S. marshal posts available in each of the state's three federal judicial districts. If the President and U.S. Attorney General Janet Reno concur in the choices after an extensive background investigation, the President will formally nominate them, subject to confirmation by the U.S. Senate. Simon and Moseley-Braun, both D-Ill., are members of the Judiciary Committee, which handles judicial nominations for the Senate.

Manning, 58, has been a justice on the Illinois First District Appellate Court since 1987, after serving as a judge in the First, Second and Sixth Municipal Districts. She has been an assistant U.S. attorney in the Northern District, an attorney with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, an assistant state's attorney, and a private attorney for United Airlines.

Greiman, 61, has worked on his own in private practice and with two Chicago law firms. He served in the Illinois General Assembly from 1974-87, receiving several "best legislator" awards and is a founding member of Chicago Action for Soviet Jewry. In 1989 he became a judge on the Cook County Circuit Court and, in 1991, a justice on the Illinois Appellate Court.

Castillo, 38, currently is a partner with Kirkland & Ellis. He was regional counsel from 1988-91 for the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund. Before that he was assistant U.S. attorney for the Northern District from 1984-88 and an associate with Jenner & Block from 1979-84.

"The merit commissions have worked long and hard and have performed a superb public service for the people of Illinois by sending us outstanding candidates," the senators said in a statement.

Business Insurance

A new law that makes it easier for small business owners to purchase affordable health insurance coverage for their employees has been signed by Gov. Jim Edgar. House Bill 655 was strongly supported by the National Federation of Independent Business/Illinois, the state's largest business advocacy group with 21,000 members.

"In a General Assembly session that has been divided on many issues, this legislation passed both houses with the strong support of both political parties," said John R. Davis, NFIB/Illinois state director. "It offers small businesses the same flexibility as big firms that self-insure, thus exempting themselves from many costly, state-mandated health insurance coverages that have forced many small businesses from offering employees any health insurance coverage at all."

The new law eliminates a year-long time lapse between when a small business could cease its coverage under costly conventional health insurance plans and when it could purchase more basic insurance.

"Each new state-mandated health coverage provision has added another layer of cost, which has forced small businesses to increase deductibles, require higher co-payments from employees or cancel health insurance for employees altogether," Davis explained. "This new law gives small businesses more flexibility to develop affordable benefit packages that better meet the needs of their employees and families. Over two-thirds of Illinois small business owners already make employee health insurance coverage available. Of those who don't, nearly one-half cite the high cost as the primary reason."

"If a financially stressed business faces the difficult decision of dropping health coverage rather than adopting a more economical plan, this provision in the law offers a viable solution that helps the business continue health insurance protection for its employees and their families," Davis pointed out.

Prevention Programs

The Illinois Criminal Justice Information Authority is seeking proposals from local community groups in Chicago and south suburban Cook County for programs that will aid in community drug crime prevention efforts. Funding for programs will come from the proceeds of narcotics forfeitures. The four agencies providing funding are the Chicago Police Department, the Cook County Sheriff's Police Department, the Cook County State's Attorney's Office and the Illinois Attorney General's Office.

"These agencies are committed to using the profits of drug criminals to try to eliminate illegal drugs in our communities," said Dennis E. Nowicki, director of the authority. "When citizens become partners with local law enforcement, the chances for success in cleaning up drug-infested neighborhoods increase."

Funding for community organizations was made available based upon recommendations of a task force created by Senate Joint Resolution 113. The task force responded to local community organization's rising concerns of the affects of drug-related crime in their communities.

To be eligible for funding, community groups must be not-for-profit and have been in existence for at least three years. Grant funds can be used for materials and equipment only, not for personnel. Each organization may apply for an amount not to exceed $50,000. Proposals are due to the authority by Friday, Oct. 1st.

At least four of the programs funded will be located in the City of Chicago and one in south suburban Cook County.

A bidder's conference will be held on Thursday, Aug. 26th to assist those who have questions preparing their proposals. The conference is scheduled at the Illinois Department of Alcohol and Substance Abuse Offices in Chicago, Suite 5-600, in the James R. Thompson Center, 100 W. Randolph, at 3:30 p.m.

Proposals will be evaluated by a project oversight board. The 11-member board includes representatives from the authority, the Office of the Mayor of the City of Chicago, the Department of Alcoholism and Substance Abuse, the four contributing agencies and four representatives of local community groups.

The authority is the state agency responsible for criminal justice coordination and planning, research and development and administration of federal anti-crime funds.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

With Labor Day weekend less than a month away, we are anxious to once again remind your readers of the importance of using safety belts every time they go out in their vehicles. Education is a key component to reducing fatalities and injuries.

Statistics show that nationwide, 6.2 million motor vehicle crashes were reported by the police in 1992. More than 3 million persons were injured or killed in these crashes...an average of 107 deaths per day.

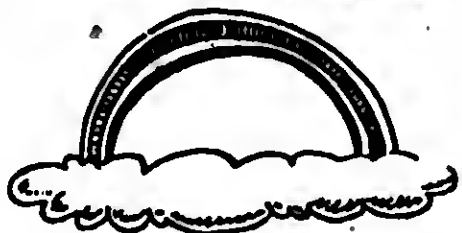

You can join with me in trying to change those figures. If we can save just one life by continuing to remind the public that it takes only a minute to buckle up and another minute to buckle their children in child safety seats, then our efforts will certainly be worthwhile.

Illinois' safety belt use has increased from 16 percent in 1985 before the law went into effect, to 66 percent today. We have made great strides, but we continue to need your help to spread the word. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Kirk Brown, Secretary
Illinois Department of Transportation

Taxes And Schools

The head of Illinois' largest taxpayer organization charged that the proposed hike in the state income tax to 13.3 percent to subsidize Chicago Public Schools would make the Illinois corporate income tax the highest in the nation (Pennsylvania's is 12.25 percent) and probably plunge the state's sluggish economy into a depression.

"The current state income tax on corporations is already oppressively high," said Jim Tobin, president of National Taxpayers United of Illinois (NTU). "The base corporate income tax of 4.8 percent, and the 'replacement tax' of 2.5 percent on top of the 4.8 percent, makes the current state tax burden for corporations 7.3 percent, a relatively high rate that discourages companies from moving to Illinois, and hinders Illinois companies from expanding and hiring new workers. According to the Tax Foundation, Illinois is already 12th highest among states regarding the number of days needed to pay off state, federal and local taxes."

"Noted economists Robert Genetski and John Skorburg have shown that a state increasing its relative tax burden by 1 percentage point will likely see its annual change in personal income fall 0.6 percent relative to other states. The full impact of the change takes place within three to four years."

"To close the enormous gap in the Chicago Public School budget, the three legislative leaders, James 'Pate' Philip (R-23, Wood Dale/Elmhurst), Lee Daniels (R-46, Elmhurst) and Emil Jones (D-14, Chicago) want to raise the base corporate income tax rate to 10.8 percent, which, when combined with the 2.5 percent replacement tax, would result in a staggering 13.3 percent corporate state income tax burden for Illinois corporations. They also would like to raise the personal state income tax from 3 percent to 6.75 percent. These increases very likely would plunge Illinois into a depression and increase the unemployment rate, currently over 7 percent."

"It is unconscionable for these legislative leaders to precipitate a state-wide depression in order to bail out a public school system that, despite its high salaries and lush benefits, still remains the worst public school system in the nation."

"I call upon organizations representing Illinois businesses to join Illinois taxpayers in opposing these destructive proposed increases in the corporate and individual state income tax rates."

NTU is the largest taxpayer organization in Illinois with over 10,000 members and affiliation with more than 300 local taxpayer groups and homeowner associations.

JTPA Proclamation

Whereas, the federally funded Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) is an effective program for assisting school dropouts, welfare recipients, unskilled adults, displaced homemakers, dislocated workers, and others who face serious barriers to employment;

Whereas, the members of Congress, the press and our community should be informed of the positive impact the JTPA has on the lives of our fellow citizens;

Whereas, JTPA Alumni individuals (who have successfully completed the program) who have overcome their barriers to employment and are now productive members of the community are the best advocates for the program;

Whereas, it is the desire of the President of the Cook County Board of Commissioners to recognize the achievements of JTPA Alumni and to support the program;

Therefore, be it resolved that the President hereby proclaims the month of August, 1993 as National JTPA Month and has caused the official seal of Cook County to be affected on this 31st day of July, 1993.

Law On Suicide

Legislation designed to prevent Michigan's Dr. Death, Jack Kevorkian, from practicing in Illinois has recently been signed into law by Governor Jim Edgar.

According to State Representative John Sheehy (D-Tinley Park), the bill he introduced in Springfield would criminalize the act of suicide assistance, and therefore preempt Kevorkian or any other "suicide doctor" from practicing in Illinois.

"The basis for this legislation is to tell doctors who are thinking about providing suicide machines to people that Illinois is not the place," Sheehy commented. "We certainly do not want to promote death devices in this state."

Under the legislation, current law which prohibits a person from inducing another to commit suicide would be expanded to include the physical means to commit suicide. This would include the suicide machine Kevorkian uses in his practice.

"Simply stated, this legislation modifies current law which prohibits one person from coercing another to take his or her life," Sheehy explained. "We are not setting some drastic public policy here, only strengthening a law previously passed."

The south suburban legislator noted that through bipartisan conferences with State Senators Bill Mahar and Dan Cronin, the bill was modified to exclude those under the Illinois Living Will and Health Surrogate Act.

"We wanted to discourage a message that Dr. Kevorkian seemed to have...that suicide is a rational escape. It isn't," Sheehy said. "But we also wanted to respect the rights and wishes of those people with living wills."

Alert For Motorists

By George H. Ryan

Obey school zone speed limits and follow the law when approaching stopped school buses. Children should obey pedestrian crosswalk signals and cross with an adult crossing guard whenever possible.

Q. When is the 20 mph school zone speed limit in effect?

A. Between 7 a.m. and 4 p.m. when children are present and signs are posted.

Torrens Deregistration By Mail

As part of his continuing effort to improve and expand services, effective immediately, Cook County Recorder of Deeds and Registrar of Titles Jesse White will accept Torrens deregistrations by mail. Any voluntary instrument (deeds, mortgages, assignments of mortgage, leases, grants of easements) affecting land registered under the Torrens system may be filed by mail and will automatically deregister the property.

White outlined requirements for this process, which makes it possible to conduct Torrens deregistration without the burden of traveling in person to the downtown office:

1) All parties in title on the Torrens certificate must be a party to the instrument being recorded or must have notice that the property is being deregistered.

All Points Southwest

WALTER H. LYSEN

Local Cable companies are struggling to implement the Cable Act of 1992 which in many respects is as bad as the divestiture of AT&T. From here it appears the majority of subscribers will pay more—opposite of what Congress predicted.

MetroVision of Southwest Cook County, which locally services Posen, Midlothian, Tinley Park, Blue Island, Crestwood, Worth, Hickory Hills and Palos Hills is among the first in our area to come forward with their implementation of the law.

MetroVision Manager Ron Murray says of their 88,000 subscribers perhaps 20,000 will enjoy a slight cost reduction. The other 68,000 will have slight increases.

Murray points to the 500 pages of extremely complex rules released by the FCC which must be interpreted and implemented by Sept. 1.

Murray says his company is running announcements in local papers and also informing subscribers of the change by mail so that each will understand the changes.

Struggling to make these changes for the deadline are 11,000 cable systems in the US with 57 million subscribers.

There is a big demand to buy single family homes in Crestwood...except there are none available...for good reason. Mayor Chester Stranczek this week announced that his original five year projection to refund all real estate taxes on single family homes will be shortened because sales tax revenue from the RiverCrest Shopping Centre and the "Winner's Circle" Off Track Betting Parlor are exceeding expectations and the period may be cut to four years. Stranczek said his original projection of refunding 20% each year for five years until all taxes are paid will be better this year and perhaps better each year in the future.

Midlothian Mayor Tom Murawski's 8th Annual Charity Golf Classic Monday was another success with two shotgun starts for golfers and over 230 for dinner. The event was held at Midlothian Country Club. Chairman Police Chief John Bittin says plans are underway now for the 1994 event.

49,000 parcels of Cook County property with a tax delinquency of two or more years will be auctioned off commencing Oct. 4, according to County Treasurer Edward J. Rosewell. It's the "Scavenger Sale" and will be held in the second floor of the County Building, 118 N. Clark St. and will run through Nov. 2. The last previous scavenger sale was held in 1991.

Rosewell cautioned that the sale is not a "get rich quick scheme" but can be a good investment. He urges potential bidders to thoroughly research properties before making a bid. Registration for the sale begins Sept. 3, and will require a $100 registration fee in order to make a bid at the sale.

Registration forms are available at all of the five suburban Cook County offices and at the Treasurer's office downtown.

The 49,000 parcels, with a tax delinquency of 267 million dollars, will be advertised in local and community newspapers next week.

Porkbusters Save Your Tax Dollars

By Congressman Harris W. Fawell, 13th District

The Porkbusters Coalition has cut billions of dollars in spending on pork barrel projects. Sometimes people don't realize that Porkbusters efforts also help all taxpayers get a fairer share of the taxes they send to Washington.

For instance, our coalition recently stopped passage of a spending bill which would have siphoned off $305 million from federal highway trust funds to finance 58 unauthorized pork barrel projects. Our alternative allows these funds to be distributed under existing formulas, according to existing laws, to all 50 states. The bottom line for Illinois is an additional $11,232,152 for highways instead of $3,900,000.

Here is what happened. In June, the House Appropriations Committee was ready to bring the 1994 Transportation Appropriation bill to the full House for consideration. The Committee's bill proposed spending $17 billion on highways in 1994 from the Highway Trust Fund. The Trust Fund is financed by the federal gasoline taxes you pay at the pump -- these taxes are considered user fees and are to be used only for highways and other transportation purposes. Almost $17 billion will be collected in gas taxes in 1994 for the Fund, and the Trust Fund has a "cash balance" of almost $10 billion from surpluses in previous years.

The money is distributed to all 50 states under a complex formula worked out in legislation enacted in 1990. The formula ensures that larger states, like Illinois which sends much more gas tax money to Washington than smaller states, get their fair share of the highway money.

For 1994, however, the House Appropriations Committee tried to "earmark" $305 million of this Highway Trust Fund money for a few projects in a few special states. The Chairman of the Appropriation Subcommittee of Transportation, who wrote the 1994 bill, steered $109 million -- more than one-third of the money -- to a single state: his home state of Michigan. Much of the rest of the money was earmarked for powerful members of leadership and those on the Appropriations Committee.

Upon learning of this "highway robbery," I drafted an amendment to the bill that would kill the $305 million in "earmarks" and put the funds back in the existing formula to be distributed to all of the states.

Normally, I would have attempted to simply cut the money from the bill. In this case, however, because these are trust fund monies derived from a special user fee (the gas tax), cutting the $305 billion would not actually reduce the federal deficit.

Under my amendment, 41 states would do better under my amendment than under the earmarked bill. Obviously, this is the case because Michigan would have walked off with so much of the money under the earmarked bill. Interestingly, even most states that had earmarked projects did better under my amendment. For example, the earmarked bill had two special projects for Illinois totalling $3.9 million. But under my amendment, Illinois would get over $11 million.

Seven of my colleagues cosponsored my amendment, and the Porkbusters Coalition got behind it. We notified every member of Congress and every Governors office about how our amendment impacted their state. It wasn't long before support for our amendment began to build.

The Chairman and ranking minority member of the House Public Works and Transportation Committee -- Congressman Mineta (CA) and Shuster (PA), respectively -- called me to ask if they could sponsor the amendment. Their Committee is the "authorizing" committee for highway funds, and it is responsible for the 1990 legislation setting up the formula for highway funding. And their sponsorship would give the amendment added support for passage on the House floor. It is therefore, their responsibility to champion the cause of fair distribution of highway trust funds.

Indeed, shortly thereafter the Appropriations Committee pulled the Transportation bill from the floor, knowing that our amendment would likely pass. They have yet to bring it up. They have now rewritten the bill, knocking out just one project, and splitting up the pork projects into 11 sections of the bill. We'll be ready for their bill when it is considered in September.

So Porkbusters, by stopping the practice of earmarking pork projects, not only saves tax dollars in many cases, but makes sure that what federal funds are spent are apportioned in a fair and equitable manner.

"Guns don't kill people. People kill people."

How many times in the escalating war on gun control have all of us heard the National Rifle Association (NRA) utter that statement.

Following the tragic killing of James Jordan, Michael Jordan's father, in what police like to call "another random killing," the focus has again been turned on the need for stricter gun control laws.

Immediately after the senseless killing of James Jordan, Jerry Krause, Chicago Bull general manager, tearfully pleaded at a press conference that something has to be done about the number of handguns in the hands of people in this country.

The Brady Bill calls for a five-day waiting period after someone decides to buy a gun. The waiting period is supposed to be used to check out the gun buyer's background to see if he or she has ever been arrested for a felony or has a history of mental illness.

Chicago Police Supt. Matt Rodriguez said the Brady Bill would have little effect in Illinois which already requires stricter background checks and waiting periods than the Brady Bill.

The fact of the matter is Chicago has prohibited handguns for more than a decade but in that period homicides and shootings with handguns have continued to escalate.

President Clinton has proposed a new anti-crime bill which would expand the number of crimes that would warrant the death penalty from one to 47. Already the anti-capital punishment forces are lobbying members of congress in an effort to defeat the measure.

Handguns in the hands of mentally unstable people was never more apparent than last week when Rachelle Renae Shannon, a 27-year-old housewife and mother of two teenagers from Grants Pass, Oregon, was jailed for attempted murder when she used a handgun to fire shots and wound a Wichita, Kansas abortion doctor, Dr. George Tiller, as he left his abortion clinic.

One of Shannon's daughters said her mother had joined the anti-abortion crusade after watching a videotape produced and distributed by a right to life group in their Oregon county.

Even a person with a room temperature IQ must realize that any bill or law that attempts to control the sale of handguns, AK assault rifles, machine guns, is not the answer to the violent spree of crimes in the United States. It's not the decent people who buy a handgun for protection or hunters or gun collectors we have to worry about, but the scumbags who can and do buy or steal handguns with only one thought in mind. They are going to use the gun to kill or injure somebody.

Laws and waiting periods are rules to be broken or completely ignored by the gun-toting parasites who prey on innocent people.

So what should we do?

A look around the world at countries with a very low homicide rate might be a beginning.

Foes of capital punishment like to argue that the 'eye-for-an-eye' justice system used in the Wild West days and still followed in many countries is not a deterrent to crime.

Try and use that argument in Saudi Arabia where public executions are going on today.

A person who commits a crime or kills or injures someone with a gun, is given his day in court and then paraded into the town square and executed in front of anyone who feels like taking a lunch or coffee break and watching. It is said some people even bring their children to the town square, kind of a family teach-in, to watch justice delivered in a way that has to leave a lasting impression.

Needless to say, not many goons, unless they are three cents short of a dime, grab a handgun in Saudi Arabia and decide they need some pocket change or a Rolex wristwatch, without knowing the consequences if they are caught.

China is another country that believes the punishment must suit the crime.

Not long ago two men robbed and killed the owner of a grocery store in China. The police caught them and they were convicted. Both were brought back to the street in front of the grocery store and the media was informed that justice was going to be performed. One of the convicted men was paraded out, shot and killed right in front of the grocery store as crowds watched and cameras clicked and whirled recording the event.

A reporter asked about the other man convicted in the robbery and slaying of the grocery store owner.

"Oh him," said a police officer, "he will be kept in jail for one year and exactly one year from the day he participated in the crime he will be brought to the sidewalk in front of the grocery store and executed."

"Kind of gives him as well as others a little time to think about the fate that is in store for people who randomly take an innocent person's life," the officer said.

The civil libertarians cry that capital punishment is not a deterrent to crime. Try and sell that argument in Saudi Arabia or China where a whole years homicide rate combined doesn't add up to one day of homicides or shootings in the United States.

The NRA may be partly right when they say, "Guns don't kill people. People kill people." But how about adding a line, "People who kill people with guns are killed by people with guns."

Charge Three In Murder

Three men, two Chicagoans and a Country Club Hills resident, have been arrested and charged with the July 3rd murder of Shellah Doyle, 40, of unincorporated Palos Township. On Sunday, Cook County Sheriff Michael Sheahan announced that Antwon M. Tyler, 22, of Chicago had been charged with the crime and on Monday, Marcus Gray, 16, of Chicago and 21 year old Gregory Jackson of Country Club Hills were charged. All three have been charged with first-degree murder and attempted robbery.

Investigators surmise Mrs. Doyle was targeted by the three because they wanted the hood of her black 1993 Toyota Camry, a car similar to one owned by Jackson's mother. A few days before the slaying, police said, Jackson and Tyler had accidentally fired a pistol and the bullet damaged Jackson's mother's car.

On the night of the 3rd, the three were on 95th St. near Little Company of Mary Hospital and spotted Doyle's car. She had left the hospital where she worked as a licensed practical nurse in the substance abuse unit, and was on her way home when the three apparently targeted her because of the similarity of the car.

Jackson, driving a red Dodge Daytona, and his two companions also noticed that Doyle was wearing gold jewelry they apparently intended to also steal. When Doyle got out of her car, she was approached by Tyler and Gray while Jackson waited in the car. The two grabbed Doyle and attempted to rob her, but she fought back. Doyle was forced into the trunk of her Toyota where she was shot once in the head. Apparently nothing was stolen since Doyle's purse, wallet and some cash were found in the car. Tyler, who is said to have fired the shot, and Gray fled the murder scene and left with Jackson.

A witness reported seeing a red car with a white stripe leaving the vicinity shortly after the crime. Jackson's Daytona is red with a gray stripe.

For starters, after all the lawyers have had their day in court over the two thugs who killed James Jordan, one of the murderers should be driven to the stretch of road in North Carolina where Jordan was taking a nap in his car, placed in the driver's seat and shot as people watch and the media records the event.

And then one year from the date, bring Jordan's car back to the same spot and put the other creep in the front seat and shoot him once in the heart at close range with a .38 caliber handgun.

The press was quick to point out there was no blood in Jordan's car when he was shot once in the heart and killed at close range so the news media wouldn't even have to edit the tape if justice was carried out in the same manner.

In fact, I think I'd pack a picnic basket and drive down to North Carolina. Hasta la vista!

William Doyle, 43, Shellah's husband, expressed disbelief that someone could take a person's life over the hood of a car.

Cook County State's Attorney Jack O'Malley said Monday that "all three suspects have given statements admitting their involvement."

Sheahan said that evidence gathered at the Doyle garage led investigators to Tyler, who was picked up on Friday and charged on Saturday. A fingerprint on Doyle's car reportedly belonged to Tyler and a handprint was said to have been Gray's.

Judge Thomas Carmody, Jr. set bond for Gray and Tyler at $1 million each, largely because of their criminal past. Gray was charged as an adult and prosecutors are attempting to seek the death penalty for Tyler, who allegedly fired the fatal shot.

Jackson's bond was set at $100,000.

Authorities said that Tyler did not point a finger at the other two, that evidence linked them to the crime. Police did not elaborate on the evidence.

"The message," O'Malley said, "is that violence can occur anywhere. The current wave of violence can reach anybody, anywhere."

Flu Shots Covered

Following new standards by the federal government, influenza vaccines will now be covered through Medicare. "We are encouraging all Medicare recipients to use their private providers this year in order to alleviate the long waits at our clinics," said Dr. Karen Scott, Cook County Department of Public Health director. "As a matter of face, people should start making appointments now." Flu season traditionally hits the Midwest during December and January; however, immunizations are recommended in early fall to ensure effective protection.

"This new program will allow the health department to focus on increasing outreach to populations that should get a shot but traditionally do not," said Cook County Board President Richard J. Phelan. These populations include African-Americans, Hispanics and young people with chronic conditions.

Influenza, commonly known as the flu, is a viral infection of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs and can make a person ill. The flu can be particularly dangerous for the elderly and the chronically ill because of the potential for serious medical complications such as pneumonia.

1990 census statistics show that there are 270,000 suburban Cook County residents over the age of 65. In 1992, the health department provided over 15,000 shots, 90 percent to residents 65 and older.

Sheahan Tells Tighter Security At Courthouses

In an ongoing effort to tighten security in the courtrooms of Cook County, Sheriff Michael F. Sheahan unveiled new state-of-the-art scanning equipment and announced he is stepping up random security checks of personnel and employees entering court buildings. According to Sheahan, the moves are prompted by an upturn in attempts by individuals to bring weapons, drugs or other contraband into court facilities. Over the last 19 months, 34 guns have been confiscated and 34 arrests of people attempting to bring guns into the courts have been made.

MICHAEL F. SHEAHAN

"It is a daily occurrence for sheriff's deputies to confiscate contraband people attempt to bring into court facilities, even though they know they must pass through metal detectors and subject to a search," Sheahan said. "This type of cavalier behavior has prompted us to provide additional safeguards. We feel constant vigilance is the key to preventing incidents in our courts."

To aid in this goal, Sheahan announced the sheriff's office has purchased eight sophisticated electronic scanners to search bags, briefcases and other belongings of people entering the courts.

The 'E-Scan' machines make explosives, weapons and drugs more identifiable by highlighting them in different colors on a viewing screen monitored by a deputy sheriff. The technology is the same that will be installed in the new international terminal at Chicago's O'Hare Airport.

In addition, the sheriff's office has purchased a testing and training model machine that will provide training for deputies and also allow testing of the system through simulation. Sheahan also announced that the sheriff's office will subject employees and personnel assigned to court facilities to random entrance security checks. This includes employees, attorneys and members of the media.

"We realize that some see this as an inconvenience, but it is being done in the interest of public safety. We will conduct the checks at random at the discretion of our facility supervisors," he said.

Sheahan cited an example that occurred May 21st at the Criminal Courts building when a cook in the cafeteria entered the building with a gun and robbed a cashier.

"No equipment or policy can be 100 percent fool-proof, but we hope these measures will raise awareness and remind people that if they attempt to bring illegal contraband into the courts, they will face the consequences," Sheahan said.

In area facilities scheduled to receive Linescan machines, the 5th District Court, Bridgeview, screens approximately 1,527 individuals daily. The 6th District facility, Markham, screens about 2,748 daily. For comparison, the Criminal Court Building, 26th and California, screens some 3,523 a day and about 8,326 are screened at the Richard J. Daley Center in Chicago's Loop.

Meeting The Legal Deadline

State Sen. Patrick O'Malley (R-Palos Park) is sponsoring legislation that creates strong incentives for state lawmakers to adjourn by the deadline stipulated in the Illinois Constitution.

"The General Assembly routinely misses its Constitutional adjournment date of June 30, even if only by a day or two. In fact, the Legislature has met its deadline only five times in the last 25 years -- in 1969, 1970, 1971, 1972 and 1990," O'Malley said. "This year, we adjourned nearly two weeks late because of budget haggling, although I credit legislative leaders with sending rank-and-file members home until the issues were ready to be called for a vote. That saved taxpayers quite a bit of money."

"However, based on my first year's experience, I believe such delays are unnecessary. The General Assembly has plenty of time to complete its works by June 30, so we have proposed a few incentives -- eliminate the required three-fifths vote after June 30 and cut off legislative per diems after June 30," O'Malley said.

"Adjournment was delayed this year because of major philosophical differences in the way our limited state revenues should be spent. The extra days were spent hammering out a compromise, but there was some stalling to carry the vote past June 30, when a three-fifths majority is needed to pass any legislation," O'Malley said. "A three-fifths majority requires an additional six votes to pass a bill, and the price that is exacted for the additional votes can be very substantial."

The 18th District Senator is cosponsoring legislation,

Senate Joint Resolution/Constitutional Amendment 81, that would amend the Illinois Constitution to delete the three-fifths vote now required to pass legislation after the June 30 adjournment date. If the resolution is adopted by both the Senate and House of Representatives, the question would be put to voters on the November 1994 ballot.

The chief sponsor of the resolution is State Sen. Ralph Dunn (R-DuQuoin), who was one of the delegates at the 1970 Constitutional Convention when the three-fifths requirements was added.

"The intent of the Constitutional Convention was to make the majority requirement so foreboding that it would compel the General Assembly to finish the work and be out of Springfield by July 1 each year," Dunn said. "Instead, the requirement has unintentionally allowed the minority parties in both chambers to misuse their increased power and make unreasonable demands at the expense of the taxpayers. We owe it to ourselves, the taxpayers and the Constitutional Convention of 1970 to correct the misuse of the rules and stop this injustice."

O'Malley is also cosponsoring Senate Bill 1112, which would eliminate legislative per diems after June 30.

"After living out of suitcases for several months, most legislators are just anxious to get back to their districts and their families," O'Malley said. "Unfortunately, getting home has not been incentive enough. Hopefully, the thought of covering their expenses out of pocket should do the trick."

New Law Defines Nexus

Illinois printing companies will remain competitive with printers in other states, under a new law co-sponsored by State Sen. Patrick O'Malley (R-Palos Park).

Signed recently by Gov. Jim Edgar, House Bill 1166 clarifies nexus (business presence) in Illinois.

"This legislation addresses a problem that seems to be unique to a business that is a major employer in Illinois," O'Malley said. "Commercial printing companies like R.R. Donnelley, which has three printing facilities in Illinois, have been affected by a rather vague provision of the law that defines nexus as any physical presence in Illinois. Once nexus is established, a business is liable for income, sales and use taxes."

The 18th District Senator says printing companies have encountered difficulties when they contract with out-of-state catalog companies.

"Most catalogs require a specific type of paper so the catalog company generally sends its own supply of paper to the printer," O'Malley said. "According to current law, the paper sent to the Illinois printer could be interpreted as constituting a 'business presence' for an out-of-state catalog company, which would then make it liable for Illinois taxes."

"Concern about the uncertainty of Illinois' nexus definition was cited as the reason a recent L.L. Bean catalog printing order went to a South Carolina company. This change is needed to help Illinois' commercial printing companies remain competitive and keep their doors open," O'Malley said. "I strongly supported this legislation because it is consistent with my goal to keep jobs in Illinois."

Introduced by State Sen. Harry "Babe" Woodyard (R-Chrisman), the new law has an effective date of Jan. 1st, 1994.

Annual Library Activity Report

In his annual report to the Oak Lawn Library Board of Trustees, William Goodfellow, department head, noted that the number of questions asked at the Oak Lawn Library's reference desk during the past year totaled 71,017. The average number of questions handled each day including four-hour days was 211. The highest count was on Monday, Nov. 30th, when one question was asked every minute and 39 seconds for a total of 435. The lowest was on Saturday, June 19th when there were only 45 questions.

On the average, more questions were asked during the 1 to 5 p.m. shift (93) with the 5 to 9 p.m. shift next (87). The morning shift averaged 74.

Goodfellow reported that other activities included conducting tours for groups from local high schools, local community colleges, Cub Scouts and Christ Hospital Vocational Service. The department indexed the 1992 issues of four local newspapers including the Oak Lawn Independent. The minutes of the Oak Lawn planning and development board, 1958-1992, were microfilmed also.

Goodfellow said that the career center has been successful as a resource for those who are seeking jobs and looking for career changes. Attendance in this area has been much higher than was anticipated.

In regular library business, the board approved payment of bills for $42,285 for library materials, $42,005 for general operating expenses and $185,491 for personnel. A proposed 1994 budget was approved for presentation to the village board.

Varsity Football Coach Named

Thomas Ondra, acting principal at St. Laurence High, announced that Robert DeCarlo, 41, has been named as the school's head varsity football coach. DeCarlo replaces Bob Padjen who resigned last month. DeCarlo enters his 16th season at St. Laurence. He has been a varsity assistant coach for the past 14 years, most recently serving as offensive coordinator and assistant head coach.

"This step is a dream come true," DeCarlo said as his appointment became official. "I'm very honored to say the least, it's been a long wait, but very well worth it," he said. "With the young men that we presently have in the program, and the solid ground that Bob left the program on, it should be an easy transition. The overall strengths of the program as I see them are the kids and their backgrounds, our staff, and the ability to continue the excellent tradition here."

DeCarlo has one immediate goal, "I think it's important to earn the respect of the student-athletes as quickly as possible. The faster we get on the same page, the better. The transition period will have to be a quick one so we can devote our efforts to football."

DeCarlo is not concerned on the imprint that will mark his program, but he did hint on what kind of team he hopes the Vikings will be. "I've been an offensive coach all my life. We will be a balanced offensive team. I hope to open things up a bit more. Defensively, we're going to stick to playing St. Laurence defense. There's no need to change what is stable and in place."

"I've learned from the best. Mike O'Neill, former St. Laurence head coach and current coach at Andrew; Bob Fabrizio, former St. Laurence and Elmhurst College head coach, currently Stagg H.S. assistant coach, and Bob Padjen, who resigned to become an assistant coach at Thornton Fractional South H.S., are some of the best in the business. I hope to put all of that tutelage to good use," he remarked.

"My appraisal of this team at this point is one of guarded optimism. We have a very spirited group, with a lot of desire. Our ability is good, and the fact that we're coming off of a championship in our summer passing league should prove to be some kind of rallying point," he concluded.

Swimming Benefits Your Health

Swimming is one of the best ways you can get in shape and control your weight. Better yet, you can help reduce your risk for heart disease, according to the American Heart Association (AHA). Physical inactivity is a major risk factor for heart disease and obesity is a contributing factor for heart disease. Thus, the AHA suggests you exercise moderately or vigorously for 30 to 60 minutes, three to four times a week. Besides swimming, you can walk briskly, jog or run, play racquetball, tennis, bicycle or take an aerobics class.

Just being active can help your heart. You can also take up low-intensity activities such as walking for pleasure, gardening, vigorous housework and dancing. Just do them regularly.

Aerobic exercises also help you get more energy; increase your stamina and resistance to fatigue; improve your self-image; relieve tension; help you relax and sleep; and tone muscle.

If you swim, you reap a few special benefits: you will put less stress on your bones, joints and muscles because of the cushioning effect of water; you strengthen and tone your major muscles, including legs, arms and back; and you can avoid the discomfort of ailments such as arthritis because your body won't endure too much stress.

It's best to see a doctor before you start regular swim workouts. This is especially the case if you're older than 40 and if you're primarily sedentary, or you have high blood pressure, heart disease or other medical conditions.

If you can't swim, contact local colleges, parks and recreation departments or health clubs for a class. It's a lesson worth learning. You can also call your local American Heart Association or dial 1(800)AHA-USA1 (1(800)242-8721).

Vikings Champs

The St. Laurence Vikings won their own summer passing league recently to begin the Bob DeCarlo era in St. Laurence football. The Vikings defeated De La Salle in the championship game in triple overtime. Participating schools in the 9-team league were Thornton, Andrew, T.F. South, Reavis, Morton, Argo, Stagg, De La Salle and the host Vikings. The league featured a 7 on 7 format, and no running plays were allowed. Each team played five games in no equipment and there was no contact allowed.

Standouts for the Vikings included quarterback Keith Schuch, captain Pete Lotus who will play defensive back and receiver in the fall, and captain Aldo Aranda who appears to be the leading candidate at the tailback position.

Jared Camer was one of the top receivers in the league and captain and inside linebacker Joe Spano intercepted a pass to end the championship game and preserve the championship for the Vikings.

Car-Train Races

Time is running out for the Car Train engineers as Santa Fe Speedway hosts the always-unpredictable Car Train Races on Friday, Aug. 27th. Also on tap, Sportsman, Lightning Rod and S.T.A.R. cars battling on the quarter-mile. Gates open at 6 p.m., time trials at 7 p.m. and the trains pull out at 8 p.m.

This is the fourth and final round of this exciting event before the Car Train National Championship in September.

Debuting in 1991 at Santa Fe Speedway, Car Train Racing involves a single driver piloting a "Train" of three cars chained together around a precarious figure-eight course. As many as eight teams compete at a time causing a virtual auto-junkyard in the middle of the track.

In the hotly contested Sportsman division, Ted Loomis is beginning to distance himself from the rest of the field. The Genoa resident currently holds a forty-nine point lead over his brother, Jim Loomis Jr., of Kirkland.

Defending champion, Elmer Fandrey of Lemont continues his domination of the Lightning Rod division.

Last year's S.T.A.R. division champion, Don Darrow looks to retain his title this season.

"EXCEPTIONAL CHILDREN" ENJOY FISHING EXPERIENCE - It was a heart-warming and rewarding opportunity to assist in the "Second Annual Fishing Outing" for residents of ST. COLETTA'S OF ILLINOIS. This event is organized by the Orland Park KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS COUNCIL 10858.

This fishing outing afforded 27 young people 15-21 years of age an afternoon of supervised fishing on an Orland Park pond. I worked with "JASON" and "MIKE," baited their hooks with worms or grubs and removed the fish for them to release, explaining the concept of CATCH AND RELEASE assuring them that those fish would be larger next year.

These young boys and girls were so excited with catching and releasing fish that it was a real problem getting them to break for a cook-out lunch.

VALERIE WANG is the Resident Recreation Therapist at St. Coletta's and indicated these young people talked about this upcoming event and will talk about it for months including typical numbers and sizes of fish they caught and, like most fisherpersons, there will be some exaggeration.

St. Coletta's (you may remember it as the Joseph P. Kennedy school for exceptional children) is located in Palos Park and provides on and off-site housing, care and training for these "very special" folks.

WAYNE YOUNG coordinated this outing for the KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS, the Orland Park police and fire departments were on hand to assist if needed.

In addition to many volunteers, WAYNE wanted to give credit to the following contributors: McDonalds; Dees Bait Shop; Ace Hardware; Bob Shirley Sports; Walmart; Ginny's Mobile; Taylor Rental; Portable-John, Inc.; Hot Dogs, Chicago Style and Outdoor columnist Duke O'Malley.

Oak Lawn Infant Electrocuted

A 12-day-old boy was apparently electrocuted while hooked up to an apnea monitor, a device which identified breathing abnormality in infants. Stratton Vasilakos, son of Diane and George Vasilakos of Oak Lawn, died at approximately 10:36 a.m. on Monday at Christ Hospital and Medical Center.

County Medical Examiner Dr. Edmund Donoghue said, "It appears to be a tragic accident. There's no doubt the death was by electrocution."

The apnea monitor is used to identify breathing and heart patterns in infants, according to the hospital. Dr. Donoghue said that the infant suffered from neither of the problems, but did have low blood sugar and was hooked up to the monitor in case problems did develop.

Christ Hospital issued a prepared statement which said "the death may be related to use of an apnea monitor," but stressed that "it is not yet known with any degree of certainty what caused the death."

Dr. Donoghue said the investigation is focusing on three possibilities: that the outlet was incorrectly wired, that the monitor was defective or malfunctioned, or that there was a procedural problem in the monitor's use and it was not used correctly. The monitor had three electrodes, two attached to the chest and the third to the abdomen. The infant had burns on his chest from the electrodes.

George Gates, attorney for the family, said that a lawsuit is planned but that they are waiting to see who was at fault before filing the suit.

Incorrect Test Results

LifeSource Blood Services, the largest blood donor organization in the Chicago area, is planning to send letters to 2,000 of its donors. The letter donors are to be asked to go to a LifeSource laboratory and discuss screening tests which incorrectly indicated that the donors were infected with HIV, the virus that can cause AIDS. The tests were in error when they reacted to something in the donor's blood as if it were HIV.

The problem is with the quick, cheap Elisha screening test, however, positive results are always checked by a second test with a more accurate indication.

LifeSource followed the correct procedure and sent the questionable blood to Abbott Laboratories. A more reliable, more expensive test, the Western Blot, determined that the blood was not infected.

Until 1983, LifeSource officials, like those at many blood banks, did not inform donors about inaccurate test results although people actually infected with the HIV virus were always notified immediately.

Donors who had the inaccurate testing continued to donate blood which could not be used for most purposes, although it was healthy blood, according to Federal Drug Administration (FDA) regulations.

In most cases, the blood was disposed of and for five or six years, LifeSource discarded most of the blood given by the approximately 2,000 donors. In that time, some one million individuals donated blood.

This year, LifeSource, under a new FDA program, began telling donors about the inaccurate testing, and the follow-up test that showed the blood was, in fact, healthy.

Last month, LifeSource initiated a six-month plan by which the 2,000 individuals who had faulty tests between 1987 and 1992 are to be contacted and the error explained.

GOP Meeting

One such group is the Evergreen Park Regular Republican Organization which holds its first meeting of 1993-94 on Wednesday, Sept. 1st. The meeting is at the Hamilton B. Maher Community Center, 3450 W. 97th St., at 8 p.m.

Selected as members of the board of directors were Jeff Layhe, Worth Township GOP Committeeman; Tony Bejcek and June Cawley.

Care Safety Belts Reduce Injury Risk

When worn correctly, lap and shoulder belts reduce the risk of fatal or serious injury to frontseat passengers by 50 percent. To enforce the use of safety belts in their towns, all south suburban police departments are joining with the South Suburban Regional Traffic Safety Program to participate in Operation Buckle Down, the national Labor Day safety belt campaign.

"As the summer draws to a close, we will continue to remind drivers of the life-saving importance of wearing their safety belts and urge them to take time to buckle their children in safety seats and safety belts," Karen Hoffschmidt, project coordinator for the South Suburban Regional Traffic Safety Program, stated.

"Drivers who only use their safety belts for long trips on the interstate must note that 75 percent of all crashes occur within 25 miles of home on roads where the posted speed limits are 45 mph or less," Hoffschmidt continued.

"If everyone would take the extra minute to buckle up, and to place their children in approved safety seats, so many more lives would be saved," Michael Whitter, National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, Region 5 coordinator, encouraged. "We are looking forward to a safe holiday weekend and once again remind everyone to buckle up."

Operation Buckle Down is sponsored by the South Suburban Regional Traffic Safety Program and all south suburban police departments, in conjunction with the Illinois Department of Transportation/Division of Traffic Safety and the U.S. Department of Transportation/National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Census Bureau To Conduct SIPP Survey

Local representatives of the U.S. Census Bureau are to visit selected area households beginning on Wednesday, Sept. 1st, to conduct the Survey of Income and Program Participation (SIPP), Stanley D. Moore, director of the bureau's Chicago regional office, announced. SIPP, a continuing nationwide survey introduced in the fall of 1983, is one of the nation's largest, with about 60,000 households participating.

The Census Bureau publishes periodic reports with information from the survey. Subjects covered include jobs and earnings; the economic effects of unemployment, disability and retirement; how taxes affect personal spending; and participation in programs such as Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid, food stamps and pension plans.

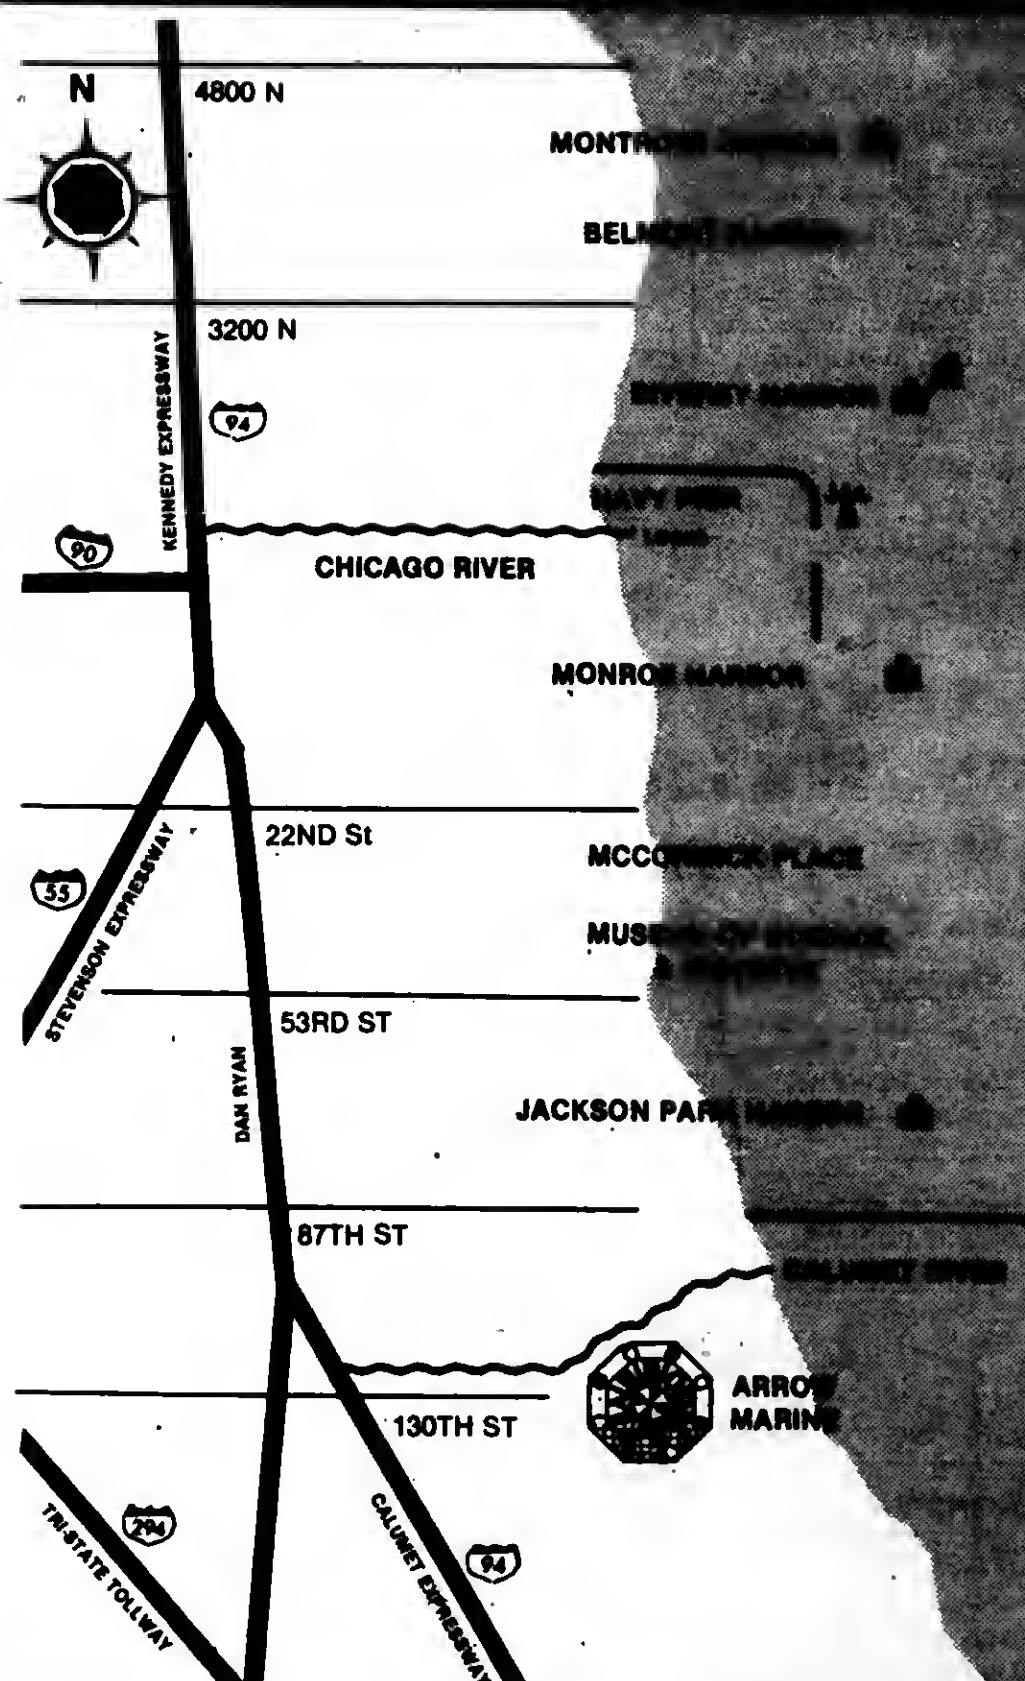

Information from SIPP helps policy makers and administrators determine how well government programs are serving the public and how changes in programs and policies will affect the public.

Here are some facts about persons and their health insurance between 1987 and 1990, based upon findings from the survey. The sample size limits accurate reporting to national figures only. Twenty-one percent of all U.S. residents, approximately 50 million, lacked health insurance for at least a month during 1987; the average monthly total of uninsured persons in the final quarter of 1990 was 13 percent of the population or about 32 million; 28 percent of men lacked continuous health insurance between 1987 and 1989, compared with 25 percent of women because of higher levels of Medicaid and Medicare coverage among women.

Other findings include, 46 percent of Hispanics lacked insurance for at least a month between 1987 and 1989 while among racial groups, the percentages lacking insurance for at least a month were 40 percent for African Americans and 24 percent for Whites. Also, private health insurance covered 91 percent of Whites and about 75 percent of African Americans and Hispanics for at least one month between 1987 and 1989. One-half of persons aged 18 to 21 had no insurance for a month or more. For those aged 25 to 44, 73 percent had continuous coverage compared with 82 percent of those aged 45 to 64, and 99 percent of those aged 65 and over.

Library Card Sign-Up

It's small enough to carry in your wallet, powerful enough to change your life. It's free of charge and simple to get; it's a library card. This card is so valuable that we wonder why everyone doesn't have one. And that's the goal for 'Library Card Sign-Up Month' sponsored by the American Library Association this September, to put a library card in every adult's billfold and in every youngsters backpack or pocket.

For children, a library card is a passport to fun and adventure. It's also the key to developing a curious mind and a love of reading that will serve them throughout their lives. For adults, a library card is the key to lifelong learning. Library cards provide every member of the family with opportunities to lead happier, healthier, more productive lives.

Parents can find books and other materials that help them improve family relationships, communicate better with their teenagers and deal positively with traumatic experiences, such as death and divorce. Seniors will find programs and services to help them stay strong in mind, body and spirit.

In uncertain economic times, you may find your library card the most practical card in your wallet. It can help you learn how to write a resume, re-tool for a new career, start a small business, find scholarships. A library card opens the door to money-saving tips on grocery shopping and household management, right down to recipes and home repair.

There is no more valuable community resource than the library. If you're not already taking advantage of all this "know how," we urge you to get a library card today, and what's more important to use it often. Call or stop by your library today, it could change your life!

Born and raised on Chicago's north side, as a teenager in World War II Sakowicz founded and published a newsletter chronicling neighborhood happenings and sent it to the servicemen from the area. The "Sakowicz Jug" eventually averaged 48 pages per issue and a readership of over 3,000. The publication is now housed in the U.S. Library of Congress.

Having received much local notoriety for his efforts on behalf of his neighborhood's servicemen, Sakowicz was interviewed on radio more than 150 times. This gave him the 'bug' and he decided to try it from the other side of the microphone. He has been a popular figure on the radio scene ever since. At one time in the '50s and '60s, he appeared on four different radio stations at the same time. Due to the popularity of his shows, promoters made it a point to have their stars appear on his programs.

The 'Sakowicz voice' also has been utilized for documentaries, the most notable being "Call Out the Guard" about the Illinois National Guard. The Pentagon was so favorably impressed, it directed that a copy be sent to every state.

Having hosted many telethons and charity events, Sakowicz is most proud of having emceed Chicago's televised Vietnam Veterans Parade and Desert Storm Parade. Many honors have been bestowed on Sakowicz and among those he treasures the most are his being named 'Man of the Year' by both the U.S. Marine Corps and U.S. Air Force Association.

In 1988, the Chicago Historical Society asked Sakowicz for his papers and files so that they could be preserved for posterity.

The "Taste of Polonia" festival runs from Sept. 2nd through 6th at the Copernicus Center. Senior citizens will be admitted free on opening day. For details, call (312) 777-8898.

Free Band Concert

Geis & Crossen Monument Co., Inc. has announced a free outdoor old-fashioned Austrian Band Concert on Sunday, Sept. 12th, to celebrate the 98th anniversary of the families of Geis and Crossen in the manufacture and sale of granite monuments for placement in cemeteries throughout the Chicago and suburban areas. Wagner's Jolly Gang Band, comprised of eight members under the direction of Eddie Wagner, will provide the music. The concert starts at 1 p.m. and continues for three hours under a tent in the monument display area at 3319 W. 91st St., at Spaulding Ave.

The purpose is to say "Thank You" to the many patrons and friends of the monument company. This will be the 10th annual concert provided by the company.

Jacob Geis, grandfather of Bob Crossen, president, founded the family business in 1895. The company designs and makes monuments in granite, bronze or a combination of both for placement in all cemeteries at the direction of the lot owner.

The company also completes dates on or adds names to existing monuments. Cleaning of memorials is also a specialty.

POLICE CALLS

The following incidents were reported by the Oak Lawn Police Department. Readers are reminded that an arrest by police does not constitute a finding of guilt and only a court of law can make that determination.

On Aug. 13th, Alan J. Sprandel, 20, of Oak Lawn was arrested and charged with resisting a police officer and leaving a bike in the roadway. Sprandel was arrested after he refused to pick up his bike from the street where he left it after he had been told to bring it to the squad car. Sprandel and three other youths had been seen by the officer riding their bikes in the middle of 95th St. and when the officer requested they move to the side of the street because of heavy traffic, three obeyed but Sprandel kept riding in the middle of the lane. He was stopped at 95th and Massasoit, was uncooperative, and was told he was obstructing justice by giving a false name and other information and when instructed to put the bike into the trunk of the car, Sprandel became angry, threw the bike on the ground and attempted to walk away. He was charged and brought to the station.

Linda B. Smith and Valerie Malone, both of Chicago, were charged with retail theft after the security agent for Dot's Clothing, 8720 S. Cicero, saw them putting merchandise in their purses. They were stopped outside the store and Malone admitted having items in her purse. Smith had $50 worth of merchandise and Malone had $70 worth of merchandise, all recovered.

Robert Mazingo of Bridgeview was charged with assault and possession of cannabis. Police found 6.2 grams of cannabis on his person.

Lisa A. Kuzmicki of Hometown reported she had left her vehicle at Pete George's Chevrolet, 95th and Cicero, for repair on July 29th and when she came to pick it up on Aug. 13th, found her Clarion AM/FM cassette radio had been removed. It was valued at $500.

Fay Pappas of Oak Lawn reported that while her car was parked at 9506 S. Austin at 8 a.m., she discovered someone had poured an unknown substance on the hood and front driver's side quarter panel. The substance stained and damaged the vehicle's paint. Estimated cost to repair is $500.

Richards High School, 10601 S. Central, reported someone had taken walkie-talkie portable radios from three different rooms. They are valued at $600 each for a loss of $1,800.

On the 16th, Theresa Harding of Justice reported she had parked her 1992 Toyota in the rear lot at 4234 W. 95th St. and persons unknown keyed the hood and driver's side quarter panel for estimated damage of $300.

Terry Jutton of Worth reported the theft of his 1993 Ford Probe, valued at $13,000. He told police he was to be hospitalized for 30 days and had parked his car in Oak Lawn because it is where his family resides.

On the 18th, Roy Holmes of Chicago was seen by the security agent at K-Mart, 4104 W. 95th St., entering the men's department, allegedly taking three pairs of men's slacks and placing them in his pants. He then went to another section and removed four silk shirts from their hangers and rolled them up and put them inside his socks. He was stopped outside the store and charged with retail theft. $164.93 worth of merchandise was recovered.

Cedric Jones, an employee at Saxon Paints, 5807 W. 95th St., told police a male black entered the store and asked for some turpentine. He was told where it was located. He left and stood in the vestibule where he was joined by a white man and they entered the store. The black offender lifted his shirt, displayed a handgun and directed Jones to clean out the register and the white offender ordered Melodee Bumberger to open the safe in the office. She got Jones who knew the combination and he removed approximately $800 from the safe, for a total loss of $1,000.

Stanley Shlebek, owner of Stan's Car Care, 6801 W. 87th St., told police that someone removed four tires with rims from a customer's car which was parked at the north side of the lot on 87th St.

Celebrity Batboy

Thirteen-year-old Steve Jones of Oak Lawn won a special sweepstakes that entitled him to be the Milk Duds Celebrity Batboy for the Chicago White Sox game on Aug. 6th versus the California Angels.

As Celebrity Batboy, Steve got the opportunity to watch batting practice before the park was open to the public, enjoyed a cook-out in the patio area and received a tour of the park. This VIP White Sox experience included a photo with White Sox pitcher Donn Pall plus a pre-game ceremony on-field in which he was recognized through a scoreboard and public address announcement.

Steve also received White Sox souvenirs including a jersey, bat, ball, certificate and autographs from some of the players. He then enjoyed the game with relatives in complimentary box seats.

"This is awesome. I can't believe I got so many autographs," said Steve.

Steve will be a freshman this fall at Marist High School. He plays baseball for the Oak Lawn Pony League Cardinals. He also plays hockey, golf and football. His favorite player is Frank Thomas and he looks forward to seeing many more Sox games and home runs hit by the "Big Hurt" this season.

A Tentative Contract

Reading Energy, developers of the proposed $300 million Robbins waste-to-energy incinerator, and negotiators for 18 south and southwest suburbs have tentatively agreed on a contract by which these communities would send their waste material to the facility. The plan now goes to the 18 municipalities for review.

The tentative contract, agreed to last week, contains a $48.50 per ton cost to those communities that sign the agreement. Reading has not indicated how many suburban cities and villages would have to sign the agreement before construction of the incinerator, proposed for 133rd and Kedzie, could begin.

Under the proposal, participating communities would not have to guarantee a minimum tonnage, a requirement of most incinerators. Also, the incinerator operators would share the costs of any 'tipping fee' increase; the cost per ton of the garbage which might result from such variables as revision of pollution control standards, which might force purchase of new equipment.

According to Jeff Tangel, a spokesman for SCCBAC (South Cook County Environmental Action Coalition), the proposal will stick participating municipalities with millions of dollars of extra costs. He said that the $48.50 a ton cost is scheduled to increase by four percent or more per year.

This, according to Tangel, could mean a 16 percent increase in tipping fees, to $56 a ton by 1997, the year the 1,600-ton-a-day incinerator is expected to be operational.

Reading officials pointed out that even if not enough south and southwest communities sign on with the Robbins incinerator, they are certain enough garbage is generated in the Chicago area to insure a profit.

"SOFTNESS" IS NOT COMFORT

Your posture can make quite a difference where your health is concerned. That's why you should avoid "posture traps."

Soft, sagging chairs. Soft, lumpy mattresses. Low feet-in-front auto seats. Chairs with no backs, or backs that make you sit too rigidly. These are just a few examples of furniture that can put your body out of whack. Result: fatigue, irritability, muscle strain, unhealthy pressure on nerve centers.

Softness is not comfort. A chair or mattress should be firm enough to properly support your spine and all the muscles and joints in your body. A chair that's too soft, for example, can crowd your abdomen, press against your chest cavity, and interfere with the healthy functioning of your body. The true test of chair comfort is being able to sit for long periods without feeling fatigue or unwelcome pressures on any part of your body.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

The murder of James Jordan has brought with it the usual cries for gun control to protect us from such examples of random violence. But the real lesson here is that the problem lies not with our revolvers but with our revolving door justice system.

Larry Martin Demery was under indictment for hitting a convenience store clerk in the face with a cinderblock, all to get a total of $7 from her purse. When Wilma Dial saw him in the Robeson County, N.C. courtroom ten months after her attack, she observed: "If he had been in jail (for my case), this wouldn't have happened."

Similarly, Daniel Andre Green had been paroled after serving only 2 years of a 6-year prison term for assault in which he hit a man in the head with an ax, leaving the victim in a coma. Robeson County District Attorney Richard Townsend dryly noted, in an observation that applies nationwide: "Most of our business is repeat business."

In December 1991, there were 530,000 people on parole and 2.7 million on probation - 3.2 million criminals walking the streets. Nationally, thirty percent of all murders, 25 percent of all rapes and 40 percent of all robberies are committed by people out on bail, probation or parole.

Former Attorney General William Barr points out that more than 6,500 murders are committed each year by criminals on bail, parole or probation. Today criminals serve an average of only 27 percent of the sentence imposed on them.

Professor Morgan O. Reynolds of Texas A&M University, in a study for the National Center for Policy Analysis, found that since 1950 the risk of punishment to a serious criminal offender has declined by two-thirds, while the annual number of crimes has increased sevenfold.

As most potential crime victims are aware, the problem is with our revolving door justice system, not with our revolvers. Murderers usually have prior criminal records, typically violent crimes. Between 1980 and 1986, individuals with criminal records accounted for 87 percent of all murders in Chicago. Murder tends to be the culmination of a personal history of violent criminal actions - not the result of a law-abiding, stable person suddenly going berserk.

The reason we are deluged by a tidal wave of fear and violence in America is that crime pays. Crime, in fact, is attractive because, simply put, the criminal's cost of doing business - his risk of being arrested, tried and convicted and doing a substantial amount of jail time - is low relative to the potential economic gains.

Sincerely,
Daniel John Sobieski

Health Insurance Reform Facts

Obtaining affordable health insurance in America is easy, if you can first prove that you won't ever get sick. It's not supposed to be that way.

Originally, health insurance companies made policies affordable by practicing community rating, in which they spread their risk among a large number of people in a region, both the healthy and the sick. The insurer gambled that in a large, diverse population more people would remain healthy than become ill and that the premiums would more than offset the claims. Few insurers think that way today.

Instead, many insurance companies now are hedging their bets by engaging in a practice known as "cherry-picking." They profit by selecting only the healthiest people to insure and offering those people the lowest rates. So-called "higher risks" need not apply or they must be willing to accept restrictions on coverage and exorbitant premiums.

The entire health insurance industry has been skewed by the companies that skim the best health risks. Some insurers have been left with a disproportionate share of less healthy individuals and as a result, some insurance companies are facing financial ruin.

As our political leaders begin the task of reforming the nation's health care system, priority must be given to insurance reform.

Insurers must be required to accept all applicants without consideration of pre-existing conditions. They must not be allowed to drop individuals or groups because of medical problems. And insurers must not be allowed to charge people higher rates just because they are sicker than others.

These reforms would go a long way toward making health insurance accessible, affordable and portable. These reforms would also level the playing field, forcing insurers to compete on the basis of quality and cost management rather than on their ability to cull only the healthiest individuals.

It's time for the government to do a little "cherry-picking" of its own, selecting only those insurers that accept community rating to compete in a reformed health care system. Insurance companies that refuse to change will fall by the wayside like so many discarded cherry pits.

Polish Heritage Award Dinner Slated

Frank Spula, president of the Polish American Congress - Illinois Division, announced plans for the 25th annual Heritage Award Dinner on Sunday, Oct. 3rd at the House of the White Eagle in Niles. Festivities begin with a reception starting at 1 p.m. followed by dinner and the awards ceremony. Anyone wishing to attend the dinner and show their support for both the congress and the achievements of the award recipients should contact the congress at (312) 631-3300, stated Grazyna Cioromski, dinner chairperson.

In keeping with the "new spirit" at the congress, Spula made several announcements after the August monthly meeting. "We need to make the congress more accessible to its members and their organizations," stated Spula. To this end, the September meeting will be on the southwest side of the city at Dom Podhalan, 4808 S. Archer, on Wednesday, Sept. 15th. All member organizations are invited to send their representatives. Those organizations and individuals wishing to become a part of the congress are also invited to attend. The meeting starts at 7 p.m.

We are also interested in expanding the American agenda of the congress, according to Spula. "If the Polish community expects to be respected by our political representatives, we must show our strength at the voting booth."

There are thousands of Polish Americans not registered to vote. Therefore, the voter registration committee of the congress has been formed to provide an opportunity for these individuals to register. The committee is looking for volunteers to be deputy registrars.

Any registered voter wishing to join the committee should call (312) 631-3300 for more details.

File Court Complaint

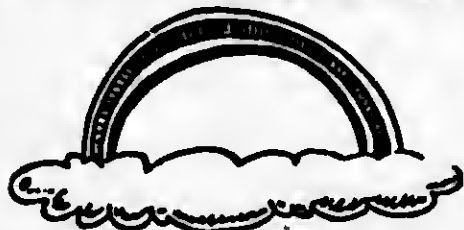

A court order of complaint against Michael J. Madigan, Illinois State Representative and Speaker of the Illinois House of Representatives, asking the court for immediate relief for the used automobile buyers of Illinois, said Robert A. Jacobs, spokesman.

Additions to the Illinois Consumer Protection Act for which we are petitioning the court include a seven-day return policy with no restrictions; that the seller provide the buyer with a certificate and that the used automobile has passed the Illinois emissions testing.

This case is set for a hearing on Thursday, Sept. 9th at 9:30 a.m. in the courtroom of the Hon. Judge Edward C. Hofert in Room 2201 of the Daley Center.

Consentino Sentencing Postponed Until Sept. 21st

U. S. District Judge Harry Leinenweber postponed sentencing former State Treasurer Jerry Cosentino until Tuesday, Sept. 21st. Leinenweber's action came on Friday when Cosentino's attorney, Jeffrey Steinback, questioned whether the state's prison system would be able to provide adequate care for the 62-year-old Cosentino.

Cosentino is suffering from diabetes, depression and serious heart problems, according to Steinback. Leinenweber postponed the sentencing, saying he wanted more information about Cosentino's health and more information concerning health care available in prison.

In April of 1992, Cosentino pleaded guilty to one count of bank fraud in connection with a check kiting scheme involving millions of dollars at the failed Cosmopolitan National Bank and at Drovers Bank, now a branch of Cole-Taylor Bank.

Cosentino admitted that he deposited as much as $25 million in state funds at Cosmopolitan National Bank, in return for more than $2 million in credits and loans for his trucking firm, Fast Motor Service of Brookfield. Cosentino was state treasurer from 1979 through 1982 and from 1987 to 1990. The check kiting scheme, which occurred during his second term, left Cosmopolitan National with at least $1.3 million in overdrafts.

Cosentino, of Orland Park, was defeated in a bid for Illinois Secretary of State by George Ryan in the 1990 election. He sold his house and lost his trucking company, as he attempted to pay off the debt.

U. S. Attorney David Glockner said that state prison hospitals are adequately equipped to care for the ailing Cosentino. Steinback argued that Cosentino, who requires 11 kinds of medication, requires almost constant monitoring and is treated by a number of doctors should not be sent to jail, but placed on home detention.

Prison Reforms Are Implemented

Gov. Jim Edgar has acted to implement prison reforms that will increase protection for guards and the general public by squarely addressing crowding in the state's penal institutions.

"The action I am taking will assure that we keep the most dangerous criminals behind bars while increasing protection for those who guard them," the Governor said. "We also are taking major steps to dramatically reduce the number of repeat offenders by encouraging them to acquire job skills and kick their drug habits so they will be productive, law-abiding citizens when they return to society."

"If we do not do a better job of preparing prisoners for their return to society, we are squandering our opportunity to enhance the public safety. If they leave without job skills and without having their drug and alcohol problems addressed, they will once again be a threat to society and a burden to taxpayers once they are re-arrested and returned behind bars," Edgar added.

To implement the reforms, proposed by an Edgar-appointed task force of experts on crime and corrections, the Governor signed SB 956, which allows greater use of boot camps and establishes incentives for prisoners to participate in educational, drug treatment and vocational programs; announced a timetable for selecting the site of a new, 500-bed super-maximum-security prison that will permit better control of those inmates posing the greatest threat to prison employees and fellow prisoners; revealed that new cellhouses proposed by the Governor and approved by the Legislature to relieve prison crowding will be constructed at Mt. Sterling, Canton and Sheridan institutions.

"All these measures were recommended by the panel of experts, including current and former prosecutors, police officers and prison officials, I assembled to bring some sanity to the prison crowding problem in Illinois," the Governor said.

"I appreciate the task force's hard work and the Legislature's support in developing this far-reaching, innovative and cost-effective approach to dealing with a very difficult situation. Even though this program includes additional prison construction, it will move us away from building one costly prison after another and move us toward greater safety for prison guards and the people of Illinois," Edgar said.

Suit Filed In Electrocution Of Infant

The parents of a 12 day old infant who was electrocuted on Aug. 23rd have filed suit against the manufacturer of an apnea monitor being used to treat their son, Diane and George Vasilakos of Oak Lawn are the parents of Stratton G. Vasilakos, born on Aug. 11th at Christ Hospital. Stratton was being treated for low blood sugar and infection. While in the hospital, Stratton was being routinely monitored to make sure he did not stop breathing. The family's attorneys, Philip H. Corboy, Corboy & Demetrio, 33 N. Dearborn, Chicago, and George S. Gatses, 5017 W. Cermak Road, Cicero, filed a wrongful death action against Corometrics Medical Systems, Inc., the manufacturer of the Neo-Trak infant monitor, model number 502, which was used to monitor the baby.

Corboy said, "This monitor was unreasonably dangerous because it was designed for use with a power cord that could be disconnected from the back of the apnea monitor. The monitor was also able to be used with patient electrode lead wires that did not have a protective safety covering on their contact pin end. Because these leads did not have protective coverings, they could be connected directly with any live power cord, instead of to a patient extension cord connected to the front of the apnea monitor." Corboy explained that this baby died because the electrode lead wires attached to him were plugged into a power cord which allowed electric current from the wall outlet to pass through the electrode lead wires to the baby's chest.

Gatses observed, "Lead wires with safety covers which would not allow them to be plugged into a live power cord are available for less than $20."

Corboy and Gatses both stated that other electrocutions have occurred with apnea monitors of this type. The monitor comes equipped with a power cord and patient lead wires. Because the lead wires, which are not protected by a plastic covering, are capable of direct electrical connection to any standard power cord, the monitor is inherently dangerous. In February of 1987, a warning issued by "Health Devices," a consumer reports manual for the medical device industry, informed the medical community of this specific hazard. Corboy and Gatses were quick to point out that this tragedy could have been prevented by use of a safety lead wire which has been available for years. "Because the manufacturer did not warn of this hazard in a manner which would reach nursing personnel using the apnea monitor, an innocent boy died during routine medical care," they said.

'93 Flood Problems

One of the lessons of the Great Flood of 1993 is that the elaborate system of levees, jetties and dams built to contain the Mississippi River and its tributaries works all too well during periods of unusually heavy rainfall, a University of Illinois geographer says.

By cutting off the access of floodwaters to the broad plains of the Mississippi Valley, the man-made controls have prevented the bottom lands from performing their age-old function of flood control. "The result is that the waters of any given Mississippi flood are now peaking higher and higher on the levees, adding to the problem of flooding that the structures were supposed to solve," said Bruce Hannon, U. of I. professor of geography.

Although rainfall has been heavy in the upper Mississippi Valley this summer, it is not historically out of line with other wet periods over the past half-century. What has changed, Hannon said, is the enlarging presence of artificial river controls and the loss of wetlands.

Spending billions of dollars, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has built 6,000 miles of levees along the Mississippi and its tributaries, Hannon said. Behind and below these structures, millions of acres of former wetlands have been dried out and placed into cultivation.

"What sense does it make for the U.S. taxpayer to create private farmland in the bottoms of the Mississippi when the same taxpayer is paying billions of dollars a year to farmers not to grow crops in nearby unflooded uplands?" Hannon said.

The levees are not the only problem, according to the geographer. "By its own admission, the corps is using the dams it built on tributary rivers, such as the Raccoon in Iowa and the Kaskaskia in Illinois, to offset the effects of flooding caused by the levees on the Mississippi. In other words, the corps has flooded vast amounts of upriver land in the Midwest to hold back flooding that would otherwise ravage the Mississippi Valley periodically."

Despite these expensive efforts to control floods, a federal task force reported last year that inflation-adjusted flood damage per capita was nearly 2.5 times as great in the period from 1951 to 1985 as from 1916 through 1950.

"No one has mentioned that with the estimated cost of over $10 billion in damage from the latest flood, the government could buy a large portion of the Mississippi bottomlands," Hannon said. "The removal of levees in rural areas would greatly relieve the threat of flooding in populated cities, such as at St. Louis. Letting nature serve as a catch basin for high water would benefit the public much more than the corps' current push for federal money to enlarge Lock and Dam 25 near Batchtown, Ill."

Hannon helped organize a citizens' group that successfully opposed a plan by the corps to dam the Sangamon River in central Illinois in the 1960s. He analyzed the agency's proposal and found that the claimed benefits of the project were exaggerated and the costs underestimated.

Labor Day Closings

All Secretary of State offices and facilities will be closed for Labor Day, according to Secretary of State George H. Ryan. The holiday is observed by all state agencies.

Driver Services facilities outside Cook County, which normally are open Tuesday through Saturday, will be closed Saturday, Sept. 4, and will reopen Tuesday, Sept. 7. The Chicago West, Midlothian and Niles facilities in Cook County, now open Tuesday through Saturday, also will be closed Sept. 4 and resume business Sept. 7.

Other offices and facilities will be closed Monday, Sept. 6, and will reopen Tuesday, Sept. 7. The only exception is the Ford City facility in Chicago, open seven days a week in the Ford City Mall. That facility will close at 6 p.m. instead of 8 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 6.

County Auction Facts

49,000 parcels of Cook County property with a tax delinquency of two or more years will be auctioned off commencing Oct. 4, according to County Treasurer Edward J. Rosewell. It's the "Scavenger Sale" and will be held in the second floor of the County Building, 118 N. Clark St. and will run through Nov. 2. The last previous scavenger sale was held in 1991.

Rosewell cautioned that the sale is not a "get rich quick scheme" but can be a good investment. He urges potential bidders to thoroughly research properties before making a bid. Registration for the sale begins Sept. 3, and will require a $100 registration fee in order to make a bid at the sale.

Registration forms are available at all of the five suburban Cook County offices and at the Treasurer's office downtown.

The 49,000 parcels, with a tax delinquency of 267 million dollars, will be advertised in local and community newspapers next week.

Messenger publications will carry the delinquent lists in the following newspapers: Worth Township in Worth Citizen and Evergreen Courier; Bremen Township in the Midlothian-Bremen Messenger; Palos Township in the Palos Citizen; Lyons Township in the Hickory Hills Citizen; and Stickney Township in the Burbank Stickney Independent.

Record Broken

Commonwealth Edison, on Friday, Aug. 27th, met its customers' highest demand for electricity in history by breaking a record that had stood for more than two years. Between 2 and 3 p.m., demand on the Edison system reached 17,766 megawatts, then peaked at 17,771 MW the following hour. The previous record of 17,733 MW was set on July 22nd, 1991, when temperatures in downtown Chicago reached 102 degrees. The temperature in downtown Chicago at 4 p.m. on Aug. 27th was 91.

Com Ed Chairman James J. O'Connor said, "I am especially proud of all our generating station personnel. Each and every one of our plants contributed to this unprecedented performance."

O'Connor added that the newest additions to the Edison system, Byron Unit 2 and Braidwood Units 1 and 2, were the difference between meeting the record demand without problems and possibly being short of electricity. None of the three units has been allowed in the company's rate base.

On Aug. 26th, Edison met a customer demand of 17,603 MW, the highest load of 1993 to that point.

The Evergreen Park and Oak Lawn Chambers of Commerce hosted a joint 'Business Before Hours' last week. The meeting, featuring a continental breakfast, attracted more than 75 participants. Those in attendance heard representatives from local, county, state and national government speak on what is going on that directly affects our area.

Among the speakers were Evergreen Park Mayor Anthony Vacco, Oak Lawn Mayor Ernest Kolb, Cook County Sheriff Michael Sheahan, State Senator Patrick O'Malley (R-18), State Rep. Maureen Murphy (R-36), Catherine Wojtowicz (representing Congressman William Lipinski [D-3]), Chuck Krezwick (representing Congressman Bobby Rush [D-1]), and, before the meeting ended, Congressman Rush himself.

One of the issues pointed out by Mayor Vacco was the Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) renewed attempt to eliminate more parking spaces on 95th St. through Evergreen Park and Oak Lawn. Vacco said, "I thought that this was resolved when we allowed them to cut out a number of parking spaces. You give them an inch, and they want the whole mile." Kolb agreed with Vacco and both urged the chambers of commerce to once again get involved and express their dissatisfaction with such a plan. Kolb said, "We have enough empty store fronts now. If this plan goes through, 95th St. would no longer be a viable shopping area." A chamber member from Evergreen Park added, "Let's nip this idea in the bud. It should be IDIOT not IDOT."

Jim Jesk, Bremen Township Democratic Committeeman, has called a meeting for tonight (Thurs. Sept. 2) of the Bremen Township Regular Democratic Organization at Raday Lodge, 145th & Kedzie Ave., Midlothian. Dinner-Dance Chairman Wayne Ramsey says that tickets for the annual event to be held at Rosewood West on Oct. 29th will be available.

Failing health has caused the delay of the sentencing of former State Treasurer Jerry Cosentino who pleaded guilty to one count of bank fraud in April of 1992. U.S. District Judge Harry Leinenweber delayed the sentencing hearing to Sept. 21st so more information can be gathered about health care in prison.

Cosentino admitted to kiting checks between accounts at Cosmopolitan National Bank and Cole-Taylor Drivers Bank for his sagging Brookfield trucking company, Fast Motor Service.

Cosentino was state treasurer from '79 through '82 and again from '87 through '90. He lost his '90 race for secretary of state, and lost his trucking firm and his house to pay off some of his debts. He also is a former Palos Township Democratic Committeeman.

Where is your money going? In a time when corporations are attempting to streamline and become more efficient, it is interesting to peruse the 'top 10' employers in the state. First is the State of Illinois, with 80,200 employees; second is the federal government, with 63,000 in Illinois; third is the Chicago School System, with 45,000; fourth is the U.S. Postal Service, 42,700; fifth, Jewel-Osco, 41,200; sixth City of Chicago, 40,000; seventh, Sears-Allstate, 38,700; eighth, County of Cook, 24,400; ninth, University of Illinois, 24,200 (all campuses) and 10th, Caterpillar, 21,500. With the exception of three private concerns (Jewel-Osco, Sears-Allstate and Caterpillar), government and its attendant bureaucracies account for the balance of employment in Illinois. A total of 319,500 government employees make up almost 76 percent of the 420,900 employed by the 'top 10' in our state. Corporations must answer to their stockholders...it's about time taxpayers demanded an answer from government.

Plymouth Court. This working conference will examine factors to be balanced in determining a child's best interest, as they relate to child welfare and legal systems. Oak Lawn Mayor Ernie Kolb's 17th annual summer party held Wednesday, Aug. 25th at the Oak Lawn Holiday Inn was another howling success. Members of the Mayor's Coalition Party including Kolb and Clerk Jayne Powers were on hand to greet the hundreds of people who jammed the Inn to honor the mayor. "It was an air of jubilation and celebration," commented Clerk Powers. "It was truly a strong endorsement of the mayor and his administration" commented one Oak Lawn resident who hasn't missed any of the parties.

Governor Jim Edgar has signed into law a bill which would raise the charge for cable piracy from a Class A misdemeanor to a Class 4 felony. The cable TV industry hopes this will discourage anyone who makes, sells, distributes or leases unauthorized cable converter boxes and decoders from continuing to operate.

A newly drawn map which may be the basis for the Cook County Board single-member district is to be unveiled today. The new map, which would elect commissioners from districts rather than at-large, is expected to see the Democrats maintain firm control of the board and might cost the Republicans a seat. The map is said to include five black and two Hispanic districts. Presently there are four blacks and one Hispanic on the board.

County Commissioner Ted Lechowicz, chairman of the board's districting committee, and a Chicago Democrat, expects the map to be approved by committee action by Sept. 13th, with approval by the full board on Sept. 21st.

Business Education Campaign Announced

A "Business ADA Education Campaign," a targeted information and assistance initiative for American businesses, was announced by the President's Committee on Employment of People with Disabilities.

"The President's Committee, a federal agency responsible for assisting businesses with the employment of people with disabilities, is placing priority in this educational effort on reaching businesses -- especially small businesses -- in America," said Rick Douglas, executive director. "We want to assure that businesses are aware of the resources available to help them better understand the provisions and intent of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), and to help them prepare for the final and very important implementation stage of the employment provisions of ADA."

Businesses with 25 or more employees are now covered by the law. On July 26th, 1994, the final phase of the implementation of the employment provisions (Title I) goes into effect and will affect employers with 15 or more employees. Enacted three years ago on July 26th, 1990, the ADA prohibits discrimination in employment, communications, access, public accommodations and transportation.

The President's Committee's Business ADA Education initiative follows meetings with business leaders in all 50 states, and with representatives of Chambers of Commerce and national associations representing business owners. Many businesses have reported receiving inaccurate information from a variety of consultants.

The education campaign will include:

- An ADA Business Conference of national business leaders.

- A Small Business Information Dissemination Network.

- A small business ADA marketing campaign.

- Augmentation of small business data at the President's Committee's Job Accommodation Network (JAN).

The ADA Business Conference, currently in the planning stages, is tentatively scheduled to be held in Washington in December. Representatives of various businesses who serve on the Employer Committee have developed an ADA checklist that will be disseminated through the small business information network. The President's Committee will also be developing public service announcements that will be targeted to small business.

JAN is a toll-free service operated by the President's Committee to assist American businesses with their questions about ADA and, in particular, about accommodations in the workplace. As part of the Business ADA Education Campaign, an expanded data base will be developed specifically to address questions and needs of small business.

"Our message is simply this," said Douglas, "we can make ADA work for American business, particularly small businesses. Employment of Americans with disabilities makes good business sense. Our findings prove the cost of job accommodation for most businesses is reasonable. Business needs to know where to go for reliable information and assistance."

According to JAN records, the average cost of accommodations in the workplace is under $500, and approximately 30 percent cost nothing. The President's Committee's JAN works with businesses on a variety of accommodation issues, including access, accommodating an employee returning to the workplace, compliance questions, and identification of state and local resources. The toll-free phone number is 1(800)ADA-WORK (voice/TDD).

Approve '911' Commissioners

The Cook County Board's Committee on Legislation and Intergovernmental Relations, chaired by Commissioner Carl R. Hansen (R-Mt. Prospect), approved seven nominees for the county's Emergency Telephone System Committee recently.

The newly-formed panel will oversee development of a countywide 911 emergency telephone system for more than 180,000 Cook County residents in unincorporated areas and six suburbs not presently served by the system. The six municipalities are Ford Heights, Golf, Northlake, Phoenix, Robbins and Stone Park.

"It is vital that we have everyone in the county covered by the 911 program," said Hansen. "We held public hearings and support was overwhelming. This spring a referendum was held and approved by a wide margin. The formation of this committee is an important final step in setting up the organization needed to implement the plan. With it we will be much closer to bringing coverage to everyone."

Hansen, who has been advocating and working for a universal 911 system for suburban Cook County for more than ten years, noted that the enhanced 911 system will enable emergency personnel to identify the caller's number and location so that assistance can be sent immediately, to the proper address. Valuable response time will therefore not be lost. For areas covered, the system will be operational in 1995 and funded by a surcharge of up to $1.25 per telephone number.

Hansen noted that the support of Sheriff Michael Sheahan, whose department patrols the 172 square miles of unincorporated Cook County, was vital in getting the system approved. County Board President Richard Phelan's support was also essential in ensuring unanimous board approval.

Phelan appointed, and the Legislative Committee approved, the following individuals for posts on the seven-member Emergency Telephone System Committee: Albert Pritchett, chief administrative officer of Cook County; Arthur Jackson, deputy chief of the Cook County Sheriff's Police; Maury Farbman, chief of the Maine Township Fire Protection Agency; Catherine Poindexter, trustee for the Village of Phoenix; Grace Colbert, deputy chief financial officer for the Cook County Bureau of Finance; Thomas Barkley, retired businessman and electrical engineer; and William Little, president of Quam-Nichols Company.

Final approval of the appointments is expected from the full county board on Sept. 8th. Members of the Emergency Telephone System Committee will serve without compensation.

Repairing Water Main Break

The leak was found near 105th St. and Long Ave. under Stony Creek. Approximately 500,000 gallons of water drained into the creek before it was temporarily plugged by a metal sleeve around the fist sized break in the pipe. Public Works crews and workers from DiPaolo Construction Co. dammed Stony Creek and dug to find the source of the leak on Thursday, then patched the main on Friday, working late into the night. At that time Last week, a 48-inch water main that feeds water to seven communities served by Oak Lawn, was found to be leaking into Stony Creek. The main carries approximately 50 million gallons of water to Country Club Hills, Oak Forest, Olympia Fields, Orland Park, Orland Hills, Matteson and Tinley Park. According to Joe Faber, village manager, the village is waiting for 15 feet of piping that had to be ordered from Alabama to fix the leak. water service to the seven suburbs was cut off for about 10 hours on Friday while workers placed the sleeve over the hole.

It was said that this water main has been in service since 1971 when the system was installed by Mayor Fred Dumke. This was the first major problem the system experienced. Faber stated that the break occurred due to "normal wear and tear on the system."

When the new pipe arrives, the water department will have to shut off the water service again for another 10 hours as the new piping is installed.

Faber said that he didn't know the final cost of labor and material needed to fix the leak, however, the new pipe will cost $3,500.

Though the water service will be turned off, it was stated that due to rain-filled reservoirs, water service to the residents of the seven communities should not be interrupted.

Cook Thoroughly

In the wake of four Hemolytic Uremic Syndrome (HUS)-related hospitalizations in the city, the Chicago Department of Health is reminding Chicagoans and others to make sure that all ground beef products they eat are thoroughly cooked.

There is currently no evidence to suggest that any of the four children—two of whom have died—were poisoned as a result of eating a food product in Chicago. The two still hospitalized have tested positive for the strain of bacteria known as E. Coli O157:H7, the same strain responsible for a disease outbreak last January that killed two children and sickened more than 300 patrons of a hamburger restaurant chain in the Pacific Northwest.

"We're holding our city's restaurants and other food vendors to a strict safety standard, and we want everyone to be aware of the dangers of undercooked ground beef," Commissioner Lyne stated.

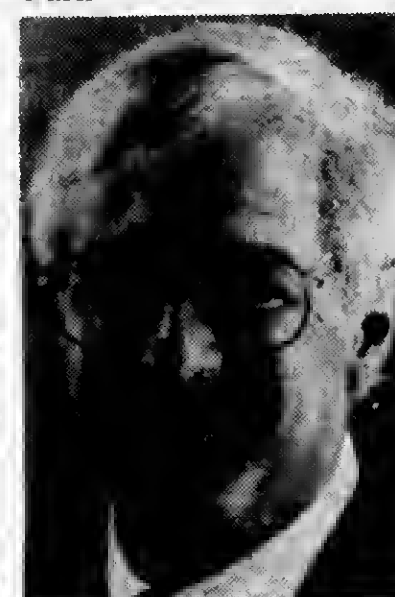

Lighthouse Appoints Director

Milton J. Samuelson, executive director of the Chicago Lighthouse for People Who Are Blind or Visually Impaired announced the appointment of Stephen E. Gerber to the position of director of development. Gerber joined the Lighthouse staff as annual fund director in 1992, taking responsibility for raising support for operating expenses while the Lighthouse $8 million capital campaign was completed.

"Now that our physical expansion is complete," said Samuelson, "and our facility has been enlarged by two-thirds, operating expenses and the opportunities for special projects will increase as we expand programs to serve thousands more people each year. Gerber's extensive financial development experience at institutions in Chicago and Phoenix will help the Lighthouse to meet today's needs and tomorrow's challenges in providing services and opportunities for people who are blind."

Gerber is a graduate of B.A. Denison University and was awarded the Bronze Star Medal for service in the United States Army. He lives with his wife, Georgianne, and daughters, Jodi and Meredith in Evergreen Park.

Public Hearings

Governor Jim Edgar has announced a series of public hearings throughout Illinois that will be used to help develop the state's proposed 'long term care partnership' insurance policy.

"The long term insurance care plan crafted by the task force I appointed in March will give consumers the opportunity to receive a unique blend of insurance coverage and asset protection not available through traditional coverage," the Governor said. "These public forums have given Illinoisans the opportunity to help shape the policy before it is offered for sale."

The 34-member task force, comprised of insurance industry representatives, consumers and state officials, is expected to make its final recommendations to the Governor in September.

The new policies are expected to be available by July of 1994, according to task force co-chairs Maralee L. Lindley, director of the department on aging, and Stephen F. Selcke, director of the department of insurance.

Recycling Program

Cook County Board President Richard Phelan and Cook County Sheriff Michael Sheahan announced recently that the county has exceeded all original recycling projection estimates by 173 percent, saving a total of 2,789 trees, 1,240,420 gallons of water and 9,916 pounds of pollutants that otherwise would be used to make virgin paper.

"The program has been a success all the way around," Phelan announced. "The sheriff's custodial staff, the department of environmental control and all our county building department heads and employees have made a concerted effort to reduce waste and reuse paper products."

Due to the tremendous success of the program's first year, Phelan and Sheahan will be incorporating recycling countywide. Starting this month, county offices in the Daley Center Plaza and the Cook County Criminal Courts Building began office recycling programs which the county anticipates to be equally successful.

capital punishment n. "The penalty of death for the commission of a crime." The American Heritage Dictionary of The English Language, Third Edition.

"The biggest lie ever planted in the minds of the American public is that capital punishment is not a deterrent to crime," a Chicago police commander told us after reading our 'o.pine' column last week after we wrote about how other countries execute offenders who randomly take an innocent person's life.

"The liberal element in our society and the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) have brainwashed people into believing capital punishment is not a deterrent to crime and that is hogwash," the commander said.

"The reason why so many people go along with the theory that capital punishment is not a deterrent to crime is that the public only gets sketchy details about an execution after justice has been carried out," he went on to say.

"Reporters from the print and electronic media are staked out about a mile from the prison when a murderer of an innocent person is put to death in the electric chair or gas chamber, he bellowed. "The media is not allowed to actually view or televise 'live' the actual execution because the act of executing a 'random violence killer' might be too sensitive for the pristine ears and eyes of the press and general public."

Instead of seeing the actual execution what the public gets is the warden of the prison coming out to where the media are patiently waiting and a statement is read about how the murderer was pronounced dead by a doctor who witnessed the execution. How civil. How humane. How protective.

No wonder why the anti-capital punishment forces have been so successful in unequivocally stating that capital punishment is not a deterrent to crime.

The news media can and do invade the privacy of a grieving family, who has lost a loved one to "random violence," with gory pictures of the crime scene, ambush interviews with sobbing family members, the blood-spattered car, pavement, house or garage.

But because we are a so-called civilized society, the televising of the execution of a gun-toting scumbag who randomly takes another person's life is considered to be too graphic; too hard to swallow and would not be a deterrent to crime.

Opposition to capital punishment as a deterrent to crime has gained favor because all the 'punishment-correct' groups started beating the drums against capital punishment back in the days when a person was hanged or lynched. If you lived in the town where the execution took place you knew about it, otherwise justice went unreported, unnoticed and unseen.

But this isn't the 1800's, this is 1993 and "random violence" is escalating out of control because nothing is being done, and when a "random violence murderer" is caught the legal system drags the case through court with appeal after appeal costing taxpayers thousands if not millions of dollars.

Gun laws, waiting periods for the purchase of a gun as proposed by the Brady Bill and registration of all guns is nothing more than an accident waiting to happen. Drugs are illegal too but that doesn't stop a person who wants some 'nose candy' from finding a 'source' for his or her habit. The same thing will happen if anti-gun proponents get their way. It's not the good guys in the white hats who own a gun that the average citizen has to worry about. No, it is the same type of lawbreaker who buys illegal drugs that will find a way to buy illegal firearms.

But there is an answer to all this 'random violence' and mayhem that has turned the United States into a war zone where it is not safe to go out and buy a loaf of bread without the possibility of being the victim of a drive-by shooting.

This is 1993 and 'live' television could be utilized to bring justice into everyone's living room or the neighborhood saloon.

Most communities have cable TV systems with stations devoted to medicine, cooking, travel, religion, exercise and a wide variety of sports, news programs, movies, game shows, sitcoms and talk shows just to name a few.

So why not devote one station to 'live' executions of the scumbags who randomly take another person's life. You could call it "Execution TV."

When we proposed the idea to a group of police officers, one officer turned to us and said, "it would be the highest rated show on TV—for sure."

And for all those who feel that capital punishment is not a deterrent to crime, they can use their remote control to surf through the cable channels looking for a program that doesn't violate their civil rights or offend their liberal nature.

However at the same time, maybe someone who feels capital punishment is not a deterrent to crime, should pay a visit to one of the thousands of cottage industry anti-burglary device stores that have sprung up.

It wouldn't hurt for them to have their family protected while grazing through their TV stations or they could be a victim of just another act of "random violence" by a gun-toting parasite who hasn't watched the number one rated show on TV, "Execution TV."

No more TV cameras poised to record a 'talking head' somberly describing the final moments in the life of a "random violence murderer," but instead the announcer

Governor Jim Edgar recently signed House Bill #0196 which amends the University of Illinois Act. The bill provides that children of veterans of the Persian Gulf War who served on or after Aug. 2nd, 1990 and until Congress or the President orders such persons are ineligible for the Southwest Asia Service Medal are eligible for the University of Illinois County Veterans Scholarship.

Proceeds Advance Research

Eighty-three cents of every dollar the Muscular Dystrophy Association received last year through the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon and other sources was allocated to program services, ranking the association highest among large U.S. voluntary health agencies in percentage of income spent on programs.

"Contributions from millions of Labor Day Telethon viewers and the support of our loyal sponsors make a real difference in the lives of 'my kids,'" said Jerry Lewis, MDA national chairman.

Funds committed during the telethon provide a variety of services to people affected by neuromuscular diseases, from medical care to recreational activities, all furnished by MDA at no charge. Tens of thousands received care at MDA's network of 240 hospital-affiliated clinics and five ALS centers across the country, while thousands more take part in the more than 200 support groups MDA sponsors nationwide. This summer, almost 5,000 youngsters with neuromuscular diseases attended nearly 100 MDA camp sessions in the United States and Puerto Rico.

"It was a banner year for MDA research too. Our scientists struck some major blows in the fight against these terrible diseases," Lewis said.

One of the most significant discoveries by MDA-sponsored researchers was the isolation of a gene that, when flawed, causes one form of amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS), or Lou Gehrig's disease. ALS is a progressive neuromuscular disorder included in MDA's program that ultimately results in paralysis of the voluntary muscles while not affecting intellect or the senses.

In announcing the breakthrough this past spring, Lewis said the finding gives MDA-backed scientists a clear path toward developing a treatment or a cure for ALS.

"Telethon viewers made most of this progress possible, but I want to see ALS and other neuromuscular disorders defeated for good. That's what the Telethon is all about, to help MDA provide the resources to keep up the fight; in the research labs, in the clinics, in communities across America," Lewis said.

MDA's 1993 Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon originating from the Sahara Hotel in Las Vegas, will be broadcast Sept. 5th to 6th and carried by more than 200 "Love Network" stations nationwide. The telethon, viewed by more than 80 million people in the United States, is the largest single fund-raising event for MDA. Last year's broadcast raised a record $45.8 million.

Century And A Half Of Catholic Education

The Archdiocese of Chicago's 359 Catholic schools throughout Cook and Lake counties welcomed students into classrooms as the largest parochial school system in the nation began its 150th school year. Archdiocesan schools represent the largest parochial school system and the ninth-largest school system of any kind, public or private, in the United States. Within Cook and Lake counties, there are 309 Catholic elementary schools and 50 Catholic high schools (of these totals, 178 Catholic elementary schools and 31 Catholic high schools are located within Chicago's city limits).

Dr. Elaine Schuster, superintendent of schools for the archdiocese, said, "We are very proud to begin our 150th year of service to parents and children in Cook and Lake counties. During that time parents have chosen Catholic schools for their children because of values and academic excellence."

The estimated 184,000 youngsters enrolled in Catholic schools this year will be taught by 6,900 teachers. According to the latest figures available, the average teacher salary is approximately $23,000 at the high school level and $20,500 at the elementary school level.

Parents who choose

No voiceovers, no analysis, but just an eerie silence as "the penalty of death for the commission of a random violence crime" is carried out in graphic detail on 'live TV.'

Commissioner Kathleen Therese Meany (right) of the Board of Commissioners of the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District presents a resolution to City of Chicago Director of Capital Planning John M. McDonough and City of Chicago Administrative Assistant Sarah Pang, endorsing the city's efforts to construct a Job Corps center and including positions. The Job Corps program is designed to provide residential training and education programs for young, unemployed and undereducated youths from ages 16 to 24. Its training curricula will include laboratory technician, engineering and scientific intern trainee programs. The institution of the program is expected to provide jobs and stimulate economic development to approximately $20 million. Construction is expected to begin in three years. The District, a staunch advocate of trainee programs for youth and a major employer of engineers and laboratory technicians, will apportion technical employment positions for participants of the Job Corps training program.

Date Violence Prevention

South Suburban Family Shelter is offering a dating violence prevention program free of charge to high school students and school personnel. This program educates students and staff about dating violence: what it is, what may cause it, and the warning signs to look for. It sends the message that date violence is not okay. Studies show that approximately one out of eight high school students will be involved in a violent relationship before graduation.

South Suburban Family Shelter has already provided this program to many high schools in the south suburban area and has received a lot of positive feedback.

Referrals for the program are now being taken for the 1993-94 school year. Interested parties can call (708) 335-4125 and ask for the counseling coordinator.

Volunteers

Participants, sponsors and volunteers are needed to help the Alliance for the Mentally Ill "Stomp Out Stigma" at its fifth annual Mental Illness Awareness Walk on Saturday, Oct. 2nd. The pledge-based fundraising walk offers five routes, located in both Chicago and suburban locations. All proceeds benefit AMI programs, including education, advocacy, housing, support groups and scientific research into the causes of and cures for mental illness.

For registration materials and other information, call (312) 642-3338.

Conservation Outreach Training Plan

In this time of increasing environmental crises, three Chicago institutions have teamed in an international conservation outreach effort. The Field Museum, the University of Illinois at Chicago, and the Chicago Zoological Society, in an unprecedented move, have joined in a program to train scientists and wildlife managers from tropical countries in conservation biology. The basic idea is that there is no better way to promote conservation of the world's most biologically rich countries than to help citizens of those regions learn how to sustainably manage and conserve their countries' wild places.

The program, "Advanced Training in the Conservation of Biological Diversity," is funded by a three-year, $435,000 grant from the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation.

"One of the critical challenges confronting societies throughout the world is how to properly manage and preserve the limited resources of our planet," said Dan Martin, director of the world environment and resources program of the MacArthur Foundation. "We are pleased to support this important initiative in conservation biology based in Chicago."

Small Business Workshop

The small business development center at the Women's Business Development Center (WBDC) is sponsoring a workshop called "Expanding Your Market to Government and Corporate Buyers." For established small business owners, the workshop outlines the advantages of becoming certified as a minority or women's business enterprise. The workshop will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 28th from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Women's Business Development Center, 8 S. Michigan, Suite 400, Chicago.

Elizabeth Scully, coordinator of the Women's Business Enterprise Initiative, will present the workshop and help participants develop new

The Reavis High teaching staff has a new look for the 1993-94 school year. Due to vacancies created by retirements, maternity leaves and increased enrollment, Reavis has hired 14 new teachers. The new staff members have come to Burbank from all over the country and bring with them a new sense of vitality and energy.

Kenneth Barnard will teach in the new industrial technology center. Barnard is a certified ASE mechanic and worked in the automotive field for 14 years before returning to Ferris State College to earn his bachelor's degree. The English/foreign language department's new chairperson is Suzanne Cappozzo, who worked at Morgan Park Academy where she chaired the foreign language department. Larry Ehretzman joins the guidance department this year. The new counselor earned a master's at Chicago State University and was a principal at Ashburn Lutheran School for 22 years. Since 1990 he has been teaching at McGugan Junior High School. Ehretzman also teaches graduate courses in guidance and counseling at St. Xavier University. Gina Farella, a graduate of Northern Illinois University with three years of teaching experience, will join the special education staff.

The science department welcomes biology and physical science teacher David Grecek. A former pre-med major, Grecek holds a master's degree in biochemistry from Loyola University. Tammy Harrison, a Northern Illinois University graduate, will teach English. Prior work assignments include teaching summer school in Lake Zurich, coaching gymnastics and substitute teaching. New guidance counselor Kim Mecum earned her master's degree at Fresno Pacific College. Since 1990 Ms. Mecum has served as women's athletic coordinator and intramural director at Rock Valley College. Business education teacher Joseph McCurdy has been substitute teaching at Sullivan Community High School since 1991. McCurdy has a master's in business education from Eastern Illinois University.

Last year Richard Nichols taught electronics and drafting at Lincolnway High School. This year the Illinois State University graduate will teach in the new industrial technology center. Joining the business education department is Daniel Riordan, a graduate of Eastern Illinois University. Riordan student taught at Kingston Upon Hull, England. A substitute teacher at Reavis since 1990, Kenneth Sroka has accepted a full-time special education position. Sroka's bachelor's degrees are in psychology and special education. Thomas Witting, a former speech teacher and drama director at Memorial Junior High since 1992, has joined the English department. Witting's undergraduate degree is from Illinois State University.

The institutions, which collectively represent one of the world's great centers of knowledge about conservation biology, will pool their strengths to provide the most comprehensive training currently available in this dynamic field.

"It is our belief that the ultimate solutions to environmental problems are shared solutions, involving the people of both developed and developing countries," said Lawrence Heaney, curator of mammals at the Field Museum. "We believe that there is currently insufficient emphasis on the role of scientists and managers from the tropical countries, and too much reliance on scientists and managers from developed countries. In essence, we believe that it is principally the inhabitants of the tropical countries, not outsiders, who can save the natural diversity of their countries."

For more information about the program on advanced training in the conservation of biological diversity, contact the public relations department at the Field Museum at (312) 322-8859, the University of Illinois at Chicago at (312) 996-8282, or Brookfield Zoo at (708) 485-0263, ext. 354.

Sex Offender Registration Law

Convicted child pornographers will have to notify local police of their presence in a community, under legislation co-sponsored by State Sen. Patrick O'Malley (R-18) and signed by Gov. Jim Edgar. O'Malley offered an amendment to Senate Bill 483 that changes the Child Sex Offender Registration Act to include child pornography and federal sex offenses to the list of crimes for which people have to register with police.

"This legislation results from the case of Mark Cooper, a convicted child pornographer who was let out of jail by a federal judge despite the fact that he had threatened to kill children," O'Malley said. "Under current law, Cooper can move into a community without reporting to any local authorities. My amendment changes that. Criminals convicted of child pornography and federal sex offenses will now have to register with the local police chief or face Class A misdemeanor penalties of up to 364 days in jail and/or up to a $1,000 fine."

Sen. O'Malley says Senate Bill 483 will also help better protect prison employees by raising the penalty for assaulting a correctional officer from a Class A misdemeanor to a Class 4 felony, punishable by 1-3 years in jail/prison and/or up to a $10,000 fine. Another provision of the new law establishes felony penalties for those convicted of dropping rocks or other heavy objects from a highway overpass onto the vehicles below.

The Child Sex Offender Registration Act provision of Senate Bill 483 has an effective date of July 1st, 1994.

Funding Meeting

The Campaign for Human Development (CHD), a self-help funding program sponsored by the U.S. Catholic Bishops, will host an orientation meeting for groups seeking CHD funds for the 1994-95 funding cycle. Pre-applications and criteria and guidelines for CHD funding will be made available for both local and national CHD.

All community organizations, not currently funded by CHD, must submit a pre-application in order to be considered for a grant. The purpose of the pre-application is to help CHD determine the funding eligibility of projects. Pre-application proposals for local CHD are due on Oct. 21st. Final proposals are due on Jan. 6th, 1994. The previous funding cycle awarded $370,000 to 15 projects in the metropolitan Chicago area through the local and national process.

Red Ribbon Bowl

Chicago South Elks Lodge No. 1596 is sponsoring the second annual Red Ribbon Bowl on Friday, Sept. 3rd at Marist High School football field, 4200 W. 115th St. The kickoff is scheduled at 8 p.m. between Marist and Brother Rice High School. Everyone attending the game will receive an Elks 'Drug Awareness Red Ribbon' and drug awareness information pamphlet. Last year the Chicago South Elks Lodge distributed over 5,000 red ribbons and pamphlets. The Marist and Brother Rice High Schools' faculty, students and parents support the annual contest and the drug awareness program.

The winning team will be presented a trophy by Exalted Ruler Jim Dunmore and the officers and members of Lodge No. 1596. The chairman for this event is the vice-chairman for the Elks State of Illinois Drug Awareness Program, Art Fitzgibbons.

Brother Rice High School head soccer coach, Nick Markullin (left) stands with three of his former players who have gone on to become members of Eastern Illinois University's soccer team. Jimmy Harkness from Oak Lawn, a senior forward who will be the captain of Eastern's team; Brian Kelly, also from Oak Lawn, a freshman who excelled on Rice's team a year ago, and Phil Oblala, a junior from Oriand Park who was voted most improved player on Eastern's squad last year. Harkness feels that both Kelly and Oblala will be impact players and will play an important role as the Panthers push for an NCAA division I national championship.

Markullin, a member of the U.S. 1969 national championship soccer team, has sent many of his players to Eastern, as well as many other top collegiate programs. "These three young men are the cream of the crop. I'm very proud of their accomplishments and know they will help Eastern Illinois to continue their tradition as a top program," he said.

Catfish Hunter To 'Strike Out' Diabetes

Baseball Hall of Fame pitcher Jim "Catfish" Hunter, pictured with two young autograph seekers, will be pitching at Comiskey Park again, but the Hall of Famer won't be hurling baseballs from the mound, he'll be there to help fans "strike out diabetes" when the White Sox host the Red Sox on Wednesday, Sept. 8th.

Hunter, who has diabetes himself, is urging Chicago residents and Sox fans to stop by the 'Strike Out Diabetes' booth, main concourse, Gate 7, center field at Comiskey Park, that evening to be screened for diabetes. Diabetes, with its related cardiovascular complications, is one of the leading causes of death in the United States today. Nearly 14 million Americans (1 in 17) are believed to have diabetes; however, it is estimated that nearly half of them do not know it yet, because the disease's symptoms can be subtle. In the Chicago area, more than 404,000 people have diabetes, but only half have had it diagnosed. The earlier diabetes is diagnosed and treated, the better the odds of controlling the disease to live a healthy, happy, productive life.

"The key to managing diabetes is control. When I played baseball, I was a control pitcher, and I use the same principles to control my disease," says Hunter.

Strike Out Diabetes Night is intended to raise awareness of the seriousness of diabetes, to motivate those who are at risk for the disease to see their doctors, and to encourage those with diabetes to take control of it, as Hunter has done.

Beginning when the gates open at 5:30 p.m. on the 8th, adults are invited to take the American Diabetes Association's diabetes screening quiz, a short questionnaire that can help determine whether a person is at risk for the disease. A high score does not mean one has diabetes; only a doctor can determine that. But individuals with high scores will be alerted that they could have or be at risk of developing the disease and will be urged to see their physicians for further testing.

The Upjohn Company, the Northern Illinois Affiliate of the American Diabetes Association (ADA), the Diabetes Educators of the Chicago Area/Diabetes Educators (DECADE) and the Chicago White Sox are teaming to sponsor the event. Fans who participate in the free screenings will have their names entered in a drawing for a baseball autographed by Hunter. In the event of rain, the Strike Out Diabetes booth will be set up at the next scheduled home game during the same hours.

Hunter learned he had insulin-dependent diabetes in 1977 during Yankee spring training. Nonetheless, he continued to pitch for three more seasons, including three more World Series, before retiring, as planned, to his 1,000-acre farm in Hertford, N.C., to help his wife raise their three children.

You can live a full, active life despite diabetes is the main message Hunter wants people to understand. "I'm in better shape now than when I was playing baseball," says Hunter, who became a farmer after retiring from the major leagues. "When I was told I have diabetes, I thought that I was through, that my life was over. But it wasn't true. By eating right, getting exercise, taking medication if you're advised to, and following your doctor's orders, you can manage diabetes and your life. You can feel good about yourself and become a winner."

IT'S THAT TIME OF THE YEAR - We may be sweltering in 80-90 degree weather, but in Northern Wisconsin, swallows have departed for their winter homes, warblers are beginning to move through Central Wisconsin, young loons are losing their brown coloration and Staghorn sumac are showing their seed cones. These are definite signs that fall is approaching.

When nature dons her colorful, fall finery, one of the best, and most satisfying, windows to the brilliant display is a drive through Chequamegon National Forest in Northwestern Wisconsin.

The Cable Area Chamber of Commerce and the U.S. Forest Service have combined forces to provide miles of marked fall color driving tours, with lots of opportunities to stop along the way to hike, visit a scenic overlook, see wildlife, ponder historical developments, or learn about the area's geology.

Three different self-guided fall color driving tours, totaling about 130 miles, will take you through a colorful palette of mixed hardwoods and conifers, including plants and bushes of all kinds and colors. As a rule of thumb, the rust green and yellow colors belong to bracken ferns, basswood, birch and linden. Varied shades of yellow usually belong to poplar, tamarack and most birches; and the reds, oranges and purple will be maple and sumac.

The best place to start your Cable-area color tour is at the charming, new, chalet-style Chamber of Commerce Visitor Center, located just one block east of the intersection of Wisconsin State Highway 63 and County Highway M in Cable.

While you're at the visitor center, pick up a handful of free brochures to the area's attractions and establishments. The Cable Area Chamber of Commerce, by the way, encompasses more than 350 square miles, bordered by member communities of Cable, Drummond, Grand View, Namakagon, and Clam Lake.

You can get your free guide to the Fall Color Show from the Cable Area Chamber of Commerce, by calling 1-(800)-533-7454, Ext. 19 or writing P.O. Box 217C, Cable, Wisconsin 54821-0217.

For over 40 years I have enjoyed the fall colors in the Cable area during my annual September Muskie fishing and October Grouse Hunting trips.

HUNTER SAFETY - As hunting season approaches, individuals need to be concerned about safety as well as licenses and permits. The Illinois Department of Conservation offers free hunter safety education courses throughout the state. The courses are required for hunters age 16 and under before they can purchase a hunting license, but they are open to all hunters regardless of age. For information, call 1-(800)-832-2599.

DOVE HUNTING HOURS CHANGED - Dove season opened Sept. 1st and for the first time, Illinois shooting hours will be sunrise to sunset. The cooler mornings will be a welcomed change for hunters and dogs.

EXPANDED 2ND EDITION OF "FISH WISCONSIN" RELEASED - "Fish Wisconsin" written by DAN SMALL, host and producer of "Outdoor Wisconsin," an award winning weekly television program seen on more than 30 public television programs in 12 states, is now available.

The soft-covered second edition contains 274 pages of contour maps, photographs and text on Wisconsin's lakes, rivers and streams. An outline map of the state shows the location of each body of water covered, and the text includes information on local bait shops and public access points.

Each chapter contains specific tips from DAN on where to fish for different species on a particular lake, river or flowage, and which baits work best at different times of the year.

"Fish Wisconsin" can be purchased at Wisconsin bookstores and sport shops or purchased direct. Send $16.95 plus $3.50 shipping & handling to P.O. Box 433, Grafton, Wisconsin 53024.

Destruction Derby

On Friday, Sept. 3rd, Santa Fe Speedway hosts the seventh round of the Tournament of Destruction. See all the car-crushing demolition as the teams battle in the final stage before the National Championship later this month. Also on tap, Ladies racing, S.T.A.R. cars and the always-unpredictable Figure-eight competition. Gates open at 6 p.m., metal-mashing begins at 8 p.m.

Leading the pack, the Mean Green Machines are looking into their rearview mirrors as the rest of the field gains ground. Defending champions, Plow Boys, currently in a second place tie, look to distance themselves from 1991 champions, Locomotives, and take on the leaders. Quick Silver Destruction leads the rest of the challengers.

In the S.T.A.R. (Short Track American Racer) division, defending champion Don Darrow looks to have captured another title as he holds a huge lead over the rest of the field.

The battle in the ladies division rages on as Liz York of Brookfield leads Hometown's Donna Carvelli by a mere four points. Char Wells of Berwyn holds the number three spot, just behind the leaders.

Brookfield's John Klimek leads the pack in the Figure-eight division with a sizable lead over Bryon Johnson of Melrose Park. Ray Blaszcak of Clarendon Hills and Plainfield native Ivan "The Terrible" Trent, Jr. are battling for the third spot.

Tickets for the Tournament of Destruction are only $11 for adults. Children 11 and under are only $1. Parking is always free.

Laurence Alumnus On Chiefs

Joe Montana and Tim Grunhard are the quarterback/center battery for the Kansas City Chiefs this year. Grunhard, who attended St. Laurence High School, is entering his fourth season with the Chiefs. With the acquisition of Montana, the Chiefs have been pegged to represent the American Football Conference (AFC) in the Super Bowl, which likely will bring Grunhard the all-pro recognition that has eluded him so far. Grunhard assesses his role in the team's revitalized offense, and working with four-time Super Bowl winner Joe Montana, with one word cropping up time and again: responsibility.

With Montana leading the team after an off-season trade, a new offense modeled on that of the San Francisco 49ers and installed by new offensive coordinator Paul Hackett, a new offensive line coach, Alex Gibbs and new faces on the Chiefs' line, it will be a season of change.

But as Grunhard points out, the Chiefs are likely headed to a better season than last year, when, with a 10-6 record, they reached the playoffs for the third consecutive year. The team has been picked by "Inside Sports" magazine, among others, to represent the AFC in the Super Bowl.

Watching Grunhard from the sidelines during the Chiefs summer training camp at the University of Wisconsin-River Falls, it's clear he is nearing the top of his game and may help make those heady championship predictions come true. Recent scrimmages and workouts with the New Orleans Saints and Minnesota Vikings found him easily handling opposing nose tackles, from 360-pound Saint rookie Jon Kirksey to Viking all-pro Henry Thomas.

"I'm feeling real good (about camp)," says Grunhard, listed on the Chiefs roster at 299 pounds. "I had a really good off-season this year. We were drilled hard and the new offense came in. We really got a good aspect of what was going on by being in there early. It helped to firm a lot of techniques, in things like being able to drive people off the ball, and to be where you have to be at the right time."

His personal abilities at executing blocking assignments have earned him the praise of Gibbs, a veteran of 24 years of coaching, who has singled out Grunhard's use of weight and leverage as an example to be copied by the other 14 linemen in camp.

Grunhard overcame a foot injury against the New York Jets that knocked him out of four games last season. Now it's simply a matter of ignoring the "little nicks and bumps" that come from being in the middle of two lines whose combined weight is likely to tip 3,000 pounds.

"Durability," he said, "is the name of the game. You have to be in there all the time because there is somebody always standing over your shoulder wanting to take your livelihood away."

More importantly for him this year, he says, is the new 49ers offense and the responsibilities it places on him as the signal caller for blocking assignments. It's a challenge that has made the regimen of two-day training camp practices tolerable.

"The new offense puts a lot more responsibility on my head as far as making calls. I set up all the blocking for the passing, and who we have and who the backs don't have and vice versa. It's really become a great academic challenge for me this year, more than being a physical aspect. I really like the mental and academic challenge. It's really put a new spark into the game for me this year."

"Any time the quarterback gets sacked, it's an embarrassment for the offensive line," Grunhard says. "Sometimes it's the coverage, a lot of times it's the quarterback holding the ball. And a lot of times it's our fault. What we wanted to do, and what we talked about a lot with Alex Gibbs, is to reduce the sacks. We don't want Joe to get hit very many times, because every time he gets hit could be the last."

"As I'm getting up in my career, and being involved since the first game of my rookie year, I think it's my responsibility to be the leader," Grunhard says. "Before, I was hesitant because there were a lot of older guys, but now this is my offensive line, and I take responsibility for everything it does. The thing I've tried to stress is that we really need to get to know each other personally as well as athletically because you have to have that bond to work together. With the additional responsibilities I've picked up this year, I feel I have to be a strong leader not only vocally, but through my work habits."

Grunhard, routinely described as one of the most underrated centers in the NFL, believes the phenomenal attention Montana continues to attract from fans and media, tied to a new offensive scheme, will bring the Chiefs long-deserved recognition.

"The way this offense is set up it really glorifies each position and your personal skills, if we're successful. And with Montana, the spotlight is going to be on the Chiefs, that's the kind of stuff you need. Kansas City doesn't get the kind of publicity other teams get. But with Montana, people will see the kinds of skills we do have here and I think that's going to help us get the recognition they didn't get before."

The links between Grunhard and Montana include more than those of center and quarterback. Both attended Notre Dame and both played there on national championships teams: Montana in 1977 and Grunhard in 1988. During his collegiate days, Montana also roomed with St. Laurence prep football standout Mark Ewald at Notre Dame. Through that acquaintanceship, Montana has visited the high school in the past for a fundraiser.

Free Tax Help Available Now

Most people don't think about taxes this time of year. But the IRS would like you to know that, in addition to its own offices, you can get free tax help on prior year tax returns at 19 other locations in northern Illinois. These sites are staffed by IRS-trained volunteers who can help you prepare your individual tax returns prior to 1992. You should organize your documents and records for each year involved.

The IRS has been contacting people who have not filed prior year returns for sometime now and has 200 full-time people working on this program. It has also sponsored two "nonfiler-days" with various professional groups who have volunteered to offer free legal advice and prepare returns for individuals. Another "nonfiler day" has been scheduled for Oct. 30th.

Don't worry about tax forms for the years involved. You can get forms at the IRS offices, at the volunteer sites, or by calling the IRS toll-free at 1(800)829-3676 weekdays from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Volunteers can help you file returns as far back as 1985.

If you need to file a prior year return, the IRS advises you to organize your tax records, call the closest site and schedule an appointment. Don't forget to bring your records with you when you come for help. Now's the best time to get "right with your government."

The nearest south suburban area site for volunteer help is the Acorn Public Library, 15624 S. Central Ave., (708) 687-3700. The volunteer is Mr. Pechtel.

Taking Kohl Teaching Award Nominations

Do you know an outstanding preschool, elementary or high school teacher who is innovative and dedicated? A teacher who respects students and encourages them to be lifelong learners? A teacher who is a leader in the field? Now is the time to call the Dolores Kohl Education Foundation and nominate that special educator for a Kohl International Teaching Award.

Chicago and suburban teachers from public, private and parochial schools are eligible for nomination. Educators from across the United States and around the world are also honored. Recipients each receive a $1,000 cash award and join the Kohl International Academy of Outstanding Educators which designs and implements innovative educational programs.

The Kohl Awards, sponsored by the Dolores Kohl Education Foundation and the Kohl Children's Museum, strive to promote an atmosphere of respect for education in the community by recognizing outstanding teachers.

"Educators, parents and students should all be encouraged to participate in the nomination and award process," observes Lana Weiner, executive director, Kohl International Teaching Awards and Kohl Academy of Outstanding Educators. "It encourages exceptional teachers to remain in the field of education and attracts talented new candidates into our school systems. Outstanding teachers touch the lives of the next generation and insure our future."

Nomination materials can be obtained by contacting Lana Weiner at Kohl International Teaching Awards, 165 Green Bay Rd., Wilmette, IL 60091, (708) 256-3000. Nomination requirements include documentation by colleagues, administrators, parents and students. The nomination deadline is Dec. 1st.

The awards honor other contributions to the education of our youth. The peace prize is given to an educator for innovative work to foster understanding between different cultural or religious groups. The corporate award recognizes industry's commitment to the fields of elementary and secondary education. The Kohl media award honors accomplishments in the media which contribute to excellence in education.

'SHEPHERD ONE'...Pope John Paul II returned to Rome aboard an American Airlines Boeing 767 dubbed 'Shepherd One' by AA engineers who labored around the clock to make special modifications to the aircraft. After attending the World Youth Day schedule of events in Denver three weeks ago, the Pope boarded the plane which had been converted to make room for a custom-made bed covered in white linen sheets with small embroidered gold crosses on the pillow cases. The Pontiff's bed also featured a safety-belt and privacy curtain. During the flight back to Rome, the Pope and 100 members of the papal entourage had the option of using personal video screens to view "A Few Good Men" (an edited version) and "Strictly Ballroom." Both films were shown in English and Italian. There were also English-only films available and they included "Beauty and the Beast," "Dave," "Home Alone 2," "Oklahoma," "Used People" and "Sandlot." A special menu was also provided by American Airlines for the Pope and his traveling party and included Caviar from the Caspian Sea, entrees including loin of veal, tenderloin of beef, grilled chicken and pan-seared fillet of salmon. Fruits, cheeses and dessert of an ice cream sundae made with Haagen-Daz vanilla ice cream topped with hot fudge or seasonal berry toppings, whipped cream and pecans also were available to please the papal palate. It was not known what the Pope chose from the list of entrees and side dishes.

Thanks to Jelly Roll Morton, Louis Armstrong, King Oliver, Earl Hines and many others, Chicago can be considered, along with New Orleans, Kansas City and New York, as a focal point of early jazz. During this time

Chicago was also known as the home of the blues and, eventually, boogie-woogie piano. Art Hodes, who passed away on March 4th, witnessed first-hand the emergence of jazz in Chicago when the legends performed in clubs, theaters and after-hour joints on the city's south side.

Disaster Aid Grants Available

Residents of Cook County affected by the storm June 7th and 8th have been designated eligible for disaster aid for repairs to severely damaged homes. They also may qualify for grants to replace essential personal property damaged in flooding, federal and state officials announced. Applications may be filed in person at a center or by telephone.

The walk-in disaster application center (DAC) is in the Foster Park Field House, 1440 W. 84th St., through Saturday, Sept. 4th. Hours are 1 to 5 p.m. on Saturday.

"We encourage those who sustained severe damage to their homes in the basement flooding in Chicago to visit the DAC," federal coordinator officer Walter Pierson said. "We realize that some people may have a considerable distance to travel to the DAC and for that reason the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) has a toll-free tele-registration number, people can use to apply by phone."

To apply by phone call the tele-registration number 1-(800)-462-9029. Hours are 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. seven days a week. The hearing- or speech-impaired with TDD can call 1-(800) 462-7585.

The Small Business Administration declared Cook County eligible for disaster loan assistance on June 17th. As of Aug. 23rd the SBA has approved 363 home and personal loans totaling $4.9 million, and 11 business loans amounting to $133,700.

Individuals who applied for an SBA loan and were denied because of low or fixed incomes are encouraged to apply for FEMA assistance.

"It's important to remember that you should register either by phone or in person, but not both,"

Pierson said. "Filing more than one application only delays assistance while we determine which application is valid."

FEMA will verify damage to flooded homes with on-site inspections.

Various types of aid may be available. It can include disaster housing assistance such as payment for limited repairs so the family can continue to live in the home, low-interest disaster loans for permanent repairs and replacement of personal property and, for those determined to be unable to repay a loan, an individual and family grant to pay for repairs or personal property.

St. Ignatius Building Tour

St. Ignatius College Prep, 1076 Roosevelt Rd., Chicago, will offer the first of five, one-hour tours of its 1869 landmark building, one of only five public buildings to survive the 1871 Chicago Fire. St. Ignatius, the oldest school in the center of the city, was designated a Chicago landmark in 1987.

Highlights of the tour include the Brunswick Room, which has two elegant curved butternut wood stairways; the Grand Gallery, with its ornate trompe l'oeil frescoes and the library, which resembles a 19th century reading room with modern state of the art science labs and a new reference center.

The first tour is at 10 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 18th and subsequent tours are scheduled at 10 a.m. on Saturdays, Oct. 23rd; March 26th, 1994; April 23rd and May 21st. The tour costs $5 for adults, $10 for families, $3 for seniors.

For more information, call (312) 421-5900.

Patricia Daggart (right) has 'lost' several dress sizes with the help of Mary Lou Mehegan, staff counselor at Physicians Weight Loss Center, 3940 Volmer Road, in Olympia Square.

Physicians Weight Loss Center, open since 1984, has taught many satisfied clients how to identify those feelings which control eating habits. Through the professional help of the center's medical staff, clients learn how to get in touch with their feelings, find emotional honesty and to learn self-discipline, balance and moderation. The program is not a diet, rather it is a way of life.

Physicians Weight Loss Center offers a medically supervised program which uses real grocery store foods to assist clients in learning how to eat more nutritionally, while losing three to seven pounds a week.

The center offers the 30-day, 30 pounds, $30 program. This is an all-natural method of controlling appetite, maximizing weight loss, streamlining the body, while helping clients feel great and have more energy. The center is interested in helping you lose excess body weight, rather than a loss to your pocketbook.

Free Tree Offer

Ten free trees will be given to each person who joins The National Arbor Day Foundation during September.

The free trees are part of the non-profit foundation's Trees for America campaign.

The ten trees are the sugar maple, white flowering dogwood, pin oak, white pine, red maple, birch, American redbud, silver maple, red oak and Colorado blue spruce.

"These trees were selected to provide benefits every season of the year; lovely spring flowers, cool summer shade, spectacular autumn colors and winter berries and nesting sites for songbirds," John Rosenow, the foundation's executive director, said.

The trees will be shipped postpaid at the right time for planting between Oct. 15th and Dec. 10th with enclosed planting instructions. The six to twelve-inch trees are guaranteed to grow or they will be replaced free of charge.

Members also receive a subscription to the foundation's news magazine, Arbor Day, which includes regular features about tree planting and care.

To become a member of the foundation and to receive the free trees, send a $10 membership contribution to Ten Trees, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Ave., Nebraska City, NE 68410, by Sept. 30th.

IN MEMORIAM CONNORS

EDNA WARBURTON CONNORS

Dearest One:

Today is our 50th Wedding Anniversary. I had been looking forward to this, our Golden Wedding Day, since we had reached our 40th Anniversary, expectantly confident, that we would share this day together, but alas, it wasn't meant to be. The Lord needed another Angel in heaven, so he took you from me. Three years and ten months have passed, I wasn't alone, your son and daughter gave me great comfort. The day has come, each of us will meditate and share our loving thoughts of you. We proclaim our love for you, both mortally and spiritually.

What Was Happening...

25 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK IN THE COMMUNITY

It was a time of nostalgia with tears glinting in the eyes of some present, as events or highlights of the twenty-two years Sgt. Vernon L. Anderson, Andy to all his associates and friends, were recounted during the retirement party given him by the Oak Lawn Police Club.

Three burglaries, two in homes and one in a welding shop, were reported to Oak Lawn Police over the weekend. The Edward J. Barry family report that thieves broke into their home while they were gone on the weekend and report the loss of $50 in cash which included a collection of twenty silver dollars. The light fixture in the master bedroom was also torn down and thrown behind the bed and the rest of the house was ransacked. Helen Piper reported that $187 in cash was taken from a desk drawer while the family was out of town Saturday and Sunday. Roy Minich, owner of the R.M. Welding Co. said that burglars broke a rear window in the shop to gain entry either Friday or Saturday and took two chain saws valued at $694.95.

The village of Oak Lawn has applied to the state Division of Waterways for a permit to install sanitary sewers under Stony Creek at four locations in the village, state public works director N. J. Johnson announced Tuesday.

Oak Lawn officials have opened a two-pronged attack to get better transportation facilities for the village. On one front, Village President Fred Dumke and the board of trustees have forwarded a resolution to the Illinois Commerce Commission in behalf of the Suburban Transit System. The company has filed a petition for the right to operate a bus line direct to Chicago's Loop. On another front, Trustee Leonard Cole is seeking to get the Norfolk and Western Railroad to keep in operation its two-stop service in Oak Lawn, whereby a Chicago-bound train from St. Louis makes a flag stop here, and in the evening the St. Louis-bound train also stops here.

Police and scuba divers continued to search this week for the body of an Oak Lawn man missing and presumed to have drowned when the 18-foot runabout boat on which he was a passenger collided on Monday night with a barge at 135th St. and the Calumet River in Riverdale.

The Bronze Star for outstanding meritorious service in Vietnam was recently awarded by the Army to Captain Alexandros Constantaras, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Constantaras of Oak Lawn. Captain Constantaras currently is preventive medicine officer at Fort Sheridan. He served in Vietnam from March 1967 to March this year.

Air Force Airman George Carrasco, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bravo of Oak Lawn, has been graduated from the Defense Information School's basic military journalist course at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

We'll Have Your Kids Laughing All The Way To The Bank.

It's no joke that it's tough getting kids to save. Especially with so much fun stuff out there for them to buy. Still, teaching your kids the value of saving doesn't have to be serious business.

At First Chicago Bank, we have a fun way for kids to start saving on their own. It's the Breezie® Junior Bankers Club/First Generation savings account, and it can be opened for less than what they'd spend on a week's worth of bubble gum. It earns our regular savings account interest, compounded daily, and there are no monthly service charges. As for the fun stuff, each time they do their banking they'll get a balloon or gift. And they'll be invited to all kinds of special events with Breezie throughout the year. Like the one we're having at First Chicago Bank in Oak Lawn on September 11th, from 10 am to 2 pm.

Our Breezie Junior Bankers Club/First Generation savings account is an easy way for kids to learn about managing money as they watch their savings grow. And that's definitely something to smile about.

TV Cable Pirates

Governor Jim Edgar signed into law a bill to stiffen the penalties for stealing Cable TV service. This legislation raised the classification for manufacture, sale, lease and/or distribution of unauthorized cable converter boxes and electronic decoding chips from a Class A misdemeanor to a Class 4 felony. It also increases the penalty for use of these boxes and chips, as well as other means to obtain cable signals illegally to a Class 4 felony.

The Illinois Cable Television Association (ICTA), which estimates, the industry lost more than $4.7 billion nationally due to theft in 1991 alone, welcomed the news of the bill signing. "We are very pleased that the General Assembly and the Governor have acknowledged the serious nature of the growing problem of cable theft. We cannot afford to tolerate this offense any longer. The facts show our industry in Illinois is losing literally hundreds of millions of dollars every year, and the municipalities in which we operate are losing franchise fees which are typically 5% of a local company's revenues," said Gary J. Maher, ICTA president.

"Additionally, cable theft jeopardizes cable systems' signal quality and reliability which further penalizes the paying customer and requires the cable companies to spend unnecessary time and money making service calls. With this new law we intend to turn this situation around. We are declaring Illinois a 'no tolerance' state for cable theft," added Maher.

Under a Class 4 felony conviction, distributors of illegal cable equipment face a minimum of one year prison term and could be sentenced up to three years. Fines could be levied against them for $10,000 or more. Those businesses and individuals convicted of receiving unauthorized cable signals now face up to a year in prison and/or a $1,000 fine or more under the new Class A misdemeanor classification.

The 1992 cable consumer protection and competition act also makes cable theft a felony offense under federal law, thereby enabling the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) and U.S. Attorneys to participate in prosecuting cable pirates. Federal law has doubled the penalties for commercial theft to $50,000 in fines and two years in prison for each violation. Each sale of an unauthorized device is considered a separate offense.

This legislation represents an ongoing effort by the ICTA and the National Cable Television Association's office of cable signal theft to eliminate a serious problem.

Three Indicted In Sheilah Doyle Murder Case

A grand jury indicted the three suspects in the murder of Sheilah Doyle, the nurse who was shot to death in the garage of her Palos Heights home. The murder took place on the night of July 3rd and the three face charges of first-degree murder, attempted armed robbery and armed violence.

Antwon Tyler, 22, and Marcus Gray, 16, both of Chicago, along with Gregory Jackson, 21, of Country Club Hills appeared in 5th District Court, Bridgeview, last week where the indictments were read.

The three are accused of murdering Sheilah Doyle, 40, during a robbery attempt "that went terribly wrong."

According to Cook County State's Attorney Jack O'Malley's office, the suspects spotted Mrs. Doyle as she left the parking lot of Little Company of Mary Hospital, Evergreen Park, where she was a nurse in the substance abuse unit.

Mrs. Doyle's black Toyota Camry was similar to Jackson's mother's Toyota of which Jackson and Tyler had accidentally fired a shot into the hood. Prosecutors said that the three planned to steal Mrs. Doyle's car and use the hood of that vehicle to replace the damaged one.

When Mrs. Doyle resisted the robbery attempt, just after she had pulled into her garage, Tyler and Gray forced her into the trunk of her car. Tyler, believed to be the triggerman, then shot the woman once in the back of the head. The three suspects then fled in Jackson's Dodge Daytona.

Jackson has been characterized as a "good student" at Eastern Illinois University. However, when Assistant State's Attorney Patrick Smith attempted to get Jackson's bond, set at $100,000, raised, Smith said that Jackson has been suspended from the school. Jackson was a member of a fraternity that had been barred from the EIU campus when brothers were found to be beating pledges during hazing.

Stanley Hill, Jackson's attorney, said that his client's "interim suspension" was being appealed. He added that Jackson came from a "stable family."

While Jackson is free on bond, Tyler and Gray remain jailed on $1 million bond, each.

Tyler and Gray are facing murder charges stemming from the killing of a Tennessee man in March. The out of state was in Chicago visiting his mother. The murder charges resulted after a witness identified photos of Tyler and Gray which accompanied an article about the Doyle killing.

"Gang Awareness Week"

The week of Sept. 13th to 19th has been officially declared "Gang Awareness Week" by proclamation from both Gov. Jim Edgar and Mayor Richard M. Daley.

"Coinciding with the beginning of the school year, the week is designed to promote activities for parents, schools, communities and the general public, to enhance awareness about the gang-related violence that is robbing all citizens of their dignity," said Aurelia Pucinski, chairman of Gang Awareness Week.

The week's activities, sponsored by Parents

Public Forum

The Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) will stage an all-day public forum to enable Northeastern Illinoisans to participate in developing the long-range direction and priorities of transportation in the state. The forum is scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 9th in the auditorium on the ground floor of the James R. Thompson (State of Illinois) Center, 100 W. Randolph St., Chicago. The forum will be conducted in three sessions, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, from 1 to 4 p.m. and from 6 to 9 p.m.

"We hope as many people as possible will come to the public forum," Illinois Transportation Secretary Kirk Brown said, "and we hope they will get involved in the process of setting transportation improvement priorities."

The proposed statewide transportation plan will span the quarter-century from 1995 to 2020 and will focus on long-range goals, policies and priorities, rather than specific projects.

Some issues to be considered would include system congestion, air quality, access to major transportation facilities and intercity and rural transportation.

The forum will be the last in a series of four such public meetings held throughout the state.

"JUST TAKE ALL THE THINGS THAT MAKE HEALTH CARE NETWORKS A GOOD IDEA AND ADD BLUE CROSS."

RAYMOND F. MCCASKEY, PRESIDENT AND CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER

Employers join networks to gain buying power — the economies of scale. To offer their people quality health care, good service, and the best rates, wherever they may be located.

HMO Illinois is a Blue Cross HMO with more doctors in more places than any other plan. The Blue Cross PPO brings the largest statewide network of hospitals and doctors closer to home. And we've recently put a full scale Point of Service network into place in six major midwest cities.

So, if you honestly believe a health care network is a good idea, doesn't it follow that one from Blue Cross is an even better idea?"

Pep Rally At St. Rita High

"St. Rita High School will hold an outdoor pep rally on Friday, Sept. 17th at 6:30 p.m. featuring Chicago Bear defensive end Alonzo Spellman," announced Dr. Mike Kisicki, vice-principal of activities. The outdoor rally is a tribute to the fall sports which include football, golf, soccer and cross-country. All alumni, parents and friends of St. Rita are invited to attend this pep rally and fireworks show to be held in Doyle Stadium. In addition to Spellman, the up-and-coming star for the Bears, Channel 7's Jim Rose will again make an appearance as will Carnac the Magnificent. The rally includes tributes to the teams, special skits and a giant fireworks show synchronized to music.

"This year we again want our parents as well as our alumni to come out and support our young men. The spirit, the fun feeling, and the excitement of a St. Rita pep rally will certainly be in the air on that night," said Dr. Kisicki.

The cost of the evening is $2 for adults; $1 for non-St. Rita students. The homecoming rally caps off an entire week of events taking place at the school including mock soccer games, faculty dunk tank, freshman hall decoration and much more. The homecoming events conclude on Saturday, Sept. 18th as the St. Rita Fighting Mustang football team takes on the Weber Red Horde at 1:30 p.m. All alumni and parents of St. Rita are treated to a special performance by the alumni band as well as hall of fame inductions at halftime. After the game an alumni reception will be held behind the school.

"We are excited about Homecoming '93 because the students have worked really hard to make it enjoyable for all of the students as well as our parents and alumni of the St. Rita family. It is sure to be one of the best in school history," concluded Kisicki.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

It has only been three years since the United States went to war over oil. In the mid-70's, people were being shot for trying to take someone's place in line at a gas station. How soon we have forgotten how dependent we Americans are on foreign oil. This brings me to the focus of why I am writing this letter: garbage. Yes, garbage. The federal government and the State of Illinois have an energy policy. This policy lists the hierarchy for the disposal of waste. First is source reduction. Second is recycling. Third is waste-to-energy incineration. And last on the list is landfilling.

Why do you suppose waste-to-energy is above landfilling? Because if we burn our trash in modern waste-to-energy plants we save oil. How, you ask? By generating electricity with steam from the incineration process. The Robbins plant that is being planned for the south suburbs will alone save 588,000 barrels of imported oil. That means a savings to the US of $13,500,000 per year in oil cost.

Countries like Japan, Denmark, Switzerland, Sweden and the Netherlands long ago learned the value of turning their trash into electricity and, as a result, importing less oil. By using this valuable resource for energy generation, these countries reduce their dependence on countries like Iran, Iraq and the other Middle East countries. As soon as the Middle East countries get their act together, we can expect huge increases in our oil prices, and the United States is more dependent on foreign oil than ever.

So let's encourage our elected officials to think globally and act locally for the long term. Let's not settle for the expensive quick-fix of trucking our trash hundreds of miles away. The Robbins plant will enhance curbside recycling by recycling 25 percent of the waste brought in. It will reduce the volume of waste going to far-away downstate landfills by 90 percent and help decrease our dependence on foreign oil and keep America strong and independent.

So when the Robbins contract comes up in your community, tell your elected officials to vote yes for more recycling; vote yes to lower, long-term garbage cost; vote yes to keeping America strong through lower oil imports. It will cost you and me and the country a lot less in the long run.

Sincerely,
Raymond F. Murphy

"We care about your health as much as you do."

On Friday, Sept. 17th, the St. James at Sag Bridge Preservation Society is celebrating the 160th anniversary of the founding of St. James at Sag Bridge, and unveiling of their completed restoration plan for this historic landmark, at an outdoor gala reception in the center of the ancient church grounds at 106th and Archer Road.

Scheduled from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m., the gala will be held under a tent, amid the backdrop of this tiny hilltop church and its adjacent cemetery, founded by Irish immigrants in 1833 and listed on the National Register of Historic Places. The gala's ticket price includes assorted wine and beer, together with hors d'oeuvres, donated by Como Inn.

The highlight of the evening will undoubtedly be a silent auction of six single graves in the historic St. James at Sag Bridge Cemetery. Due to the rarity of these much-sought-after gravesites in the ancient cemetery, bidding is to start at $550 per single grave and is expected to go as high as $1,500 per grave. "For years, people have inquired about the availability of burial sites at St. James," explained Preservation Society President Eileen D'Angelo, "unfortunately, nothing has been available here for at least 40 to 50 years."

The fact held true until earlier this year when members of the Dillon-Barry families stepped forward to aid the efforts of the society by donating six vacant graves from their family plot in St. James as a means to raise additional funds to protect and preserve this historic landmark.

Tickets for the outdoor gala and silent auction are $25 per person. Advance reservations are required and can be made by calling (708) 246-6072.

Pedestrian Safety

BY SECRETARY OF STATE GEORGE H. RYAN

With most schools in full swing now, many students are walking to school or to their bus stops. Because pedestrians share the responsibility for their safety with motorists, it is important to teach children about pedestrian safety and to obey all pedestrian traffic signals.

Q. How can I best educate my child about traffic safety?

A. Walk with your child to school occasionally to become familiar with traffic conditions along the route and to point out potential hazards. The Illinois Rules of the Road and Seemore the Safety Clown coloring book, available at your driver's license facility, are good tools for teachers and parents in teaching traffic safety to children.

Q. What traffic signals apply to pedestrians?

A. 1. A lighted "WALK" signal means that pedestrians facing the signal may cross the roadway in the direction of the signal.

2. A flashing "DON'T WALK" signal warns pedestrians not to enter the roadway. If you are already in the roadway when the sign changes, you may complete the crossing with caution. A constantly lighted "DON'T WALK" signal means that you may not enter the crossing.

3. When a constant yellow traffic signal is displayed, pedestrians may not cross unless directed by a pedestrian control sign, a police officer or a crossing guard.

Q. What other traffic safety tips should children be taught?

A. Always look left, right, then left again before crossing a street. Children should try to make eye contact with drivers in approaching vehicles to make sure that the drivers see them.

At Pioneer Clubs, children participate in a wide variety of fun-filled, skill-building activities, explore the Bible, and develop Christian values. Trustworthy, caring club leaders provide positive role models.

College Savings Bond Will Be Available Soon

Gov. Jim Edgar announced the state will issue at least $150 million of Illinois College Savings Bonds next month to help families finance their children's future college expenses.

"Providing youngsters with a college education that prepares them for the challenges of the 21st century is a priority for many Illinois families," the Governor said.

"Since 1988, College Savings Bonds have been a successful and popular investment option for parents and grandparents who are planning the financing of their children's future educational expenses."

Approximately $150 million in bonds will be offered for sale in early October. If the demand for bonds is strong, the offering may be increased. The bonds will include annual maturities from August 1995 to August 2014.

As zero coupon bonds, individual bonds will be offered at discounted prices that are estimated to range from $1,670 for a 21-year bond to $4,720 for a 2-year bond, depending on the market conditions at the time of the sale.

All of the bonds will pay holders $5,000 at maturity.

Interest earnings on the bonds will be exempt from federal and Illinois income taxes, and the purchase of up to $25,000 in bonds will not reduce eligibility for certain state educational assistance and loan programs.

The bonds will be offered through banks and brokerage houses throughout Illinois. The senior underwriters for the sale will be Prudential Securities Inc. and First Chicago Capital Markets.

Money paid at maturity can be used for any purpose, but bonuses may be paid to those who apply the bond proceeds directly toward higher education costs in Illinois. If used for college purposes at an in-state college or university, the bonds pay a bonus ranging from approximately $40 to $420 per bond, depending on the length of the bond's maturity.

Previous Illinois sales of College Savings Bonds were $93 million in January 1988, $225 million in October 1988, $250 million in November 1989, $250 million in November 1990, $210 million in September 1991 and $250 million in October 1992.

Editor:

Please assist me in a very important project. I am trying to locate German-Americans interned in the U.S. during World War II. I have exhausted every other method of finding them, and am now appealing to your generosity and commitment to history. This story is an important, untold part of our wartime experience; most Americans have no idea that Germans were interned during the war. But the recent attention given to Japanese-American internment makes this story exceedingly topical and important. I am seeking people to interview for an oral history of the German-American experience during World War II.

If you were a German national or German-American (U.S. citizen) living in the U.S. during the war who was detained, relocated, excluded or interned, or if you are free to give me the name and address of such a person, his or her relatives (if deceased), who might not see this request, please write or phone me at the address or number below. Briefly summarize your experience and indicate whether you are willing to be interviewed. I will include extended excerpts from selected respondents in the book.

Funding Schools

By Michael Flach

This fall, the halls of the state capital in Springfield could provide the backdrop for a revolutionary change in Illinois' education system. And Governor Jim Edgar is positioned to be the pivotal player in this change. The Chicago Public Schools crisis has dominated the news for several weeks. Practically every politician has advanced his or her proposed solution to the crisis and everybody's talking about ways to find new money. Editorials from the two major Chicago newspapers have claimed the Chicago system needs more funding.

Proposals have included massive tax increases, always the favorite of teachers union leaders and the folks at the League of Women Voters, allowing the schools to borrow money and counting on new revenues from casino gambling to bail out the schools, "sometime down the road." A hard look at the facts, however, shows that the Chicago Public Schools don't need more money: They already spend over $6,000 per student, much higher than most downstate districts and even more than some suburban districts.

More importantly, the Chicago Public Schools don't deserve more funding. The reason the schools keep running out of money is that they're grossly inefficient, as shown by high dropout rates and low student achievement on standardized tests. Chicagoans know they aren't getting their money's worth out of the schools, so they resist paying more for it. That's why the Chicago Teachers Union has to keep going to Springfield to find more money to balance its bloated budget each year.

In past years, when this same scenario played out, taxpayers took the hit and the Chicago Public Schools walked away with more money and little real reform. This year, however, a different kind of outcome is starting to emerge. The one real, long-term solution to the schools' financial crisis is finally getting serious attention. That solution is educational choice.

Educational choice means giving parents the power to choose the schools their children attend. It means giving parents tax-funded scholarships to be applied toward the cost of tuition at the school of their choice, whether public or private. The scholarship, or 'voucher,' plan would allow thousands of families to send their children to quality private schools that are spending only a fraction of the amount now spent by the public schools.

Popular support for educational choice is growing. A new organization advocating educational choice, the Illinois Educational Choice Coalition, claims over 20 member organizations representing millions of parents around the state. For the first time in Illinois' history, Catholics are working with Jews, white parents with black parents and Democrats with Republicans to press for educational choice.

The chances have never been greater for true reform. The onus now sits on one man to take the lead on this issue.

This is an opportunity for Governor Edgar to show bold leadership by backing legislation that would have national implications. By publicly campaigning for educational choice, even if only a pilot program for Chicago, the Governor would gain support in the city's growing Hispanic community, an important (swing) constituency. He would put himself on record as supporting a major new benefit for low- and middle-income families in Illinois without breaking his pledge to not increase taxes. And he would undercut the political support for some of his most vocal and uncompromising critics on the political left, critics who are badly out-of-touch with their pro-educational choice constituents.

On the other hand, if the Governor does not support a voucher plan this fall, he faces an almost inevitable loss of political capital. He can't deliver better schools by capitulating to the unions, and he can't win over liberal

Choice

By John R. Davis
State Director
National Federation of Independent Business/
Illinois

When Illinois legislators finally adjourned in mid-July, they must have known that they would be back in special session, finally addressing the funding shortage that threatens the education of hundreds of thousands of schoolchildren in Chicago and other Illinois communities. Everyone knows and sympathizes that the schools are strapped for cash, but there is strong opposition to putting more and more money into systems that do an inadequate job of educating its students. If taxpayers are going to be footing a bigger bill for education, isn't it reasonable to expect the education system to deliver better results?

It's time to tie education money more closely to performance. It's time to seriously reexamine the concept of educational choice, by providing vouchers or scholarships to all students. School choice will make it more affordable for students and parents to select schools, public, private or parochial, that can do the best job of meeting their educational needs.

Opinion polls show that nearly three-quarters of parents in Chicago support educational choice that includes the choice of private and parochial schools. This is an option now available only to those wealthy enough to pay education taxes and also pay for private school tuition. It is clear that the cost of providing vouchers already enrolled in non-public schools would be significant. That is why the National Federation of Independent Business/Illinois supports S.B. 592, which starts a pilot project in Chicago to provide vouchers for students in Chicago public schools.

Choice introduces competition and free market forces in a field where they have been sorely lacking. A 10-year study involving 500 schools and 20,000 principals, teachers and students demonstrated that educational choice provides an effective incentive for schools and students to perform better. Competition, in other words, the threat of declining enrollments, compels weaker schools to strengthen themselves or face the loss of money as students spend their vouchers elsewhere.

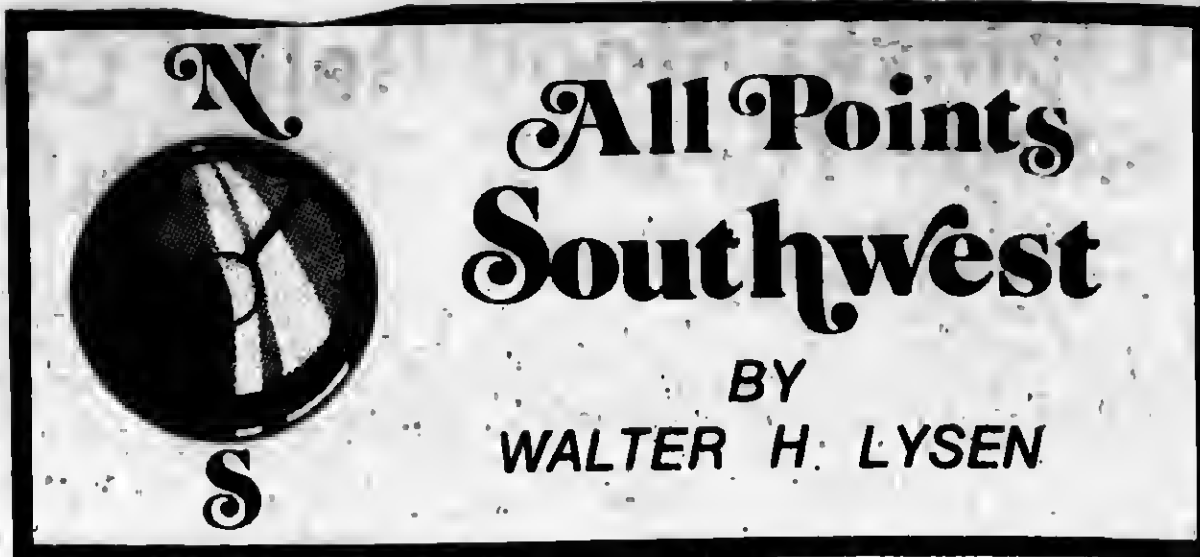

Small businesses like the 21,000 members of NFIB/Illinois understand what it means to compete; providing a better product or service, more efficiently, at a reasonable cost.

Democrats with anything less than a major income tax increase. By failing to endorse educational choice, the Governor will end the fall session having made everyone unhappy with him.

To change the focus of public debate from raising taxes to enacting fundamental change requires a leader willing to face a firestorm of criticism from teachers unions and columnists like Vernon Jarrett, who think inner-city minority parents are too ignorant to understand or use vouchers. Governor Edgar might be just such a leader.

Educational choice movements are about to crest in other states around the nation. California is voting on a ballot initiative this October to enact a statewide educational choice program, and Milwaukee is entering its third year with a pilot voucher plan. Fortunately, some courageous Illinois lawmakers are finally waking up and smelling the coffee. All they need now is for Governor Edgar to step forward and provide critical leadership.

(Michael Flach is executive director of The Heartland Institute, a nonprofit and nonpartisan center for public policy research based in Illinois.)

Directors of eight state agencies are to be 'under fire' from local officials on Monday, Sept. 13th, from 4 to 6 p.m. An Opportunities Conference is scheduled at the Oak Lawn Public Safety Building, 5252 Dumke Drive. Each agency director is to participate in a panel discussion and present a brief outline of his or her agency's programs of interest to local governments, followed by a question and answer period. Sue Leonis, assistant to Governor Jim Edgar, will serve as moderator.

Area mayors, including Oak Lawn's Ernie Kolb, Evergreen Park's Tony Vacco, Gene Siegel of Chicago Ridge, John Oremus of Bridgeview and others are certain to direct focused questions at the eight.

According to the Governor, this conference serves two objectives, to help local officials learn more about state programs & services and to assist state officials in understanding more about the needs of the local communities.

If any single agency, of the eight, can be expected to be caught in a crossfire, it is the Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) as both Kolb and Vacco have been at odds with IDOT over restricted parking along 95th St. (a state route). Kolb and Vacco agreed to elimination of a number of parking spaces in both villages, 'to facilitate traffic flow.' Now, said Vacco, they want more. "Give them an inch; they want the whole mile."

Concerns and questions from other city and village CEOs are a certainty and all-in-all, it should be an interesting two hours.

Attorneys will provide free legal information during The Chicago Bar Association's Call-A-Lawyer program, Saturday, Sept. 18, 9 a.m. to 12 noon. Chicago-area residents who call (312) 554-2001 will speak to volunteer attorneys with experience in various areas of the law.

Call-A-Lawyer is designed to assist the public with answers to basic legal questions. Attorneys will be available to discuss divorce, contracts, criminal matters, landlord-tenant problems, and more.

Call-A-Lawyer is usually offered one Saturday morning of each month. Every year, over 1,200 city and suburban residents contact the program for legal information.

Our condolences to Palos Hills Mayor Gerald Bennett and members of his family on the death of his father William J. Bennett Sr., 82, Sept. 7. Funeral services are Friday from Blake Lamb, 4727 W. 103rd St. to St. Christina Church. Mass is at 9:30 a.m. with interment at St. Mary Cemetery.

We still have 12 days to go before we get the final word on the new Cook County Board single member districts. The map was unveiled a week ago and the Districting Committee of the Board of Commissioners will approve one map Sept. 13 and will present their final map to the full board on Sept. 21 for adoption. Upon approval 17 single member districts will be established.

At present the South and Southwest suburban areas have Robert Gooley of Homewood and Herb Schumann of Palos Park (both Republicans) on the board.

Look for prominent suburban Democrats like Lou Viverito to be drafted to run for a seat on the board. Viverito is said to be among the logical choices. He'll probably be in Schumann's district.

County Commissioner Ted Lechowicz is chairman of the board's districting committee.

Lou Viverito, Stickney Township Supervisor who has received nationwide acclaim for his excellent directing of the Stickney Township Health Center, will hold his Annual Golf and Bar-B-Q Outing at Gleneagles Country Club in Lemont, Thursday, Sept. 16th. Tickets are $125.

State Representative Anne Zickus, Palos Hills, will be feted at a cocktail reception from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 20th, at The Flame of Countryside. Secretary of State George Ryan is the host. Chairman is Jeff Kranig a Justice trustee. Tickets are $60 and may be obtained at Citizens for Anne Zickus headquarters, 10705 Roberts Rd., Suite 88, Palos Hills.

The annual Illinois Municipal League's meeting opens Friday at the Hilton Hotel in Chicago and we know many mayors and officials in the Southwest area will be in attendance, Mayor Ernie Kolb of Oak Lawn who is on a speaking panel, Mayor Anthony Vacco of Evergreen Park, and Mayor Gene Siegel of Chicago Ridge have said they will be there. But, questionable is the presence of Mayor John Oremus of Bridgeview who has been sidelined with a broken leg and other ailments. Oremus for years has been a driving force and always active in the league business in previous years. He'll be missed if he can't attend.

Thirteenth District Congressman Harris W. Fawell's Fall Fundraiser scheduled for Sept. 30th will offer a "Little Bit of Country" for everyone. It will be held at the Arabian Knights Farms in Willowbrook from 5:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. with the excitement of a traditional Arabian Horse Show and Presentation along with entertainment by Aaron Freeman, one of Chicago's finest political comedians. The cost is $100 per person. For more information, call Barbara Graham at (708) 985-9345.

Population Survey

Employees of the U.S. Census Bureau will visit a sample of area residents between Sept. 19th to 25th to collect data on employment and veterans for the current population survey, according to Stanley D. Moore, director of the bureau's Chicago regional office. The local labor force data contributes to the national employment and unemployment picture to be released on Oct. 1st by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The additional data on veterans will be used by the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA), the Bureau of Labor Statistics and the Veterans Employment and Training Service to measure trends in veteran employment and unemployment and to formulate policies and programs regarding employment and job training for veterans.

Information supplied by individuals to the Census Bureau is kept confidential by law. Only statistical totals are published.

Lipinski Flood Relief Convoy Ships Tons Of Donated Goods

A flood relief convoy organized by Congressman Bill Lipinski's office, gathered more than forty tons of donated bottled water, canned foods, toiletries and other items.

"This showing of genuine generosity and concern for our fellow downstaters has exceeded all expectations. It was an enormous success, and all due credit belongs to local residents and small businesses who took the lead in acknowledging the need and coming to their aid," Congressman Lipinski noted.

The donated goods were shipped on semi-trailers in the early morning of Aug. 28th, for distribution to the communities of Grafton and Hardin. Accompanying the convoy were 20 local area residents from the southwest suburbs.

The drive which lasted close to three weeks drew contributions from corporate and union leaders, local residents and small businesses. Donations ranged from canned foods to coloring books for the children - toilet paper to perfume.

Monetary donations are still being collected, and will continue until the middle of September, at Standard Bank & Trust Co., 2400 W. 95th St., Evergreen Park, IL 60642. Checks should be made payable to Congressman Bill Lipinski's Flood Relief Fund.

*The annual percentage rate (APR) is based on prime plus one-half percent (0.50%) or prime plus one percent (1.00%), as determined by the amount of equity in the home. These rates vary, and are indexed to the prime rate, as published in the Wall Street Journal. Although this rate may change frequently, the APR will not change more than once each month, on the fifth (5th) day of the month, as determined by the published rate on the fourth (4th) of the month. As of June 05, 1993, the prime rate is 6.00%, so the APR is 6.50% and 7.00%. The maximum APR is 17.9%.

When Notre Dame's quick-witted football coach Lou Holtz first heard about the book "Under the Tarnished Dome. How Notre Dame Betrayed Its Ideals For Football Glory" by investigative reporters Don Yeager and Douglas S. Looney, he quipped; "I thought it was a book about John Robinson."

The supposedly funny remark was in reference to the University of Southern California's head football coach and his receding hairline.

But there is an old cliché that goes: "he who laughs first, may laugh last."

Since Lou Holtz uttered the profound statement (in his mind) about "the book," the Notre Dame football coach has sounded more like a mobster appearing before a Senate crime commission hearing.

Eight times during his weekly press conference Holtz refused to answer any questions posed by the media about "the book."

"I will not talk about the book in any way, shape or form," Holtz said over and over again.

When one reporter asked Holtz if he didn't feel he owed the public an explanation after 84 former Notre Dame players and coaches are quoted in the book about allegations of steroid use, disdain for injured players and payments to players when he was coach at the University of Minnesota, he sat owl-eyed before the microphones and said; "I've told you I will not talk about 'the book'."

"Under the Tarnished Dome" was not supposed to be released until this week, but somehow a book store in South Bend, home of the University of Notre Dame, received a shipment and immediately placed the books on display and for sale last week.

To say sales were brisk would be an understatement.

Meanwhile, back on the campus the spokesperson from Notre Dame, executive vice president Rev. E. William Beauchamp, was handling damage control and denying all charges made by the authors.

It is too early to tell how the charges from Notre Dame players will shake out, but Notre Dame, which has never suffered from publicity shyness, has hired a professional public relations firm to act as 'spin doctors' and a go-between for Holtz and the media.

There are many in the sports-writing fraternity who cover college athletics who will quickly say what goes on at Notre Dame goes on at practically every major football program in the country.

Boosters or alums giving a promising high school football player money or helping him acquire a bank loan is part and parcel of college football.

A case in point is the recent scandal involving the University of Washington and a 'loan' to quarterback Billy Joe Hobert of $50,000.

The allegations were investigated by the Pac-10, the conference Washington belongs to, found to be true and Hobert was suspended from playing football at the school.

But the allegations didn't stop with Hobert. The Pac-10 found other violations in the Washington football program and the Pac-10 sanctioning body took action by suspending Washington from post-season bowl games and cutting the number of athletic scholarships the school could offer graduating high school athletes.

The Pac-10 is the only conference that has its own sanctioning body. Many other conferences, and certainly independent schools like Notre Dame, allow the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) to investigate any wrongdoings with their athletic programs.

The problem with allowing the NCAA to investigate charges against the schools is that the NCAA has been swamped lately with allegations against university and college football programs all across the country, and the NCAA, from our experience, allows some schools to investigate the charges and then report back to the NCAA.

Such was the case last year when Notre Dame linebacker Demetrius DuBose bought a $25,000 car, as well as receiving a 'loan' from two Notre Dame alums from his hometown of Seattle.

When we looked into the matter, talked to the NCAA, we were told that Notre Dame had investigated the 'loan' and as far as the NCAA was concerned the school had done a thorough job of investigating the matter.

I am sure if the University of Washington had been allowed to investigate 'the loan' to Hobert and the other allegations themselves without anyone looking over their shoulder, the outcome might have been different.

And then to add more injury to the University of Washington program, head football coach Don James quit.

Meanwhile, back in South Bend, Lou Holtz refuses to talk about 'the book.'

Who should he?

Holtz doesn't have to quit because Notre Dame investigates itself and doesn't have anyone to answer to, except the NCAA and the NCAA is busy looking into violations all over the country.

So Lou Holtz can keep right on refusing to answer any questions about 'the book,' letting the paid mouthpiece speak for 'the book' and just stonewall any future reference to 'the book.'

It's kind of like having a "Golden Parachute" under the "Golden Dome."

Officials Address Area Concerns

Governor Jim Edgar is sending directors of eight key state agencies to Oak Lawn on Monday, Sept. 13, to meet with officials of southwest area municipalities to further cooperation and understanding between state and local governments. The meeting will be held from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. in the village's public safety building, 5252 Dumke Drive.

"Partnership between state and local government is essential to the well being of Illinois citizens," the Governor said. "Local officials are the closest to the people and the challenges facing communities. State government offers numerous programs and services to help local leaders deal with these challenges."

"We, the communities in the Southwest area are cooperating with each other. I wish the state would do the same with us instead of handing down mandates which we can't afford," commented Ernie Kolb, Oak Lawn mayor, who is hosting the meeting.

Kolb cited the use of the public safety building communication department as handling E-911 calls for Evergreen Park and Burbank as well as Oak Lawn. Also the rifle range in the building being used by county, FBI and neighboring police forces.

State agencies participating in the conference includes the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA), the Department of Conservation (DOC), the Department of Central Management Services (CMS), the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA), the Liquor Control Commission, the Illinois Development Finance Authority, the Illinois Department of Mines and Minerals, and the Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT).

Each agency director is participating in a panel discussion, presenting a brief overview of that agency's programs of interest to municipal and county governments. A formal question and answer period will follow. Sue Leonis, assistant to the Governor, will serve as moderator.

Agency directors who will be participants are: Rose Jennings, associate director Dept. of Central Management; Ron Bean, executive director, Illinois Development Finance Authority; Kirk Brown, secretary, Illinois Dept. of Transportation; Jack Dorgan, executive director, Illinois Liquor Control Commission; Jan Grayson, director, Dept. of Commerce and Community Affairs; and Mary Gade, director, Illinois Environmental Protection Agency.

Attempted Murder Charge

Ronnell Harris, 23, of Matteson has been charged with the attempted murder and armed robbery at the Advance Bank, 9420 W. 147th St., Orland Park, on Sept. 3rd.

Although Harris was initially identified as an accomplice, police said they believed Harris acted alone, and was responsible for shooting George Gilbert, an Orland Park police officer, once in the right shoulder during the robbery.

Gilbert, 55, was treated at Olympia Fields Osteopathic Medical Center and released about three hours after the shooting.

According to Orland Park

Police Chief Charles Rabideau, police recovered the money taken in the robbery and found the car Harris used to make his getaway.

Although Harris was armed with two handguns during the robbery, police did not find any weapons on Harris or in the car.

Harris was taken into custody at Shoney's restaurant about an hour after the bank robbery after police received a call from another business owner who saw a suspicious person. The restaurant is located several blocks southwest of the bank.

Suit Filed Against Hospital

The parents of a 12-day old infant, who was electrocuted while on an apnea monitor at Christ Hospital, filed a lawsuit on Tuesday against the hospital. Diane and George Vasilakos filed the suit, alleging that hospital employees were negligent in the use of monitor cables which did not have safety leads designed to forestall such an incident.

Stratton Vasilakos died on Aug. 23rd after a nurse accidentally plugged electrodes affixed to the infant's chest into a power cord connected directly to a wall socket. The electrodes were designed to fit into a cord which led into the breathing and heart monitor.

According to the Cook County Medical Examiner Dr. Edmund Donoghue, the child received 120 volts from the outlet for "several minutes" as nurses tried to determine the cause of his duress.

The Vasilakos family had earlier filed suit against the manufacturer of the apnea monitor, Corometrics Medical Systems, Inc., alleging that the monitor "was unreasonably dangerous because of its design which allowed the accident to happen."

The suits have been combined and a hearing is to be held to determine whether the case will be held in county or federal court.

Protecting I & M Canal

Legislation aimed at protecting the Illinois and Michigan Canal from potential pollution from auto junkyards located along its banks has been signed into law explained State Representative Terry Steczo (D-35).

"I initiated this legislation after members of the Illinois and Michigan Canal Heritage Corridor raised concerns about the potential environmental impact the junkyards may have on this historic waterway," Steczo said.

Steczko explained that the legislation directs the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) to inspect the facilities located along the canal's banks for oil and gas spillage which may be making its way into the waterway.

Steczko noted that the corridor is a popular site for recreational and educational activities. Specifically, Steczo pointed to the I & M Canal Heritage Corridor Festival and the popular and scenic I & M Bicycle trail.

"It would be terribly unfortunate if this historic and beautiful waterway and its surrounding lands would be environmentally damaged from a preventable and correctable problem," Steczo concluded.

Open House

Reavis High School is holding its 43rd annual parent "open house" on Thursday, Sept. 16th at 7 p.m. All parents of Reavis students are invited to attend. The evening, designed to be both informative and enjoyable, begins at 7 p.m. with a general meeting in the school's main gym.

For further information, call the department of school-community relations at 599-7200, ext. 283.

Standard Bank and Trust Co., a full-service financial institution in the community, again assisted the Beverly Area Planning Association (BAPA) by serving as a co-sponsor of their annual "concert under the stars." In this capacity, the bank contributed funds to underwrite the cost of this community event. Other donors included Belhaven Retirement Center, Joe Bailly's Restaurant, and Washington and Jane Smith Retirement Home. This activity is one of many special events which helps raise funds for the organization. This annual summer event featured band leader Dick Janson (second from left) and his orchestra. Arrangements and fundraising were handled by Nancy Peecher (second from right). BAPA special events director, Representing Standard Bank and Trust Co., a co-sponsor and donor, were vice presidents James A. O'Malley (left) and Laura Shallow (right). The bank also donated seat cushions, so that concert attendees could be more comfortable while enjoying the music.

New VP

Thomas R. Butkus, Chairman and President of A. J. Smith Federal Savings Bank, Midlothian, announced that the Board of Directors elected Martin J. Connolly (above) Vice President of the Bank at their August meeting.

Mr. Connolly joined A.J. Smith Federal in April of this year and has assumed responsibilities in the areas of Savings/Marketing, Human Resources and Loan Servicing.

A graduate of Loyola University, Chicago, Connolly has 22 years of banking experience having previously served as Vice President for Harris Bank, Chicago, and Elmhurst Federal Savings Bank.

October Is National Car Care Month

The American Lung Association is teaching motorists responsible behavior during the nationwide observance of 'National Car Care Month' in October, driving home the message that properly maintained cars can decrease air pollution, improve lung health, increase gas mileage and save the car owner money.

"Motor vehicle exhaust is comprised of many dangerous pollutants that contribute to lung disease, including carbon monoxide, hydrocarbons and nitrogen oxides," warns Alfred Munzer, M.D., president of the American Lung Association. "These harmful auto exhaust emissions can cause headaches, chest pains and drowsiness. When they interact in the atmosphere, these emissions can also burden healthy lungs, making it difficult to breathe."

According to the Lung Association, motor vehicle emissions are responsible for nearly 40 percent of the air pollution in the United States. Many auto service centers have exhaust analyzers that make emissions testing quick, easy and inexpensive. "Emissions testing should be a regular part of all auto repair checks," says Dr. Munzer.

A recent Gallup poll conducted for the American Lung Association found that 90 percent of Americans feel that air pollution is a serious health problem. The poll also found that 96 percent of Americans agree that it is the responsibility of car owners to maintain their vehicles to reduce air pollution. These are encouraging results, especially since air pollution caused by motor vehicle emissions can be reduced by simply keeping cars and trucks in better running condition.

Properly maintained vehicles pollute less, run better, last longer and get better gas mileage. Regular auto tune-ups can improve fuel efficiency by up to 15 percent. Most cars built since 1975 have catalytic converters which, along with electronic ignition systems, can reduce harmful emissions by up to 90 percent. These emission control devices, if properly inspected and maintained, can boost a car's performance and fuel efficiency.

Using leaded gas in a car that requires unleaded gas reduces both sparkplug and oil filter life. This practice can also damage both the exhaust system and the catalytic converter. Properly adjusted sparkplugs and ignition can also help decrease harmful air pollution and boost fuel efficiency.

Two brochures, "Car Care and Clean Air" and "Get a Check-up for Your Car," are available from local American Lung Association offices by calling 1(800)LUNG USA, or by writing: American Lung Association, GPO Box 586, NY, NY 10116-0596. The Lung Association's environmental health activities and other lung disease prevention and education programs are supported by the annual Christmas Seal campaign that was started in 1907 to fight tuberculosis.

Oak Lawn Reviews

It has been somewhat of a relief to have cooler and drier weather for a few days.

The Y Service League invited everyone to join them for a trip to Harrington's Restaurant in Chicago on Wednesday, Sept. 22nd. Harrington's is noted for great food, especially corned beef and cabbage. It will be a family-style dinner with roast turkey and dressing, oven-browned potatoes, assorted rolls & butter, coffee, tea or milk, a relish tray, corned beef and cabbage, peas and carrots, and assorted cake squares. This is to be followed by entertainment provided by Chet Mitchel who has performed at a number of conventions, clubs, cruises and more. The cost of the trip is $29 which includes luncheon and coach. Reservations may be made by calling Evelyn Schultz, chairperson, at 585-5029 or Cecelia Racevick at 499-1457. Buses leave Long John Silver's parking lot at 87th and Cicero Ave. promptly at 11 a.m. and return at approximately 5 p.m.

Everything changes. After seeing and using the American Legion Hall on Raymond Ave., it was torn down last month and already a house is being built there.

Sorry to report that Ben Kryszak suffered a stroke two weeks ago, but he is in therapy and doing quite well. Hang in there.

Beverly Bragg had her hip replaced last Tuesday at Christ Hospital and according to her husband Joe, is doing very well.

Dorothy Prinder, who has MS, spent the last month in the hospital. One may send cards to her at 64 Balbo, LaGrange Park, 60525. She is improving daily.

It came as a surprise to me to find there are groups that want to ban books, such as Tarzan of the Apes because the natives (blacks) were portrayed as simply savages. At the time that was written that was what they were. Some are objecting to Mark Twain. It is getting to the point that if it isn't "politically correct" by today's standards, they want to do away with it. I have read all those books and feel these people are wrong to keep them away from the current generation. Then, to my way of thinking, let them know what it was like in the "olden days" and how far we have come now.

Thomas and Lynn Jareczek are announcing the birth of their son, Kevin William, on Aug. 16th at Palos Community Hospital. Congratulations!

The rummage sale dates for Trinity Lutheran Church are Sept. 21st, 22nd and 23rd.

Stefanie Anna, daughter of Wayne Robert and Doreen Evelyn Herold, was baptized at Trinity Lutheran Church on Aug. 22nd. Karen Cozen and Mark Hahn were her sponsors. Congratulations!

The Oak Lawn Library is sponsoring a fall cruise on the Fox River with lunch and entertainment on Wednesday, Sept. 15th. The cost of the trip is $32 for members and $34 for others. Additional information is available from Evelyn Stanton at 424-3370.

St. Laurence Takes Second Place

The St. Laurence sophomore basketball team placed second at the recently concluded Luther South summer basketball league, advancing to the championship game before falling to Hubbard 56-43. The Vikings advanced to the title match after defeating the hosts in a playoff game. Against Hubbard, the Vikes took a 22-20 halftime lead but the Greyhounds, first place finishers during league play, held the Vikes in check at the outset of the second half.

Leading St. Laurence in scoring in the championship game were Marc Milanowski with 14 points and Blaine Roach who scored 11. Milanowski contributed 10 of his points in the first half while Roach scored 9 of his 11 in the second half. Also denting the scoring column for the Vikes were: Bill Gannon and Sean Foley who scored 6 points apiece, Jim Adducci who scored 5 and Scott Zebio who added a free throw.

Milanowski also led in the rebounding department with 8 and Gannon and Foley added 5 rebounds each. Roach had a team-high 6 assists in the game.

Other members of the squad who dressed for the championship game include: Matt O'Neill, Kestutis Babarskis, Ryan McKinney, and Tim O'Reilly. Brian Thompson missed the game due to illness.

"We had a pretty good summer," commented sophomore coach Dennis Foley. "We were eliminated by Simeon on a last second shot in the De La Salle playoffs after beating Simeon in a great game. At Luther South, we finished in second place during the regular season and got to the championship game. This team did pretty well as freshmen and I'm looking for that to continue," he said.

As freshmen, the Vikings finished with a 7-5 Catholic League record, and were 11-8 overall.

We're banking on the future.

Y-Indian Guides Plan New Year

The YMCA Indian Guides have planned a fun-filled, exciting year for members. The Y-Indian Guides were founded in 1926 by Harold S. Keltner, a YMCA director. While on a hunting trip in Canada, an Indian Guide named Joe Friday told Keltner that "The Indian father raises his son, teaches him to hunt, fish, and all that he must know, while the white man allows the squaw to raise his son." These words inspired Keltner to start a new program to get fathers more involved with, and to learn to be "Pals Forever" with their son. The Indian Guides program helps bring fathers and sons together at an age when a boy needs the masculine influence in the growing up process.

This year's fun starts at 1 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 19th when the Guides will have a "Bike Hike" around the Oak Forest Bike Trail. Dads and sons will meet near the pavilion at "Yankee Woods," 162nd and Central. There, members and guests will be served free hot dogs, hamburgers, chili and drinks. Entertainment will also be provided, as the "Plainsmen of Old" will perform a show depicting the life style of early American mountain men. They will also display many original pioneer artifacts and allow members a 'hands on' experience with their collection. Anyone interested in joining is welcome.

Recruitment nights are: Monday, Sept. 13 at Tinley Park Service Building, 17355 S. 68th Court; Wednesday, Sept. 15 at Orland Park Building, 14650 Ravinia Dr.; Tuesday, Sept. 21st at Our Savior's Lutheran Church, 8607 S. Narragansett, Burbank; and Thursday Sept. 23 at Trinity Presbyterian Church, 10600 S. Kostner, Oak Lawn.

Call the YMCA at (708) 385-6700 or Nation Chief Rich Kopeikin at (708) 349-4072 for more information.

Public Input Given On County Districting Maps

Dear Friends,

On Aug. 25th, the Districting Committee of the Board of Commissioners of Cook County held the last of six public hearings to gain public testimony regarding configuration of the newly-created county board districts.

Community groups, civic organizations, political parties and private citizens offered a variety of alternatives that will be considered and they also made good use of the computer mapping system which was made available to them. I hope that the public faith and confidence in county government has been bolstered with the Districting Committee's efforts throughout this process.

Sept. 2nd was set to consider all map proposals and to consider all public input. The committee will approve one map on Sept. 13th and will present their final plan to the full board on Sept. 21st for adoption. Upon approval, 17 single-member districts will be established.

At the Aug. 3rd board meeting, commissioners passed the Cook County Ethics Ordinance which "requires all Cook County officials and employees to abide by a Code of Conduct which sets forth general directives to ensure fair and honest government in Cook County."

The ordinance specifically deals with campaign finance contributions of persons doing business with the county or seeking to do business with the county. It also addresses conflicts of interest, improper influence, dual employment, confidential information, county-owned property, nepotism, post employment restrictions and political activity.

The ordinance also establishes a five-member Cook County Board of Ethics which is responsible for the implementation and enforcement of the Code of Conduct. Questions regarding the Cook County Ethics Ordinance should be directed to the Cook County Board of Ethics, 118 N. Clark St., Room 624, Chicago, IL 60602.

House Bill 2080, which would require all taxing districts in Cook County to hold public hearings on their tax levies during the first week of December, is awaiting Gov. Jim Edgar's signature. The governor's approval would establish "Citizens Awareness Week."

The purpose of this legislation is to allow the public to more directly focus on property tax increases by holding taxing districts' levy meetings on a specific day of the year. Taxing bodies, regardless of the levy they would be seeking, would have to hold a public meeting at a certain time every year.

In theory, this is a good plan that would further solicit public input. However, there are drawbacks that need consideration if the plan is to work effectively.

For instance, not every taxing district follows the same fiscal calendar, which disrupts the proposal for public hearings to be held at a specific time each year.

Also, an individual would have to devote a great deal of time and effort to this process due to the complexity of government budgets. The time it would take to read and put together specific arguments and then wait through lengthy budget discussions to be heard could become quite a burden.

If, however, these problems could be worked out, this legislation would make taxing bodies more accountable and give interested individuals and organizations time to organize their views on impending tax increases.

The Cook County's Sheriff's Office continues to offer the Sheriff's Speakers Bureau to community groups, professional organizations and schools throughout Cook County at no cost.

The Speakers Bureau is designed to provide direct access and information about the sheriff's office. Information is provided on a variety of topics including but not limited to gang awareness, senior citizen safety, combating drug abuse, establishing Neighborhood Watch programs and child sexual abuse awareness.

Presentations are also available on the day-to-day operations of the sheriff's office, including information about the Cook County Jail and the Cook County court system.

For further information or to set up a presentation, interested persons may call (312) 443-4242.

Sincerely,

Robert P. Gooley

Cook County Commissioner

IDOT Is Holding Public Hearings

The Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) is holding public hearings next week to receive comments and answer questions about the prospective employee commute options program required by the U.S. Government. The program applies to all employers, both public and private, with 100 or more employees reporting to a single worksite in most of Northeastern Illinois. Specifically included are all of Cook, Lake, McHenry, DuPage, Kane and Will Counties; Auxsable and Goose Lake Townships in Grundy County; and Oswego Township in Kendall County.

"The program is mandated by the U.S. Clean Air Act which requires trip reduction methods in those areas of the country designated as severe non-attainment for ozone," Richard Christopher, IDOT chief deputy counsel, explained.

The scheduled area public hearing is on Friday, Sept. 10th from 10 a.m. to 12 noon and from 2 to 5 p.m., auditorium, ground floor, James R. Thompson (State of Illinois) Center, 100 W. Randolph St., Chicago.

The employee commute options program will require employers to survey their employees to determine how and when they report to work. In some cases, employers will be required to develop plans to increase the occupancy of the vehicles in which employees get to work. Credit will be given for such strategies as compressed work weeks and telecommuting which do not result in increased vehicle occupancy, but do reduce the number and length of vehicle trips.

Program requirements can be obtained by contacting Christopher at IDOT, 310 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago 60604, (312) 793-4838.

PUNKY QB SPEAKS OUT... Jim McMahon, the new Minnesota Viking quarterback and former QB for the Super Bowl champion Bears, says he can hardly wait to meet his former team in this Sunday's game in the "Humphdome." But before the two NFL teams clash, the punky QB wants to set the record straight about why he was traded to the San Diego Chargers before the 1989 season. "It wasn't as much Ditka as everybody said it was," McMahon says. "It was the owner (Mike McCaskey), flat out, that wanted to get rid of me." McMahon said it was fine with him because he had had enough of McCaskey anyway. "He (McCaskey) felt he was the guy who won us the Super Bowl in 1985," says McMahon. "He inherited a team that was put together by former Bear general manager Jim Finks." McMahon went on to say the Super Bowl Bears were a great football team, but in his opinion McCaskey wanted to take all the credit for putting the team together.

HOLLIS RESNIK and STEVE CARELL (inset) will co-star in the world premiere of "Tour de Farce" which opens next Monday at the Wisdom Bridge Theatre. Resnik and Carell star as a couple who are resting in a hotel room prior to their appearance on a tabloid talk show. Their leisure is disturbed by a parade of outrageous characters, including a maid, a U.S. Senator, a model and a singing nun. Resnik and Carell play all the characters in the play by Chicagoans Kingsley Day and Phillip LaZebnik. The play is slated to run through Oct. 3 at the Wisdom Bridge Theatre which is located at 1559 W. Howard. "The Triumph of Love," a play by Pierre Marivaux, will have its Chicago premiere at the Court Theatre, the professional theatre at the University of Chicago on Sept. 23. The McFarlane Singers will be "calling you" when they perform "The Desert Song" as part of "Romberg Remembered," the story of the life of prolific composer Sigmund Romberg on Sept. 26 at Mareva's Restaurant at 1250 Milwaukee Ave. The show features three dozen of Romberg's most beloved melodies.

JOEY RASSOW-KANTOR and MARJI BANK (inset) appear in the critically acclaimed production of Neil Simon's "Lost in Yonkers" which will celebrate its one year anniversary at the Royal George Theatre on Sept. 30. Set in 1942, "Lost in Yonkers" is the story of two young brothers who are left in the care of their grandmother, while their father goes off to sell scrap iron in the south. The grandmother rules the house with an iron fist that has made all four of her own children misfits, weaklings and even a mobster. "Killer Joe," a powerful and frightening story of a son and his father who plot to kill the son's mother (and father's ex-wife) to collect on her insurance policy, has been extended indefinitely at the Next Theatre Company's Next Lab in Evanston. Meanwhile, Eugene Ionesco's classic absurdist play, "Rhinceros," is slated as the first production of the Next Theatre Company's 1993/94 mainstage season opening on Sept. 21.

KARA ZEDIKER and DAVID MOONEY (inset) star in "Oleanna," David Mamet's critically acclaimed, highly controversial examination of sexual politics, slated to open next Monday night at Chicago's Wellington Theatre. The play is a riveting story of "war between the sexes" as a middle-aged university professor and an undergraduate female student are locked in battle which can be interpreted as sexual harassment depending on one's point of view. "The Phantom of the Opera" will return to the Drury Lane Oakbrook Terrace on Sept. 17 for a run through Oct. 10.

BRAIN RESEARCH DRAIN... The talk all over Washington these days is over President Clinton's budget and proposed health care plan. The plan is under fire from many quarters but none more so than the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill. President Clinton's plan calls for cutting the budget of the National Institute for Mental Health and the much needed brain research department by $7 million. In the past six years, the research budget for the study of the brain has tripled, but for the first time ever President Clinton and his administration are requesting less funding for brain research than the current level. A few short months ago, Tipper Gore, vice president Al Gore's wife, was in Chicago telling the press how the administration planned to support mental health.

The reigning Miss Universe, Dayanara Torres, will be a guest at the Drake Hotel on Sept. 21st and 22nd. The 18 year old beauty was born in Toa Alta, Puerto Rico, a small town in the northern part of the island.

In her winning statement to the judges, Miss Universe said, "I would like to make an impact in any economically disadvantaged country. In that way, I would be helping to develop the future of children." She also encouraged people everywhere to volunteer to help others in need. She has traveled to Mexico, across the United States, to Europe and Japan, and has an upcoming agenda of travel on behalf of UNICEF to visit schools and hospitals for children.

Earlier this year, Lancome Cosmetics named her "The Most Beautiful Face" and she has modeled for several other product lines.

On completion of her reign as Miss Universe in 1994, the 5'8½" blue-eyed Dayanara Torres will resume her studies at The University of San Juan, to become an orthodontist.

According to Dan Flynn, producer, "This is the third year we've made the offer in an effort to let the community know what we do and just how well we do it." The 93-94 season opener, "Everybody Loves Opal," runs Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 17th, 18th and 19th. Eighty free tickets have been set aside for the 3 p.m.

POLICE CALLS

The following incidents were reported by the Oak Lawn Police Department. Readers are reminded that an arrest by police does not constitute a finding of guilt and only a court of law can make that determination.

On Aug. 26th, Gerald Misalek of Oak Lawn reported he left his vehicle parked at the rear of Town & Country Lounge, 9700 S. Cicero. He returned to his truck approximately 45 minutes later and found a Bosch hammer gun, valued at $900, was missing.

On the 28th at 10:30 a.m., Russell Mirabelli, an employee at Radio Shack, 4819 W. 95th St., reported persons unknown had damaged seven components (legs & rafters) of a temporary tent that had been rented. Estimated damage is $227.80.

John T. Mulrenin of Oak Lawn reported someone entered his unlocked truck and van and removed a CB radio and Vox portable telephone, for an estimated loss of $200.

Richard Jefferson, an employee of Williams Awning Co., Oak Park, reported his truck had broken down and while he was gone to get help, persons unknown removed $1,945 worth of tools.

At 12:28 p.m., Herman Molk of Oak Lawn reported that someone had damaged his 4x4 ft. thermopane picture window by what appears to have been a BB or pellet shot. Cost to repair is $400.

At 3:07 a.m., Xhanteau Hardin of Chicago had rented a room at the Miami Motel, 9041 S. Cicero. After Hardin left the following day, the maid reported someone had smeared black and white-colored snack cake on the walls and carpeting and on floors.

Michael O'Keefe of Oak Lawn told police he and two friends had stopped at Rosie's drive-through, 10235 S. Cicero Ave., behind a black Mustang with license plate MURAD, who had been served, and they waited for him to proceed. When he didn't, Michael honked his horn several times and yelled for the driver to hurry up. The offenders exited their car and Michael and his friends exited their car. They saw Mohamed Murad, 23, allegedly pull out a bag and draw a handgun. Rawia Murad, 18, stood between Michael and Mohamed and told him to forget it and leave. The offenders then got into their car and drove north on Cicero. Police stopped the offenders' car at 99th and Kenton and received permission from Mohamed, owner of the car, to search it. They found a .45 caliber Ruger handgun in the trunk and a magazine with 7 rounds in the glove compartment. Mohamed was charged with aggravated assault and unlawful use of a weapon, and Rawia and Zuhair Barakat, 20, of Hickory Hills, also in the car, were charged with unlawful use of a weapon.

Police are searching for a man who took $800 from a clerk at Sherwin-Williams Paints, 5525 W. 87th St. A man came into the store, looked at wallpaper, then walked up to the counter and pointed a semi-automatic handgun at the clerk and demanded money. When the clerk had difficulty in opening the register, the offender said, "I'm going to shoot, right now." The clerk handed the money to him and the offender left.

At 8:50 p.m., a 17 year old youth told police he was grabbed by the throat as he was walking in the 5900 block of W. 87th St. The man pulled his arm behind his back and said, "I have a knife. Give me your money." The victim hit the man in the face with a rollerskate and the offender staggered away.

On Aug. 29th, Shannon Jones of Burbank reported that during the night someone removed the following from his locked and parked vehicle: a radar detector, 30 C.D. recordings with SMJ initialed on the case and $6 cash for an estimated loss of $1,051.

An armed robbery took place at Terry's gas station, 9701 S. Cicero, at 10:21 p.m. The male black offender entered the station and asked for cigarettes and when the attendant, Dolores O'Mara, turned to get them, he pulled out a gun and said, "Give me all your money." O'Mara removed all the currency and gave it to him, then laid down on the floor as the offender instructed, and he fled. He got $328.

On Aug. 30th, a clerk at J.J. Peppers, 9304 S. Cicero, reported she saw a black female put packages of medicine and cosmetics in her purse and pockets. The clerk told her

As the A.F.S. Evergreen Park/Oak Lawn communities, along with the A.F.S. host families were saying good-bye to the four, foreign exchange students who lived and attended school in the area there was a short breather before 28 foreign exchange students arrived in what is known as the "bus stop." This is a three to five-day stopover for students who are leaving their home in the U.S. and preparing for the return to their home country.

Basketball Camp For Girls

The Oak Lawn Park District is now offering a basketball camp for girls, grades 3rd to 8th, through T.H.E. (Total Hoop Education) Basketball Academy, Sept. 18th through Oct. 30th at the community pavilion, 9401 S. Oak Park Ave. The six-week, 18-session camp will run on Monday and Wednesday from 7 to 8:30 p.m. and Saturday from 9 to 10:30 a.m. Competition will be in two levels: beginning level for grades 3, 4 and 5, and advanced level for grades 6, 7 and 8. Players will be directed to the level that best matches their individual skills.

The site director is Marty Hawkins who recently completed 13 years as the head women's coach at Loyola University. Each student will receive a Baden girl's regulation basketball, Academy T-shirt, a personal "player profile" outlining strengths and weaknesses, along with areas of improvement, and an intense six-week academic setting to learn basketball.

"COMPULSIVE" BACK PROBLEMS

If there's a heavy object that needs to be moved, maybe you don't want to wait for help to move it. This can happen when you're rearranging furniture or if a heavy box or some other object is in your way. Unfortunately, this may lead to back injuries. You may not notice the pain right away, but when it persists, that's when you need help.

According to one survey, sprains and strains of the back are the third major cause of limited activity. Only heart disease and arthritic conditions surpass back problems. Each year, more than a million men, women, and children suffer back injuries. And many of them are caused by lifting heavy objects.

There's an art to lifting. Rule number one is not to lift anything too heavy without help. Rule number two is to plant your feet about a foot apart, squat down, and keep your spine straight before you lift with your arms in close to your body. And you should lift with legs, thighs, arms and shoulders, never with your back.

And, whenever you suffer back pain, the most important rule of all is to get the chiropractic treatment you need.

If you have any health questions please feel free to call our office.

Board Looks At Changes In T.V. Cable Rates

At Tuesday's regular meeting of the Oak Lawn Village Board of Trustees, the matter of changes for cable TV companies was brought up by Trustee Michael Walsh who enumerated some of the changes made by the government and after Nov. 15th cable companies will be able to raise their rates. It was agreed that the village should file with the FCC about regulations and about the rates. After more discussion it was pointed out time is getting short and that it should be done now. Trustee Marjorie Ann Joy said a meeting of the cable committee scheduled on Sept. 27th, was moved up to Sept. 20th at 7:30 p.m. and citizens are invited to attend.

Trustee Robert Streit questioned some of the charges made by the attorneys for the police & fire commission and others who had asked for opinions.

Trustee Walsh also said he had been talking with Police Chief Frank Gilbert about changes that can now be used for issuing parking tickets and tickets for other offenses and asked Gilbert to come to the meeting of the legal and ordinance committee to go into detail.

He also mentioned that the village should enforce collection of fees for the ambulance service and said that most health insurances cover this.

Trustee William Keane brought up the subject of the empty space left when the firehouse was demolished, now being used as parking for library patrons and felt that the board should make plans to beautify that space.

Progress on a senior citizen bus was given by Trustee Ron Stancik, who said he had contacted Pace and the park district to see if something could be worked out with them. Both said their bus was too busy to take on any more. He went to Willett Bus Co. which said the village would have to purchase a new bus at a cost of about $40,000. The seniors have raised $10,000 toward obtaining a bus.

Emmett Meyer of the seniors council said Willett may sell a used bus with the required lift because they have to get a new one every seven years and that many churches are purchasing them, they are in excellent condition and last for a long time. Stancik said he will continue to make inquiries and will look into some of the suggestions given this evening.

Stancik also suggested the pilot program started two years ago at 101st and Central to slow down traffic near schools be expanded. He said he can name at least three places where it would work and said he had made inquiries in a town that uses them for traffic. The lights are portable and operated by the crossing guard and the monies collected from tickets pays for them.

The request for a class D liquor license for White Hen Pantry, 4501 W. 95th St., was approved by a 4-2 vote. Joy is against providing liquor licenses to convenience stores and Streit agreed.

Oak Lawn Police Department commendations were presented to Lisa Davis, Paul Dobias Jr., Raymond Fredericks and James Wallet for the detailed information that assisted the department in making the arrest of the driver in a fatal hit-and-run accident. Also cited were Master Sergeant William Davis and member of the SSATIN Unit, Detectives Daniel Foley, Michael Kaufmann and Gerald Vetter for a joint investigation which resulted in the recovery of eight stolen vehicles valued at $140,000, drugs and the arrest of seven felons including one individual wanted for a carjacking. All were presented with plaques.

Village President Ernest F. Kolb thanked them for their cooperation which makes Oak Lawn a safer and better place to live. Police Chief Gilbert praised all of them and pointed out what can be accomplished by agencies from other towns and cities working together.

Village Clerk A. Jayne Powers swore-in Kenneth Leonard to the rank of fire lieutenant; Gary Seivert to the rank of fire engineer; and Gary D. Bettenhausen to the rank of firefighter.

Commission Meeting

The Village of Oak Lawn Electrical Commission will meet on Wednesday, Sept. 22nd, at 5 p.m. in the conference room in the office of inspectional services, 5240 W. Dumke Drive, according to Village Clerk A. Jayne Powers.

Propose Weapons Ban

Cook County Board President Richard Phelan along with State's Attorney Jack O'Malley and Sheriff Michael Sheahan recently introduced an ordinance banning the sale and possession of semiautomatic assault weapons as well as assault ammunition in Cook County. Homicides committed in Chicago with semiautomatic assault weapons increased fourfold, from 70 in 1983 to 297 in 1992. One-quarter of all trauma cases treated at County Hospital in 1992 were from multiple gun shot wounds, up 20 percent from 1982.

"The numbers are staggering," Phelan said. "There is no reason why people need to use these guns of destruction. They are not designed for hunting or sport; they are used to kill people and we need to get them off the street."

The ordinance bans assault ammunition and over 50 types of semiautomatic weapons which can be easily converted to automatic firearms. Persons in violation of the ordinance may be subject to up to six months in jail and/or be fined up to $1,000. Persons legally possessing an assault weapon or ammunition have 14 days from the effective date of the ordinance to either remove the weapon from Cook County, modify the weapon or turn it in to the sheriff's office.

Highlights from the proposed ordinance include: makes it illegal to possess, sell or transfer assault weapons or ammunition; exempts legitimate law enforcement or security-related use, i.e. armored truck drivers; penalizes violators up to six months in prison and/or fine of $500 to $1,000; persons currently possessing these weapons have 14 days from the effective date of the ordinance to either remove it from the county, modify it or surrender the weapon to the sheriff's office; applies to suburban Cook County but does not preclude additional municipal legislation.

This ordinance will not hinder legitimate hunters and sportsmen. "Hunting rifles are shoulder-held and require precision," Phelan said. "Assault weapons are hip-held and can be spray-fired inflicting damage without regard to aim or precision."

"Gun violence has escalated steadily and much of the increase is due to high-powered assault weapons, usually carried by gang members," said O'Malley. "We will vigorously prosecute this ordinance whenever the need arises."

"Assault weapons are manufactured, sold and used for one reason only and that is to kill people, whether it is on the battlefield or on the streets," Sheahan said. "We fully support any measure that attempts to take these deadly weapons off of the streets."

"This ordinance is not going to make gun violence in the county disappear, but if it prevents even one more senseless assault weapon killing, it's worth it," Phelan concluded.

'Getting The Job You Want' Seminar

A "Career Success: Getting the Job You Want" workshop is scheduled for 7 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 30th at the Oak Lawn Public Library, 9427 Raymond Ave. The program is aimed at a broad audience; job seekers, those wishing to re-enter the job market and those wanting to advance their careers. The one and one-half hour session will be filled with targeted, practical information. The program presenters are John Elson, MBA, and Dick Wright, PhD, partners in Elson Wright Associates, a training and development organization.

He has conducted seminars and workshops throughout the country and has undertaken a variety of consulting assignments in both the for-profit and the non-profit sectors. Northeastern University. He conducts ongoing education programs at William Rainey Harper College and the City Colleges of Chicago.

Topics to be touched on during the program include career assessment, job components, personal work style, skill definition and skill description, integrating skills with likes and dislikes, master career planning, proactivity, image development and interviewing issues.

The program, open to the public, will be held in the lower level meeting room. Registration is not required, but seating will be on a first-come, first-seated basis.

QMB Program Is Available

The Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA) is continuing its efforts to enroll individuals who are eligible for a benefit known as the Qualified Medicare Beneficiary, or QMB, program.

This benefit is available to a certain group of elderly or disabled individuals with low incomes and very limited assets. The eligible person would be entitled to have their Medicare premiums, deductibles, and coinsurance paid by Medicaid. If you are eligible, you will not have to pay for your:

- *Monthly Part A premium of $221
- *Hospital deductible of $676
- *Other Medicare coinsurance costs such as daily charges for extended hospital and skilled nursing facility stays
- *Monthly Part B premium of $36.60 and annual $100 deductible

*Coinsurance costs, the first 20% of approved charges that Medicare will not pay for physician services

In order to qualify as a QMB, you must be entitled to Medicare Hospital Insurance (Part A) and be either age 65 years or older, or disabled. Your annual income must be at or below $601 per month for one person or $806 per month for a couple. Income includes Social Security benefits, pensions and wages.

These income levels are higher in Alaska and Hawaii. In addition, resources such as bank accounts, stocks and bonds cannot exceed $4,000 for one person or 6,000 for a couple. Some things — like the home you live in, one automobile, burial plots, home furnishings, personal jewelry and life insurance — usually do not count as resources.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

A few key issues were not raised in the recent media coverage of the negotiated waste disposal agreement between the Robbins Recycling and Trash-to-Energy Facility and the Solid Waste Agency of the South Suburban Mayors and Managers Association.

This contract offers benefits and municipal protections unrivaled in the industry. Organizations who truly care about the environment, such as the World Wildlife Fund, Keep American Beautiful and the National Audubon Society and 37 states join Illinois in endorsing an integrated approach to trash management that includes trash-to-energy.

As strong as many local household recycling programs have become, not everyone recycles. Unlike landfills, the Robbins facility's $30 million automated recycling system will increase recycling rates at no extra cost to the municipalities by collecting recyclables not removed through community programs. And since communities are not required to guarantee a minimum amount of trash for disposal, municipalities will not be penalized if the trash they generate is reduced through aggressive recycling programs.

Trash remaining after recycling will be used to produce electricity for thousands of suburban homes. Recycling this otherwise useless trash into energy will save more than 240,000 tons of coal each year currently being burned to generate electricity.

The Robbins facility will also reduce reliance on landfills. Only ten percent of the trash brought to the facility will remain in the form of ash which is safe for disposal in landfills. Recent articles have been misleading on the issue of ash. The pending Supreme Court case regarding ash will decide whether or not ash needs to be tested. The Robbins contract guarantees that ash from our facility will pass current environmental testing standards or we will pay any additional disposal costs. Ash is presently being used in New York and Florida in road-bed construction and as landfill cover. To maximize our recycling efforts we are currently working on programs to recycle ash from the Robbins facility.

We look forward to serving the needs of the south suburbs, now and into the future, with an environmentally and economically superior solution to solid waste management.

Sincerely,
James J. DiBiasi, Vice-President
Reading Energy Company

If your income is too high for the QMB program, you may still be eligible for Specified Low Income Medicare Beneficiary (SLMB) coverage. Under this program, Medicaid will pay your monthly Medicare Part B (Supplementary Medical Insurance) premium of $36.60. It will not pay for your Medicare deductibles or coinsurance. To qualify for this benefit, you must be a Medicare Part A beneficiary with monthly income under $659 for an individual and $884 for a couple.

If you believe you qualify for this assistance and already have Medicare Part A, contact your state, county or local medical assistance office (e.g., social services or welfare office) and ask how to apply for the QMB or SLMB Program. For more information, you may also call the Health Care Financing Administration's toll free number at 1-800-638-6833.

Homecoming Week

The week's events include homeroom decorating, a poster night competition, Viking Wear Day, open gym night, pie eating contests, and paint your face day. The school week concludes on Friday with a pep rally later in the day. Thursday is Teacher Dress-Up Day. On Thursday night, the Homecoming Committee will decorate the gymnasium for the Homecoming Pep Rally on Friday. A variety of activities are planned for Friday including a morning barbecue in the school parking lot, Viking Apparel Day, paint your face, and dunk tanks. The day is culminated by the pep rally.

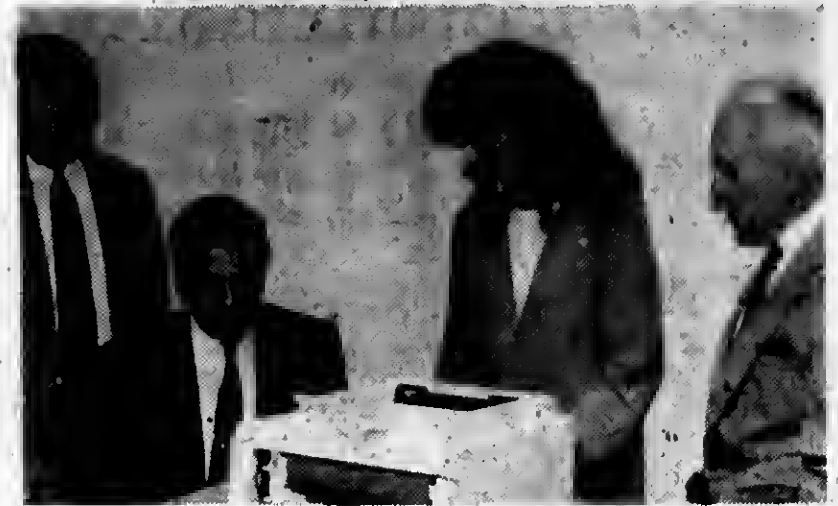

On Saturday, Sept. 18th, the varsity football team takes on Gordon Tech at Viking Field. Game time is 1:30 p.m. Homecoming week concludes on Saturday evening with the Homecoming Dance in the school's dining facility.

Tickets for the dance are limited to St. Laurence students and alumni. Non-stop music will be provided.

'55/Alive'

There will be a '55/Alive' course at Worth Township Center, 11601 S. Pulaski Rd., on Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 22nd and 23rd. Classes start at 9 a.m. and last until 1 p.m. Participants must attend both days to receive a certificate that entitles them to a discount on their auto insurance. The cost of the course is $8 a person and class size is limited to 24.

Call 371-2900 for reservations or information.

Cook County Board President Richard Phelan (seated) and Cook County Chief Judge Harry Comerford examine a court document that was converted from a handwritten child support agreement by an electronic tablet called a scriptwriter which reads the terms then transfers and prints them as a court order to be signed by a judge. Under the program, child support and parentage actions are heard by administrative hearing officers instead of a judge. The program is designed to save time waiting to hear a case, reduce the actual time in court, free judges to hear contested support and parentage cases and reduce the child support caseload. Also shown (left to right) are Chairman of the Judicial Advisory Council William Quinlan and Sharon Shapiro, director of the program.

"Winning isn't everything, it's the only thing," saying (1953) often attributed to Vanderbilt University coach Red Sanders.

In 1962 the saying was modified by Vince Lombardi, Green Bay Packer coach, to: "Winning isn't everything, but wanting to win is."

Fast forward to 1993 and one Chicago football writer led off his report of Notre Dame beating Michigan 27-23 by saying: "The book is dead. At least all talk about it. Now the focus will be on Irish lore, on winning games when they weren't supposed to, on how Rockne would be proud."

The book the scribe refers to is, of course, Under the Tarnished Dome: How Notre Dame Betrayed Its Ideals for Football Glory by investigative reporter Don Yeager and Sports Illustrated senior writer Douglas S. Looney.

The book is a highly critical look at the Irish football program under coach Lou Holtz.

The authors of the book interviewed 84 former Notre Dame players, 90 percent of them on tape, who willingly talked about widespread steroid use at Notre Dame and portrayed coach Holtz as callous and blind to players' injuries.

According to an article in the Sept. 13 Sports Illustrated by Richard O'Brien, "The school's response to the book was so swift, so deftly orchestrated and so scathing that writer Don Yeager was shaken."

"I told a friend I felt like I should move in with Salman Rushdie," Yeager said, as the Notre Dame attack on his and Looney's 'motives and methodology' poured forth. "He told me I don't think Salman (who went into hiding after the Ayatollah Khomeini issued a death sentence in 1989 after the release of Rushdie's novel Satanic Verses and he was accused of blaspheming Islam) would want to be near you."

"If there was one error in the book, if one player out of the 84 interviewed had lied, that's what we would be talking about now," contends Yeager.

Meanwhile, the Notre Dame grist mill under the stewardship of Rev. E. William Beauchamp, the front man for the university, says the "whole premise upon which this was written is false."

Upon further examination Beauchamp admits the school sent former players copies of their quotes, asking, "Are you aware of how you're quoted?"

So far only two of the 84 players have responded and one was John Askin who wrote the university to say he was "blackmailed into the interview" and "would never have allowed [Yeager] to use my good name to promote a TRASH book."

Yeager finds Askin's response curious because his original interview is on tape. Furthermore, he says he discussed all of Askin's quotes with him in March and, on Aug. 29, sat down with Askin at his dining room table to go over the book. "I'm proud of what I said in the book," Yeager quotes Askin as saying. John Askin's "TRASH book" letter to the university was dated the next day.

Reading all the controversy swirling around coach Lou Holtz must make Chicago Bulls star Michael Jordan green with envy (no pun intended).

A couple of years ago a Chicago sports writer wrote a book The Jordan Rules claiming Jordan was a tyrant and rough on his teammates at practice sessions.

The media devoted pages and pages to the book and the electronic media for weeks cornered other Bulls players to get their opinions and quotes.

In short, nobody seemed to think going after Michael Jordan was wrong.

Then earlier this year, Jordan was again the focal point of a book written about his gambling and radio and TV sports shows and the sports pages, and many of the public, felt he should answer the charges.

One reporter even went so far as to ask Jordan if he shouldn't do something about his gambling, and then when Michael's father James was murdered there were suggestions made in the media that his murder was linked to Michael's gambling.

Michael Jordan didn't have damage control experts and spin doctors like Lou Holtz does, but he did eventually face the media himself to answer their questions and to set the record straight.

Meanwhile back in South Bend, ABC-TV sent Mary Ann Grabavoy to interview Rev. Beauchamp about the book. Grabavoy, a Notre Dame alum, lobbed a few softball questions at Beauchamp who fielded them with ease.

Now that Notre Dame has knocked off Michigan, Lou Holtz is beginning to talk just a little bit about the book. But in true Holtzman-style, he answered a CNN reporters question about steroid use with a quip. Holtz who is about 5-foot-10 and weighs 140 pounds, deferred comments on steroid use to university officials and then added: "Look at me. I really believe in steroids."

Under the Tarnished Dome will probably not become a best-seller, but the book does question a program that is no longer 'holier than thou.'

Notre Dame will most likely keep on winning ("Winning isn't everything, it's the only thing"), perhaps even win a national championship, and Under the Tarnished Dome will soon be forgotten.

However, what might not so quickly be forgotten, is what former Notre Dame player Tom Riley said to authors Yeager and Looney: "What separates Notre Dame from any other school? Absolutely nothing."

Complaints On Reassessment To Be Heard

Homeowners in Worth, Thornton and Lyons Townships can inquire about their 1993 property reassessment notices and file complaints on Saturday mornings in addition to regular hours at the Assessor's Office in the Circuit Court Buildings in Bridgeview, Markham and Maywood as well as the Cook County Building in Chicago, Assessor Thomas C. Hynes announced recently.

Office hours are 8:45 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. until 12 noon on Saturdays. The deadline for filing complaints for Worth and Thornton is Oct. 1st, and for Lyons it is Oct. 7th.

The additional hours are part of Hynes' special taxpayer services program called Project Reachout, where a hearing officer will speak individually with each homeowner and help them complete any complaint forms. Homeowners do need to bring along their "Notice of Proposed Assessed Valuation."

"When people receive their assessment notices is the time to ask questions and make corrections, not after the tax bills are mailed," Hynes said. He also noted that an assessment determines only what percentage one pays of all real estate taxes, but the dollar amount of any increase in those overall taxes comes from the spending requests of local taxing agencies.

For more property assessment information, contact Hynes office in downtown Chicago at the County Building, 118 N. Clark, Rm. 301, (312) 443-7550; TDD (312) 443-6181, or at any of the branch offices located in Circuit Court Buildings: in Bridgeview, 10200 S. 76th Ave., Rm. 237, (708) 974-6451; Maywood, 1500 Maybrook Sq., Rm. 005, (708) 865-6032; Markham, 16501 S. Kedzie Ave., Rm. 237, (708) 210-4100; Rolling Meadows, 2121 Euclid Ave., Rm. 237, (708) 818-2444; Skokie, 5600 Old Orchard Rd., Rm. 149, (708) 470-7237.

Homeowners may also seek assistance at their local suburban township assessor's office.

College Info Night

Brother Rice High School, 10001 S. Pulaski, is hosting a college information night for Rice parents on Monday, Sept. 20th at 7:30 p.m. in the cafeteria. General admission criteria will be reviewed along with the financial aid process and typical college costs. Several handouts will be available and a major portion of the evening is to be devoted to answering parents' questions.

On Monday, Sept. 27th at 7:30 p.m., Brother Rice and Mother McAuley will be hosting their combined annual college night program. Representatives from well over 100 colleges and universities will attend to answer questions about their institutions. It is an opportunity for parents to obtain applications and other materials from these representatives.

MDA Telethon Is Success

The 28th annual Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon raised a record $46,014,922 million in pledges and contributions to the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) during its weekend broadcast.

"The outpouring of support for MDA's lifesaving work is nothing short of phenomenal," said Lewis, MDA national chairman. "Despite the floods that have affected midwestern states, and the public's concern about the economy, America came through once again!"

The funds raised by the telethon support MDA's service and research programs to benefit people with 40 neuromuscular diseases.

"Incredible advances have been made by our researchers during the past year," added Lewis. "We're rapidly approaching the day we've all been waiting for. Our telethon viewers know that their support is needed now, more than ever."

SAT Meets

The S.A.T. (Suburban Activity Therapist) meeting will be held on Thursday, Sept. 16th at Chesterfield Savings and Loan in Frankfort. The meeting's focus is "Alzheimers." The formal meeting begins at 9 a.m. and the presentation at 10 a.m.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

Oak Lawn's Gene Johnson says he's unhappy with certain letter writers who have been "decrying the conservative viewpoint of such individuals as Daniel John Sobieski" (Aug. 19th).

Just to show readers how out of it Johnson is, in all of my born days, I can recall only one letter that ever accused Daniel John Sobieski of being "conservative." To repeat: only one. Johnson's.

And for good reason. Sobieski is no conservative. Sobieski is a jingoist reactionary.

That puts Sobieski somewhere off to the right of the last glacier masses that covered North America during the Pleistocene epoch, 500,000 years ago.

At least the glaciers had the good manners to withdraw from the scene. Sobieski's still frozen solid, awaiting the next thaw.

Why Gene Johnson would feel compelled to come to the aid of Daniel John Sobieski is anybody's guess.

Maybe Johnson needs the ice cubes.

Respectfully Yours,
Robert Bonnet

Tax Hike Not "Spending Cut"

By Dr. Richard L. Leshner, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

"The question is," said Alice in Lewis Carroll's Through the Looking Glass, "whether you can make words mean so many different things."

The great federal budget brouhaha in Washington continues with full force into yet another decade of deficit spending, with no rational resolution in sight, at least in part because the words used to discuss the issue have been deprived of meaning.

There was some hope earlier this year, however faint, that President Clinton might bring refreshing candor to discussion of the budget. Seasoned Washington hands speculated openly that this was a 'different' kind of president, one who spoke clearly and who did not dissemble in the face of difficult problems.

Those hopes were dashed early when the administration's budget was laid upon the congressional table. One of its more conspicuous elements was a proposal to raise the percentage of Social Security benefits that are taxable. That proposal was listed among the budget plan's 'spending cuts.'

Only in Washington can rational people label what is clearly a tax increase a 'spending cut' and not be hooted out of town. That the administration did so with minimal criticism speaks volumes about how remote the budget debate has become from reality. The level of obfuscation is so intense that words often change meaning in mid-speech.

The entire budget debate revolves around misuse of the word 'cut' as normal people understand it. To cut your family or business budget means to reduce the amount spent. But when Uncle Sam invokes cuts, the term refers to marginal restraints in potential spending increases. In other words, if spending on some federal program is projected to grow by $10 billion next year, and Congress limits that increase to $5 billion, the result in governmentese is a $5 billion 'spending cut.'

Within that context, we are told that the administration's budget will cut federal spending by $250 billion over a five-year period, and reduce the deficit by about $500 billion. That is pure Washington budget gibberish. If one accepts the administration's projections and estimates at face value, a highly specious action, total federal spending will actually increase by more than $300 billion a year during that time, and the annual deficit will decline from $285 billion to $202 billion, a reduction of only $83 billion. Any way you slice it, Clinton proposes to add upwards of $1 trillion to the national debt during his current term in office, and probably a lot more.

To be sure, the corruption of budget terminology was a bipartisan undertaking. In describing the proposed hike of Social Security taxes as a 'spending cut,' Clinton was merely following a precedent set by his Republican predecessors. No one in Congress or the White House, or any serious candidate for national office, is eager to champion real spending cuts. That is the root of our national fiscal dilemma, and why we, like Alice, are adrift among meaningless words that lead us nowhere.

Census Survey Being Taken

Local representatives of the U.S. Census Bureau are now visiting selected area households to conduct the monthly Survey of Income and Program Participation (SIPP), Stanley D. Moore, director of the bureau's Chicago regional office, announced.

SIPP is a continuing nationwide survey introduced in the fall of 1983, one of the nation's largest, with about 60,000 households participating.

Business Workshop

A special four-hour workshop for small business owners and managers on the techniques for getting a share of the business available from federal, state and local governments will be given on Wednesday, Sept. 22nd by SCORE (Service Corps of Retired Executives).

Focus will be on helping small business get some of the multi-billions of dollars in procurement contracts let out by government at all levels for goods and services which can be provided by small business.

Participants will be advised specifically what opportunities and requirements actually are—how to meet or avoid problems that may arise—how to assure government that they can fulfill their contractual obligations when their bid is low and the contract within their reach. These and other situations will be covered.

The workshop will be given at 500 W. Madison St. (Citicorp Center), in Suite 1250, Chicago, where SCORE is based in the Business Development Offices of U.S. Small Business Administration.

Workshop leaders are principally SCORE retired business and professional people with backgrounds in government procurement, who volunteer their services to provide counseling to the small-business community.

Advance registration is recommended. Send check or money order ($20) to SCORE, 500 W. Madison, Suite 1250, Chicago, IL 60661, or phone (312) 353-7724 for details and an application. Workshop starts promptly at 9 a.m. and continues until about 1 p.m.

Lasers And Oral Cancer

A new detection and treatment procedure makes mouth cancers glow so they can be easily destroyed by laser without damaging healthy tissue, according to Charles Liebow, a professor at State University of New York, Buffalo. The process involves injection of synthetic blood protein intravenously and it finds the cancer or pre-cancerous lesion, causing a glowing effect. The laser transforms the blood protein into a toxin and when it dies, the area sloughs off.

Immunizations For School Children

While most Illinois children entering school this fall will have been properly immunized as required by law, immunization rates among preschoolers are woefully low. Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Illinois is urging parents, public officials and the private sector to do more to solve this problem.

"Many of the diseases that can be prevented with vaccines strike preschool age children, sometimes leaving lifelong disabilities," said Blue Cross Vice-President Richard F. O'Connell. "Waiting until school age to begin immunizations is waiting too long."

The statewide immunization rate among preschoolers is 57 percent, according to the Illinois Department of Public Health. The rates in rural areas and inner cities are worse.

"The problem is not the availability of vaccines; it's the lack of access and lack of awareness," said O'Connell. "It's a public health disgrace that must be corrected."

O'Connell pointed out that Blue Cross and the Chicago Department of Health are addressing the problem in the state's largest city. Two mobile immunization units, called CareVans, travel throughout Chicago's inner-city neighborhoods vaccinating children at public housing complexes, churches, community centers and street fairs. This program and related education efforts have begun to improve the immunization rates in Chicago.

Public health analysts estimate that for every dollar spent on immunizations, ten dollars are saved in future health care costs. Sometimes the benefit is even greater. For example, it could easily cost thousands of dollars to treat a toddler

BY
WALTER H. LYSEN

The Worth Township Regular Republican Organization meets tonight, Sept. 16th, at the Johnson-Phelps VFW Post, 9510 52nd Ave. The featured guest is DuPage County State's Attorney Jim Ryan who is a candidate for Illinois Attorney General in next year's Primary Election. Ryan lost a close race to Democrat Roland Burris in 1990 and the state-wide exposure may have given him enough recognition to reverse that result. Also, Township GOP Committeeman Jeff Layhe said he will formally announce that he will not seek a second term in '94. ALL POINTS has information from an inside source that State Representative Maureen Murphy (R-36) seems to be the choice of power brokers in the GOP. The meeting starts at 8:15 sharp, and refreshments will be served.

At Monday's meeting between local officials and state agency directors regarding 'cooperation and understanding' local officials expressed grave concerns about a number of issues. Evergreen Park's Mayor Anthony Vacco was especially pointed in his criticisms. "The state continually talks about a 'partnership' between state and local governments. What the state apparently doesn't realize is that a partnership is a two-way street. With unfunded mandates, withdrawal of most of the surcharge monies originally directed to local communities, etc., the Governor and the Legislature are certainly not partners with local communities."

Vacco has repeatedly pointed out that mandates are passed down by virtually every governmental entity; federal, state county, and such agencies as the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District (MWRD) and others.

"These entities," Vacco says, "do not have any idea of how to balance a budget. Local governments are, for the most part, much more successful at this until the federal, state, county and the rest saddle us with these unreasonable demands. Send these people to me. I'll be glad to show them how to live within their means."

"My philosophy is 'if you don't have the money, how can you spend it.' This concept is lost on too many of our elected officials. If they would be fiscally responsible, their problems would be greatly reduced," Vacco added.

Cook County Board President Richard Phelan won the hearts of all local resident golfers this week with the news that the Forest Preserve District Golf Courses would cut their greens fees in half...to $10...for all with a resident identification card. The reduction is in effect only for the remainder of the '93 season and the '94 winter golf season. More information is available about getting a residential card and additional golf information by calling (708) 771-1190.

Bremen Township Republicans are holding their annual get acquainted picnic Sunday, Sept. 19, from 12 noon to 4 p.m. at El Morro Park (Victoria and Arroyo), Oak Forest. Austin Reunion

Thirty-five years ago, Bill Highland's "Fighting Tigers" of Austin High School, on a very cold Saturday at Soldier Field with a crowd of 55,000 people, played Fenwick High School for the 1958 Prep Bowl City Championship. This was the biggest game in prep football in the state that year. Austin won 20-7. Two weeks earlier, Austin defeated Chicago Vocational, with sophomore Dick Butkus playing middle linebacker, in an exciting 12-6 Public League championship game.

The 1958, 1959 and 1960 Austin football teams, cheerleaders and friends are having a reunion. Anyone who would like to attend is welcome. Ed Muscat from Washington State, Pete Kelley from Oregon, Bill Sebastian from Texas and Larry Preo from Indiana are just a few of the people who are going to attend the Austin 'social' on Saturday, Oct. 23rd at 6 p.m. at Villa Brunetti's, 9755 W. Grand Ave., Franklin Park. Bring a date, family or friends - anyone who wants to come is welcome.

For R.S.V.P. & additional information, call Yale Corcoran at (708) 665-9965 (home) or (708) 449-1300 (office).

IRS Payments Deferred

Some people who owe back taxes entered into payment agreements with the IRS. They promised to make payments every month until the balance is paid in full. In the past, IRS sent notices reminding people to make their payments. However, if you live in a federally declared disaster area, you will not receive these notices until sometime in October.

If possible, you should still make your payments as scheduled. If you were affected by the flood and cannot pay at this time, IRS will not assess any penalties. However, interest on any balance due will continue to be charged. Illinois residents can make payments directly to the Illinois Service Center, Kansas City, MO. 64999.

If you have any questions about this or any other tax topic, call the IRS at 1(800)829-1040 during normal working hours.

Be An Informed Donor

By Attorney General Roland W. Burris

Q. I was recently approached by someone asking for donations for Mississippi River flood victims. I was a little skeptical about which, if any, organization this person represented. How can one tell if a request for charitable contributions is legitimate?

A. We all know that there are many legitimate charities that are doing a tremendous job of collecting donations for flood victims. But unfortunately, we all need to know that some individuals take advantage of a situation and pose as representatives for a charity, collecting money that they have no intention of giving to victims.

In order to become an informed donor, ask questions when you are approached for contributions. Ask for the name of the charity, its address and telephone number. Ask if the organization is registered with the Attorney General's Office and if the solicitor is a volunteer or a paid solicitor. Find out what percentage of the money collected will actually go to help flood victims.

You may call the Attorney General's Charitable Trust Division at (312) 814-2595, or any one of the 17 Attorney General's Regional Offices to inquire about registration or to report a suspected fraud. Remember, charity fraud stops with an informed donor!

Child Support Service Location

Cook County Child Support application services are expanding to include two suburb courthouse locations. The pilot project, initiated by Aurelia Pucinski, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Cook County, in cooperation with the Circuit Court Judiciary and the Illinois Department of Public Aid, will offer enrollment into the free child support enforcement service called the IV-D Program at both the Skokie Courthouse, 5600 N. Old Orchard Road, and the Markham Courthouse, 16501 S. Kedzie Parkway.

Prior to the new pilot program, IV-D intake was only available at the 32 W. Randolph location in downtown Chicago. "The goal of the new program is to make the first step in obtaining child support a convenient one," said Pucinski. "For many citizens in Cook County, handling business in their neighborhood is a welcome reprieve from traveling to downtown Chicago with their children," Pucinski added.

Now with the application process taking place in the suburbs, only the court proceeding will need to be handled downtown.

The child support intake process will be available at the Skokie Courthouse on Tuesdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The phone number to make an appointment is (708) 470-5093. The process will be available at the Markham Courthouse on Thursdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Call (708) 210-4585 for an appointment.

An Expert's Skeptical Look At Clinton Deficit Reduction Plan

A University of Illinois economist has cast a skeptical eye at President Bill Clinton's ballyhooed 'deficit-reduction' budget, saying it does not address government's addiction to high spending. "What President Clinton is doing is buying time, while quietly worsening his successor's flexibility to deal with a larger problem in the future," said Earl L. Grinols, professor of economics and Kinkead Research Scholar at the U. of I. "The spending restraint assurances are as likely to occur as the deficit reduction projections of Gramm-Rudman I, Gramm-Rudman II and the 1990 tax compromise bill, none of which worked out as promised."

The Clinton plan, passed last month by the thinnest possible margin in Congress, purports to cut the federal deficit by $496 billion over five years. Examined closely, however, the deal is far less than advertised, said Grinols, a senior economist for the Council of Economic Advisors under President Reagan who has published widely in the area of public finance and macroeconomics.

For example, some $56 billion in 'cuts' will come from predicted savings on servicing the federal debt because of lower interest rates. Another $24 billion in budget reductions are, in fact, new fees, charges and taxes.

"What promised spending restraints there are will primarily appear in future years, we are told," Grinols pointed out. Equally important, half of the deficit reduction is achieved not by cutting public spending, but by raising federal taxes, mostly on wealthy taxpayers. Washington's financial problems have arisen not because the rich aren't paying enough taxes, Grinols said, but because the cost of entitlement programs such as Social Security and health care aid has swelled to record levels. "From 1975 to 1993, federal tax revenues collected per worker rose $1,044 to $9,614, but federal spending per worker rose $2,111 to $12,316, all computed in inflation-adjusted 1993 dollars," he noted. "Even if the government confiscated fully one-half of the income of everyone earning more than $200,000 a year in addition to their current tax burden, it would cover only two-thirds of the deficit."

Until Clinton and Congress rein in rampant government spending, the federal deficit will continue to hang heavily over the economy and limit the nation's flexibility to respond to future crises.

"Although Clinton's plan is not a home run, it is probably too soon to argue that it represents a strikeout either," Grinols concluded. "What does seem fair to say is that the current approach to the budget shows that the hard choices of responsible spending restraint will have to wait for another man and another time."

Mayors Give Green Light To Incinerator

In yet another victory for the Robbins Recycling and Trash-to-Energy Facility, the Solid Waste Agency of the South Suburban Mayors and Managers Association on Sept. 9th voted unanimously to approve a precedent-setting trash disposal agreement for the Robbins plant.

Representatives from 16 south suburban communities, including Country Club Hills, Dixmoor, East Hazelcrest, Flossmoor, Ford Heights, Frankfort, Hazel Crest, Homewood, Midlothian, Park Forest, Phoenix, Richton Park, Sauk Village, South Holland, Tinley Park and University Park, voted 16-0 to approve a resolution that authorizes the release of the contract to the south suburban municipalities that the Robbins facility is designed to serve.

Providing the south suburbs with a cost-effective and environmentally responsible option for trash disposal, the 20-year contract offers communities a progressive package of benefits and protections unlike any other in the country. It will stabilize disposal prices for the next 20 years, increase recycling and promote an integrated approach to solid waste management, which includes turning otherwise useless trash into energy.

"We commend the members of the Solid Waste Agency negotiating team for their efforts on behalf of south suburban communities," said Jim DiBiasi, vice-president of Reading Energy Company. "We spent hundreds of hours working with this team to create a contract that represents the best interests of the south suburban communities and offers an economic and environmental plan for trash disposal over the long term. Reading Energy Company is pleased that the Solid Waste Agency has approved the agreement, allowing us to move forward with arranging contracts with individual municipalities."

The contract contains a package of benefits and protections for communities unmatched by any other in the country:

- * Guarantees stable trash disposal costs over 20 years, with predictable adjustments for inflation.
- * Does not require a guaranteed maximum or minimum trash tonnage from municipalities.
- * Helps municipalities meet recycling goals efficiently and cost-effectively.
- A $30 million recycling facility at the plant is designed to recycle 25 percent of all trash delivered.
- The plant will only accept trash from municipalities with recycling programs.

Governor Jim Edgar signs a bill providing criminal penalties for the driver of a vehicle used in a drive-by shooting. Hence, now under the new state law, both driver and passenger are deemed equally culpable in carrying out the offense. Pictured are Cook County State's Attorney Jack O'Malley, Deputy Director of the Illinois State Police Gene Martin, Governor Edgar, DuPage County State's Attorney Jim Ryan, and Senator Aldo A. DeAngelis.

— The remaining trash will be recycled into a clean fuel used to generate electricity for approximately 41,000 homes.

* Ensures that ash from the facility will pass current testing requirements for hazardous materials, and indemnifies communities from paying increased disposal costs related to ash disposal.

With the Solid Waste Agency's endorsement of the contract, Reading Energy will now work with the individual municipalities on their contracts — starting with the 18 members of the Solid Waste Agency.

"We will be meeting with municipal officials to discuss the contract over the next 60 days, and plan to move as quickly as possible toward ground-breaking," said DiBiasi.

The Robbins facility is designed to operate for approximately 45 years, processing 1,600 tons of trash per day and producing approximately 40 megawatts of electricity.

More than 140 trash-to-energy facilities are safely operating in the United States, including ones in such cities as Minneapolis, West Palm Beach, Indianapolis and Oahu, Hawaii. In Sweden, more than 50 percent of household trash is disposed of in plants similar to the Robbins facility. Even greater percentages are realized in Switzerland, Denmark and Japan.

Peace Golf Outing

The Midiron Golf Course, Lemont, was the scene of the Queen of Peace High School first annual golf classic sponsored by the first graduating class of 1966. The event was on Saturday, Aug. 28th and was attended by alumnae, faculty, staff and friends of Queen of Peace High School.

A buffet lunch was served at the Glencagles Country Club where prizes were awarded. Karen Reynolds Lang, class of 1982, and Elizabeth Haskins, history teacher at Peace, tied for first place with a scratch score of 38.

Four golfers shared 2nd place with a score of 40. They are Kate Mack, '68; Mariallyn Prosapio, '66; Katherine Welch, '71; and Mary Ann Springer, '76. Carol Larson, chemistry teacher at Peace, took third place with a score of 41.

The longest drive was launched by Mariallyn Prosapio who, in addition to being an alumna, is a teacher at Peace.

Proceeds from the outing will be directed to a scholarship fund initiated by the class of 1966 after their 25-year reunion. The scholarship, in the form of a tuition grant, is awarded to a junior entering her senior year who is a daughter of an alumna. To date, two scholarships have been awarded.

Volunteers have begun planning next year's event.

New faculty members including (seated) Sr. Anastasia McNichols, O.P., Bro. Jeff Roberts, F.M.S., Denis Bergstedt; (standing) Philip McGee, John Hayward, and Timothy Glennon, gathered recently for an orientation meeting.

The Marist community commenced the 1993-94 school year with 1,558 students, and over 100 faculty members. Along with the veteran teachers, Marist welcomes nine new members to the faculty.

Bro. Jeff Roberts, F.M.S., comes to Marist from the novitiate in Esopus, New York where he was a faculty member at both Marist College and the Horace Mann School. He is a member of the foreign language department and will be teaching French.

Philip DeWald, is formerly from Stagg, De La Salle, and Weber high schools. He will be teaching social studies and coaching football. Philip McGee, a Marist graduate from the Class of '87, also joins the faculty as a social studies teacher and football coach. He was previously a 7th and 8th grade teacher at St. Basil Grammar School, Chicago.

Along with McGee, two other Marist graduates have joined the staff this year. John Hayward '89 a recent graduate of Eastern Illinois University, will be teaching social studies, English and coaching cross-country while Denis Bergstedt '84 graduated from Ripon College and will be teaching science at Marist.

Timothy Glennon, formerly from Loyola Academy and the Austin Career Center, brings with him five years of experience in education. He will be teaching mathematics courses.

HEADACHES AREN'T "NORMAL"

Just about everybody gets a headache once in a while, so why should you be unduly upset if you happen to be suffering from one? If you've been celebrating with friends and eat or imbibe too much, it certainly would not be unusual to wake up with a headache the next day. But that kind of headache usually goes away as soon as you're eating and drinking sensibly again, and getting enough sleep. But what about the other kinds of headaches?

Some illnesses, such as flu, include headache among the symptoms. But if you're in reasonably good health, you have a right to wonder why you suffer from headaches. A resort to aspirin and other medication may dull the pain for awhile, but if the headaches persist you should seek treatment. Among the causes of persistent headache are problems with the cervical vertebrae, the spinal bones in your neck. If they are out of alignment, this could cause headaches until you get the treatment you need.

If you have any health questions please feel free to call our office.

POLICE CALLS

The following incidents were reported by the Oak Lawn Police Department. Readers are reminded that an arrest by police does not constitute a finding of guilt and only a court of law can make that determination.

On Sept. 2nd, Nick Samban of Oak Lawn told police that he and his brother had a verbal dispute and when Nick ran from his older brother Jimmy, Jimmy entered the garage and caused $400 damage to his Honda motorcycle by pushing it to the garage floor. The right-side mirror was damaged and the paint was chipped in several places.

On the 3rd, John P. Meck III of Oak Lawn reported that between Aug. 29th and Sept. 3rd, persons unknown gained entry to the garage and removed $600 worth of tools.

Budget Rental, 8940 S. Cicero, reported the theft of a 1993 Ford Taurus sedan valued at $16,000. The franchise reportedly rented the car to Eugene Whitaker of Chicago on June 29th and it was to be returned on July 25th. To date the car has not been returned and complaints will be signed.

Joseph Perino of Burbank was charged with battery, aggravated assault and unlawful use of a weapon. Tracy Pavone of Orland Park was riding with her boyfriend, Duane Kapp of Burbank, and they were stopped at the red light at 87th & Cicero. A car pulled up alongside and a male passenger in the car leaned over and pointed what appeared to be a black pistol at Tracy and motioned for her to get out of the car. The offender then ran to the window and again demanded she get out of the vehicle and spit on her. He returned to his car and went southbound on Cicero. Burbank police took the offenders into custody and a search of the car showed the weapon was a .177 caliber BB gun.

On the 4th, Robert Holland of Chicago was charged with felony home invasion. K. Valack woke up to find Holland standing in her room. A verbal altercation was started and she ordered him to leave the house. Holland grabbed her arms and struck her on the side of the head with his hand. Valack tried to call the police, but Holland kept hanging up the phone. Valack's grandmother, Adele Kniazuk, was awakened and came down the stairs while Holland was going to the phone to hang it up and pushed her, almost knocking her to the ground. Police arrived and he was taken into custody.

On the 6th, Alfred Hicks of Richton Park was charged with retail theft after he was allegedly seen by the security agent at K-Mart, 4104 W. 95th St., taking 2 K-Mart bags, placing them under his coat and leaving the store. He then re-entered and took four fishing rods and a 26-inch, 10-speed man's bike. He was stopped outside the front door and charged with retail theft and $225.85 in merchandise was recovered.

Joseph Mazurek, Jr. of Alsip was charged with battery after John Rapp of Oak Lawn told police that he had parked his car in the Walgreen's lot at 10625 S. Cicero at a slight angle and a man came up to him and asked if he needed two spaces. When Rapp told the offender there were sufficient spaces for him, the offender punched him in the face with a closed fist, four times, twice in the stomach and twice in the chest, then fled in a Cadillac with the plate registered to Mazurek, Jr. Alsip police did not find him at home so Rapp signed complaints.

Kenneth McIntyre of Chicago was charged with battery after he had a verbal altercation with Sally Johnson of Chicago who was in the Beer Garden at Reilly's Daughter. McIntyre threw a beer in her face and also struck her in the left eye with his fist, causing a lump, and said "This is only the beginning, b—, I'm gonna keep doing this 'til you die."

On Sept. 7th, Marjorie McConville of Oak Lawn reported she had left home with two unattached license plates on the roof of the car. They probably fell off into the street on Fairfax or Kostner.

Mary Groenwald of Oak Lawn told police her husband, Frank left for work at 7:15 a.m. and she heard him yell from the parking lot, "I love ya, b—." She ran to the window and saw her husband back his 1988 Ford pickup truck into the nose and grille of her 1987 Mercury, which cracked them. They are divorcing and she is to receive the Mercury in the settlement. She feels that he intentionally damaged her car. Estimated damage is $200.

Kelly Spears and Traci Reh, both of Rockford, were charged with retail theft. Police had been checking the K-Mart lot at 4104 W. 95th St. when Traci came out, carrying no packages, got into her car and then went to another car in the parking lot. There police said Traci appeared to be pulling clothing from inside her shirt. She then got a plastic bag from the trunk and put the clothing in it. The two then went back to the service desk and asked for a refund, which was refused because they had no receipt. They tried again by going to the K-Mart at 110th & Cicero and were refused for the same reason. Police then made a traffic stop and Traci admitted she had stolen the merchandise from K-Mart. Both were also charged with possession of stolen property.

Ernestine Hall and Ronald Bethany, both of Chicago, were charged with retail theft. An employee of Fashion Bug clothing store told police she saw a female black crouched on the floor in the northeast corner of the store, allegedly stuffing clothing into a white plastic bag. She told the offender to empty the bag, but she ran off with the bag to the door which a black male was holding for her. The offenders were stopped by Evergreen Park police at 91st & Kedzie. The clerk was taken to the car where it was stopped and she identified the two offenders.

Allison Rosati, WMAQ-TV personality, will be the Honorary Chairman for "Visions," the fashion and entertainment extravaganza to benefit the Ronald McDonald House at Wyler Children's Hospital. "Visions" is on Sunday, Oct. 17th, in the Grand Ballroom of the Chicago Downtown Marriott, 540 N. Michigan Ave. at 12 noon. During the cocktail hour, guests will be entertained with piano and violin selections by children from the Suzuki Music Association. Lunch will be served, and the show will feature fashions from Saks Fifth Avenue and the song stylings of Greta Pope. Physicians and administrators from Wyler Children's Hospital will appear on the runway, but our special celebrity models will be children whose families have stayed at Ronald McDonald House. Ronald McDonald will be there, too! The finale will be a drawing for prizes.

"This is our only annual fund-raising event," says Nancy Leahy, president of the Ronald McDonald House board of directors. "Even if a family can pay the $5 per night suggested donation, that represents only a fraction of the cost of that night's lodging." The fashion show committee hopes to raise $50,000 to pay the house's utility bills for one year. "This is the house that love built," notes Kathy Madigan, an Oak Lawn resident who is this year's "Visions" chairperson, "and love will light the house."

Tickets for "Visions" are $50. For information, call the Ronald McDonald House at (312) 324-KIDS.

NATIONAL HUNTING AND FISHING DAY - The Northern Illinois Hunting and Fishing Day celebration will be held at Silver Springs State Fish and Wildlife Area, near Yorkville, on Sept. 25 & 26.

The event is being held in conjunction with National Hunting and Fishing Day which honors the contributions to conservation made by America's hunters and anglers.

"The highlights of the weekend are the many seminars and hands-on-activities in which the public can participate," according to Northern Illinois Hunting & Fishing Day Committee Co-Chairman Bill Barkley. "We've scheduled events that range from archery and trap shooting to kids' fishing pond specially stocked with panfish, dog training demonstrations featuring pointers and retrievers, buckskinning and deer preparation, canoeing and boating safety. Continuous, simultaneous seminars will be held on two stages, including local and national experts."

Scheduled events include archery, falconry and field dog demonstrations; exhibits by wildlife artists, carvers, taxidermists, collectors, buckskinners and blanket traders; Native American dancing and storytelling; voyageur canoe rides; casting seminars; game calling demonstrations; fishing seminars; silent auctions; raffles and displays by area sportsmen's clubs.

The Northern Illinois Hunting & Fishing Day celebration will host the 3rd annual "Illinois Sportsman of the Year" competition, as well as the Winchester Masters North American Goose Calling Championship, the "Northern Pride" Bowhunter Championship and fishing contests.

All ranges—including trap shooting, archery and B-B gun—will be supervised by hunter safety trained personnel. Admission is FREE. Food and refreshments will be available. Vendors and sportsmen's clubs are invited to participate. For more information, to register for the "Illinois Sportsman of the Year" competition or to arrange for interviews, call 708-553-6297 or 217-785-8955.

■LIST OF ENDANGERED/THREATENED SPECIES INCREASES IN ILLINOIS - The number of native plants and animals either endangered or threatened with elimination in Illinois has grown to 512, following action by the Endangered Species Protection Board. "While conditions facing some species have improved, others have grown worse," said Sue Lauzon, the board's executive director. "Some species are no longer on the list simply because they no longer exist in Illinois and that should be a concern to everyone."

The number of species classified as either endangered or threatened previously was 501. The action by the board is only the second time the list was completely revised since it was created in 1980. More than two dozen species on Illinois' list also appear on the federal list and more than 40 are being considered for addition to the federal list.

A species is considered endangered if it likely will be gone from Illinois' landscape in the foreseeable future, while a species is considered threatened if its numbers are low or declining but the state is not expected to lose it in five years. Thirty-one species are being removed from the list, about half because they no longer are found in the wild in Illinois. A few species are being removed from the list because their number is on the rise. Sixteen species already on the threatened list have experienced further declines, prompting them to be newly classified as endangered.

"We must not just list species," Lauzon said. "We must strive to take species off the list—not because they are extinct—but because their populations are increasing as a result of our efforts to improve the environment."

Eagle Whitewash

With a solid defense, the Sandburg Eagles shut down visiting Naperville Central on Saturday, 2-0, giving the previously undefeated Redhawks their first loss of the soccer season.

Sandburg coach Brian Papa said of his team that it will take an exceptional team with more than one star player to beat this year's Eagles. Although Naperville Central is a very good team, the Eagles are hungry.

According to Papa, Brian

Hertz, Mark Mraz and Marty Regan "played well up the gut." Fullbacks, Hertz and Mraz, along with Regan, the stopper, allowed the Redhawks just five shots on goal. Eagles halfback Joe Donnellon opened the scoring, tallying on a deflected volley at the 29:01 mark of the first half.

Donnellon's shot from about 25 yards out deflected off of defender Matthew Jehs and slid inside the goal post.

Discount Cards For Greens Fees

Cook County Board President Richard Phelan announced that as of Sept. 15th, the Forest Preserve District of Cook County has reduced the price of resident golf identification cards to $10. The reduction is in effect only for the remainder of the 1993 season and the 1994 winter golf season. The new price represents a $10 savings to residents of the county.

"The new lower rate will make the forest preserve district's golf courses even more accessible to all golfers throughout the county," Phelan said. "This measure is consistent with our commitment to making recreation accessible and convenient for everyone."

Resident identification cards entitle golfers to discounts ranging from $2 to $7 on green fees at the 10 district golf courses, a 7-day advance reservation tee-time and serve as a deposit on golf carts. Golfers can use the identification card to receive an additional discount on already-reduced twilight and senior/junior green fees at all 10 courses. The resident card used in conjunction with the twilight rate can save golfers up to $25 on a round of golf.

"The golf season lasts past summer, so when you consider the reduced price for a resident card, twilight and senior/junior rates and the winter golf program, the district's courses are a fantastic value," Phelan pointed out.

The identification cards are sold at all district courses at selected dates and times. The reduced cards and ones purchased during 1993 are valid until the official closing of the winter golf season in 1994. Winter golf was introduced for the first time last year at the district's Burnham Woods and Indian Boundary Golf Courses.

For information about obtaining a resident identification card and additional golf information, call (708) 771-1550.

Cross-Country Pow-Wow Attracts 59 Teams

The Crete-Monee Cross-Country Pow-Wow was started in 1969 with 29 schools participating. The number of competing schools increased each year until 1978 when 71 schools entered teams. This year 59 schools are officially entered, making it not only the largest invitational cross-country meet in the state but also in the nation. During the 25 years in which the pow-wow has existed, 130 different schools have been represented in the meet. Eight boys who have run in the pow-wow have become state champions and seven teams which have entered have captured state team championships. This excludes York High School, a state power in cross-country, which has won the state championship 10 times in the past 20 years. York only enters a JV team in the pow-wow.

The pow-wow is the first meet of its type to be held in Illinois and probably the nation. Many schools have copied the format, but no meet has approached it in size or prestige.

Big Upset

In an exciting upset, the Stagg Chargers took down one of the top teams from the state of Indiana in a 4-0 victory on Sept. 11th. The Chargers knocked off Muncie Burriss 15-12, 3-15, 15-10. It was the first regular season loss for the Owls since 1988, ending a streak of 151 consecutive wins.

Charger coach Mary Weitz said, "We had nothing to lose and everything to gain here."

Host of the tournament, Mother McAuley, the Mighty Macs, fell two times, once in the afternoon to Muncie Central and then on Saturday evening to Muncie Burriss.

Stagg was down 10-9 to Indiana's No. 1 team in the third game of their afternoon showdown. However, a bad break turned golden when Jaime Wessmuller, attempting a dig, deflected the ball into her own face and had to leave the match. Her replacement, Chris Jagodzinski, would go on to serve for three consecutive points. Kathleen Blanchfield then served for the final three Stagg markers.

Mother McAuley, however, fell to its first defeat of the season earlier in the afternoon, as Muncie Central prevailed 11-15, 15-10, 15-13.

Opening Game

The Oak Lawn Outlaws football program is underway for the current season. The Peepees opened their schedule by defending the N.F.C. championship of last year with a convincing win over the visiting Hammond Hawks. Outlaw scoring was led by Rocky Angone, second-year Peepee who had four TDs for the day and was a standout on defense. The Outlaws' other TD was by Bill Gleeson.

Assistant head coach Joe Angone said it was a total team effort. Other standouts were Matt Crothers, Cole Hewitt, Joe Bazian, Ryan Van Vosse and Dave Cybor. The final score was Outlaws 31, Hammond 6.

The Widgets kept the momentum in a hotly contested game, winning in double overtime 7 to 6 over the Hawks. Outstanding play was put forth by the entire Widget team; Vltas Ripskis, Dan Spano, Kevin Moran, Nick Pluta, Jeremy Lang, Harry Kolk, Shawn Dietel and Tony Kirchner.

In the final contest of the day, Hammond got revenge by beating the Outlaw junior team on a late interception making the final score Hammond 20, Oak Lawn 13.

The next game, Outlaws homecoming, is on Sept. 19th against Mt. Greenwood. Kickoff is at 12 noon.

Hall Of Famers

St. Rita High School will induct five men into the St. Rita Hall of Fame on Saturday, Sept. 18th as part of the school's homecoming festivities. Each year alumni or family of alumni nominate men whom they feel are possible hall of famers. The hall of fame annually honors the greatest names in St. Rita's rich, illustrious past; men who have contributed greatly to the history of St. Rita academics, athletics, extracurricular programs and to St. Rita's pastoral, educational and alumni programs. This year's induction will take place during a special halftime show at the homecoming game. The newly inducted Hall of Famers are John "Joker" Brady, Florian Dodge, Eugene McGrail, Rev. Walter McNicholas, O.S.A., and Arthur Velasquez.

'Get Kicks'

St. Laurence High School has set the date for its second annual alumni soccer game. Viking alumni can "get their kicks" on Sunday, Sept. 19th at 12 noon. Once again, the game is to be held in conjunction with homecoming weekend. All St. Laurence alumni soccer players are invited to attend.

Last year, 18 Viking soccer players returned to their alma mater to challenge each other. With "soccer fever" spreading in anticipation of next year's World Cup, the alumni office is confident of an even larger turnout this year.

Silent Auction

Six graves in the historic St. James at Sag Bridge Cemetery, listed on the National Register of Historic Places, will be made available at silent auction on Friday, Sept. 17th during an outdoor gala reception on the grounds of St. James at Sag Bridge Church and Cemetery, 106th and Archer Road. The graves are part of the Dillon-Barry family plot in the northeast section of the cemetery. When the family learned of the St. James at Sag Bridge Preservation Society's efforts to protect and preserve the landmark site, they stepped forward to help, donating six vacant graves, with all monies from the sale of these graves benefiting the work of the preservation society.

Each of the graves will be offered on an individual basis during the silent auction, with an opening bid of $550 per grave. Due to the rarity of available gravesites in St. James, it is predicted that bidding could easily reach the $1,500 range for each. "We already have extended families pooling their sources in hopes of buying up all six sites," said Eileen D'Angelo, president of the preservation society, who added that gravesites in the historic St. James have not been widely available since the 1930s and 40s.

The silent auction is part of the preservation society's Sept. 17th gala reception, celebrating the 160th anniversary of the founding of St. James, to be staged under a tent on the grounds of St. James. Scheduled from 6 to 8 p.m., the reception's $25 ticket price includes assorted wine and beer, together with an hors d'oeuvres buffet.

For reservations and additional information, call (708) 246-6072.

Alumni Comedy On Stage At MVCC

Theater alumni from Moraine Valley Community College, get ready. The final production before the stage is moved from the 600 Building to the Fine and Performing Arts Center is just for you. "A Flea in Her Ear" will be a complete alumni production with Stephen Phillip Micotto returning to direct the production. "A Flea in Her Ear" was written in 1907 and is a delightful story about mistaken identity and sex. A wife suspects her husband is unfaithful and he suspects her of the same. With the addition of a trigger-happy jealous husband, a hotel porter with similar features and a hotel with shady clientele and a revolving bed serves to heighten the chaos and humor.

Performances of "A Flea in Her Ear" will be from Dec. 9th through 12th.

Former Moraine Valley theater performers interested in working on this production should call the theater office at (708) 974-5500. Auditions will be on Oct. 19th, 21st and 22nd from 7 to 10 p.m. in the 600 Building.

Dr. Barnes Is Appointed To Mandates Task Force

Dr. Ron Barnes of Palos Heights has been appointed to a state task force studying the problem of unfunded mandates for local schools, according to State Sen. Patrick O'Malley (R-18). Barnes, superintendent of School District 230, is a member of the Task Force on State Mandates for Schools, established by Senate Resolution 139.

"As superintendent, Dr. Barnes has a working knowledge of the problems our schools face and insight into what education does and does not need from the state. At a time when many school districts are having difficulty balancing their budgets, we need to rethink some of the mandates imposed by state government," O'Malley said. "Dr. Barnes has worked with me on legislation that will help Illinois schools make the most efficient use of their funding by giving them the option of using non-certified staff in non-teaching situations. Now that this legislation is law, local schools have the option of refocusing some of their current resources from non-teaching situations into education programs."

Senator O'Malley says a recent study by the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA) shows the total cost of all state mandates enacted by the General Assembly has accrued to $201.5 million, while the state's reimbursement has amounted to only $11 million. The net cost of these unfunded state mandates to local governments and their local taxpayers is approximately $190.1 million.

"A substantial portion of these unfunded state mandates fall on our local school districts. The General Assembly should exercise restraint in the imposition of costly and unfunded mandates, however well-intentioned," O'Malley said. "One of my goals as a legislator is to restore local control and promote a favorable business climate by curtailing state mandates on municipalities, schools and businesses, and by lowering property taxes."

The eight-member task force, appointed by the Senate President and Senate Minority Leader, is to report its findings and recommendations to the General Assembly by Oct. 1st.

Pace Changes Its Vanpool Incentive Plan

The Pace Board of Directors approved an ordinance authorizing enhancements to the Vanpool Incentive Program (VIP). The fare structure for vanpool participants includes adding a new five-passenger van category, reducing the monthly fare for participants who use a minivan, placing a $15 surcharge on maxivans which have fewer than seven participants and a VIP subscription shuttle/feeder service. Under this shuttle van service, an employer would guarantee at least 20 fare-paying passengers. If the 20-passenger minimum is not met, the employer would have to make up the difference in fares for the missing passengers. A designated employee would make all of the pickups and dropoffs to and from the worksite and at the end of the day the van would remain at the worksite. It is hoped that with these modifications there will be an increase in vanpool participants.

The board approved the implementation of a 'Ten-Ride Plus' discount ticket to be offered throughout the region to any municipality with local or feeder bus service to a Metra train station. The Village of Lisle and Pace developed the discount ticket to stimulate the use of public transportation in September 1992. The discounted ticket will be available for $6, compared to the retail cost, which is $8.50. Benefits include cost saving for the passenger and eliminating the need to utilize commuter parking lots that are sometimes filled to capacity.

A presentation was made to the board on the new Pace TV and radio commercials. The new advertising campaign has been developed to promote the broad spectrum of Pace's innovative services. The commercials describe the vanpool program, dial-a-ride service, the reverse commute and lift-equipped fixed route service. In addition, four radio commercials were produced to support the TV commercials.

The new fare structure for Pace passes went into effect on Sept. 1st. The Pace/CTA everyday monthly pass is now $72, the Pace/CTA monthly reduced pass is $33, the Pace/CTA weekly pass is $18.50. The Pace/CTA 'weekday only' pass has been discontinued.

The Pace Board of Directors usually meets every first Wednesday of the month at 3:30 p.m. in the board room at Pace Headquarters, 550 W. Algonquin Road, Arlington Heights. However, due to the 1993 budget process, the board is meeting on Wednesday, Oct. 13th.

Urges Many More Federal Cuts

By Congressman Harris W. Fawell
13th District

Vice-President Al Gore recently released his "National Performance Review" (NPR) report, aimed at "reinventing government." My reaction? Essentially, as they say in poker, "I see you, and I raise you."

I support NPR's recommendations for making government more efficient. Most of the recommendations are proposals I've supported in the past. However, I raise the stakes by suggesting they cut far more, and I have specific proposals I've communicated with the administration.

I'll start by giving the vice-president credit for some excellent proposals. First, his call for Congress to "minimize earmarks," otherwise known as pork barrel projects, will give my Porkbusters Coalition a boost. NPR calls for cutting "highway demonstration projects," flagrant examples of pork barrel spending targeted for years by Porkbusters.

The only two federal programs that NPR would actually eliminate are the wool and honey subsidy programs. As readers of this column know, I offered an amendment to kill the honey program in the House. The vice-president's proposal will, hopefully, help finish the program off.

I also support NPR's many recommendations for cutting federal red tape in procurement and personnel. Finally, I back its recommendation for a 12 percent reduction in federal workers, cutting 252,000 positions through attrition and early retirement. Congress should act swiftly on all of these recommendations.

My concern about the NPR is not so much what is included, but what is not. The NPR's specific recommendations for spending cuts total about $50 billion (after removing unsubstantiated savings). By comparison, the package of spending cuts I sent to President Clinton back in February totals $383 billion over five years, about eight times as much. Citizens Against Government Waste identified $1.2 trillion that could be cut (24 times as much as the NPR). The NPR "uses a butter knife on a job that requires a chain saw," says J. Peter Grace who headed the 1982 Grace Commission which recommended $424 billion in spending cuts.

Why are NPR's savings comparatively small? The answer can be found on page two of the report where it states: "The National Performance Review focused primarily on how government should work, not on what it should do." Unfortunately, the second objective is more important than the first when it comes to achieving real savings. In other words, rather than trying to "reinvent" programs that are not working, why not just get rid of them altogether?

The NPR says "improve the helium program by increasing efficiencies of helium operations." Improve it? For goodness sake, eliminate this dinosaur, created in 1929 to ensure an adequate supply of helium for blimps. The blimps long since floated away, but this program just won't die.

The NPR saves a reported $1.6 billion over five years by closing or consolidating 10 percent of the 1,200 Agriculture Department field offices. A laudable, modest step toward 'efficiency.' The larger question, however, is why does the report leave almost completely untouched the $400 billion worth of agriculture programs, such as subsidies for tobacco, peanuts, corn, etc., administered by these field offices? Wool and honey programs are a tiny fraction of the agricultural subsidy expenditures. These programs date back to the 1930s and they are no longer necessary. It would be as if the Ford Motor Company in the 1950s, realizing the Edsel was a flop, decided to consolidate some of its dealerships rather than discontinuing production of the car that was not selling.

The report suggests "reinventing federal economic development efforts" by improving coordination and eliminating duplication. There are no savings from this suggestion. The NPR is talking about reinventing the Economic Development Administration (EDA), a haven for pork barrel loans and grants rarely targeted to economically depressed areas; the most famous was an EDA loan to a man who built a facsimile of the pyramids as a tourist attraction -- not surprisingly, the enterprise was a complete flop. Audit groups, several past presidents, and many in Congress have called for the elimination of the EDA to save $1 billion over five years.

There are dozens of other examples of programs 'reinvented' by the NPR that should simply be eliminated altogether. Moreover, there are literally hundreds of other programs that could be cut or eliminated for hundreds of billions of dollars in savings not even mentioned by the NPR.

Again, I commend the administration for taking this first step. But, where the administration asks, "how can government programs work better?" I ask, "should we be funding them in the first place?"

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

The City of Palos Hills Community Resource Department and the North Palos Fire Protection District are endorsing the 'Household Hazardous Waste Disposal Day,' Saturday, Oct. 2nd, from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Deep Tunnel pumping station, 6100 S. River Road, Hodgkins. The Metropolitan Water Reclamation District (MWRD) of Greater Chicago is running this event in cooperation with the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA). This is truly a rare opportunity to rid your home of hazardous waste products. Bernie Surchik, Community Resource, and Lt. Chris Perry, North Palos Fire Department, stated that their departments receive calls yearly as to how to dispose of hazardous waste products in the home. We inform residents that they have to contact a special waste hauler, which is expensive for the homeowner. Most people probably just tend to throw these items out in the weekly trash collection or leave them lying around because they don't know what to do with them. This could cause a potential fire or health hazard in the home.

On the eve of National Fire Protection Week, we encourage all residents not only in our community but in the surrounding communities to participate in the worthwhile program to make our homes and community a safer place to live.

For more information, contact the MWRD at (312) 751-6633.

Kiwanis "Peanut Day" Friday

More than 121 Kiwanis clubs in metropolitan Chicago communities, plus 85 more in downstate Illinois, will hold their annual "Kiwanis Peanut Day" fundraiser on Friday, Sept. 24th. On that day, more than 10,000 Kiwanis members and other volunteers will be on street corners and shopping areas throughout Chicagoland and downstate towns 'giving away' snack-size bags of peanuts for donations from passersby.

In Illinois, alone, participating Kiwanis clubs hope to achieve a net goal this year of $500,000, according to Orville Jones of St. Charles, 1993 general chairman of the fundraiser. The 206 Illinois Kiwanis clubs represent but 18 percent of the 1,110 Kiwanis clubs that participate in Peanut Day fundraising throughout the United States and Canada.

"Last year, the nationwide grand total raised by all participating clubs in the program was over $2 million," Jones said. He added that "the 42-year grand total is over $38 million."

Jones noted that unlike many charitable fundraisers, Kiwanis Peanut Day fundraising is accomplished with all volunteer help and with no administrative costs other than the wholesale cost of the peanuts and supplies.

He said 100 percent of the proceeds is retained by each participating Kiwanis club, and the money goes directly into Kiwanis supported charitable and community projects.

Although Kiwanis supports hundreds of such projects, the major areas targeted by the program are almost all devoted to child welfare, including Aid to Handicapped and Underprivileged Children, Boys' and Girls' Clubs, Scouting and 4-H, Summer Camps and Drug Abuse Prevention. The Kiwanis motto is "Young Children, Priority One."

Also, major funding is provided by Illinois Kiwanis clubs for the Illinois Research Foundation for Spastic Paralysis and Related Diseases of the Central Nervous System, such as Spina Bifida.

Kiwanis Peanut Day fundraising got its start in Chicago in 1951. That's when eight Chicago and North Shore clubs banded to man street corners and give away a small bag of peanuts for a small donation. That first year, the donations were small, but when multiplied by thousands of contributors, the total became quite significant. That first year, the eight participating clubs netted a combined total of more than $8,000. It also landed Peanut Day founder, Harold Hayward, in jail for conducting an unauthorized fundraiser. Hayward, who died earlier this year, saw his brainchild grow from a small neighborhood Kiwanis fundraiser to the largest single coordinated fundraiser in the Kiwanis world.

The Chicago City Council quickly gave legitimacy to Kiwanis Peanut Day in 1952 by "proclaiming the 4th Friday in September as 'Kiwanis Peanut Day,'" and an annual Kiwanis fundraising event. Every Chicago mayor since 1952 has followed this tradition.

In succeeding years, the number of Kiwanis club participants grew rapidly. It spread to downstate Illinois, northern Indiana and southern Wisconsin clubs. Over the years it has spread to every U.S. state and province of Canada.

In 1963 the original Peanut Day committee was incorporated as Kiwanis Peanut Day, Inc., an Illinois non-profit corporation.

Today, Kiwanis Peanut Day, Inc. is directed by an independent committee of past governors and lieutenant governors of Kiwanis who serve without pay.

Governor Jim Edgar sent greetings to the opening of the Taste of Ireland Festival display in the James R. Thompson Center. The 9th annual festival was held Sept. 18th and 19th at the Irish American Heritage Center. Pictured are John Belrne and Anne Carney members of the festival committee.

Evaluation Visit

On Sept. 14 and 15, an evaluation team consisting of three individuals visited Luther High School South for the Illinois Board of Education. The evaluation team was headed by Peter Lecce from the Springfield office. He was assisted by Kenneth Markworth, assistant superintendent of the Addison Public Schools, and Paul Miller, principal of Hope Lutheran School in Chicago.

The visit is part of an ongoing process for full recognition by the Illinois State Board of Education, which Luther South has had since 1951. The team evaluated the philosophy, purpose and objectives of the school. They looked at the instructional programs and services offered by the school, inspected the school facilities in regard to building safety and fire standards, as well as personnel qualifications. Their last visit was in 1987.

Archaeology Awareness

Illinois Governor Jim Edgar has proclaimed Sept. 19th to 25th as Illinois Archaeology Awareness Week, to be observed at over 100 special events across the state. The theme of this year's IAAW is "Unearthing Our Past—How Archaeologists Piece Together Human History." Archaeology is the systematic recovery and study of material evidence remaining from past human life. Written records account for only 1%, or about 3,000 years, of human history. All that remains from the other 99% of human existence are artifacts, such as bits and pieces of stone tools, pottery, bone, and plant charcoal.

Like detectives, archaeologists dig with trowels and shovels, carefully sifting the dirt looking for clues to reconstruct the past. They rely on the expertise of other scientists, from botanists to zoologists, each sharing their understanding of the evidence and how it fits into a picture of the past. Together, these scientists shed light on Illinois events no less than daily life in an 8,000 year old Indian village, the origins of agriculture, the development of cities, and the rise and fall of ancient civilizations. Our understanding of these events depends on archaeology. Illinois Archaeology Awareness Week programs provide an opportunity for young and old alike to learn how archaeologists discover the past.

Activities during Illinois Archaeology Awareness Week include site tours and excavations, lectures, children and adult workshops on archaeological methods, films and videos, library book displays, demonstration of early technology, and artifact identification. Most of the activities are free.

The most damaging chapters of the book, Under The Tarnished Dome: How Notre Dame Betrayed Its Ideals For Football Glory, center on the truth about how Notre Dame manages a graduation rate of 85 percent of its football players, the hypocrisy over "redshirting" football players, and racial friction on the football team.

According to the authors, Don Yeager and Douglas S. Looney, "one reason for the high graduation rate is that Notre Dame is amazingly easy to stay in. It's almost as if academic failure violates campus rules. Even football coach Lou Holtz notes to get a diploma in the hands of a student, the school 'will work to the nth degree to help you.'"

Joe Allen, offensive lineman 1988-90, says that "academically I wasn't impressed once I got there. It wasn't that tough. I think I maybe opened a book under twenty hours to study in four years. I didn't have the greatest grades, a two point four. That's with never studying."

In fact, says Matt Dingsen, offensive tackle 1985-86, "you have to work hard not to graduate from Notre Dame. You have to lie, you have to make excuses. Unless you go in and just try to fail everything, you'll make it. They've been doing that forever, way before I ever got there. If you go to class and take tests, you're gonna pass and gonna get through. There's no basket weaving or anything like that; but there are Greek classics and translation and a couple of courses you know from upperclassmen and dormmates to take if you need a good grade."

According to the authors, "for all of Notre Dame's palaver about there being no scuba diving classes, no physical education majors and no place to hide the athletes where they will be safe from troublesome intellectual challenges, the no-brainer in place for the football players is American studies. David Rosenberg, linebacker, says, 'I'm not here to knock it, but eighty percent of the football players were in American studies. Maybe they like America a whole lot.'"

Tom Thayer, offensive lineman 1979-82 and now a member of the Chicago Bears, says, "It does seem they're more willing now than ever to let people in who wouldn't have gotten in in the past just to play football. If they're sacrificing academics for winning some ball games, that's not right."

Thayer is also quoted as saying, "I have to say, (Lou) Holtz definitely has got a different kind of guy getting in there now. When I go there, I can't believe the kind of cars players are driving. I went to a pep rally. It was more like an 'Arsenio Hall' show. He definitely has some guys who are trying to outshine the Golden Dome. Derek Brown (tight end, 1988-91) walked out first and he was wearing a UNLV jacket. He should be wearing a Notre Dame jacket."

Notre Dame and coach Lou Holtz claim there is no 'redshirting.' That's the official position. 'Redshirting' goes on at every school and it means a player cannot play in any games and thus does not use up one of his four years of eligibility. He can go to practice and keep receiving his scholarship which pays all school expenses.

Scott Kowalkowski, defensive end 1987-90, explains; "They say they don't 'redshirt,' but they do and there's always that option."

Notre Dame and Lou Holtz get around the 'redshirting' issue by using a term of convoluted English called "developmental squad."

Jim Dadiotis, linebacker 1986-87, said it this way to the authors; "I was 'redshirted,' but I'm not supposed to say that." Dadiotis says the Irish tried to act like he was a medical 'redshirt,' as a result of a shoulder separation. The injury is routine, not serious, and quickly played with. Dadiotis concludes; "Notre Dame wants to act like it doesn't 'redshirt,' but it does. Let's be honest. The reason I was 'redshirted' is there were seniors ahead of me."

In "Under the Tarnished Dome," the authors claim there is the growing concern about racial friction at Notre Dame. Dan Devine, former head football coach, says; "The racial issue at Notre Dame runs pretty deep. There are, sadly, a lot of people who feel that Notre Dame has way too many blacks."

Walk-on Tom Galloway, linebacker 1985-86, says that at one team meeting, (Lou) Holtz said bluntly to the players, "There's a problem of racism on this team." Everybody agreed, says Galloway, but nobody knew what to do about it.

Mirko Jurkovic, defensive lineman 1988-91, says; "racial friction [at Notre Dame] just happens to be there."

The 84 former Notre Dame football players, who talked to the authors about steroid abuse and callous disregard for injured players by coach Lou Holtz, pale in comparison to the more hidden charges leveled at Notre Dame and coach Holtz in Under the Tarnished Dome: How Notre Dame Betrayed Its Ideals For Football Glory.

Authors Yeager and Looney concluded by saying; "What's most unsettling is that Notre Dame is supposed to be above and beyond all this, an academic and athletic utopia. Americans have always thought; in a sea of ugliness in college football, at least they could believe in the lagoon of beauty at Notre Dame. Time was, they could. Now, they can't."

Ordinance Bans Assault Weapons

Cook County Board President Richard Phelan along with State's Attorney Jack O'Malley and Sheriff Michael Sheahan announced an ordinance banning the sale and possession of semiautomatic assault weapons as well as assault ammunition in Cook County.

Homicides committed in Chicago with semiautomatic assault weapons increased fourfold, from 70 in 1983 to 297 in 1992. One quarter of all trauma cases treated at Cook County Hospital in 1992 were from multiple gun shot wounds, up 20 percent from 1982. "The numbers are staggering," Phelan said. "There is no reason why people need to use these guns of destruction. They are not designed for hunting or sport, they are used to kill people and we need to get them off the street."

The ordinance bans assault ammunition and over 50 types of semiautomatic weapons which can be easily converted to automatic firearms. Persons in violation of the ordinance may be subject to up to six months in jail and/or be fined up to $1,000. Persons illegally possessing an assault weapons or ammunition have 14 days from the effective date of the ordinance to either remove the weapon from Cook County, modify the weapon or turn it in to the Sheriff's office.

The following is a list of highlights from the proposed ordinance:

- Makes it illegal to possess, sell or transfer assault weapons or ammunition.
- Exempts legitimate law enforcement or security-related use — i.e. armored truck drivers.
- Penalizes violators up to six months in prison and/or fine of $500 to $1,000.
- Persons currently possessing these weapons have 14 days from the effective date of the ordinance to either remove it from Cook County, modify it or surrender the weapon to the Sheriff's office.
- Applies to suburban Cook County but does not preclude additional municipal legislation.

This ordinance will not hinder legitimate hunters and sportsmen. "Hunting rifles are shoulder-held and require precision," Phelan said. "Assault weapons are hip-held and can be spray-fired inflicting damage without regard to aim or precision."

"Gun violence has escalated steadily and much of the increase is due to high-powered assault weapons, usually carried by gang members," said O'Malley. "We will vigorously prosecute this ordinance whenever the need arises."

"Assault weapons are manufactured, sold and used for one reason only and that is to kill people, whether it is on the battlefield or on the streets," Sheahan said. "We fully support any measure that attempts to take these deadly weapons off of the streets of Cook County."

"This ordinance is not going to make gun violence in Cook County disappear, but if it prevents even one more senseless assault weapon killing, it's worth it," Phelan concluded.

Disciplinary Action Against Area Nursing Home

The Illinois Department of Public Health has taken disciplinary action against an area nursing home, Lexington of Chicago Ridge, a 215-bed skilled and intermediate care facility, 10300 Southwest Highway. Lexington was fined $10,000 for not having a policy in place to handle medical emergencies. The facility also did not have emergency equipment readily available, including a portable oxygen kit, a face mask and a manual ventilating device.

In three separate instances in February, residents were found either in respiratory distress or unresponsive, not breathing and with no pulse. In each case, cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) was not initiated because of a lack of emergency equipment. The residents' charts did not have a 'do not resuscitate' order.

The facility has requested a hearing. No hearing date has been set.

Is House Above The Law?

Congressman Harris W. Fawell (R-I3) testified at a hearing before the Joint Committee on the Reorganization of Congress recently, calling for Congress to subject itself to the same requirements it mandates on private businesses through federal labor and civil rights laws.

"Although Congress has superficially placed itself under the purview of many 'place of employment' laws, such as the Civil Rights Act, the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), and the Family and Medical Leave Act, the reality is that Congress has exempted itself from the judicial enforcement of those laws."

"Instead of being subjected to the possibility of being sued in federal court for damages, attorney's fees, expert witness fees, compensatory and even punitive damages, Congress has created its own 'in house' review mechanism which is controlled by Members of the House and selected staff."

"In effect, Members of the House become the prosecutor, judge and jury of any complaints made by any of the 12,236 House employees. It would be unthinkable that a private employer, such as IBM or General Motors, would be allowed to dispose of complaints of their employees in this 'in house' fashion."

All Points Southwest

BY

by Dr. Richard L. Leshner, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

There is at least one aspect of the Clinton administration's approach to health care reform that every reasonable person can support, and that is the critical need to curb malpractice litigation.

There are 900 new malpractice lawsuits each day, and the average award involves about $300,000. The annual tab for direct medical liability costs is about $7 billion, but indirect costs are much greater. The ever-present threat of malpractice lawsuits forces doctors to prescribe many expensive tests and procedures that are legally necessary for the physicians, not medically necessary for the patients.

A study by the American Medical Association found that 66 percent of doctors admit they order more diagnostic tests, 54 percent schedule more followup visits, and 70 percent order more consultations because of liability concerns. A survey by Medical Economics revealed that 26 percent of physicians waste more than $50,000 a year on defensive medicine, and 14 percent waste more than $100,000 per year. Thus, every year the nation's medical bill is increased by as much as $40 billion by the cost of procedures and tests carried out only because of liability concerns.

Even more frightening than the financial cost is the chilling effect of malpractice litigation on medical practice and research. For example, in many areas of the country, it is becoming increasingly difficult to find doctors willing to provide obstetrical services to high-risk women because of potential liability.

Likewise, pharmaceutical firms are increasingly reluctant to test new vaccines lest unfortunate side effects lead to expensive lawsuits. Indeed, Science magazine reported last year that liability concerns were impeding development of research on a vaccine for AIDS.

The soaring cost of medical care, lack of affordable health insurance, unavailable medical specialists and reluctance to develop new vaccines are increasingly intolerable to a growing number of Americans. The problem is rendered especially frustrating because it is so unnecessary.

Every medical therapy, no matter how sound, will produce some unfortunate outcomes, as will every promising vaccine. Society simply cannot afford to compensate each one with a multi-million dollar malpractice award, or to maintain in fine style a phalanx of aggressive lawyers eager to exploit each tragedy for their own benefit. What the country needs is a new system that recognizes the inevitability of some bad medical outcomes and provides for their victims, without bankrupting the country, discouraging provision of medical services or stifling medical innovation. The existing litigation system has gone haywire and is no longer tenable.

Sen. La Paille Says 'GOP Flunks'

Sen. Gary J. LaPaille (D-Chicago) defended his vote Monday against a Republican plan to end the impasse over Chicago schools, most notably because of a Republican attempt to mandate a property tax referendum that LaPaille says is a blatant attempt to hike property taxes.

"Residents of the southwest side of Chicago who are already paying exorbitant property tax bills should be outraged by this sneaky, politically-motivated Republican attempt to raise their taxes even further," LaPaille said. "I spoke out strongly in debate on the Senate floor about the potentially catastrophic effect such an increase would have on seniors and citizens living in bungalows on fixed incomes. Make no mistake about it—the same Republicans who consistently rail against unwanted, unfunded mandates now want to mandate a referendum on whether to increase the property tax levy to provide additional funds for education. "We are setting a dangerous precedent by setting the parameters for negotiations between the union and school board. Will we soon find ourselves involved in labor disputes involving firemen, police officers, carpenters or electricians?"

"Finally, I strongly oppose the GOP attempt to take $90 million away from local school councils and transfer that money to the Chicago Board of Education. Money that belongs in the hands of some of our poorest children would be diverted to bureaucrats if Republicans have their way."

"Senate Democrats have prepared an alternative plan that merits consideration once the collective bargaining process is completed. Gov. Edgar and Senate Republicans have flunked in their attempt to resolve this matter."

Private School Income Tax Credit Plan

In an effort to keep a strong private school alternative and provide tax relief to parents who send their children to private schools, Congressman Bill Lipinski (D-3rd) is co-sponsoring legislation that would give such parents a tax credit up to $1,000 per year, per child.

Currently there are no direct governmental grants to private schools.

"Why should parents with children in private schools have to pay twice for their children's education," Lipinski asked, "once in state and local taxes for public schools, then a second time for private school tuition?"

Lipinski said his proposed tax credit would help end this inequity while promoting educational diversity and choice.

Under his proposal, the Internal Revenue Code would be amended to provide a federal income tax credit up to $1,000 per child for those expenses associated with the financing of a private education. Attendance at an institution of higher education, a vocational school, a high school or even elementary school would qualify an individual for this credit.

Lipinski pointed to the annual school crisis in Chicago as proof this legislation needs to be passed. "Chicago taxpayers pay more and more for many schools that not only teach less and less but don't even open on time — as a result more parents are choosing private schools. That forced choice provides a financial burden — my bill will provide financial relief."

The legislation is enjoying bi-partisan support in Congress.

County Is Urging Shots For Infants

Cook County health officials are urging parents to make sure their infants are immunized on time. In the wake of increasing cases of Whooping Cough, or Pertussis, in the Chicagoland area, concern is mounting that parents may not be properly protecting their children. The first set of shots are needed at two months of age and fifteen shots are recommended before a child reaches two years of age.

In suburban Cook County 13 cases of Pertussis have been reported this year, already doubling the number reported in 1992. Although children are presently required to be vaccinated in order to enter school, the American Academy of Pediatrics estimates that approximately one quarter of all preschoolers and one-third of all economically disadvantaged children are not fully immunized before age two, when protection is most crucial. In suburban Cook County, it is estimated that only 60 percent of children under the age of two are proposed protected.

Residents of suburban Cook County can call the department of health for the immunization clinic nearest them at (708) 445-2400.

Cook County Sheriff Michael F. Sheahan (left) discusses his plan to implement the first-ever urban boot camp in Cook County as Governor Jim Edgar and Illinois Department of Corrections Boot Camp Superintendent John McCorkle look on. Edgar visited Cook County Jail to sign legislation enabling Sheahan to establish and operate a military-style boot camp for county inmates.

"I want to commend Sheriff Mike Sheahan for his work and leadership on this legislation that can lead to better, crime-free futures for many of our young people," Edgar said.

'College Night'

Mother McAuley and Brother Rice High Schools are co-sponsoring 'College Night' on Monday, Sept. 27th. Financial aid presentations begin at 6 p.m. in the McAuley auditorium and college representatives will assemble in both high schools beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Resource people from approximately 140 private and public colleges and universities will answer questions high school juniors and seniors may have about the admissions process and programs of study at various schools throughout the country.

In addition to 'College Night,' many of these college representatives will visit the high schools throughout the academic year to speak with

For further information, contact the guidance department at either school. Mother McAuley's phone number is (312) 881-6535 and Brother Rice's is (312) 779-3410.

Suburban Family Planning

Cook County Board President Richard J. Phelan announced the expansion of family planning services to suburban Cook County residents through the Cook County Department of Public Health. Starting this month, Norplant contraceptive inserts and Depo Provera will be made available to eligible women in suburban Cook County. "By offering these family planning methods, we are able to provide women with additional resources that meet their individual family planning needs," said Phelan.

Norplant is a set of hormone implants that are inserted under the skin through a small incision and provide contraception for 5 years. Depo Provera is a hormone given by injection (shot) that provides contraceptive protection for three months.

Family planning services through the Cook County Department of Public Health provide gynecological tests, education, counseling, information and a prescription for an appropriate method of birth control. Most family planning services are provided on a sliding scale basis and therefore are available to many suburban residents. For more information on family planning services, suburban residents should call the district office nearest them: southwest suburbs, (708) 974-6160; and south suburbs, (708) 210-4500.

But HMO Illinois—a Blue Cross HMO—continues to thrive. Taking on all comers. Winning over companies that need a strong, efficient HMO on their side.

Today, nobody can offer your people better access to good quality health care than we can. Here in Illinois. And all across America, where Blue Cross and Blue Shield plans care for more than 70 million people.

When it gets to be time to re-enroll, look at our track record. Look at the hard numbers. Look at what we've accomplished over twenty years.

You know what I think you'll find? I think you'll find that the gold standard in HMO coverage isn't really gold after all. It's actually a very nice shade of blue.

Girl Scouts To Begin Programs

School time means Girl Scout time again. After the summer break, girls and adult volunteers from throughout the south suburbs are ready for Girl Scouting to start again. The program is open to all interested girls from 5 to 17 years old. There are five age groupings, starting with 'Daisy Scouts,' five years old, in kindergarten or first grade.

Brownie Scouts are usually six to eight years old, in first through third grade. Juniors are about nine to 11, in third to sixth grade. Older Girl Scouts include junior-high Cadettes, and Seniors in high school.

Since the organization was founded in 1912, its purpose has remained tied to ideals promoting character building, self-esteem and encouraging girls to do their best so they can achieve their goals and become confident, responsible individuals.

Of course, the appeal to girls is tied to the fun they have in Scouting. It is often the only place where they are encouraged to learn new, practical skills, where they might get to visit a fire station or a hospital pediatrics ward, go to see a real play, or have many other kinds of opportunities. Usually, Scouts meet in troops at a school, church, home or other location. However, other arrangements are also made, such as offering Scouting programs in certain schools during the lunch hour, or having groups of girls meet, who are not all of the same age group but who may share common interests.

Council-sponsored events are another popular way to carry out Girl Scouting. A special night just for Junior Scouts at the council's friendship center, a cross-cultural awareness weekend for Cadette and Senior Scouts, and a weekend devoted to adult volunteers are all on the early fall schedule of activities.

To help volunteers do their jobs well, the council offers a year-round calendar of workshops on topics from basic group leadership to T-shirt design, from first aid to crafts, and includes a number of matters of more contemporary concern such as prevention of substance abuse. Because of the range of training available, prior experience is not necessary.

For information about local Girl Scouting, or volunteer opportunities for adults, call the South Cook County Girl Scouts at the council service center at 957-8100.

Name Pat O'Malley Legislator Of Year

State Sen. Patrick J. O'Malley of Palos Park was honored as "Outstanding Freshman Legislator of the Year" by the Illinois Health Care Association (IHCA) at its annual convention and trade show in St. Charles.

IHCA represents more than 400 facilities in Illinois that specialize in geriatric care and care for the developmentally disabled. Issues of major interest for IHCA are the funding of care for low-income residents and assuring the overall quality of care for its residents.

"We first met Sen. O'Malley at an IHCA sponsored legislative symposium in his district," said William L. Kempiners, IHCA executive director. "His ability to utilize his knowledge of business and government to readily grasp the issues concerning long-term care created a lasting impression for us. Later, during the spring legislative session, our opinion of Sen. O'Malley was reinforced through observations of his ability to work well with other members of the Senate, the ease with which he adapted to the legislative process, and his independent nature. We feel Pat O'Malley has a great future as a member of the Senate."

As a Senator, easing the burden on Illinois taxpayers is one of Sen. O'Malley's top priorities. He has called for a comprehensive study of the state's tax system to lay the groundwork for meaningful tax reform. His support for a replacement of the "Granny Tax" is a good beginning.

O'Malley was elected in 1992 to serve the 18th District in suburban Cook County. He serves as vice-chairman of the Senate Education Committee, and as a member of the Revenue, and Insurance, Pensions and Licensed Activities Committees. Sen. O'Malley is also a practicing attorney with extensive business experience.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

One point generally agreed upon by all factors of the debate over the Robbins garbage burner is that source reduction and recycling be thoroughly implemented before incineration or landfilling is considered. This is a thought punctuated by common sense.

Incinerators need recyclable materials such as paper and plastic to maintain their BTU value. Therefore, by committing to the Robbins incinerator for 20 years we are appropriating monies in the wrong order of priority.

We must address the issues of source reduction, the recycling of mixed paper and plastics, the inclusion of multi-family dwellings and businesses in recycling programs, as well as the closure of the recycling loop. Monies appropriated through the Illinois Retail Rate Law should be re-allocated to the recycling industry. We should promote jobs and economic development in sorting, separating, processing and re-manufacturing of recycled materials.

For our tax dollars, give us centralized material recovery facilities, tax incentives for the recycling industry, and the curbside ability to participate in the program.

Incinerators burn jobs. Let's get our priorities straight. Ban the burn.

Holiday Sharing

The 'Power of Sharing' is the South Suburban Family Shelter (SSFS) theme for this year's Adopt-A-Family program. Once again, the agency is sponsoring the program to provide gifts during the upcoming Hanukkah/Christmas holiday season for families involved in domestic violence. SSFS provides 24-hour emergency shelter, counseling and referral services. Holiday times can be especially painful for families subsequent to leaving an abusive relationship, not only emotionally but economically as well. The 'Power of Sharing' can only be realized through the generous donations from supporters. In the past, donations of toys, clothing and food items have touched the hearts of many families.

Donation supporters desiring to participate in the 'Power of Sharing,' please contact Cynthia at (708) 335-4125 for further information.

Remaining Games

Mustang Head Coach Todd Wernet sees a continuation of aggressive football from a squad that has only four returning starters. The load is to be carried by: Dennis Pearson, Jim Pfeiffer, John Chlco, Jim Callegan, David Dover, Ahmad Merritt, David Novak, Jim Elwood, Ken Szymorski, Anthony Jackson, Rory Eddy, Jeff Frieri, Vinny Lopez, Nolan Nawrocki, Brian Kato, John Cortell, Bill Insley, Jerry Ewalt, Jeremy Smith, Eric Chlco, Tim Angsten, Ray

Solid Defense, Explosive Offense Could Bring Championship

Conference: Catholic League South
School Colors: Red and Blue

St. Rita's stingy defense carried the Mustangs to their third win of the season; their second shutout, as they rolled over Weber by a 42-0 margin. Head Coach Todd Wernet entered the season, his ninth at St. Rita, with a record of 67 victories and 22 losses as mentor of the Mustangs and now has 70 wins to his credit.

The Mustangs are proving that the loss of virtually the entire starting team from last year has not affected their performance and the coaching staff feels that the team is more than capable of improving on last season's 8-4 record. In 1992 the Mustangs were 4-1 in league play, second to Mt. Carmel's Caravan, and advanced to the second round of post-season play before being eliminated. Wernet would like nothing better than to turn those figures around and with the start Rita has, it is not an impossibility. It may come down to a showdown when Mt. Carmel hosts Rita on Oct. 29th. "Physical strength is the edge," said Wernet, "The loss of all but four starters hurts but a fast start is a help."

Nickname: Mustangs
School Classification: 6A

John Gricus, a 6'1", 238 pound nose guard; Tim Wojtecki, a 6'2", 235 pound guard; Doug Cullum, a 6'3", 260 pound offensive tackle, and Lee Spells, another 6'3", 260 pounder are mainstays on both the offensive and defensive units.

On offense, quarterback Jim Pfeiffer and running back Vinny Lopez combine to keep the opponent's defense honest.

Others to keep an eye on are linebacker Tim Angsten, running back Jeff Frieri and linebacker Jerry Ewalt. Three who have contributed and can be expected to continue to do so are Ahmed Merritt and Kevin Gade, both wide receivers and tight end Brandon Sagotz.

A solid defense and an explosive offense that features a balanced attack should carry the Mustangs a long way. From this sideline, it looks as if the Mustangs are destined for the top of the Catholic League South. Just how far they go depends to a large extent on attitude. That should be no problem for Wernet and the Mustangs.

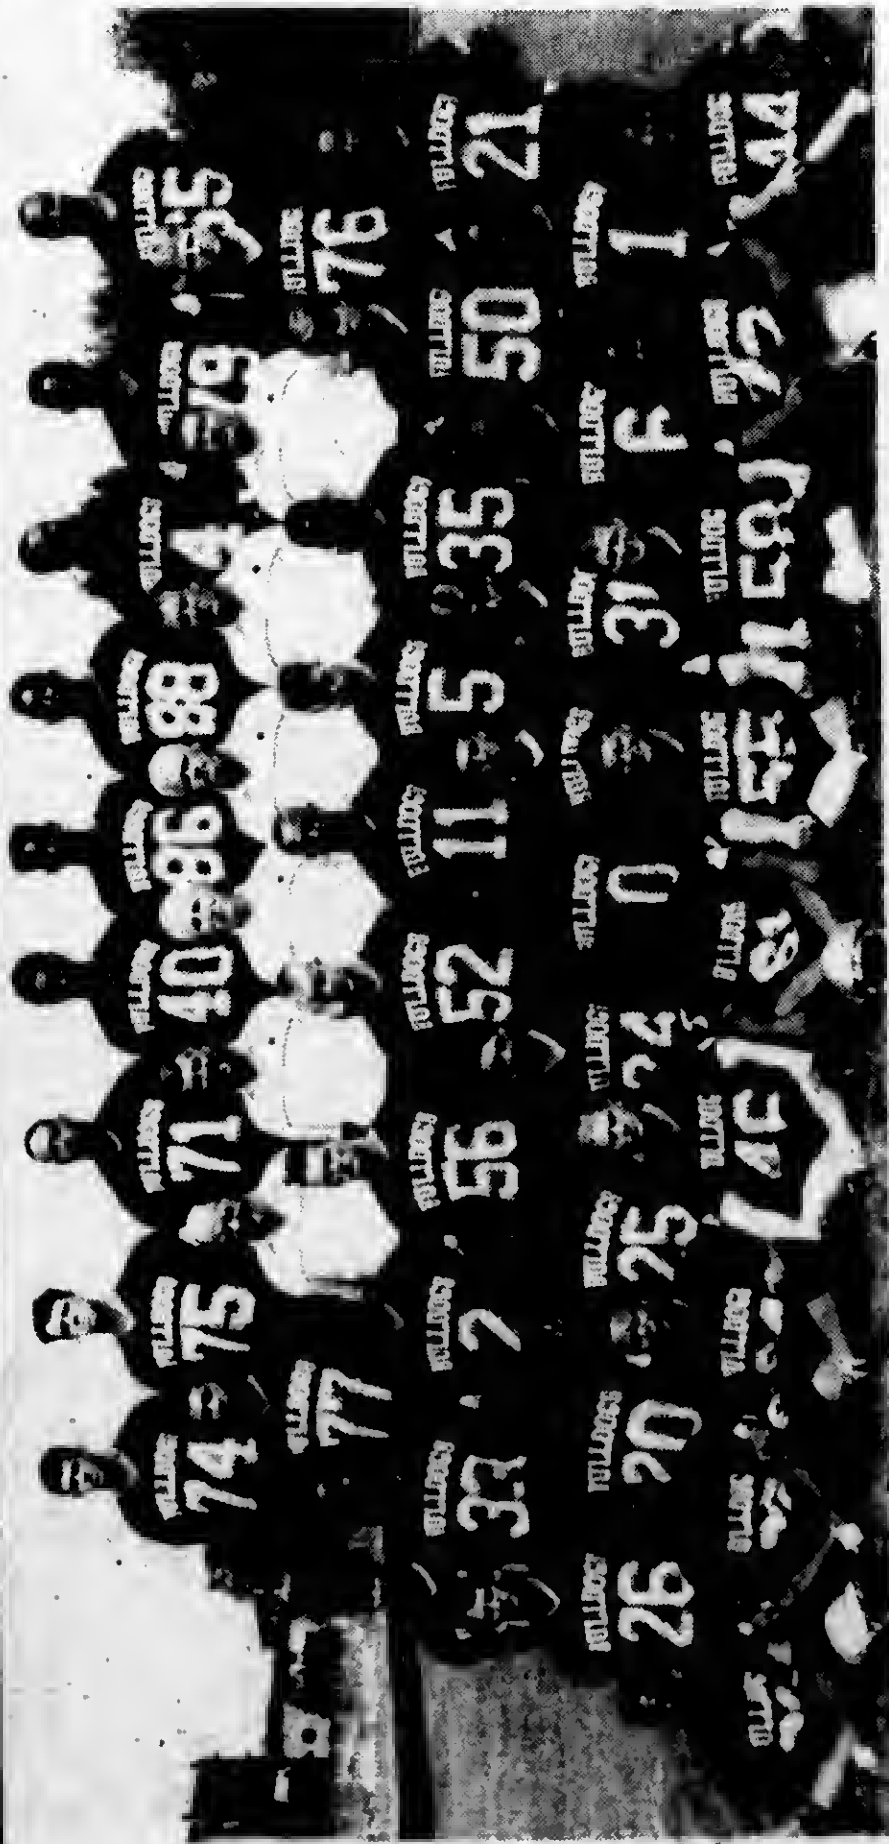

It's a matter of trust...not location!

H.L. RICHARDS BULLDOGS

Gary Korhonen, one of the most respected coaches in high school football, would like nothing better than to improve on last year's record. He looks to a young squad for a fine season that includes: (front row) Javon Walker, Deon Hartwell, Lee Long, Pahllo Venturini, Jeffery Holmes, John Carden, Dan Kelly, James Chapman, John Gasca; (2nd row) Kevin Wajcik, Anthony Beckham, Lael Booth, Jason Aleo, Kelly Jackson, Greg Murphy, Joel Kwasny, Denard

Korhonen Is Seeking A Return To The Top

Conference: SICA North
School Colors: Old Gold/Black/White

Over his 21-year spar, as head coach of the Bulldogs, Gary Korhonen has proven himself as a master of the game. He has compiled a sparkling 159-57 overall win/loss record and virtually everyone agrees, 'you can never count Richards out.' The Bulldogs have won 43 regular season games in their last 45 outings.

The Bulldogs ended last season on a down note, falling to Mount Carmel's powerful Caravan in the second round of 5A playoff action; opened this season with a win, then lost 16-14 to Bolingbrook with 11 seconds left, ending a 31-game unbeaten string on the road. The loss to Mt. Carmel was only the second of the year for the '92 Bulldogs, the other coming at the hands of SICA North champion Shepard.

Greg Murphy (6' 170), who started as a sophomore is the signal caller for Korhonen. Murphy passed for 783 yards and nine TDs last season and is expected to better that mark as a junior. Running back Joe Montgomery is the other side of the offensive coin. Joe shredded opponents' lines for 851

Nickname: Bulldogs

yards and nine TDs in 1992 and has picked up where he left off.

The offense should be aided by an all senior forward wall including center Randy Balsan (6' 1", 192), guards John Carden (5' 11", 225) and Jeff Holmes (5' 11", 211), tackles Kris Burke (6' 4", 247) and Billy Jones (6' 3", 260).

Denard Townsend and Leal Booth, both juniors, complement Montgomery as running backs.

The Bulldogs aggregation has the potential to bring home a third state championship in six years, adding another trophy to the collection.

Korhonen said that his coaching staff is a big factor in the team's success over the years. "Last year we were behind in five games during the fourth period. We won four of those and this demonstrates a 'never say die' attitude. That's the approach the Bulldogs take into each game and it has spelled success over the long haul."

MARIST REDSKINS

Head Coach Jim Nudera is in his second year and believes his team has a shot at the East Suburban Catholic Conference title. Those he expects to contribute toward that goal are: Mike Lotus, Doug Kasper, John Reaney, Chris Skizas, Kevin Sirk, Ted Ellis, Chris Miller, Dechan Fitzmaurice, Nirmal Sekhri, Dean Reidy, John Zintak, Mike Hughes, Brian Sullivan, Jimmy Blackmore, Heath Faubel, Doug Dillon, Dave Spinnella, Ray Marneris, Shane Davis, Jason Acevedo, Marty Graham, Mike McGinty, Jeff Studnicka, Jeff Hillgoth, Jason Mikazis, Pat Enright, Shawn O'Neill, Nathan Maolan, Ramiro Cordova, Ryan O'Brochta, Pete

Key Is Season-Long Intensity

Conference: East Suburban Catholic School Colors: Red/White/Gold

Second year head coach Jim Nudera hopes his charges can regain the momentum they displayed as they won five of their first six outings in 1992, then lost the final three matchups. The tailspin ended any hope of post-season competition.

Nudera hopes the 'sophomore jinx' doesn't doom the team's chances for a playoff spot in 1993. He looks to eight running starters to point the way to a much improved season.

Co-captains of this year's Redskins are John Reaney, a 5'9" split end; Shane Davis, a 5'8" tailback and Brian Harmon, a 6'1" tight end.

Nudera has as much, or more depth, than any coach in the area and if he can mold his talent into a formidable unit, the Redskins can come out on top. At least two shadows loom large in the East Suburban Catholic Conference, Joliet Catholic and Marian Catholic.

"A positive attitude and the remembrance that last season slipped away are motivating factors. The combination

Nickname: Redskins
School Classification: 6A

should carry this team a long way," said Nudera, "Speed is the key to our offense this year; speed and depth are going to determine just how far we go."

John Zintak, a 5'10", 160 lb. quarterback; Davis and fullback Jeff Studnicka, a 195 pound senior give Nudera a number of offensive options. Jamie Stahulak, another senior, is a proven running back.

In addition to Harmon, Zintak has depth in the receiving corps including seniors Ed Goewey, Marty Graham and Mike Lotus.

Center Sean Loftus and guards Bill Coogan and Brian Wagner are fixtures in the offensive line.

Joining Reaney and Harmon on the defensive unit are Pete Farrell and Rich Watson. Farrell posted 41 tackles in '92 to lead the team.

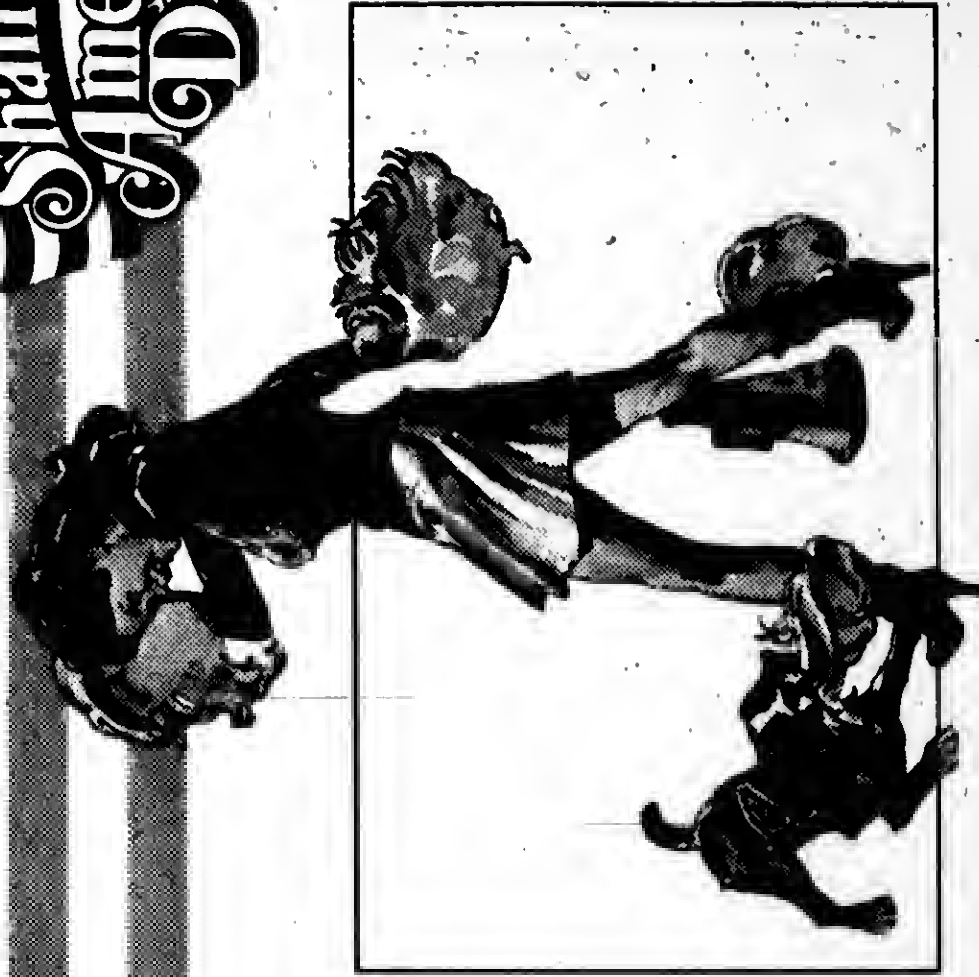

Nudera would like to hoist a championship banner in the Redskin gym and hopes that this is the year for the first of many banners to come.

OAK LAWN SPARTANS

Respectability is the goal of second-year varsity mentor John Robinson. He hopes to erase the memory of last year's 2-7 record and hopes to accomplish that goal with: (front row) Brian Clifton, Brian Kowitzki, Pat Clifton, Chris Kuchyt, John Sandula, Viktor Lampasona; (2nd row) Tom Orsi, Brian Brandt, Nick Devivo, Mike P. Clizek, Mark

Power Of Positive Thinking Is Spartan Watchword

Conference: SICA North
School Colors: Kelly Green/White

John Robinson is in his second year as head coach of the Spartans and looks to improvement over the 1992 2-7 overall record. The Spartans managed just a single victory in six SICA North outings, ending the season in the conference cellar.

Last season's bright spots came as the season wound down as the Spartans showed signs of coming to life. In the matchup with cross-town rival Richards, in the 1992 finale, Oak Lawn held the lead at halftime but the depth and experience of the Bulldogs prevailed.

Robinson and the Spartans must look at the positive aspects of the past year and build on them. The team has a nice balance of seniors and underclassmen and, due to the lack of depth, everyone should see quality playing time. Improvement is almost assured as the Spartans build for a real run at a conference crown in 1994.

Quarterbacking the team is Jason Benedict, who also plays

Nickname: Spartans
School Classification: 5A

outside linebacker, with Don Byron and two other veteran wide receivers to help with the passing attack, Harry Hershey and Abad Lopez. All four are seniors. Tight ends are Brian Brandt, Steve Evans and Dave Rivera-Duer, both sophomores, are expected to balance the passing game with a respectable running attack.

The offensive line is green, a potential question mark for the Spartans, but senior guard Nick Simich is expected to steady the younger players and show leadership on the defensive side of the ball.

The defensive secondary includes Mark Hoagland and D.J. Smith with junior Mike Ray joining Smith at safety. Mike Cizek and Brian Kotowski should be effective as linebackers and if things jell, a .500 season is not an impossibility. Robinson commented, "I just want this team to take the field and play to its potential each game. Making the 'big plays' is a priority."

110 Years Of Sound Service

In 1883, Chester Allen Arthur was the 21st president of the United States, Buffalo Bill Cody organized his Wild West Show, the Brooklyn Bridge was completed, the first skyscraper of 10 stories was built in Chicago by William LeBaron Jenney, the City of Chicago celebrated its 50th birthday and Southwest Federal opened for business.

Originally chartered on July 28th, 1883 as Arnoldsville Building and Loan Association, Southwest Federal remains dedicated to making home ownership a reality for the hardworking residents of the southwest side. At 110 years old, Southwest Federal Savings is the second oldest savings and loan association in Cook County, and one of the oldest in America. Southwest remains one of the strongest financial institutions in the United States, with reserves of more than three and one-half times the amount required by the federal government.

One-hundred and ten years ago, Southwest Federal's first location was near 51st St. and Ashland Ave. The association purchased a building at 62nd St. and Ashland Ave. in 1930. Arnoldsville was granted a federal charter in 1937 and changed its name to Southwest Federal Savings and Loan of Chicago.

In 1951, Southwest Federal built a new office at 64th and Ashland and, in 1964, the association relocated to its present main office in Chicago at 3525 W. 63rd St. Two more branch offices, the first at 4062 Southwest Highway and the second, by virtue of the merger of Manor Federal into Southwest Federal Savings, at 5830 W. 35th St. in Cicero, opened in 1981 and in 1987, Southwest Federal opened its first Oak Lawn office at 9640 S. Pulaski Rd. On June 1st, 1993, Southwest Federal opened its second Oak Lawn office at 10270 S. Central Ave. This newest office brings the total number of Southwest Federal Savings offices to five.

The trends of safety, soundness and profitability continue

On Reform Panel

Dr. Ronald Champagne has been appointed to a state commission studying ways to salvage the Chicago public school system, according to State Sen. Patrick O'Malley (R-18). Champagne, who is president of St. Xavier University, is a member of the Chicago Schools Turnaround Commission, established by Senate Resolution 93.

"Dr. Champagne is already an active participant in the process of public school reform, having helped to establish The Whitman Academy at St. Xavier University. The Whitman Academy provides a forum for the best and brightest principals in the public school system to share their experience with others and perpetuate the methods that work and the programs that have made a difference," O'Malley said. "Because he has demonstrated a real commitment to making Chicago public schools better places for students, I enthusiastically recommended his appointment to this commission."

O'Malley says The Whitman Academy was established in 1992 by St. Xavier University in cooperation with The Whitman Corporation and the Chicago Board of Education to support principals who have received The Whitman Award for Excellence in Education Management. Established in 1988, the award sets standards of excellence in education management and recognizes principals in the Chicago public schools whose leadership and management skills improve the academic achievement of children.

Sen. O'Malley says the Chicago Schools Turnaround Commission is charged with analyzing methods to assist school reform groups in effecting a turnaround of the Chicago public school system, which has experienced a continuing decline despite various reforms.

The 18-member commission, appointed by the Senate President and Senate Minority Leader, is to report its findings and recommendations to the General Assembly by Jan. 1st, 1994.

Robert Klein, post hospital chairman, was in charge of the party. 100 patients were served and everyone enjoyed the music provided by Joe Stack (one of the orchestras that plays at the post on Friday evenings).

at Southwest Federal Savings. Southwest was recently the recipient of the community support service award for the state of Illinois. This award, the first of its kind, was presented by The Federal Home Loan Bank of Chicago in recognition of outstanding achievement in community support activities. Southwest has received an "outstanding" rating under the community reinvestment act (CRA) from the office of thrift supervision (OTS). This unique honor recognizes the commitment and extensive involvement of Southwest's board of directors and management team for their extensive involvement with housing organizations and non-profit groups, in meeting the credit needs of the communities we serve.

The financial services industry has changed dramatically since 1883, most markedly, during the last 10 years. During this time, Southwest Federal Savings has prospered through controlled growth and prudent financial management. The association continues to maintain its integrity, as well as the high quality of the financial products it offers.

Through the years, Southwest has added new locations, new products and services, checking with interest, Cash Station Automatic Teller Machine (ATM) card, to name a few. In addition, Southwest Service Corporation, Southwest Federal's wholly-owned subsidiary, offers mutual funds and tax-deferred annuities. Yet, Southwest Federal is still dedicated to the firm belief that people are what keep the association the same neighborhood savings institution that got its start right here on Chicago's southwest side in 1883.

Hynes Decries Governor's Veto

Cook County Assessor Thomas C. Hynes strongly criticized Governor Jim Edgar for his veto of "Citizen's Tax Awareness Week," House Bill 2080, a measure requiring local taxing districts to hold annual public hearings on their property tax levies during the first week in December.

"Failure to sign this legislation deprives taxpayers of a much needed opportunity to understand and participate in the property tax spending decisions of local taxing districts, and it sends a definite signal that the Governor has clearly sided with local tax spending agencies, not taxpayers, on this important issue," Hynes said.

HB 2080 passed both houses of the Illinois General Assembly by overwhelming bipartisan majorities receiving 70 votes in the House of Representatives and 49 votes in the Senate.

In urging an override of the veto, Hynes described the Governor's action as a "slap-in-the-face" to all Cook County taxpayers and a step backward from the attempt to have a fully informed public.

Eagles Must Adjust To New Head Coach, Tom Navarro

Conference: SICA North
School Colors: Blue/Gold

Barring a miracle, any hope of winning the SICA North championship probably ended for the Sandburg Eagles last Friday. In a hard fought contest, the Astros prevailed 7-6 when Jay Nowicki recovered an Eagle fumble in the shadow of the Astro goalpost. Sandburg had been one of the pre-season choices for a shot at the conference title, along with Shepard and Richards. The next real test for the Eagles will be the Bulldogs, at Richards, on Oct. 1st.

This is the initial season for Mike Navarro and if he can keep up the Eagle intensity shown against the Astros, he still could finish in the runner-up spot and receive a post season bid.

Last year Sandburg was 8-4 overall, 4-2 in conference action, good for third place behind Shepard and Richards. That may be the order of finish again in 1993.

Sandburg's offense is geared around running back Kevin Singletary, a cousin of Bear great Mike Singletary. The 5'11", 190 pound Singletary ran the ball 19 times against Shepard, accounting for 143 yards and the Eagle lone tally. Senior Chris Prydzia is the signal caller and Ron Skubic (5'11", 190 pounds) will see plenty of action as a ball carrier. Speedster Brian Fahey at wide receiver, along with tight ends Sam Abousaleh and Bill Chiszewski are Prydzia's main targets.

Nickname: Eagles

The Eagle secondary is in fine shape with Singletary, Skubic, Dan Sullivan and Leo Koszulinski, however the front defensive line includes only three seniors: Sean Slaney, a defensive as well as offensive standout; Fran Arreola and Brandon O'Daniell are the only seniors.

With the retirement of Tom Seliga, who led the Eagles to nine straight playoff berths, 10 during his 12-year career, Navarro has a large pair of shoes to fill. He should, however, be familiar with the Sandburg program and guided the sophomore team at the Orland Park school to more than 100 wins during his 13-years with the Sandburg underclassmen.

Navarro acknowledged that lack of size could present a problem but said, "This will be a typical Sandburg team. Intelligence and enthusiasm are keys to the season. Our main goal is to be competitive and to be the best team we are capable of being."

The Eagle attack may feature more aerial work than usual, but very few dramatic changes can be expected.

Sandburg can be in the thick of the chase but Navarro will probably require at least one season before he challenges seriously for the conference title.

Work Ethic Guides Crusaders

Conference: Catholic League South
School Colors: Maroon/Burnt Orange

Head Coach Tom Mitchell has been the Crusader mentor for 27 years and has compiled an impressive 170-105-1 overall record. The Crusaders finished third in the Catholic League South in 1992 behind Mount Carmel and St. Rita with a 3-2 league mark. If Mitchell has a problem this year it is the fact that just three lettermen are returning. Rice fell victim to Mather of the Chicago Public League in the Prep Bowl.

Mount Carmel was undefeated last year in conference action and at this point, it looks as if the Caravan has the inside track on a repeat. Rice, St. Rita and St. Laurence are contenders, however it appears that the three are going to be in a dogfight for the runner-up spot.

Last year's signal caller, Jim Forster, has graduated and Todd Tenison, a 5'9", 171 lb. senior, is poised to quarterback the Crusaders. The balance of the backfield includes two seniors, Michael Bond (5'6", 168 lbs.) and Kevin Nelligan (6', 188) along with Brennan Logue (5'10", 180), a junior as running backs. Receivers include tight end Joshua C. Bundy a 5'11", 190 lb. senior and Ed Rozell, a 5'10", 158 lb. wide receiver. Rozell is the most experienced of the receiving corps and is expected to open the game somewhat as Rice has been seen as a team that depends primarily on a running attack. Rozell may make things interesting for Rice fans looking to a more balanced attack.

Returnees in the defensive lineup include Dan DeAvila (6'3", 215 lbs.) in the forward wall and linebacker Mike Boyle (5'10", 202 lbs.). A pair of seniors, Joe Remiasz (5'9", 160) and Brendan Winters (6'1", 175) are in the secondary. Remiasz also handles kicking chores.

The phrase Mitchell used for many seasons, "work ethic," surfaces again this year. "The work ethic and confidence in their talents," are pluses. "We do not have great size, so enthusiasm and hard work are the key this time around."

Mustangs Take Aim At Southwest Conference Crown

Conference: Southwest Suburban School Colors: Green/Gray

The Mustangs opened with a win, then were whitewashed in their second outing. Including a loss to Coal City in the second round of state playoffs, Brett Nelson's 1992 team posted an impressive 9-2 record. The other loss was to Southwest Suburban Conference champ Ridgewood. Evergreen finished second to Ridgewood with a 4-1 conference mark.

This year, Nelson has 10 returning starters and says that a four-way race for this year's title is probable. Evergreen Park, Ridgewood, Westmont and Lemont all are strong and "have a good shot at the top position."

In 1992 the Mustangs relied on a steamroller offense that was virtually all ground attack. Last year's top rushers, Tim McKenna and Josh Norris, are gone and a multi-faceted offense, featuring the passing of Bryan Schaffrath combined with the rushing of Chris Kalafut, Matt Zdano and Mike Tracy, are keeping opponents from taking anything for granted. Brad Manderfeld, Seth Birgellis and Josh Harrison should be Schaffrath's primary targets. Senior Neal Vanderee at tight end is another receiver expected to give opponents something to think about.

Protecting the quarterback and opening holes for the runners are Jim Czerwinski, Jim Knipper, Mike Prendergast and Dan Whalen. Another contributor on the offensive line is Tim Meegan.

On defense, two transfer students are expected to be mainstays, junior Joe Ivanauskas from Mt. Carmel and Eddie Lee, a senior who played for St. Rita. Two-time MVP Jim Czerwinski, a defensive tackle, is the anchor of the defensive line. Jim Price and Bryan Blaha are linebackers and deep backs include cornerback Mike Usterbowski along with safety Matt Terrance.

If Schaffrath and his teammates perform as expected, look for the Mustangs to win the title and earn their second straight ticket to post-season competition.

DeCarlo Takes The Helm Says He Plans To Keep Viking Tradition Alive

Conference: Catholic League South
School Colors: Black and Gold

Bob DeCarlo, St. Laurence athletic director and for years an assistant varsity football coach, took over the stewardship of the Viking varsity team following Bob Padjen's resignation. In four years, Padjen's teams won 16 times while losing 23. DeCarlo's aim is to bring the Vikings back into prominence in the south suburban football picture. Over the past two years St. Laurence has been 5-13.

The Catholic League South is one of the tougher conferences in the state with Mount Carmel, St. Rita and Brother Rice as the teams to reckon with over the past few years. De LaSalle is another force to be reckoned with in league play and if DeCarlo is to get the Vikes back on the winning track, his work is laid out for him.

Lost to graduation were a number of key players, including All-Catholic League picks Mark Gutkowski, Mike Costello and Bob Gonzales.

1992. Keith Schuch, a senior, has as primary targets Pete Lotus, a senior; and a pair of returnees scrambling for the tight end position, senior Tom Herbeck and Gerry Gonzalez, a junior.

Tailback Aldo Aranda, a senior, and John Duckhorn, a junior fullback, are the running threats for the Vikings.

Defensively, the Vikes are solid in the backfield with three seniors, Steve Barsch, Ken Konrath, and Joe Spano, along with junior Pat Doorhy as fixtures.

Ryan Endemann is the only returning starter in the offensive line. He is a tackle on the defensive team and lends a steadying hand at both positions. Endemann is a linchpin in both the defensive and offensive units who may be the one who determines how far the Vikes go in '93.

"I'm going to follow the proven formulas for Viking success, those established by Mike O'Neill, Bob Fabrizio and Bob Padjen. That's the best route."

Astros Appear To Be 'The Team To Beat' In The North

Conference: SICA North
School Colors: Brown/Orange/White

The Astros are looking to repeat as SICA North champions. They won the conference last season and had a 9-0 record when they met Joliet Catholic in the opening round of IHSA 5A playoff action.

The biggest loss to graduation was Ontario Pryor who was one of the best wide receivers in Chicagoland. His brother Tony, a 6' 178 pound junior, is a more than capable quarterback as well as a wideout. Also lost to graduation was Zeke Green who averaged 13 yards a carry last season, however Renard Johnson who lines up at tailback is one of the better runners in the conference. Allen Ross is the fullback and is considered a fine blocker for the Astro running attack.

Craig Barham, Chad Miller's backup as quarterback is on hand in the talent rich Shepard offensive unit. Ralph Pegues who can run as well as catch passes rounds out the offense.

The Shepard offensive line is anchored by two seniors, guard Jim Dallio (6' 2", 258 pounds) and tackle end Abe

A CANADIAN FISHING TRIP - According to BOB STINAUER of Palor Park, "A great time was had by all." Bob and his 14-year-old grandson, KARL SCHEMEL from Hinsdale and Bob's brother RUDY from Havana, Illinois took a "train" from Chicago to Malta, Montana where they joined brother JOE from Kalispell, Montana.

The Stinauers then drove 750 miles north to LAKE BESNARD, 60 miles west of LA RONGE, SASKATCHEWAN. For the next 10 days they lived out of a camper and tent.

The group caught a mixed bag of northerns, white fish, yellow perch and enough walleyes for those delicious shore lunches. JOE won the camp bet for the largest fish, a 22 lb. northern, BOB caught a 19 pounder and young KARL was very excited about his 17 lb. northern. No report on "Retired Fish Biologist" RUDY, he was probably too busy preaching the need for "catch and release" of those big fish.

The STINAUER BOYS enjoyed the male bonding, good fishing, fair weather and "semi-private" camping experience. In addition to a spectacular NORTHERN LIGHTS DISPLAY they observed a huge meteor with 4 vivid tails, and a swimming Caribou and her calf.

ANTI-TRAPPING BILLS DEFEATED - Two anti-trapping bills were defeated in committee during the legislative session. Senate Bill 441, introduced by Senator Beverly Fawell, sought to give the county board of counties with more than 350,000 inhabitants the power to ban leghold traps in populated areas, and areas adjacent to populated areas, except when trapping nuisance animals. House Bill 1633, introduced by Representative Parcells, sought to prohibit the use of body-gripping and leghold traps, with certain exceptions for trapping nuisance animals. Senate Bill 64, introduced by Senator Fawell, sought to amend the Humane Care for Animals Act and Illinois Dangerous Animals Act. The bill was defeated in committee, but could have had an impact in hunting, fishing, trapping and other animal-related industries.

HUNTING BIG BUSINESS IN ILLINOIS - The Fur Resources Committee of the International Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies recently contracted Southwich Associates of Arlington Virginia to conduct an economic impact analysis of hunting in the United States. The analysis used 1987 data, and broke down economic impacts by state as well as for the nation as a whole. In Illinois, hunting produced $269.2 million in retail sales, generated $523.8 million in total economic effects, supported 7,000 jobs, yielded $153.8 million in household income, and generated $36 million in total state and federal tax revenues.

MED MULLADY FALL KANKAKEE RIVER REPORT: "The Kankakee River walleye should be even bigger now that they had all of that water we experienced lately. They certainly had more of an area to find food in at that time."

As temperatures begin to cool off slightly in August and September, the walleye the Big Kankakee River is so well known for will even be more active. This spells happiness for all who pursue our Kankakee River walleye--and the numbers of serious river walleye fishermen on the Kankakee grows every year!

Deep holes? Sure, fish them, especially during daylight hours. However, once the sun begins to sift down behind the trees on the river, fish the holes if you wish, but don't pass up the shallower waters near the holes as well! Like most river fish, walleye often find their best feeding area near shorelines and in fairly shallow water!

How shallow? Most walleye fishermen in the river catch a large share of their walleye in water from about 2 to 6 feet in depth."

The Moraine Valley Community College Marauder football team is off to a fast start defeating its first opponent, University of Evansville Junior Varsity, 28-14.

This quick-scoring game saw Moraine Valley on the board with 8 points just five minutes after the opening kickoff on a Roger Brown 4-yard touchdown run. A poor snap created an opportunity for Josh Mattio as he ran in for the two-point conversion.

During the first quarter, Brown scored again for Moraine Valley bringing the score 14 to 0. Evansville got on the board with 7 points in the second quarter. Dan Cottier intercepted the ball and ran 20 yards for a touchdown and the extra point was blocked. The score at halftime was 21-7.

Evansville scored a touchdown in the third quarter on a 7-yard touchdown run. Scoring again for Moraine Valley was Brown who ran the ball in from the 3-yard line. The final score was Marauders 28 and Evansville 14.

Art Institute Of Chicago Celebrates Centennial

The centennial of the opening of The Art Institute of Chicago in its present location is being held this year. In celebration, The Art Institute is mounting "Chicago's Dream, a World's Treasure: The Art Institute of Chicago, 1893-1993" from Nov. 1st to Jan. 9th, a major exhibition of more than 350 of the institute's most important and historically significant works of art, that will provide a lively and thought-provoking look at the history of one of the world's great art museums.

Selected from the more than 260,000 pieces that have come to comprise the institute's permanent collection, works on view are to include those seldom seen, due to fragility and light-sensitivity, and familiar treasures exhibited here in unfamiliar, historically enlightening settings. A wide range of media will be shown, including paintings, sculpture, works on paper, photographs, textiles and decorative arts, with every museum department represented.

The Art Institute shares its centennial with that of the 1893 World's Columbian Exposition and the museum's history is closely tied to the Exposition: the Beaux-Arts structure the museum has occupied for the past 100 years was designed to serve as the hall for the World's Congresses during the fair and afterwards become the new Art Institute, which it did on Nov. 1st, 1893.

The builders of The Art Institute felt confident in carving on the outside of the building the names of artists who represented, in their eyes, the greatest in artistic achievement. The Art Institute of 1993 looks toward a future where a multiplicity of ideas, styles, cultures, artists and methodologies engage in a lively dialogue with the public and each other.

"Chicago's Dream, a World's Treasure: The Art Institute of Chicago, 1893-1993" was organized by Teri J. Edelstein, deputy director of The Art Institute, with the institute's curatorial staff. The installation is designed by noted Chicago architect Stanley Tigerman. The exhibition is accompanied by an illustrated commemorative book written by Neil Harris, Preston and Sterling Morton Professor of History at the University of Chicago.

KATE COLLINS and BRUCE ORENDORF (inset) star in the Chicago premiere of Pierre Marivaux's "The Triumph of Love" which opens tonight at the Court Theatre, the professional theatre of the University of Chicago, 5535 S. Ellis. Full of hidden identities and deceitful agendas, "The Triumph of Love" is a seductive and charming tale of love found and love lost....The toe-tapping, Tony-winning, crowd-pleasing singing/dancing new Gershwin musical comedy extravaganza, "Crazy for You," will open on Oct. 20 at the Auditorium Theatre...."Breaking Legs," the hit comedy starring film star Danny Aiello, will open the "Best of Broadway" series at the Shubert Theatre on Oct. 19 for a limited engagement of 16 performances. Set in a colorful Italian restaurant, "Breaking Legs" centers around an entourage of shady characters and knowledgeable investors who decide to bring their "expertise" to the world of Broadway. The resulting complications produces a hilarious comedy acclaimed by critics and audiences across the country.

THEATRE NOTES....Auditions for "A Flea In Her Ear," which will be presented by Moraine Valley Community College, will be held Oct. 19, 20 and 22 from 7 pm to 10 pm in the school's theatre building. "A Flea In Her Ear" was written in 1907 and is a delightful story about mistaken identity and sex. A wife suspects her husband is unfaithful and he suspects her of the same. Performances of the play will be Dec. 9 through 12...."It Runs In The Family," a new comedy by Ray Cooney, a big hit at the Candlelight Dinner Playhouse, is playing to capacity audiences...."Not Ready for Bedtime Stories," a musical version of three Washington Irving tales, will be presented on Sundays at 2:30 pm beginning Oct. 17 at the Players Workshop, 2636 N. Lincoln Ave....The Children's Theatre Fantasy Orchard will present the heart-warming tale of "Hansel and Gretel" beginning Oct. 30 at the Chicago Historical Society.

LAUREN TOM (inset) is one of the stars of the box office hit movie "The Joy Luck Club," currently playing a limited engagement at the Loews Fine Arts Theatre and will open at additional theatres beginning Oct. 1...."Dazed and Confused" is set in the late 1970's when a general malaise hangs in the air as the last day of high school winds down before the summer vacation. The quick and easy fixes of the '70's are everywhere and the subject of what bothers a 17-year-old growing up in the tempting period...."Household Saints," a touching and mystical fable spanning three generations of women in an Italian-American family, will open on Oct. 1 at movie houses all over the Chicago area...."Gettysburg," based on Michael Shaara's Pulitzer-Prize winning novel "The Killer Angels," will open an exclusive engagement on Oct. 8 at the Cineplex Odeon Theatre, 900 N. Michigan. The four-hour and nine-minute film (with a 20 minute intermission) depicts the three most courageous days in American history as experienced by the leaders of the Confederate and Union Armies.

HAILE BERRY (inset) stars as a beautiful tutor who attempts to help football players with their studies in the movie "The Program," a flick that captures the essence of high-stakes college football where players and coaches straddle the line between their passion for the game and paying the ultimate price for success. James Caan plays the coach who alternates between inspirational father figure and cruel dictator, pushing the players to excel beyond their limits, while inflicting both physical pain and emotional failure on the players. Pushed to the max to perform, these elite athletes collide on and off the field, testing their commitment and character, while fighting the demands and pressures of winning at all costs. The timely movie, which captures what has happened to college football today (see today's "opinion" column), opens tomorrow at movie theatres all around the Chicago area.

Perform Swedish Music In English

The "roving ambassador of Swedish music" will bring his special form of diplomacy to the Swedish American Museum, 5211 N. Clark St., on Thursday, Oct. 7th. Roger Hinchcliffe, with partner Claes Dyberg, will perform his acclaimed versions of songs by some of Sweden's best known artists, in English.

Hinchcliffe, originally from Boston, has lived in Stockholm since 1973. He has spent the past decade translating and performing his English renditions of many of Sweden's most beloved popular songs. His two solo recordings and live concerts have been enthusiastically received on both sides of the Atlantic. In November of 1991, Hinchcliffe released his latest album, "Swedes On Love," with English versions of songs by Povel Ramel, Nils Ferlin, Dan Andersson and others.

A Swedish critic said of the album, "Swedes On Love" is a combination of ingenious translations, elegant arrangements, phenomenal musicianship...I simply cannot understand how any friend of Swedish popular music can refrain from acquiring a record such as this!"

Hinchcliffe was knighted "roving ambassador of Swedish music" while appearing on a Swedish TV show last December, and apt title, as he appeared at the Swedish Pavilion at the World's Fair in Spain last summer.

With these kinds of accolades, Hinchcliffe's concert at the museum promises to be an unforgettable evening. The concert starts at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $10 for museum members; $12 for non-members; $8 for seniors. Call the museum for additional information at (312) 728-8111.

Suspense Thriller

Pyramid Pictures, Inc., an independent film company based in the southwestern Chicago area, has begun production on "Presence of Mind," a psychological thriller that combines a semi-documentary style with a surrealistic "Twilight Zone" flavor to tell its intriguing story.

Based in part on the Boston Strangler case of the 1960s, the story concerns a reclusive, lonely woman who slowly comes to realize that the man responsible for a series of strangling murders in her small community has been passing by her house as he flees each murder scene. How her paranoia grows...and the twisted events that result...make up the suspense in this mystery that recalls the film-noir style of the late 1940s.

Production Manager Martin Shannon of Worth announced that the production, shot on tape, will shoot for an April completion date, at which time a public presentation is planned in a local auditorium. The film will also be marketed for cable as well as entry into nationwide film and video festivals. Pyramid's previous film, a Civil War story entitled "Touched With Fire," aired on local cable stations throughout the month of August.

Written and directed by Glenn J. Pniowski of Merrionette Park, the production features actors from varied areas of Chicago and vicinity: Susan McLaughlin, Anne Alexander, Peggy Queener, Mary Kooy and Carmen Lucia of Chicago; Bernard Rice of Park Forest; Rick Giampaolo of Burbank; Greg Bartecki of Evergreen Park; Michael Gandy of Oak Forest; Leanne Rae and Marilyn Eshoo of Justice; Jill Tafel of Palos Heights, as well as Shannon himself.

For more information, contact Shannon at (708) 597-4765.

Aurelia Pucinski, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Cook County, in joint efforts with Henry Bayer, Executive Director of AFSCME Council 31, has made special arrangements to immediately implement the Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993 (FMLA) as it pertains to clerk's office employees covered by the collective bargaining agreement between the clerk's office and AFSCME Local 3368. The FMLA took effect on Aug. 5th, for the clerk's employees not covered by a contract. Pucinski and Bayer have signed a 'letter of understanding' which provides that the clerk's office and AFSCME Council 31, for and on behalf of Local 3368, fully support the intent and spirit of the FMLA and have determined that they wish to extend the benefits of the FMLA to all bargaining unit employees effective as of Sept. 7th, rather than waiting until the expiration of the current contract on Nov. 30th.

"I feel the benefits of this act are essential and that delaying it until December is unnecessary. It is important to me that our bargaining unit employees, like all of our non-bargaining unit employees, have access to these benefits immediately," said Pucinski.

Under the provisions of the FMLA, eligible employees are entitled to up to 12 work weeks of unpaid leave during any 12-month period. When certain preconditions have been met, FMLA leave may be taken for one or more of the following reasons: for the birth of a child; for the adoption of a child or placement of a foster child; to care for a sick spouse, child or parent, or due to the employee's own serious health condition.

Bridge Closed

Reconstruction of the bridge on Pulaski over the Cal-Sag has been delayed for an additional month, according to Don DeCero of the Cook County Highway Department who said, "We did not realize the scope of the problems (with the bridge) until we started tearing it apart."

A bearing that was needed to be replaced under the bridge had to be manufactured to precise specifications before it could be used. While the part is being manufactured, workers will be taking down the eastside deck and working there.

After this work is completed, the bridge is scheduled to be closed twice more for one-day periods to completely finish the work.

Pullman House Tour

Next year marks the centennial of the Pullman Strike, an event that played a major role in American labor history. The Historic Pullman Foundation, Pullman Civic Organization, Historic North Pullman Corporation, Chicago Historical Society, The Newberry Library, Illinois Labor History Society and the Illinois Historic Preservation Agency are a few of the organizations planning special events and activities to commemorate the Pullman Strike. Watch for listings of a series of innovative programs, family events and activities. Some of the planned activities include lectures, a bicycle race, films, concerts and guided walking tours. These have been designed to present a forum that will be much more than a simple commemoration of an important event in Chicago history.

The strike was a landmark event that unified the nation's labor force and caused management to rethink their philosophy toward the working people. Questions such as company control of the community, labor-management relations and the government's role in resulting disputes, demanded answers. Striking Pullman employees gained nationwide sympathy and support and relief provisions were dispatched from around the country. The outcome of the strike forever changed the relationship between management and labor.

The Historic Pullman District was designated National, State and City Landmark status over 20 years ago. In 1880, plans for the community were commissioned for Pullman's Palace Car Company. The results were so successful, Pullman was once considered the "world's most perfect town." Today, a dedicated community continues to restore private homes and support the preservation efforts of the foundation.

To see a "sneak preview" of what Pullman has in store, come to the 20th annual house tour on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 9th and 10th. Get a glimpse into the past as eight renovated homes are opened to the public.

For further information regarding the centennial commemoration or the tour program, call (312) 785-8181.

Two Charged With Bribery And Mail Fraud

Michael J. Shepard, United States Attorney for the Northern District of Illinois, together with William D. Branon, special agent-in-charge of the Chicago Division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), and John H. Imhoff, Jr., chief of the criminal investigation division of the Chicago District Office of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS), announced recently that three individuals were charged in a six-count information which alleges the execution of a $150,000 bribery scam. More specifically, brothers Edward H. Pruim, 49, of Orland Park, and Robert J. Pruim, 46, of Palos Heights, are charged with giving bribes, in return for preferential treatment for their business totaling at least $150,000, to Thomas O'Connor, 44, of Chicago, who was employed by the City of Chicago as general foreman of dumps for the department of streets and sanitation.

The information alleges that between approximately December 1988 and October 1991, O'Connor, in his capacity as foreman of dumps, had responsibilities relating to the removal and disposal of waste. Edward and Robert Pruim owned and operated XL Disposal Corporation ("XL"), 13701 S. Kostner, Crestwood, which was a waste disposal and recycling company that had contracted with the City of Chicago to provide such services. The information states that in exchange for bribe payments, O'Connor, in his capacity as foreman of dumps, provided significant information and took action which directly benefited the Pruims in their business dealings with the city.

According to the information, from approximately January 1989 through October 1990, the Pruims gave O'Connor cash bribes on a weekly or bi-weekly basis, resulting in bribe payments of more than $25,000. The Pruims made a variety of other payments to O'Connor, including a payment of $10,000 during September and October of 1990, as well.

The information alleges that the Pruims helped O'Connor purchase a house on Bass Lake in Indiana by providing him with a down payment of $6,000 and by posting a $30,000 certificate of deposit so that O'Connor could obtain an unsecured loan to purchase the house. The Pruims then gave O'Connor monthly payments of $1,000 in cash so that he could make payments on the $30,000 loan he obtained. The information further states that in 1990 the Pruims paid off the outstanding balance of that loan which at the time totaled approximately $19,000.

In order to conceal that the Pruims were giving money to O'Connor in connection with the Indiana house, the information alleges that Edward Pruim arranged for another individual to enter into a sham real estate transaction with O'Connor. As part of this transaction, title to the property was transferred into the name of the other individual, while O'Connor maintained possession, custody and control of the Indiana house. The Pruims also gave O'Connor $58,000 in connection with this transaction.

Finally, the information states that in October 1989, Edward Pruim helped pay for O'Connor's family trip to Disney World, including six round-trip airplane tickets, a rental car, Disney World passes, accommodations at Disney Village Resort and spending money.

O'Connor resigned from his position with the city in approximately June 1991.

In commenting on the charges, Shepard stated, "This case should serve as a reminder that this office will aggressively prosecute not only public officials who take bribes, but also the corrupt businessmen who pay them." Shepard also praised the case agent for his excellent investigative work.

Assistant United States Attorney Jacqueline Stern will represent the government in United States District Court.

If convicted, Edward and Robert Pruim each face a maximum penalty of 25 years incarceration and a $1,250,000 fine. They are each charged with five counts of mail fraud. O'Connor faces a maximum penalty of eight years imprisonment and a $500,000 fine. O'Connor is charged with one count of mail fraud and one count of making a false statement on his 1989 tax return. Note, however, that the Court, guided by the United States sentencing guidelines, will determine the sentence to be imposed.

Members of the public are reminded that an information is only a charge and is not evidence of guilt. The defendants are presumed innocent and are entitled to a fair trial in which it will be the government's burden to prove the defendants' guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.

Flood Relief Items

The Oak Lawn campus of Lincoln Technical Institute has collected 3,052 items for relief of flood victims. Cooperating with the Downstate Flood Relief Convoy and working under the auspices of Congressman William O. Lipinski (D-3), the volunteers collected food, beverages, gloves, flashlights and cleaning supplies.

Kenneth Ruff, campus executive director, reports that 398 day and evening students participated in the endeavor. Pizza parties were awarded to the classes contributing the greatest number of items: day classes conducted by Timothy Studzinski of Crestwood and John Boehler of Burbank and evening classes instructed by Kenneth Kunz of Minooka and Paul Donofrio of Palos Hills.

The effort was coordinated by Mary Lynn Curran of Oak Lawn, employment assistance officer. Also working on arrangements were Edward Larsen, director of education, and Fred Smart of Tinley Park, educational supervisor.

The collection was one of a series of charitable projects undertaken throughout the year by students at the school. The Oak Lawn campus, 8920 S. Cicero Ave., is one of 11 LTI facilities in the Midwest and East. It offers day and evening classes in automotive or diesel truck technology and in automotive mechanics.

POLICE CALLS

The following incidents were reported by the Oak Lawn Police Department. Readers are reminded that an arrest by police does not constitute a finding of guilt and only a court of law can make that determination.

On Sept. 10th, Ida Miele of Oak Lawn reported that while her car was parked on the east side of the Hilton Inn from the 3rd until the 10th, the rear plastic window was ripped out and removed. Estimated cost to replace is $250.

Sportmart at 9633 S. Cicero reported two offenders, Henry Kareen and Roddy McDowell, both of Chicago, entered the store and went to the Club department where they were seen allegedly concealing three pair of Newman gloves and exiting without paying. The merchandise valued at $55.81 was recovered and they were charged with retail theft.

Charles Herbeck of Chicago, a patient at Christ Hospital, told police that someone took his wallet out of the nightstand next to his bed while he was out of the room for medical treatment. When he contacted Visa, he was told someone had made a $200 purchase on the card. He cancelled all the credit cards. Also missing were his driver's license, Social Security card and $5 cash.

James Johnson of Justice reported he had left his 1989 Nissan at Napleton Honda at 6701 W. 95th St. on Sept. 2nd and when he returned to pick up the car, found his Alpine CD player, amplifier and two Jensen speakers were removed. He said the articles were removed in a very neat manner, no wires cut, no damage to the dash or rear deck area. Estimated loss is $1,500.

On the 11th, Fred Harges, employed at McSports, 8900 S. Cicero, reported a male black offender ran from inside the store after removing three Reebok warm-up suits valued at $80 each.

Carl Nelson told police he had parked his vehicle in the lot west of Super Burrito, 5143 W. 95th St., and went on a business trip. When he returned, he found someone had put four cigarette burns in the vinyl roof. Estimated cost to replace is $250.

Bonnie Frenzel, owner of Frenzel's Tap, 5635 W. 87th St., called police at 11:50 p.m. to investigate a fight. Bartender Deborah Isdell said a person she did not know became argumentative with other bar patrons and subsequently swept his arm across the table breaking the glasses and knocking them off the table. He then ran to Turner's Tap. When police arrived, the bartender at Turner's said he had entered the bar and left by the rear door. He was identified as Lawrence Halt of Oak Lawn. Police went to his house but he was not there.

Jill Hayes of Palos Park, a nurse at 9 south at Christ Hospital, reported that between July 10th and Sept. 11th, someone had removed three credit cards from her purse which was in a drawer at the nurses' station. On Sept. 12th at 3:55 p.m., Mohammed Nassar, 18, of Oak Lawn told police that he was playing in the park next to the firehouse on 93rd Pl. when Mustafa Sihaden picked up Nassar's bike and began riding it. Nassar asked him to give the bike back, but Mustafa refused so Nassar put his hand on the bike to stop it. Mustafa picked up a stick and struck Nassar several times in the face and body causing lacerations to his right eye and swelling to his right arm. Nassar ran to the firehouse because his eye was bleeding and Mustafa chased him inside. Firefighters George Popelka and Lyle Lake began to give Nassar medical assistance for his injuries. Mustafa began yelling in Arabic at Nassar and was attempting to confront Popelka whom he invited outside.

AS YOUNG AS YOU FEEL?

You're only as young as you feel. That's a fine thing to think about if your mind and body are in good health. No aches and pains. No tightness in your muscles. No difficulty at all in falling comfortably asleep. If you're in good health you can never lose that youthful exuberance, that wonderful feeling about being alive and doing things.

But if you feel tired all the time, full of aches and pains, irritable and grumpy, there's tension in your body that needs treatment to bring you welcome relief. A spine out of alignment, tight muscles and nerves in your back and other parts of your body create tension that can cause a lot of physical as well as mental discomfort.

Keeping busy with work and hobbies, enjoying friendships, and eating a well-balanced diet can help you hold onto that youthful exuberance. But there may be times when there is a tension buildup caused by muscles, nerves, and "insults" to your spine that need treatment to help you feel as "young" as you should be.

Cable TV Regulation

A resolution providing for regulation of basic cable service rates and rates for equipment and installation used to receive the basic cable service tier in the Village of Oak Lawn was adopted by a 4-2 vote at Tuesday night's board meeting.

Trustee Marjorie Ann Joy reported the Cable TV committee of which she is chairman, said the committee had reviewed this issue at length at its last meeting. She said there are several reasons the village should adopt this Resolution and there are several why they should not adopt it.

Trustee Robert Streit said that Congress changed the regulation which was supposed to lower the basic fee, but there is a loophole by which the cable company can raise the rate by adding more stations, and he feels the board should do this before Oct. 15th.

Ron Stancik, trustee, suggested the board set up its own committee to file whatever is needed. Trustee Michael Walsh said he agreed with Stancik's view and agreed the way the FCC changed things there isn't too much we can do; just rubber stamp it.

Trustee William Keane pointed out that the way things stand, the board should not do anything right now. He also wanted to know if competition would make a difference.

Joy suggested that cable owners should write to their Congressmen and object to the new mandate. She also suggested that every person should turn off TV for a month which should give the cable company a message.

Cliff Wagoner, vice-president of Multimedia, said they had reduced service and remote control. He said they are working for a single base of service. He also said the board should not do anything right now because some Congressmen are working on the problem. The resolution was adopted by a 4-2 vote, with Trustees Keane and Holesha dissenting.

Joy said the public relations committee reviewed plans for Christmas decorations and their recommendations for the 1993 holiday season are as follows: to reuse 17 canvas banners purchased in 1992; to continue the agreement with Folgers Flag & Decorating for 83 ornamental wreaths and 5,000 feet of natural balsam-roping. The village manager's office will accept proposals for the wreaths & roping, then purchase these materials from the most qualified bidder.

The cost of 1993 Christmas decorations will be covered by a $5,000 contribution from the park district; $3,000 from the Chamber of Commerce and $5,000 from the village.

The board also approved amending an ordinance regarding massage establishments, stipulating the permanent place of business must be in a commercial zoning district and prohibits massage establishments as home occupations; approved release of an easement to allow construction of a garage in the easement at 9318 S. Nordica Ave. and variation of ordinance for size and heights to allow a 24 ft. x 34 ft. structure; approved a request to rezone property at 104th & Keating from C-2 to R-3, and a request for parking variation at 10401 S. Cicero Ave.

Clerk A. Jayne Powers swore-in Nicholas A. Perisin to the rank of firefighter.

A police department commendation was presented to Detective James Cassin who developed and worked with a task force of 25 other agencies, coordinated surveillances, interviewed informants and assembled additional information which led to the arrest of a forgery ring responsible for over $100,000 in theft.

Employee recognition awards were given to Frank Gilbert, chief of police, 25 years; W.T. Harris and Darrell Wiegman, both of the finance department, and James Blackman, police department, 25 years; from the police department: James Anderson, Wayne Beran, Peter Dubiel, Marion Sullivan, 20 years; James Spallina, Peter Ciacio, Robert Johnson, George Stuhmiller, June Shanklin, Thomas Finn and Thomas Shervino, both of the fire department; Rita Hawking, quality control and Paul Lunk, public works, Street Division, all with 15 years.

The Oak Lawn Community High School Homecoming Parade is to be held on Saturday, Oct. 9th.

The last day to register to vote in the Nov. 2nd election is Monday, Oct. 4th. Registration is taking place in the Clerk's office Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. and the office will be open on Saturday, Oct. 2nd.

Donation

The Auxiliary of EHS Christ Hospital and Medical Center recently presented a check for $375,000 to the hospital. Pictured accepting the check from Connie Schaefer, auxiliary president, is Ronald Struxness, hospital president. With more than 1,000 members, the auxiliary has contributed approximately $3.9 million to the hospital since 1969. The auxiliary's recent fund-raising activities have contributed to the hospital's construction of a new state-of-the-art surgical pavilion, expected to open in February of 1994. Many of EHS Christ Hospital's auxiliary members also volunteer at the hospital, from staffing the gift shop and information desk to running a craft program for patients. Auxiliary members' time and talents go a long way toward helping EHS Christ Hospital and Medical Center provide quality health care for area residents.

SUSAN LASH

DAN RAINES

Commended

Principal Dr. Dan McAllister, of Harold L. Richards High School, announced that Susan Lash and Dan Raines have been named commended students in the 1994 National Merit Scholarship program. Susan is the daughter of Mrs. Christine Marzec of Oak Lawn, and Dan is the son of Mrs. and Mrs. Robert Raines of Oak Lawn.

A letter of commendation from National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC), which conducts the program, will be presented by the school to these outstanding seniors.

About 35,000 commended students throughout the nation are being honored for their outstanding performance on the 1992 preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, the route of entry to the 1994 merit program. Commended students have shown exceptional academic promise by placing among the top five percent of more than 1,000,000 entrants.

An NMSC spokesperson stated, "Being designated a commended student in this keen competition is a credit to these young people as well as to their schools, which play a key role in their development. We hope that the recognition these scholastically able students receive will encourage them to develop their talents and abilities to the fullest and that the example they set will inspire other young men and women to strive for academic excellence. Commended students represent a valuable intellectual resource crucial to our nation's well-being."

Brother Rice High School English instructor Hal Ross explains part of his course's curriculum to the parents of his students on Parents 'Back-To-School Night.' The annual event, at which parents attend their son's classes and meet their teachers, was again a success. Each parent attends 10-minute sessions in each classroom with each teacher during the course of the night. The faculty use the night as a chance to get to know the parents and explain to them what will be expected of their sons and what their sons will be learning during the school year. Parents are able to get an insight to their sons workload for the year and how each class will be beneficial in the future.

"telemarketing" n. Use of the telephone in marketing goods or services.

Is it just me or in this new age of high tech electronic gadgets and devices, do you also feel the telemarketing people are abusing your home phone and invading your privacy?

A few years ago, when telemarketing was just starting, most people would get one or two phone calls a week.

It was annoying, but we didn't think much about it and would usually engage in a friendly conversation with the telemarketing voice on the other end of the line.

"Thanks but I don't need a new concrete driveway" or "thanks but I don't need new windows" was our usual friendly and cheerful response to the 'voice' who was calling us to make a pitch for their services.

I don't know about you, but I feel the telemarketing sales technique is spinning out of control and maybe there should be a government investigation into the matter.

Not too long ago, the telemarketing calls would usually start right around the time you sat down for dinner. I guess the experts who spend hours in the back room of some telemarketing operation pooled their brains and figured out that most people are home at dinner time.

There is no end to the in-depth thinking of the telemarketer.

That was then and this is now.

Now the telemarketing people have ashcanned the dinner hour calls and begin calling as early as 8 a.m. and continue right through the day up until bedtime.

With the advent of telemarketing and all the tricks to catch you off guard, many of us have resorted to our own word game to diffuse the telemarketer's pitch.

The other morning, around the crack of dawn and before I had time to finish my second cup of coffee, the phone rang. I grabbed the phone before the first ring had ended and heard a cheerful voice say: "This is ABC Window Service and could I talk to you about replacing your windows?"

Before 'cheerful telemarketing voice' could utter another sentence, I shouted: "No, I live in a house with no windows. I am a member of Windows Anonymous."

But I didn't stop there.

"We are all people who are addicted to sunlight and I belong to a support group that meets at night, of course, in a windowless basement to express how we are powerless over windows," I blurted out, "and how panes of glass can end up being a pain in the neck."

Click!

Then there was the night a couple of weeks ago when I was in the middle of watching one of those made-for-TV movies and right at a crucial point in the flick the phone rang.

Once again 'cheerful telemarketing voice' said they were from some credit card service and wanted to know if I would be interested in a 'Gold Card.'

Not missing a beat, and trying to squeeze in my answer before the movie ended, I told 'cheerful telemarketing voice' that I had lost my wallet with all my credit cards.

"Oh, that's terrible," said still 'cheerful telemarketing voice,' "did you report the loss to the credit card companies?"

"No," I shouted into the telephone.

"Why not?" said 'not so cheerful telemarketing voice.'

"Because," I said, "whoever found my wallet and my credit cards is spending less than my wife."

Click!

Another time the phone rang around 10 p.m. just as I was beginning to watch the news and 'cheerful telemarketing voice' said he was from XYZ Financial Services and would I be interested in a perspective on how to invest my money more wisely.

"Quick," I said in my most distressed sounding voice, "turn on Channel Two."

"Why?" said 'cheerful telemarketing voice.'

"Because if you do," I said, "you'll see me being interviewed about how my house was robbed. How the thieves found all my stocks and bonds under the mattress and how they dug up my yard and found the coffee cans with all my cash."

Click!

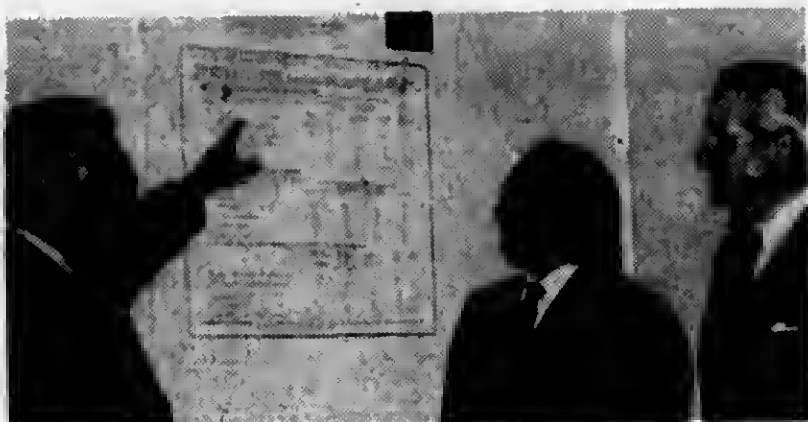

Somedays it just doesn't pay to answer the phone.

Or leave a recorded message on your answering machine saying: "Hi, 'cheerful telemarketing voice,' you have reached the home of a serial telemarketing killer. If you'll leave your name and phone number, we'll return your call. And even if you don't, I have 'call tracing' and I'll know where to find you, I'll know where to find you, I'll know where to find you..."

Planetarium's Sky Show Features A Star Trek Format

Scorching radiation from an exploding sun, the cosmic waltz of Castor, and a star 100 million times bigger than our sun will join other galactic wonders during a new planetarium show at The Adler Planetarium. The new show, "Orion Rendezvous, A Star Trek Voyage of Discovery," features the voice of LeVar Burton, known as Geordi LaForge in Paramount Pictures' hit TV series Star Trek The Next Generation. The show runs from Oct. 1st through March 21st, 1994.

The Adler's sky theater will transform into the Federation Starship Antares. Visitors who board this starship will become Starfleet cadets and will explore the constellations Gemini, Orion and Taurus with Lt. Commander Geordi LaForge and Captain Katryna DiChario. The planetarium will take its crew members through 'wormholes' to destinations many light years from Earth.

The show was created by the Oregon Museum of Science and Industry in Portland and features artwork by Portland artists John Foster and Elizabeth Griffiths Lawhead, and a dynamic musical score by Portland musicians Gregor Torrance and Tom Good of "Blueshift."

"Orion Rendezvous" dovetails with the Museum of Science and Industry's newest exhibit, "Star Trek: Federation Science," also opening Oct. 1st and running through Jan. 3rd, 1994. The exhibit and sky show are sponsored by WGN-TV, Channel 9.

On a double bill with the Star Trek show is "Lightspeed," an introductory program exploring the "science" in "science fiction" and using an array of laser effects to illustrate the wormhole theory. Admission to The Adler Planetarium is $4 for adults and $2 for children ages four to 17 and $2 for senior citizens age 65 and up. Children ages three and under are free. Admission is free for everyone every Tuesday.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

I direct this letter to women everywhere who have, or may have to someday face the same horrible situation I recently had.

With graduation near I decided that I deserved a new car. My father warned me this could be a very unpleasant experience for a young woman. All I can say now, if only I would have listened.

The two weeks I spent trying to pick out and buy a car through the various car dealers in town were probably the most difficult I had ever faced in my life. To make a long story short though, I finally gave in to all their pressures and leased a new car.

After it was all finished, my roommate asked me what I had paid for the car. The problem was, I had no idea! I only knew that I put $4,000 down and my monthly payments seemed reasonable. She then told me about a new women's organization that assisted in every facet of buying and owning a car; I called them.

To make this lengthy story even shorter, I then found out that I had given the dealer $7,000 profit for a car that had only cost them $10,000! I was stunned, to say the least. I called the dealer to back out, it was too late. Needless to say, I have now joined this organization and it will at least allow me to never have this happen again, plus it will eliminate all hassles I have with ownership forever saving me a great deal of money.

Again, I just want all other women to know about this organization so they won't have happen to them what happened to me. They give you all the information and comparisons available on every car. Eliminate all the hassles in choosing, buying, trading, financing and owning a car, and save you a lot of money. Plus as in my case, they said leasing has become extremely popular everywhere and dealers take full advantage of it. No one has any idea what they are really paying for a car when they lease. They make sure this doesn't happen. In a nutshell, it allows all of us to take advantage of the car dealer, not let them take advantage of us, and again it is for women only!

For information, call 1(800)392-7660.

Thank you,
Linda Brown

Free Flu Shots

The Cook County Department of Public Health is offering influenza vaccines to suburban Cook County residents 65 years of age or older, the chronically ill 3-8 years old who have had a flu shot in the past and all chronically ill residents 9 years and older. There is no charge for the vaccine, however, because influenza vaccines will now be covered through Medicare-Part B, all Medicare recipients should bring their Medicare card. "We are encouraging Medicare recipients to use their private providers instead of waiting in long lines at public clinics. This new program provides more convenience for many seniors and allows the health department to focus on reaching those populations that do not have easy access to private physicians," said Karen L. Scott, MD, MPH, CCDPH director. These populations include Hispanics, African-Americans and young people with chronic illnesses.

Cook County Board President Richard J. Phelan urges seniors and the chronically ill to get a flu shot this year. "Flu shots provide protection to people who are most vulnerable to influenza. Those who received flu shots last year need to be immunized again in order to be protected." Yearly immunization is necessary because the vaccine changes each year and protection only lasts a few months.

Influenza, commonly known as the flu, is a viral infection of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs and can make a person ill. The flu can be particularly dangerous for the elderly and the chronically ill because of the potential for serious medical complications such as pneumonia.

Eight south and southwest suburban flu clinics are being sponsored by the health department during October and November.

In the South Suburbs: in South Holland on Wednesday, Nov. 3rd, 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.; in Harvey on Monday, Nov. 1st, 12 noon to 3 p.m. at Catholic Charities South Suburban Senior Services, 15300 Lexington, also, on Friday, Nov. 12th, 9 a.m. to 12 noon at the Housing Authority of the County of Cook, TW Harvey Apartments, 15306 S. Robey; in Park Forest on Wednesday, Nov. 17, 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at Iope Lutheran Church, 424 Indianwood; in Markham on Thursday, Nov. 18, 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at Bremen Township Hall, 16361 S. Kedzie.

In the Southwest Suburbs: in Calumet Park on Friday, Oct. 15th, 1 to 3 p.m., at the Calumet Park Township Senior Center, 12633 S. Ashland; in Bridgeview on Friday, Oct. 22nd, 9 a.m. to 12 noon, at the John A. Oremus Community Center, 7900 S. Oketo; and in Lemont on Friday, Oct. 29th, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., at Lemont Township, 16020 127th St.

Residents should contact their individual municipality and township to see whether they are offering influenza vaccines. For more information, residents of suburban Cook County should call the health department's flu hotline at (312) 609-7148. Persons needing accommodations for a disability should contact voice: (708) 445-2460, or TDD, for the hearing and speech impaired, (708) 445-2406. Persons who are allergic to eggs or have a high fever on the day of the clinic will not be immunized.

Irish Hospitality

The Irish/American Alliance is holding its annual membership and hospitality night on Wednesday, Oct. 6th from 7 to 10:30 p.m. at Donlan Hall, St. Thomas More Church, 81st & California Ave. This popular annual event features Irish musicians accompanied by Fr. Tony Brankin at the piano, and Irish dancing. Refreshments will be served, including beverages, Irish soda bread and cake. Drawing prizes of $3,600 will be awarded. Come and enjoy a pleasant evening with your friends. The major goals of the organization are to establish a retirement home for Irish-Americans and to promote an existing job program for members.

For further information, call Tony Philbin at (312) 776-4367.

Fire Safety Tips

"Get Out, Stay Out: Your Fire Safe Response" is the theme for the 1993 National Fire Prevention Week which will run from Oct. 3rd to 9th.

Illinois fire service personnel and organizations will host a variety of activities to promote fire safety throughout that week. Many of those events will focus on educating Illinois citizens about the importance of escaping quickly and safely during a fire.

"In a fire, getting out of the burning building should be everyone's first priority, not getting dressed or trying to save valuables," said State Fire Marshal Thomas L. Armstead. "Nothing is more valuable than your life."

Many needless deaths occur each year because individuals do not know what to do in the event of fire. Last year in Illinois, 326 people died during fires. National Fire Prevention Week gives the fire service a visible opportunity to promote fire safety although most fire service personnel and organizations conduct fire safety activities year-round.

This year in honor of National Fire Prevention Week, the National Fire Sprinkler Association will hold a sprinkler demonstration in Chicago on Oct. 5th. The Illinois Fire Safety Alliance will hold its annual Fire Prevention Week Luncheon on Oct. 7th with National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) President George Miller as guest speaker. State Fire Marshal Armstead will represent Illinois on Oct. 10th at the National Fallen Firefighters Memorial at the National Fire Academy in Emmitsburg, Maryland.

In addition to these activities, many fire departments and fire protection districts throughout Illinois will host fire safety activities in their communities during NFP Week. The Office of the State Fire Marshal (OSFM) will conduct several activities itself and will work with various media outlets to disseminate fire safety messages. OSFM will also offer support and resources to those fire service organizations in Illinois conducting Fire Prevention Week activities.

National Fire Prevention Week is observed in North America and in several European countries in remembrance of the Great Chicago Fire of 1871 in which 250 people died. This year marks the 71st observance of the week-long event. NFP Week is sponsored by the National Fire Protection Association.

FIRE SAFETY TIPS

- * Plan and practice an escape plan. Involve all members of the family including children in planning an escape route. Include two ways out. Rehearse the plan at least twice a year.
 - * Install and maintain smoke detectors. Install them in each level of the home and outside of each sleeping area. Test smoke detectors on a regular basis and keep fresh batteries in them.
 - * Establish a meeting place outside the home. Never return to a burning building. Call the fire department from a neighbor's home.
 - * In a fire, check the door before opening it. If it feels warm, use an alternate exit.
 - * Crawl low under smoke. In a fire, the best air is several inches above the floor. Crawl to the exit on your hands and knees.
 - * If you do catch on fire, Stop, Drop and Roll! Don't run, stop where you are, drop to the ground and roll over and over to smother the flames.
 - * Give space heaters space. Keep them at least three feet away from anything that will burn. Never leave heaters on when on one is at home.
 - * Don't leave cooking unattended. Dress appropriately while cooking. Don't wear loose-fitting clothing that could catch fire easily. Turn the handles of pots and pans inward so they can't be pulled or knocked off.
 - * Teach children not to play with matches. Store them up high, out of the reach of children.
- Tips from the National Fire Protection Association and the Office of the Illinois State Fire Marshal.

Permits

"Small businessmen will now have a central office to acquire information and assistance with permits and regulations," noted State Representative Terry Steczko (D-35) while announcing the creation of the Office of Business Permits and Regulatory Assistance within the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA).

"The acquisition of permits and complying with State regulations should be part of the normal flow of business activity," stated Steczko. "Unfortunately, small businesses frequently are inhibited in their business activities when they get bogged down with delays in acquiring permits or caught up in an avalanche of regulations."

Sieczko explained that the office will: help to expedite the processing of permits; publish a directory of State business permits and State programs to assist small businesses; designate permit assistance managers; provide regulatory information; assist with employee training; help businesses identify and apply for grants, loans, and other assistance; help businesses comply with the federal Americans with Disabilities Act and provide on-site assistance with compliance with OSHA and environmental regulations.

"Centralizing these assistance programs into one office will significantly cut the red tape small businessmen and women so often encounter while going through the permit application and regulation compliance process," Steczko concluded.

Letter To The Editor

For the second consecutive year, Illinois' newspaper publishers have surpassed the requirement of in-state usage of recycled content newsprint set by the Recycled Newsprint Use Act.

I commend Illinois' publishers for the commitment they have made to use recycled newsprint. Legislation such as the Recycled Newsprint Use Act sends a strong and positive message to recycled newsprint mills to increase their use of recycled newsprint. Publishers across the state have played an important role in making this initiative a success.

On behalf of the citizens of Illinois, please accept my congratulations and thanks for your efforts.

Best regards,
s/s Jim Edgar Governor

William Bennett, Secretary of Education in Ronald Reagan's Cabinet, in his 1987 book A Nation at Risk, rated City of Chicago Public Schools as 'the worst in the nation.' Six years later, Bennett is, if anything, harsher. He called the Chicago schools "truly rotten... truly scandalous... truly an embarrassment to the City of Chicago." He looks at the system as ... truly a tragedy for the children.

According to Bennett, the best schools in the nation are in the State of Utah, which spends less money per pupil than any other school system in the U.S. Maybe it's time for some of our school leaders to take a hard look at just how much money is being spent; not only that, but where that money is going. The Chicago system may not be as bad off as Bennett pictures it, but it is definitely floundering and is in imminent danger of sinking. More money is not the answer. Judicious application of the budget is. It is high time that bickering stops and our so-called leaders do something they may be incapable of... lead.

Two interesting speakers addressed the recent Worth Township GOP meeting with DuPage County State's Attorney Jim Ryan, candidate for Illinois Attorney General, outlining a program that would crack down on criminal activity through increased penalties. He is in complete support of the 'boot camp' concept for first time, non-violent offenders and says he has seen too many 'crack babies' to ever advocate legislation of drugs as a solution to that problem. The Primary is not until spring, but Ryan is off and running.

William J. Kelly of Beverly fired the opening rounds in his efforts to lock up the GOP nomination for U.S. Congress in the First District, now represented by Bobby Rush. He stated that his candidacy has two goals; to get his program of rights for the middle class into the national forum and to assist members of the Clinton Administration "in clarifying the line between the Justice Department and partisan politics." "The middle class is the last group in America that it's all right to discriminate against. It's time to define the rights of the middle class just as the rights of criminals and special interests have been defined," Kelly said.

Michael Geis, even though losing the April mayoral race by a 3-1 ratio is the new mayor of Merrionette Park. Monday night he was chosen as acting mayor to replace Madeleon Rogowski (the candidate who beat him) who resigned due to stressed working conditions with the board. Geis, who has been a trustee for 2½ years, won board approval after two previous board votes resulted in ties. He will be acting mayor until the April 1995 elections.

Immunizations For Preschoolers Urged

Suppose there was an investment with a guaranteed one thousand percent return. People would stampede to take advantage of it. Yet, we in Illinois are largely ignoring a similar opportunity to invest in the future health of children by making certain they are immunized against a variety of potentially deadly, but preventable diseases.

Public health analysts estimate that for every dollar spent on immunizations, ten dollars are saved in future health care costs. Sometimes the benefit is even greater. For example, it could easily cost thousands of dollars to treat a toddler hospitalized with meningitis. The vaccine that would prevent the disease costs $21.48.

Despite that kind of "ounce-of-prevention, pound-of-cure" ratio, only 57% of the preschool children in Illinois are fully immunized. The rates in rural areas and the inner cities are much worse.

By the time kids start school most are immunized, but many of the diseases that can be prevented with vaccines strike before school age and can have lifelong consequences.

The problem is not the availability of vaccines, it's lack of access and lack of awareness. It's a public health disgrace that must be corrected.

In fact, it is being addressed successfully in Chicago by a joint project of the city's Department of Health and Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Illinois. Two mobile immunization units, called CareVans, travel throughout Chicago's inner city neighborhoods vaccinating children at public housing complexes, churches, community centers and street fairs. This program and related education efforts have begun to improve the immunization rates in Chicago.

However, much more needs to be done in Chicago and the rest of Illinois. We don't need more studies from blue-ribbon committees. We simply need to work harder, using methods that we already know are effective.

This is an area in which government and business partnerships, like the one in Chicago, work well. It's also an area in which the media can use its tremendous influence to boost immunization awareness campaigns.

Parents, take the time to make sure your preschoolers are up-to-date with immunizations. Contact your family doctor or local health department. It's the best investment you'll ever make.

GOP Township Committeeman Norm Corsi is calling all Bremen Republicans to attend the 42nd Annual Dinner Dance on Oct. 15 at Surma's Restaurant, 17501 Dixie Highway, Homewood. Cost per person is $40 and includes dinner and cocktails.

State Representative Anne Zickus joins the growing list of officials who will seek reelection in next year's balloting. Zickus represents the 48th House District which includes parts of Oak Lawn, Palos Hills and Hickory Hills. She made the announcement at a recent fundraiser in Countryside.

Ed Zabrocki, serving his fourth term as Tinley Park mayor, will challenge first term Democrat State Rep. John Sheehy of Tinley Park in the '94 election. Sheehy pulled an upset last fall when the 37th District, drawn up to favor a GOP candidate, went into his column. He defeated Carl Vandenberg who in the primary had upset stalwart Manny Hoffman. The 37th includes portions of Orland, Bremen, Rich and Bloom townships.

Cook County Board President Richard J. Phelan concludes his three day statewide trip announcing his candidacy for governor. At 8:45 a.m. today he'll be in Quincy and at 12:45 p.m. at Cahokia. He launched his campaign Tuesday in Carterville, Springfield and Chicago. Wednesday he visited Rockford, Peoria and the Quad Cities. He joins Comptroller Dawn Clark Netsch and Attorney General Roland Burris who have already announced candidacy in the Democratic campaign. Look for more filings! Everyone wants a shot at Guv Edgar.

Cook County Sheriff Michael Sheahan announced that he will seek reelection. The announcement came at a fundraiser on Tuesday night, attended by more than 800 supporters. On hand were Illinois Comptroller Dawn Clark Netsch and Cook County Board President Richard Phelan, both candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor. The only other person who has declared his intention to run for sheriff is Tommy Brewer, who sought the nomination four years ago, running under the Harold Washington Party banner. Brewer is running as a Democrat this time around.

Star Trek Science To Be Explored At Museum

An opportunity "to boldly go where no one has gone before" will begin when the Museum of Science and Industry showcases an exhibit called "Star Trek: Federation Science," sponsored by WGN-TV, Channel 9. The $1 million exhibit, designed and built by the Oregon Museum of Science and Industry in Portland, under exclusive license with Paramount Pictures, debuts on Friday, Oct. 1st.

The exhibit includes more than 40 modular displays and covers 6,000 square feet. Exhibit designers concentrated on basic scientific principles, including particle physics, practical astronomy and physiology, which are expected to challenge scientists in the future. In addition, the principles behind propulsion systems, medical science and life support will be intertwined with basic research areas such as the structure of the galaxy, orbits, relativity and planetology.

The exhibit is divided into several theme areas that portray science as related to areas on the Starship Enterprise. A thematic representation of 'The Bridge' will be the central focus of the exhibit. Work stations, including communications, navigation and other science areas, will be included. As visitors leave 'The Bridge' area, they will find themselves relating to other areas of the U.S.S. Enterprise, such as 'engineering' and 'sickbay.' A simulation of the 'transporter room' will give visitors an opportunity to see themselves being 'beamed down' to a different world.

Exhibits related directly to astronomy and planetology will be located in a special science area. Throughout the exhibit area, visitors will see original Star Trek artifacts, including costumes, tricorders, phasers, communicators, life-size alien models and scenes from favorite episodes.

There is an additional fee for admission to the "Star Trek" exhibit: $3 for adults and $2 for children and senior citizens. Member and group discounts are not available.

The museum is at 57th St. and Lake Shore Dr. Museum hours are 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

Financial Reform For Chicago Schools

During last week's legislative special session on the Chicago school crisis, State Rep. Maureen Murphy (R-36) introduced an education reform proposal that overhauls Illinois' financing of public schools. Her legislation, House Bill 4, Special Session 1, shelve the current school aid formula used now by Illinois to allocate public funds to elementary and secondary schools. In its place, this legislation directs the state to be solely responsible for funding the basic curriculum taught in the classroom.

"This 'Equity for Education' legislation truly sets Illinois' education priorities," said Murphy. "In terms of giving our kids the best education possible, let's get our priorities straight. The state should fund the basics only."

Funding for extracurricular activities, such as sports and non-essential classes, would come from the local school district. "This measure doesn't take away flexibility from local school districts that want to offer swimming, the fine arts or the classics," Murphy said.

According to HBSS 4, the Illinois State Board of Education must specifically define the basic or core curriculum needed for graduation from 8th and 12th grades. "The board has already defined basic curriculum as English, mathematics, science, social studies and other key instruction," she added.

Her legislation allows some program exemptions that the state must continue to fund, including aid to special education, bilingual instruction, learning disability transportation and other federal court-ordered mandates.

"The state must also continue to provide its share of assistance to school districts with large concentration of students from U.S. military bases," Murphy said.

"The intent is to reshape Illinois' role in funding public education. The Chicago school crisis has triggered this debate, with the Legislature being at the forefront. Since the 1970 Constitution identifies the state as the primary revenue source for education, we must single out what our priorities should be and that is funding for the basics," Murphy stated.

HBSS 4 was introduced prior to the Legislature's Sept. 10th adjournment, due to the Chicago school talks impasse.

What Was Happening...

50 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK IN THE INDEPENDENT

The water now furnished by the village is our emergency supply, which is tested by the Illinois Health Department and is safe. Due to the annually high consumer demand, our deep-well pump that supplies water for our treatment plant, broke down. A complete new pump setting was ordered at the first sign of wear and under normal conditions it would have lasted until new parts were delivered. Due to war conditions an AAAI priority rating is necessary for immediate delivery. Everything possible is being done to obtain this rating and we expect to hear from the WPB within the next few days.

Oak Lawn swatted the Berwyn Hornets 5 - 2 Sunday at Oak Lawn. The winning pitcher was Walter Sutherland; the loser, Masterson, who formerly was with the Phillies. This was the second game of the series for the Kelly Consolation cup. The final game of the series will be played at 3 p.m. Sunday against the grand team of South Deering at Oak Lawn.

Mrs. Joseph Exter of Oak Lawn has been serving as Red Cross general chairman for Oak Lawn since March 1943. This appointment was made by James B. Forgan, chairman of the Chicago Chapter. Working with Mrs. Exter on the Red Cross program in Oak Lawn are the various activities chairmen who have been appointed by their own departments and who are responsible for carrying out a particular phase of Red Cross work locally.

A get-acquainted tea will be held at the OLPTA meeting on Sept. 14th at 2 o'clock at Covington School. Dorothy Mavros of Chicago will give a monologue and Mrs. F. Roberts, program chairman, has planned a very interesting afternoon.

President Brandt represented Oak Lawn at the Chicago Sun's Victory Garden Festival on Thursday evening, Sept. 9th in Soldier Field which was held to pay tribute to America's Victory Gardeners. Presidents and mayors of more than 30 communities were invited.

Discuss Early Park Closing

At the Sept. 14th Hometown City Council meeting, Richard Hood of 90th St., brought concerns to the council regarding the early closing of Unity Park. He asked when the park would be opened in the evening since it is now closed at 8 p.m. He stated that most of the people who use the park have a 10:30 p.m. curfew which means that there is nothing to do and no place to go from 8 p.m. until 10 p.m. Chief of police Anthony Wolowicz, stated that the park was closed because the park was not being used, but people were hanging around the school, Duffy and Kildare avenues, and causing damage to school property. Mayor Robertson stated that the park was not closed on an impulse. The police and others tried to work with the youth who use the park, but the language that was being used and the fact that one of the residents was even threatened by some of the youth indicated that the park needed to be closed until it could sink in that officials were not going to put up with having the school damaged and residents threatened.

Alderman Safstrom stated that he feels that this is wrong. The youth need some place to go but with the park closed, there is no place. Alderman Ryan felt that something will have to be corrected so that the park could be used by all residents, not just a few. It was also stated that the city's code book states that the parks are to be closed from 9 p.m. until the morning in one section and in another section the code states that Patterson Park closes at dusk.

When asked what could be done to open the parks again, Mayor Robertson stated that he would open the parks tomorrow if he could be sure that there would not be any problems.

Also brought up was the fact that there is a lot of broken glass and garbage in the area around Unity Park. A resident stated that public works should not have to clean up the area everyday. She suggested that those that use the park should try to make sure that others do not ruin the park.

It was suggested that people who use the park should let others know that they don't want the park closed because of a few that don't know how to act or behave.

In other business it was reported that the last day for voter's registration is Monday, Oct. 4th for those who wish to vote in the Nov. 2nd election. Voters registration is taken at city hall, 4331 Southwest Highway.

Bids for street resurfacing were opened. There were five bidders. Callaghan Paving of Hinsdale bid $38,410.50; Central Blacktop of LaGrange bid $35,056; Crowley-Sheppard Asphalt of Chicago Ridge bid $37,923.50; Gallagher Asphalt of Thornton bid $31,846.75; and S. G. Hayes of Markham bid $33,789.75. Based on the recommendation of the city engineers it was moved that the bid of Gallagher Asphalt be accepted. The board accepted the recommendation and awarded the project to Gallagher.

Alderman Franson, chairman of the parks and recreation committee, reported that the teen center will open for the fall season on Oct. 6th from 7 to 10 p.m. and that the gym programs will also be starting on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Teaching Program

Southwest Chicago Christian Schools, with elementary campuses in Oak Lawn and Tinley Park and Chicago Christian High in Palos Heights, have adopted 'The Adventure' program, a curriculum for teaching skills for adolescence. This program, field-tested last year with positive results in grade six, will now be expanded to include grades six, seven and eight. Teachers Bonnie Gier, Terry Huizenga, Bruce Ireland, Jack LeGrand and Cathy Wygmans attended a week-long workshop to gain the skills needed to teach the program.

The growing awareness that students entering adolescence experience bewildering emotional, physical, social and academic changes convinced the staff to expand the program to include all students in the middle grades. Some of the areas to be considered are peer pressure, self-confidence, accepting change, making decisions, managing emotions, putting an end to 'put-downs,' and responsibility.

The program uses a variety of methods. Each student interacts with a weekly prayer partner. Parents are invited to speak. Students from Chicago Christian High School visit to dramatize common social problems. Class discussions center on the changes students are experiencing. Cooperative game days teach about living and working together. These cooperative skills are tested at the team challenges course at Irons Oaks Educational Center in Olympia Fields.

Teachers of 'Adventure' state as their goal "that our children will travel through adolescence and into adulthood understanding themselves, appreciating others, and caring for the feelings of those around them."

Urges Impact Study

Congressman William O. Lipinski announced that he sent a letter to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers requesting an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) as a precursor to any future Corps of Engineers work related to the McCook Reservoir Project. "The 1986 Environmental Assessment Report (EA) is out-of-date today as the project has now tripled in size," stated Lipinski.

The 1986 report concluded that, "The project at McCook will not have significant effects on the quality of the human environment, therefore, an Environmental Impact Statement will not be prepared."

"I must disagree with the report's conclusion," stated Lipinski. "It is obvious that if the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District's revised plan is implemented, local communities will be significantly impacted. While the report might have only been questioned in 1986, it is certainly invalid today. The overall scope and, therefore, impact of the project on the human environment has changed significantly since the EA was completed."

"Not until an EIS is performed and reviewed will my constituents and I be provided with adequate information to evaluate the true scope and impact of this project," concluded Lipinski.

OUTDOORS

By Jim Kirby

ABERDEEN SOUTH DAKOTA - It was a cool-crisp morning and the sun started to peek over a field of sunflowers. Leaning against a hay stack to reduce my profile, I eagerly awaited the "Dawn Patrol" of doves coming off the roost in nearby trees to feed on the sunflowers or the millet field we were hunting.

South Dakota doves are no different from the Illinois and Texas doves I'm used to. The moment you shoulder the gun, they twist, turn and dive. The most prolific game bird in the country, doves are totally unpredictable, a real challenge to the shot-gunner and a gourmet's delight.

This memorable dove hunt was made possible through the voluntary efforts of SCOTT DELL and TODD HANSEN members of the ABERDEEN GUN CLUB. SCOTT and TODD pre-scouted the area and made arrangements with local farmers and ranchers to allow a group of outdoor writers the opportunity to experience South Dakota Dove hunting and hospitality.

Dove hunting was only one of the many activities available to over 100 outdoor communicators attending the five day 37th annual conference of the ASSOCIATION OF GREAT LAKES OUTDOOR WRITERS. These conferences are not all fun and games. The primary purpose is an exchange of ideas; story and photo opportunities and workshops designed to help improve our crafts.

PROFESSIONAL WALLEYE TOURNAMENT greets: GARY ROACH, GARY PARSONS, TONY DEAN, STEVE PENNAZ and MIKE MCLELLAND put on a great seminar followed by an opportunity to fish with them on the Missouri River.

Of the 400 wildlife refuges in all 50 states, the Dakotas have the most. A tour of the U.S. fish and wildlife refuge at SANDLAKE gave us an opportunity to participate in canoe netting, banding and releasing ducks and geese.

The NATIONAL RIFLE ASSOCIATION, ABERDEEN GUN CLUB and participating manufacturers gave everyone the opportunity to receive expert instruction and hands-on shooting of sporting clays, black powder rifles, hand guns, skeet and trap. Olympic Gold Medalist LAUNI MEILI officiated over the small bore rifle competition.

Several encounters with poisonous snakes over the years caused me to pay particular attention to a live poisonous snake seminar on the capture, avoidance, identification and treatment of a snake bite (the old cut and suck approach is no longer recommended).

Outdoor writing and photography go hand-in-hand. Photo sessions included 'Getting The Best Pay For Your Photos'; 'Long Lenses'; 'Close-up Photos Of Wildlife' and 'Cameras And Optics For The Future,' including demonstrations of cameras and processing which require "no film or chemicals." This "Digital Disc Technology" is gaining in popularity and costs approximately $60,000.

Other craft improvement seminars were: 'Writing About The Environment'; 'All About Nature Writing'; 'Indian Treaty Rights' (a very controversial subject); 'Computers And Outdoor Writing'; 'Those Newspaper Markets'; 'How To Shoot Better'; 'How To Be A Better Angler'; 'Common Sense Self Defense' and 'The Future Of Lake Trout In The Great Lakes.'

Manufacturers of outdoor equipment were given the opportunity to showcase new products and provide samples for field testing. Items that got my attention were: A 'guideless' fishing rod, the line passes through the rod. Ice fishing is gaining in popularity and one company has come out with several tip-up arrangements with innovations that keeps the hole from freezing over. Much interest was generated by soon to be available 'braided line' made of high-tech composites including Kevlar (used in bullet-proof vests) 50 lb. braided line is the same diameter as 8 lb. monofilament.

Amos Alonzo Stagg High School graduate Renee Schindler is a member of the Central College volleyball team. Schindler is a 5'10" freshman utility player for the Flying Dutchmen. Central returns eight letterwinners from last year's 23-19 squad. The squad has won four Iowa Conference championships in the past nine years. The Dutch are off to a 7-5 start and placed second in the recent Nebraska Wesleyan Invitational.

Cross-Country

In boys prep cross-country on Saturday at the Tinley Park Invitational (varsity division) results were: Waubonsie Valley 42, Sandburg 53, Bradley 89, Joliet Township 93, Stagg 189, Reavis 200, Prospect 203, Bolingbrook 216, Andrew 248, Oak Lawn 275, Thornridge 313. In the (Olympic division) results were: Oak Forest 39, Plainfield 110, Thornton Fractional South 138, Providence 144, Eisenhower 153, Rich South 163, Minooka 207, Lemont 225.

Boys Golf

Saturday's results in the T.F. South boys golf Invitational Tuckaway were: Joliet Catholic Academy 325, Crete-Monee 325, Bradley 327, Marian Catholic 328, Stagg 332, T.F. South 333, Homewood-Flossmoor 336, Sandburg 338, Rich East 338, Thornwood 339.

Defend Championship Year

Head coach Karen Lockyer took her team south over the Sept. 17th to 19th weekend as the Lewis Flyers opened defense of their 1992 Great Lakes Valley Conference Championship. In a match-up with Kentucky Wesleyan, the Flyers returned to the .500 mark for the first time in two weeks, running their winning streak to five straight matches and 15 straight games. Lewis blasted the Lady Panthers in three games 15-2, 16-14, 15-2. Maryellen Sherwood of Chicago (Queen of Peace) continued her impressive return, serving 15 points and contributing 10 kills in the match. The senior missed nearly two full seasons with a knee injury. Joan Ross of Oak Lawn (Mother McAuley) added nine kills.

On the second day, Sherwood was back again, registering 21 kills with 11 digs, leading the Flyers to a 15-3, 15-11, 7-15, 15-7 victory over Southern Indiana. Perhaps the most impressive day was turned in by sophomore Shonnie Daniels of Chicago (Bogan). Daniels, filling in for Amy Longmore, hit .316 for the game with eight kills, 19 digs and seven blocks. Daniels is being groomed to fill the starting middle blocker slot after Sherwood and Longmore graduate at the end of this season.

Lockyer was happy with what she saw from her team, "We're playing as well as we have all season," Lockyer said. "It was important to get off on a good foot in the conference. This weekend we needed some help from our bench and they were ready for the challenge."

Rosary Volleyball

Early indications suggest the Rosary College women's volleyball team means business this year. The team has won six straight to up its record to 10-3, 1-0 in the Chicagoland Collegiate Athletic Conference (CCAC).

Recent action included a 16-14, 15-9, 6-15, 15-7 win at Judson College in Elgin and a hard-earned 15-9, 15-13, 13-15, 15-12 home victory over McKendree College. Senior Michelle Mannix (Chicago/Mother McAuley High School) paced the Rebels in the McKendree match with 14 kills. Sophomore Jennifer Kress (Orland Park Carl Sandburg) came through with her strongest performance thus far connecting on 4 kills.

The Rebels got strong performances from Mannix and senior Kelly McEnery (Orland Park Providence Catholic) in the triumph at Judson. Mannix struck for 13 kills and three blocks and McEnery was solid as usual with 9 kills. "Everyone is working hard towards the ultimate goal right now," said head coach Mary Jo Waddell, "we are determined to win the CCAC and District 20 championships."

Com Ed To Issue Refunds

Electricity customers in northern Illinois will have their charges reduced by more than 25 percent over the next year as the result of a $1.34 billion refund and a $339 million annual rate reduction announced Monday by Commonwealth Edison and about a dozen consumer groups and governmental agencies. The landmark settlement was reached after the company, consumer representative and government agencies agreed to settle six rate cases pending before the Illinois courts and the Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC).

Participants in the settlement include Business and Professional People for the Public Interest (BPI), the Illinois Industrial Energy Consumers (IIEC), the Citizens Utility Board (CUB), the City of Chicago, the Illinois Attorney General, the Cook County State's Attorney, the South Austin Coalition Community Council and the Labor Coalition on Public Utilities.

The average residential single family customer will get approximately $272 in savings over the 12 months. The average small commercial or industrial customer will see savings totaling about $1,700.

The settlement is believed to be the largest of its kind involving an electric utility in the United States.

"Commonwealth Edison believes this proposal is in the best interest of all concerned," declared James J. O'Connor, the utility's chairman and chief executive officer, "for too long, these controversies have required too much of our company's resources."

O'Connor said the settlement allows the utility to focus on the future. "We need to focus our total attention on our primary responsibility, providing the best service possible to our customers, and stimulating the vitality of our service area, resulting in more jobs."

O'Connor, while relieved that his company can put the rate cases behind it, made it clear he believed the utility had acted in good faith in pursuing the rate increases. "Edison strongly believed at all times that it was acting in accordance with Illinois Commerce Commission direction and in the interests of its customers and shareholders."

The refund will be paid in the form of utility bill credits to consumers over a 12-month period, and a five percent interest rate will be applied to the declining balance in the overall refund payment. Average refunds with rate reductions are: single family residential, $22.68 per month; multi-family residential, $11.02 per month and small business, $146.43 per month.

The settlement brings to a close six legal actions involving Edison's rates, which have been pending since 1983.

A Critical Look At Clinton Health Care

By Congressman Harris W. Fawell
13th District

Winston Churchill once said: "You can always trust the Americans to do the right thing...after they've exhausted every bloody alternative." While President Clinton's evolving health care reform plan is important, it is the most complex alternative being floated.

The scope and complexity of the Clinton plan -- still not in drafted bill form -- is so vast it requires a series of these columns to do it justice.

They say the test of a surgeon's skill is not how much is cut away, but how many patients survive. The same holds true with government reform of health care. Before we begin major surgery, we should ask for second opinion, third, or more opinions. And, don't worry, other important alternatives are on their way -- from the Republicans and dissatisfied Democrats. I'll deal with those later.

This series of columns will focus on:

(1) The present health care system's strengths and weaknesses.

(2) The three positive concepts in the Clinton plan -- (A) guaranteed coverage for everyone; (B) retention of some vestiges of competition under "Managed Competition," a title many understandably see as an oxymoron; and (C) the requirement that everyone, except the very poor, be responsible for some of the cost of health care, thereby increasing consumerism.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

I have taken an interest in the progress of the waste disposal agreement for the Robbins Recycling and Trash-to-Energy Facility after meeting with a number of municipal officials from the south suburbs in May at the request of REDCC and Mayor Irene Brodie of Robbins.

A copy of this contract was shared with me and, as a representative of one of the dozens of communities with successful experience with trash-to-energy, I hope to give some outside perspective as municipalities prepare to make their decisions whether to send trash to the Robbins facility.

These communities have a terrific opportunity before them.

Some of the features of the Robbins contract are more progressive than any I have ever seen. With the ash indemnity and no "put or pay" requirement, Reading has assumed a great deal of liability that is usually a municipality's responsibility.

I believe that potential liability for solid waste sent to landfills is much greater than with trash-to-energy plants. Today's plants, which meet modern safety standards, are environmentally superior to landfills.

That, coupled with the economics of these plants, was the main reason we incorporated trash-to-energy into our integrated solid waste management plan. We did not want to be at the mercy of short-term landfill contracts with diminishing capacity and the power to make windfall profits. Nor did we want to incur unnecessary Superfund liability with landfills. In fact, a number of Twin Cities businesses are currently learning about Superfund the hard way as they face a battle over legal liability to clean up one of our local landfills.

With trash to energy, we have a stable price. We know what we are going to pay. We are getting something positive out of it by producing electricity. And, we are producing it more cleanly than by burning the coal and oil that utility companies typically use.

I know firsthand that it is not always easy to make these kind of decisions. It can sometimes be quite difficult to take the forward-thinking, long-term approach, rather than sticking with the status quo. After three years with our plant, and a whole wall full of awards and achievements for our waste management system, I look back and wonder why there was any controversy at all.

Municipal leaders in the south suburbs have an opportunity to do the right thing for their communities both economically and environmentally. I wish them years of success as they take the next step toward cost-efficient and environmental solid waste management.

Very truly yours,
s/s Randy Johnson County Commissioner,
Minneapolis, Minnesota

(3) The four major concerns my constituents will have about the plan -- (A) heavy mandates on businesses will depress employment and wages and hurt the economy; (B) reliance on price controls that are bound to fail; (C) costs of new benefits and subsidies will be staggering and the lack of adequate financing; and (D) pushing most Americans into "managed care" and away from a choice of "their doctor."

Present health care system's strength and weaknesses
President Clinton has explained the two key problems underlying the need for reform: cost and access. Health costs are going up too fast, and many Americans lack coverage.

There are many reasons costs are rising, but four are key: (1) our aging population; (2) medical technology; (3) high consumer expectations; and (4) the lack of market forces that control costs in the remainder of our economy.

The first three drive up costs, but they also are signs of a good health care system. Americans are living longer because we have quality health care and most Americans have excellent access to it. Medical technology is saving lives and alleviating suffering. Americans have high expectations because most of them have become accustomed to excellent care.

But missing are the incentives for a competitive market. The market forces that hold prices down in other part of our economy generally do not exist in health care. People spend more time searching out high quality and low costs when purchasing a car than when purchasing surgery for a heart bypass (which costs more than a car). Contributing to this problem is that many health plans have little or no deductibles or co-insurance, thereby making the consumer "cost-unconscious."

Also, access for Americans is poor. High costs mean that many Americans are not able to afford coverage, especially people with high health risks.

However, these problems should be considered in perspective. The quality of our system is second to none. Polls show that 75 percent of Americans are happy with their health care.

Fifty years ago, only 9 percent of Americans had health insurance, versus 86 percent today. You don't have to be old to remember when we didn't have MRIs or CAT scans (and painful and costly "exploratory" surgery was needed just to diagnose problems), or when heart surgery was rare and risky, or when most of today's miracle drugs and vaccines did not exist.

Most of the world's medical innovation and new drugs are a product of our health care system. These advances are initially costly, but can greatly reduce costs, pain and suffering, and improve our lives in the long run. We must be very careful that in addressing the twin problems of medical inflation and access to care for relatively few, we do not destroy the outstanding quality and access to care enjoyed by the vast majority of Americans.

Next week: More on the Clinton plan.

Fundraiser For St. Rita High

St. Rita High School kicks off its annual student fundraising drive on Friday, Oct. 1st, when its students begin selling tickets for the fourth annual "Mustang Raffle."

"First prize in the drawing will be $10,000 in cash," said Jim Segredo, vice-president at St. Rita. Second prize is $5,000 cash, third prize is $2,500, and fourth and fifth prizes will both be $1,000 in cash. One-hundred dollar prizes will be awarded to the sixth through 15th place winners."

All St. Rita students will be required to sell at least 16 books of 10 tickets. Money raised helps offset operating costs of the school and keep the cost of tuition down. If it were not for the school's fundraisers, tuition would be well over $3,000. "Students who sell $160 or more worth of tickets satisfy their fundraising requirement for the school year," Segredo said.

St. Rita students can also participate in the school's optional spring fundraiser. Last year, students walked from Lourdes High School along the lakefront.

"Last year St. Rita students raised close to $145,000 in the Mustang Raffle," commented Segredo. "They did a wonderful job selling the tickets last year and I am certain they will do a fine job again this year."

Students are offered a number of incentives for selling over their quota. One incentive very popular with students is the cash-back program. Any student who raises more than $160 will be paid a cash-back check for 50 percent of what they raise over their obligation (example: if a student raises $200, they will receive a check for $20.). There are a number of other incentives offered to the students to make the drawing drive fun for everyone.

Tickets for the drawing can be purchased from any St. Rita student or from the St. Rita development office at (312) 925-6600.

Ghost Hunting Tour

Moraine Valley Community College is sponsoring a Chicago Supernatural Tour featuring famous ghost-hunter Richard Crowe on Saturday, Oct. 23rd. The tour leaves at 12 noon from the college center on campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave., and returns at approximately 5 p.m. Participants will visit legendary haunted spots in the Chicago area with Crowe, who will keep everyone entertained and at the edge of their seats.

Places of interest will include Archer Avenue, to watch for Chicago's most famous ghost, Resurrection Mary; a cemetery that was the site of a 1918 circus train wreck where ghostly animal cries are heard at night; the old Melody Mill Ballroom haunted by the Flapper Ghost; a mysterious Indian burial ground and many other psychic hot spots in the Western Suburbs. Participants can bring cameras and refreshments.

The fee is $26 a person. For more information or for tickets, call the college activities office at (708) 974-5717 or visit the college store in the college center.

PREZ BOOK BEAT....The pages of history are filled with anecdotes about how a book becomes a bestseller after a president mentions he has been reading a certain book. When President Bill Clinton and his wife Hillary recently took a short hiatus from the White House and vacationed on Martha's Vineyard, the President and First Lady went to a bookstore called Bunch of Grapes and loaded up on books....If history repeats itself, and it usually does, the books the Clintons bought are sure to find their way to the top of the bestseller charts. After spending more than an hour in the book store, President Clinton and Hillary walked out with Jimmy Buffett's "Where is Joe Merchant?"; Anne Tyler's "Saint Maybe"; Milan Kundera's "The Unbearable Lightness of Being"; Peter Mathiessen's "Indian Country"; Mary Morris' "A Dangerous Woman"; John Banville's "The Book Evidence"; Jennifer Robinson's Shape Changers, and J.D. Salinger's perennial classic "A Catcher in the Rye." Hillary said the Salinger book was for their daughter Chelsea. The President and First Lady didn't exactly "walkout" with the books, because when the sales clerk tabulated up the total price of the books, which were mostly paperbacks, the bill came close to $100 and Hillary whipped out her Visa card to pay for the purchases.

After leaving the book store, the President told a reporter he was reading a Civil War history, "Brave Companions" by David McCullough. He also mentioned that he would have brought along David Halberstam's bestseller "The Fifties" but it was too big to carry around.

GABRIELLE ANWAR (inset) plays the lovely young mistress of a married financier, Michael J. Fox, who dreams of becoming a singer in the movie "For Love or Money" which will open at movie theaters all over the Chicagoland area tomorrow....Playboy magazine founder Hugh Hefner has turned "thumbs down" on an offer to print, produce and distribute the video rights to the life of Hedi Fleiss, 27, the reputed Hollywood madam to the stars. In saying he wasn't interested, Hefner said: "She's not my cup of tea. She's not my kind of girl." Meanwhile, Ivan Nagy, 55, Fleiss' former boyfriend, has sold TV rights to his story to producer Larry Thompson. Slated to be made into a made-for-TV-movie, the television production will center on an older man's infatuation with a younger woman and who learns the younger girl is alleged to be involved in prostitution but he can't shake his love for her....A glance through a real estate section of an exclusive Beverly Hills, California newspaper indicates about a dozen homes for sale in the price range of $1,000,000 up to $6,000,000. A closer look at the advertisements indicates almost every home comes with three or four bedrooms and 6.5 baths. Either the people in Beverly Hills are very dirty, or are in dire need of being toilet trained.

BECOME A "KLINGON".....The Museum of Science and Industry in association with Paramount Pictures will open a new exhibit tomorrow called "Star Trek: Federation Science." The exhibit component "Aliens and Me" (inset) uses special lighting and mirrors where exhibit visitors can blend facial images with Star Trek characters...."Malice" is a suspense thriller set against the backdrop of a bucolic New England college town, where a brilliant surgeon, a college dean and his beautiful wife are inextricably drawn into a dark web of intrigue. The movie will open at theaters around Chicago tomorrow.

LEON (inset) plays one of four Jamaican bobsled racers who go to extremes to compete in the Winter Olympics in the Walt Disney Pictures release "Cool Runnings" which opens at movie theatres this Friday. Based on a true story, the flick is about a group of athletes with few resources and virtually no clue about winter sports...."Inside Politics with Bruce DuMont," heard Sunday nights at 7 pm on WLS AM and FM radio, has expanded to two hours....The International Kennel Club of Chicago will stage the weekend of dog shows on Oct. 16 and 17 at McCormick Place North....Any artist living within 100 miles of metropolitan Chicago is being invited to enter the 17th annual Alice and Arthur Baer Competition at the Beverly Art Center....Joe Kollma, who used to work at WBBM-TV, has been named executive producer of the Channel 5 News afternoon newscasts. The announcement was made by Mike Ward, news director for Channel Five News.

Donny Osmond In 'Dreamcoat'

by Dorothy Austin

Showgoers will find there are no dull moments in Joseph and the Technicolor Dreamcoat, now playing at The Chicago Theatre. Not only is the stage awash with electrifying colors, the air is filled with brilliantly written and scored music.

Donny Osmond, the star of the show, who plays Joseph, has come of age as a solo performer. He delivers his ballads with a basso-profundo type quality that is totally unexpected by Donny Osmond observers and fans, alike. The audience reaction of screams from the not-so-teeny-boppers is a definite, pleasant surprise.

Janet Metz, the narrator is an absolute delight. We predict she will soon be heralded as a super-star herself. Her role threads the entire story together and contributes to more than just a few laughs.

Johnny Seaton as the Pharaoh offers a total surprise. He transforms from a forbidding character to an incredible "Elvis." No wonder some say Elvis is not dead. Seaton's interaction with the audience contributes greatly to the dynamics of the entire show.

Among those appearing in Joseph, is the Oak Lawn Children's Choir. The enthusiastic and talented group is part of the Oak Lawn Park District's vocal music program.

This new Andrew Lloyd Webber production, premiered in London at the Paladium in 1991, where it still runs to the delight of enthusiastic audiences.

Joseph is truly family entertainment. It will be enjoyed by audiences from five to 95. It will lift your spirits and send you home with more than a smile. It's a grin!

Tickets for Joseph are on sale through Jan. 9th, 1994. They may be purchased at the Chicago Theatre box office or at any Ticketron location.

Prices for Joseph range from $29.50 to $58 depending on seats and performance selection. The Chicago Theatre is dark on Mondays.

Lewis Symphony Orchestra Auditions

The new Community Symphony Orchestra at Lewis University is seeking musicians from the community to join Lewis students in this season's performances. Charles Pikler, principal violist of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, is to be featured at the orchestra's winter concert, to be held on Wednesday, Dec. 8th in Ives Recital Hall in the Oremus Fine Arts Center on the Lewis main campus, Romeoville. He will perform Boccherini's Viola Concerto in B flat major. Also featured on the winter concert program will be Dvorak's Symphony No. 9 "From the New World" and the Egmont Overture by Beethoven.

The orchestra is in particular need this season of brass and winds. For more information, call (312) (708) or (815) 838-0500, ext. 405, or (815) 725-8663.

Pruims Plead Guilty

Edward H. Pruim, 49, of Orland Park and his brother Robert J. Pruim, 46, of Palos Heights both pleaded guilty to bribery charges. The brothers appeared before U.S. District Judge John A. Nordburg on Monday and acknowledged their guilt on all five mail fraud charges brought against them. The guilty pleas had been filed on Friday, just four days after charges were made.

According to the charges, the brothers, owners of XL Disposal, 13701 S. Kostner, Crestwood, had paid $150,000 in bribes to Thomas O'Connor, 44, a former foreman of dumps for the Chicago Streets and Sanitation Department.

The plea bargaining agreement calls for a prison term of 15 months and a fine of $1,250,000 for each of the Pruims. O'Connor is to be arraigned on Friday.

The brothers were accused of having given O'Connor approximately $150,000 in exchange for preferential treatment in city business. XL had contracts with the city for waste removal, disposal and recycling.

The Pruims acknowledged they had given O'Connor cash bribes on a regular basis in addition to lump-sum payments. They also reportedly purchased a house on Bass Lake in Indiana for O'Connor and concealed title to the property by use of a third party. Also, O'Connor was said to have been given $9,000 to purchase a boat. O'Connor's family reportedly received a $4,400 all-expense-paid vacation to Disney World.

Judge Nordberg set Jan. 4th, 1994 for sentencing of the Pruim brothers.

POLICE CALLS

The following incidents were reported by the Oak Lawn Police Department. Readers are reminded that an arrest by police does not constitute a finding of guilt and only a court of law can make that determination.

An 88 year old woman drove through a window and into the middle of the showroom of Service Merchandise, 8812 S. Cicero Ave., according to police. No one was injured. Rosalie Carter was charged with negligent driving and driving without proof of insurance. Carter had parked in the loading zone in front of the store when she tried to back up, but instead accelerated forward over the sidewalk and through the window. "It's a miracle that no one was hurt," Chief Frank Gilbert said as he had viewed the accident scene. Her court date is Oct. 18th.

On Sept. 16th, Sandi Verborg of Oak Lawn reported she had three children playing in her backyard and they surprised a youth spray-painting the telephone pole in the yard. The offender ran between Massasoit and Menard Aves. after Mrs. Verborg asked what he was doing. He was nowhere to be found after police arrived, but he abandoned his bike at the scene which police inventoried and are holding.

William Cochrane of Hometown reported he and his family were stopped at 87th & Ridgeland by the traffic light. A car pulled up behind him and flashed his lights to gain his attention. The man then got out of his car with an unknown object in his hand and yelled, "We are gonna kill (obscenity) your family." He got in his car and then pulled alongside Cochrane's car and the passenger in the offender's car waved a BB gun at him and repeated the threat. At the same time the driver was waving a tire iron at him. The assailants finally left and he took down the license number of the offender which was issued to Richard Classen, 2208 Wharf Drive, Woodridge, IL. Complaints will be signed.

Michael Teason, 28, of Chicago was arrested after he was seen by a nurse at Christ Hospital going through a night stand of a patient who was out of the room. He admitted he had gone through several unoccupied rooms and was in possession of a number of items taken from patients' rooms. He was charged with theft and criminal trespass to property.

On the 19th, Valenciz Carter of Chicago was charged with retail theft after she was seen in the shoe department of SportMart with a box containing new shoes. She removed her old shoes, put them in the box and wore the new shoes and left without paying. She was stopped outside and the $89.96 shoes were recovered.

tires on the right side of his vehicle while it was parked in the driveway at 10501 S. Long Ave. Estimated loss $250.

On Sept. 20th, Mary Butler of Chicago reported that while she was shopping at Jewel, 9424 Pulaski, someone broke the rear window of her vehicle with a rock. Estimated damage is $300.

At 5:09 a.m., Patrick Perno of Chicago reported someone pried open the passenger side vent window to gain entry and removed a Kenwood AM/FM stereo cassette player, Bose tube speakers, for an estimated loss of $750.

On the 21st, police met with James Brady, vice-president of the First National Bank of Evergreen Park, 9400 S. Cicero, who informed them the bank has paid out $1,892.43 on nine forged checks. He said Nancy Hughes, treasurer for H.L. Richards High School Parent Faculty Student Organization, reported a burglary to her home to the Chicago Ridge Police Department and that a packet of 25 checks were taken and five of them were cashed at the Chicago Ridge Currency Exchange. Lorraine, an employee at the currency exchange, feels she can identify the person, going by the name of Karen McCabe. Complaints will be signed.

Mark Tompkins of Chicago was charged with retail theft after he left the Venture store, 4101 W. 95th St., without paying for clothing valued at $185.95.

Budget Rent-a-Car, 8940 Cicero, reported the theft of a 1993 Toyota Corolla valued at $13,000.

Annual Flu Shots

Illinois Department of Public Health Director Dr. John R. Lumpkin recently urged Illinoisans, particularly the elderly and those with chronic illnesses, to get their annual flu shots now. Dr. Lumpkin also reminded Medicare recipients that this year, for the first time, the government will pay for flu shots. People 65 years of age and older are at a higher-than-normal risk of complications and death from the flu.

"If the cost of the vaccine has been a problem in the past for those on Medicare, it should no longer have any bearing on their ability to be protected against the flu," said Dr. Lumpkin.

The department of public health participated in a nationwide study in 1991 and 1992 that found Medicare coverage of influenza vaccine will save money by increasing the number of those immunized and decreasing health care costs associated with influenza. Hospitalization costs for pneumonia, the most common flu-related complication, average $5,300 per patient.

Each year, the flu and its complications contribute to the deaths of 10,000 to 20,000 people nationwide, including nearly 4,000 persons in Illinois.

During the two years Illinois participated in the study, 644 providers in 34 west-central counties were provided vaccine for those eligible for Medicare.

The flu season typically runs from November through April. Because it takes two weeks for immunity to develop and for the vaccine to take effect, it is recommended that flu shots be received now, in the fall.

Flu shots do not always protect a person from getting the flu. However, in most cases they do reduce the severity of the symptoms and protect against complications that may develop as a result of the virus. The shots are recommended primarily for persons at high risk of developing complications, including those 65 years of age or older and those with chronic lung disease such as asthma or chronic bronchitis; emphysema, tuberculosis, bronchiectasis or cystic fibrosis; heart disease; severe anemia; diabetes or other chronic metabolic diseases; kidney disease; and disease or treatments that lower immunity.

It is necessary to receive a flu shot every year because protection from the vaccine is effective for only one year. In addition, the strains of virus vary year-to-year. This year's vaccine will protect the same three strains that were present during the 1992-93 flu season: A/Texas, A/Beijing and B/Panama. The flu vaccine is safe and effective, made from inactive viruses and will not cause the flu. However, persons who are allergic to eggs or have a fever should check with their physicians before receiving the vaccine.

Symptoms of influenza include fever, chills, cough, sore throat, runny nose and soreness and aching in the back, arms and legs. Typically, those who get the flu recover in a matter of days. However, some will develop more serious illnesses, such as pneumonia.

For more information on influenza and flu vaccines, contact your physician, local health department or the department of public health at (800) 526-4372 or TDD (800) 547-0466.

First National Offers Auto Loan Pricing Option

The First National Bank of Chicago said recently it is offering a new auto loan pricing option that allows customers to put a 10 percent down payment on the purchase of a new car in return for a slight premium of .5 percent over its standard loan rates.

"Many auto loan customers who are credit worthy may find they can more easily afford a 10 percent down payment rather than 20 percent, which is the standard down payment on the purchase of a new car," said Jerry Goldstein, who heads First Chicago's downtown, and southern branches. "By building a little more flexibility into our auto loan pricing, we can do a better job of helping qualified customers get into the market."

Under First Chicago's standard payment plan at current rates, if a customer purchases a new car with a 20 percent down payment and wants a four-year term, the loan rate is 7.75 percent. If the customer agrees to have the payment automatically debited from his or her checking account, the rate drops to 7.50 percent.

With the reduced down payment new option, however, the customer purchasing a car with a 10 percent down payment and a four-year loan would receive an interest rate of 8.25 percent. By taking the autodebit feature, the customer's rate would be 8 percent. In addition, First Chicago continues to offer its customers a variable rate auto loan that is priced at .9 percent over the prime rate - which today equals 6.9 percent - with a 20 percent down payment.

"With the new 10 percent down payment product, our variable rate auto loan, terms ranging from 36 to 60 months and autodebit availability for checking customers, First Chicago customers are offered the broadest and most competitive range of auto loan products in the Chicago marketplace," said Goldstein.

The First National Bank of Chicago, the tenth largest bank in the country, has branches throughout the Chicago metropolitan area providing leading edge banking products and services to retail and business customers.

Its branches in the downtown area and in the city's south and south suburban communities are located at One First National Plaza; 35 W. Wacker Dr.; Dearborn Station; 4730 W. 79th St.; 4363 S. Archer; 8340 S. Kedzie; 6245 S. Western Ave.; in Woodlawn, Little Village, Pilsen, Burbank, Oak Lawn, Orland Park, Worth and Lansing.

Handgun Violence

The Illinois Council Against Handgun Violence (ICHV) will hold its 11th annual "Walk Against Handgun Violence" at 10 a.m. on Saturday, Oct. 9th at Daley Center Plaza in Chicago's Loop. The event begins with a rally and culminates with a two-mile walk past landmarks that represent handgun violence, including Abraham Lincoln's statue in Grant Park and the Metropolitan Correctional Center at Van Buren and Clark Sts.

The turnout for this year's walk is expected to be the largest in 11 years, according to ICHV Executive Director Phil Andrew. Among the participants will be: former Chicago Bull Bob Love; Mayor Richard M. Daley; State's Attorney Jack O'Malley; other elected officials; community organizations; victim's rights groups; area business people; and various religious leaders.

"This walk will not only heighten public awareness," said Andrew, "but, hopefully, also motivate our legislators to pass stronger gun control laws."

To register for the walk or to sponsor a participant, call the ICHV office at (312) 341-0939.

Volunteers

Physicians at the Center for Clinical Studies, Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center, are seeking individuals who have had rheumatoid arthritis for no longer than two years to participate in a research program involving a new medication. Qualified volunteers receive all study-related care at no charge, including doctor visits, laboratory services and medication. Rheumatoid arthritis is a chronic disease that affects two to three times more women than men. Although the disease often begins in mid-life, it can start at any age.

For more information about this program, call (312) 942-2167.

THEODORE L. DESCH, SENIOR VP,
LAW & CORPORATE AFFAIRS

Health insurance is a balancing act. You don't want to realize cost savings at the expense of quality care. And you don't want to save money if it means losing out on the level of service you expect. So what's the answer?

Well, over the years, nobody has done more to manage cost and preserve quality than we have. Nobody is more responsive to the needs of your people. And no one has more doctors, hospitals and coverage plans to choose from. Cost. Quality. And service. If you don't have all three, you don't have Blue Cross."

WHEN YOU HAVE BLUE CROSS, YOU HAVE IT ALL.

- ☐ You are working with the pioneer in effective cost containment strategies.
- ☐ The carrier that's doing more to monitor quality.
- ☐ The most professional claims and customer response systems in the business.
- ☐ The most trusted health plans in Illinois.

Jed Desch

WE HAVE IT ALL.

Cook County Board Approves Final Districting Map

At the Sept. 21 board meeting, the Cook County Board of Commissioners approved the final version of a districting map that creates 17 single-member districts.

The map is the result of a referendum approved by the voters of Cook County in 1990 which eliminates at large elections of 10 commissioners in the city and seven in the suburbs. The map also complies with the federal Voting Rights Act which stipulates that sufficient predominantly minority districts be created to ensure minority representation.

The map may have a peculiar configuration, but the goals and objectives to meet all requirements of minority representation have been satisfied.

Specifically, the map includes five predominantly African-American districts and two predominantly Hispanic districts. There are five heavily Republican districts, which is one less seat than the Republicans currently hold. Two other districts are considered swing districts that could be won by either Democrats or Republicans. Each district contains approximately 300,000 people. The 1990 census listed 1.3 million blacks, 600,000 Hispanics and 2.4 million suburbanites among Cook County's 5.1 million residents.

Although the map does not satisfy all groups or individuals, I believe a fair attempt was made to draw a balanced map, while at the same time keeping faith with the Voting Rights Act. The Districting Committee deserves credit for their overall efforts and their ability to compromise and consider many different proposals.

At the same board meeting, commissioners approved spending $1.3 million for a feasibility study on replacing Cook County Hospital. The study, which will be conducted by the consulting firm of Bobrow/Thomas and Associates, is expected to take about a year.

Although there are critics that say the county cannot afford to build a new hospital, it is becoming more apparent that the county cannot afford to keep the old building open.

This is not a political issue, but a sound, responsibly fiscal decision. Most commissioners and professionals agree that a new hospital is necessary to ensure financial stability and quality patient care. The hospital, which lost its accreditation in 1992, spends between $30 and $50 million a year just to ensure that it continues to meet accreditation standards. It could cost as much as $195 million over the next decade to repair and renovate the hospital.

A public hearing was held to consider a proposed ordinance that would prohibit gun shops from operating within a half mile of a school or park. The ordinance was proposed as a response to a gun shop that opened across the street from a high school.

The ordinance would charge new shops $1,000 for a license and would allow existing businesses to remain until their leases expire.

The hearing raised many questions as to the impact that the law would have on existing gun dealers and the fact that the ordinance would exempt large chain stores. Also, background check requirements, license regulation and other restrictions were issues that initiated proposed amendments to the ordinance.

As a result, President Richard Phelan, the sponsor of the ordinance, agreed to revise it and a vote was delayed; with the State's Attorney to review the provisions and inquiries raised by the Commissioners and the public.

The Forest Preserve Board of Commissioners passed a resolution supporting the "Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC) and the Openlands Project. The Greenways Plan will help guide the district with future land acquisitions and projects.

The creation and preservation of greenways in Cook County will further enhance the district's open space. By working side by side with groups and organizations that share these goals, Cook County residents will be able to enjoy one of the best greenway systems in the nation.

Greenways are extremely important because they create linkages between natural areas, enlarge habitat areas and protect scenic vistas. Often, greenways provide linkages to new or existing trails. They also provide a wildlife corridor to enhance the biodiversity of the preserves.

Until next month, I am

Sincerely,
s/s Robert Gooley (Bob)
Cook County Commissioner

UNICEF Plans Halloween Fund Drive

Nearly 100,000 children and adults throughout Chicagoland will 'Trick or Treat' for UNICEF this Halloween and 'have fun' raising funds. Their efforts, sponsored by the U.S. Committee for UNICEF/Chicago, will support the city-wide fund raising drive for National UNICEF Day, observed every year on Oct. 31st.

"Chicagoans are warm-hearted and caring, and they always respond to the needs of children," said Linda R. Robison, president of the U.S. Committee for UNICEF/Chicago and partner in the law firm of Shefsky & Froehlich. "The money raised by 'Trick or Treaters' will help UNICEF provide food, health care, clean water, education and emergency services to countless millions of children and women in 137 countries throughout the world, as well as in crisis situations such as Somalia and Bosnia," she added.

In the past decade since UNICEF expanded its childhood immunization program, some 15 million lives have been saved, and many millions more have been spared the crippling effects of diseases such as polio. This program is now reaching about 100 million infants a year.

Organizations for children and adults are encouraged to plan their own Trick or Treat for UNICEF activities or to incorporate UNICEF into their own Halloween programs. For information and supplies, contact Allen Cushing, U.S. Committee for UNICEF/Chicago, phone (312) 670-2379. Individuals, groups and businesses who wish to make a cash donation are also encouraged to write U.S. Committee for UNICEF/Chicago, 540 N. Michigan, Suite 200, Chicago, IL 60611.

Monthly SIPP Survey

Local representatives of the U.S. Census Bureau plan to visit selected area households beginning on Friday Oct. 1st to conduct the bureau's Survey of Income and Program Participation (SIPP), Stanley D. Moore, director of the bureau's Chicago regional office, announced. SIPP, a continuing nationwide survey introduced in the fall of 1983, is one of the nation's largest, with about 60,000 households participating.

The Census Bureau publishes periodic reports with information from the survey.

Subjects covered include jobs and earnings; the economic effects of unemployment, disability and retirement; how taxes affect personal spending; and participation in programs such as Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid, food stamps and pension plans.

Information from SIPP helps policy makers and administrators determine how well government programs are serving the public and how changes in programs and policies will affect the public.

New O'Hare International Airport Now Open

The new international terminal's upper level at O'Hare International Airport officially opened for departing flights on Sept. 30th, featuring concessions with a Chicago flavor, announced Mayor Richard M. Daley. The opening of the upper level departure area comes one day ahead of schedule, as the second phase of the new terminal's opening. The lower level arrival area of the terminal opened to the public in May.

"We're proud to have the departure level of the terminal opened ahead of schedule, and departing travelers will be pleased to see the spacious ticketing pavilion and comfortable gate areas," said Daley.

While most airlines with international service depart from Terminal 5, American Airlines, United Airlines and Northwest Airlines have chosen to continue departing from their domestic gates. All other international flights, with the exception of Sabena Airlines, depart from Terminal 5. Sabena Airlines will be two weeks late opening their T-5 departure operation. Sabena customers are advised to contact the airline for flight information.

On the upper level, new concessions are open to the public, including a food court, cocktail lounge, a variety of Chicago restaurants, and the duty free international store, for outbound international passengers. Scenes from famous Chicago parades will be shown at a cocktail lounge next to the food court.

Chicago Department of Aviation Commissioner David R. Mosena noted that the new 6,000 square foot duty free international store is one of the finest in the world. It is four times the size of the previous duty free shop in Terminal 4.

"International travelers translate to international business opportunities," Mayor Daley said. "We will enjoy welcoming the world with a new statement about Chicago that typifies its warmth, its culture and its people."

"The upper level is spacious, beautiful and incorporates state-of-the-art technology to ensure an easy and comfortable beginning to the international travel experience," said Mosena.

Lot D, across from the terminal, is priced for short-term parking only. Departing passengers are advised to use Lots E and F. They are easily accessible by the airport transit system.

Child Protection

Gov. Jim Edgar recently acted to strengthen laws protecting children from abuse and neglect when he signed House Bill 2408, which makes it much easier to legally remove all minors from a household when one of them has been abused. He also recommended changes in House Bill 2397 that were strongly advocated by the overwhelming majority of child welfare groups expressing interest in the legislation. If the legislature adopts those changes, the new law will expedite the removal from a household of a child who is in imminent danger without violating court orders and federal laws.

"These actions are precisely in line with steps we have taken during the last several months to remove endangered children from harm's way. They reinforce our policy that a child's best interest must be the paramount concern when dealing with a troubled family," Edgar said.

House Bill 2408 addresses a problem that surfaced in a DuPage County case in which other siblings remained in a household after it was determined that a child had been sexually abused. The new law, sought by DuPage County State's Attorney Jim Ryan, establishes the presumption that all minors in a household should be considered victims and removed once one of them has been abused.

Chief sponsors of the legislation were Rep. Thomas Dart (D-Chicago) and Sens. David Barkhausen (R-Lake Bluff) and Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion). Sen. Thomas McCracken (R-Downers Grove) sponsored an amendment that contained some of the major provisions in the legislation.

MEMBER F.D.I.C.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

Once again a coalition of legislators in Springfield is trying to use the October session to create more political jobs by increasing the Board of Commissioners of the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District from nine to 16 members; 15 are to be elected from geographical districts and a president to be elected at large. Voters will be forced to pay over $4 million to construct additional offices for the new commissioners and to relocate staff to outlying plants. In addition, there will be an increase of $2 million in annual operating costs.

The most damaging aspect of this legislation is that it would dismantle one of the best run, most cost effective units of government in the country. A recent survey of 13 major metropolitan areas in the United States shows that the District treats wastewater at the lowest cost per gallon. Annual increases in our tax levy have been limited to an average of only three percent over the last 10 years; the 1993 tax levy is 1.6 percent over 1992's levy.

The primary reason for the District's success is because commissioners are elected at large and engage in long range planning of major projects that benefit the entire region. If commissioners are elected from single districts, they will be more concerned and concentrate more on projects in their own particular area rather than the District as a whole.

Previous versions of this legislation have included provisions to transfer authority from the general superintendent to the president in appointing department heads, run the day-to-day operations of the District, and control of the employees' pension funds. These blatant attempts to undo the legislative reforms of the 1960's will most likely resurface in this bill.

Instead of trying to "improve" the District, the legislature should point to us as a model of how government should function. For the sake of good government and the economic and environmental health of our region, this legislation should be stopped now!

Very truly yours,
Terrence J. O'Brien

Enclosed in a giant red heart, the snowman beams "Put Your Heart in the Season." Travis is a member of Children's Heart Services, a support group for children with congenital or acquired heart defects and their families. The 5 5/8 x 7 7/8 card is complemented by a white envelope with a festive red foil lining. The message inside reads, "Heartfelt wishes for a year of peace, joy, and good health!" Imprinting of your name and address or a business insert indicating your company support of the American Heart Association is available. Strategic Planning

As the Archdiocese of Chicago's 150th birthday approaches on Nov. 28th, the nation's second largest Roman Catholic diocese is concentrating on its future and preparing for the 21st century.

Earlier this year the archdiocese began a major effort of consultation and decision-making which will lead, in the words of Cardinal Joseph Bernardin, Archbishop of Chicago, to "decisions for the future of our church." This fall, the archdiocesan strategic planning process, a bold effort to help shape the future of the Archdiocese of Chicago, will engage area Catholics in broad-ranging consultation on proposed decisions now being made public.

In 1994, following a process of consultation already underway, Cardinal Bernardin will make major decisions which will affect the future of this local church.

The proposed decisions represent the recommendations of two special writing teams appointed by the Cardinal to examine two priority issues, Ministerial Leadership and Evangelization & Education. The writing teams were charged with the important task of developing position papers on these issues, with specific recommendations, for the Cardinal's consideration. The position papers were submitted to the Cardinal and his cabinet earlier this month.

Before this year is over, it is hoped that consultation on these written recommendations will have involved people representing virtually every area of church life throughout the archdiocese, including local parish leaders. Indeed, every one of the Archdiocese of Chicago's 382 parishes is invited to participate in the consultation on the proposed decisions. Parish consultation meetings will be held at parishes throughout Cook and Lake counties beginning in October.

Medicare Counsel

The Senior Health Insurance Program (SHIP), sponsored by the Illinois Department of Insurance, has added several new counseling units to assist senior citizens in Cook County with their health insurance problems. SHIP trains community volunteers to provide the free counseling service to senior citizens who have questions about Medicare, Medicare supplement and long-term care insurance.

The program offers seniors a unique opportunity to discuss their insurance problems on a personalized level without the concern that someone will take advantage of them or try to sell them something. Area residents can access SHIP through any of the following community organizations:

Pavilion Senior Center, Wheeling, (708) 459-2670;
Living At Home Program, Evanston, (708) 492-9400;
Glenview Senior Center, Glenview, (708) 724-4793;
Woodlawn Adult Health Center, Chicago, (312) 737-3130;
Chicago Department on Aging, Southwest Regional Center, Chicago, (312) 747-0440.

Insurance Director Stephen F. Selcke said that with recent changes in federal law pertaining to Medicare supplement insurance, it is particularly important that Illinois seniors have a reliable source of information. "The requirements for standardized policies and open enrollment provide a new level of protection for older Americans and SHIP will be a valuable outlet for educating them about these changes," he said.

Fire Safety

Illinois fire deaths were down in 1992 from the previous year, according to the current 1992 Fatal Fires Report from the Office of the Illinois State Fire Marshal (OSFM).

In 1992, 326 people were killed in fires in Illinois compared to 390 in 1991. The reduction in fire deaths in the state may be due in part to increased public fire safety education and public awareness of proper fire safety habits.

"Only with fire safety education and fire prevention can the Illinois fire service effectively lower this state's needless fire death toll," said State Fire Marshal Thomas L. Armstead.

National Fire Prevention Week, which ran this year from Oct. 3rd to 9th, provides a forum for educating Illinois citizens about proper fire safety habits. In keeping with this year's NFPA Week theme of "Get Out, Stay Out. Your Fire Safe Response," OSFM offers a number of important fire safety reminders.

In the event of a fire, getting out of the burning building should be everyone's top priority. Fire in the home can spread very quickly leaving no time to gather valuables or even just to get dressed.

To help them safely escape in the event of a fire, people should plan and practice an escape plan. Everyone should know two ways out of every room in their homes. Individuals and families should also designate a safe meeting place outside and away from the house. Once outside, no one should ever re-enter a burning building.

Working smoke detectors can also play a crucial role in surviving a fire because they provide an early warning sign of fire and give individuals time to escape safely. According to many national fire service organizations, a working smoke detector can nearly double one's chances of surviving a fire. The National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) estimates, however, that about one-third of home smoke detectors are not working because of dead or missing batteries.

Illinois law requires every residence to have at least one smoke detector installed on each level of the home including the basement. For greater protection, a smoke detector should be placed outside all sleeping areas. Smoke detectors should be properly maintained in accordance with manufacturers' recommendations and tested at least once a year.

For more information on fire safety or to obtain fire safety information and materials, contact the Office of the State Fire Marshal at (217) 785-1021.

Utility Bills

State Rep. Terry A. Steczko (Oak Forest) announces that applications are now being taken for the 1994 Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program. This program provides monetary grants to low-income households to pay for heating and electric bills through the winter months.

Starting Oct. 1st, applications will be taken for the elderly, persons with disabilities, and households where energy services have discontinued. Beginning Nov. 1st, all income-eligible persons may apply.

State Rep. Steczko emphasized the importance of applying as soon as possible since once the available funds have been expended, otherwise eligible applicants will be denied.

Applications can be submitted at any of the CEDA centers including the Southwest Development Association, 5818 S. Archer Road, Summit, (708) 458-2736; at the Chicago Heights Community Service Center, 1203 West End Ave., (708) 754-4575; at the Harvey Area Community Service Center, 53 E. 154th St., (708) 339-3610; and at the Southeast CEDA Robbins Human Development Center, 3418 W. 139th St., (708) 371-1522. It is best to call first for an appointment.

Joan Patricia Murphy, Worth Township Supervisor, is asking to be slated as the candidate for the Sixth District Cook County Board seat. "After studying the map and analyzing the results of the 1986 Cook County election, I believe the district is winnable and believe I can win it."

Supervisor Murphy has submitted her credentials to Worth Township Democratic Committeeman John J. McNamara and to other Democratic leaders for their consideration.

In 1986, Mrs. Murphy registered the fourth highest total among Democrats running for county office behind County Assessor Thomas Hynes, County Clerk Stanley Kusper and County Treasurer Edmund Rosewell.

Closings

All Secretary of State offices and facilities will be closed for Columbus Day, Secretary of State George H. Ryan announced recently.

Driver Services facilities outside Cook County, which normally are open Tuesday through Saturday, will be closed Saturday, Oct. 9th and will reopen Tuesday, Oct. 12th. The Chicago West, Midlothian and Niles facilities in Cook County, now open Tuesday through Saturday, also will be closed Oct. 9th and resume business on Oct. 12th.

Other offices and facilities will be closed Monday, Oct. 11th and will reopen Tuesday, Oct. 12th. The only exception is the Ford City.

Job Skills Training For Polish

The Polish Welfare Association (PWA) in Chicago was recently awarded $159,000 under the U.S. Department of Education's Bilingual Vocational Training Grant Program. Congressman Bill Lipinski assisted the PWA in obtaining this funding which will be used to provide local Polish Americans with word processing skills in preparation for employment.

"We are very grateful for Congressman Lipinski's support which allows us the opportunity to operate the job skills training program," said Karen Popowski, PWA's executive director. "The local businesses are certainly in need of trained bilingual workers. However, these funds are restricted to this program so we are always appreciative of individual contributions to be used for our other services."

The PWA, a non-profit organization, is the only bilingual human services agency which serves the Chicago area's Polish community of over 900,000 individuals. Adult literacy

Telephone JULIE Before Digging

If fall chores include digging around your home, Commonwealth Edison recommends that you call JULIE or DIGGER before taking your first shovel. Your safety and uninterrupted utility service may depend on it.

Electric, telephone and TV cables, and gas, water and sewer lines all could be cut or damaged by digging in the wrong place. That's why you should call to have your utility services located before you start your project.

The service is free. Participating utilities and municipalities will mark the locations of your services within 48 hours.

JULIE (Joint Utility Locating Information for Excavators) is the Illinois one-call notification system for underground facilities. By calling JULIE toll-free at 1(800)892-0123 at least 48 hours before you dig, you can avoid damaging vital underground services. When damaged, these underground facilities can endanger property and public safety — they can also be expensive and time-

We've heard a lot of complaints about the boundaries of the newly drawn 17 Cook County Board Districts map, but GOP Commissioner Robert Gooley of Homewood in his monthly report to us tells us that it is fair as it can be to meet federal guidelines for "one man one vote." (See page 3 for details.)

Understandably, incumbent Herb Schumann of Palos Park is upset. His District 17 extends 50 miles from the south boundary of Orland Township all the way past O'Hare Airport to Wheeling... a distance of over 50 miles. In some spots the district is a mile wide.

Gooley said the map respects the political boundaries to the best extent possible. For instance, congressional, township, ward, municipal, and precinct boundaries have been honored in virtually all cases. Overall, the populated portions of only 58 or more than 5,000 precincts in the entire county were divided between districts. The committee map retains at least 95% of the population of 85 municipalities within single districts. At least 99 percent of the 77 municipalities are within single districts. Fourteen townships are entirely within single districts.

The largest district is District 9 which is 300,519 or 221 people (0.074%) over ideal population of 300,298.

The smallest district is District 7 which is 300,352 or 246 people (0.082%) below ideal population.

ALL POINTS has learned that Cook County Clerk Aurelia Pucinski will announce her candidacy for Cook County Board President next week. She has delayed the announcement so that her children can be present to hear the announcement without missing school A good mom!

Mayor Daley's renewed offer to pay 50¢ for old used tires removed from streets, empty lots and public ways has met with great success. The recent effort in May netted 69,000 tires. In 1992 149,000 tires were turned in. the official count for Sept. 25 collection at 1700 W.

119th St. hasn't been announced as yet but is expected to be higher.

"Old tires continue to plague many Chicago communities," the mayor observed. "This is our way to clean up this blight and help some well deserved organizations." (Ed. Note-Collections had to be supervised by a community or church organization to whom the money was paid.)

Evergreen Park and Chicago Ridge took aim at elimination of federal unfunded mandates this week. Both village boards unanimously adopted resolutions endorsing the efforts of the National League of Cities to inform citizens about the impact of federal mandates on local government and on the pocketbooks of taxpayers.

The resolution scolds the federal government for 'mandates which require compliance without consideration of local circumstances, costs or capacity and subject municipalities to civil or criminal penalties for noncompliance.' In addition, both villages resolve to redouble efforts to inform and work with U.S. Senators and Representatives to educate them about the impact of these mandates and to point out actions necessary to reduce these burdens on local communities as well as long-suffering taxpayers.

Mayor Tony Vacco of Evergreen Park and Chicago Ridge Mayor Gene Siegel each pointed out that, in addition to unfunded mandates imposed by the federal government, state, county, and other governmental entities such as the MWRD also hand down unfunded mandates. Both agreed that action must be taken against all unfunded mandates, not just those directed by the federal government.

classes, citizenship courses, a senior citizen crisis outreach program, and a computer equipped learning center are among a few of the services rendered by the PWA. Recent financial difficulties, however, have forced the PWA to seek additional funding sources.

"As a Polish American, I am very much in tune to the needs of the local Polish community," Congressman Lipinski said. "The PWA provides educational and counseling programs that are essential to these individuals. It is my hope that with additional funding, the PWA can continue these vital services on which so many local Polish Americans have come to rely."

'Talking Book' Grants Awarded

Secretary of State George H. Ryan awarded nearly $2.5 million in grants to support the state's 'Talking Book' program and a radio network that provides current information for people who are blind or disabled.

"Through funding provided by the new Live & Learn initiative, we have been able to expand and improve our blind and physically handicapped program," Ryan said. "We can do even more to help people who cannot read due to vision problems or physical disabilities."

Most of the $250,000 funding increase will support the state's six regional talking book centers in Carleville, Pekin, Quincy, Coal Valley, Geneva and Chicago. The regional centers will share more than $2 million to support the distribution of talking book materials, including best sellers, classics, magazines and nonfiction on cassettes, discs and in Braille.

The federally mandated program is one of the largest in the country serving more than 20,000 Illinois patrons who make about 900,000 requests a year from a collection of more than 50,000 titles.

The Illinois Regional Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, Chicago, is also to receive more than $700,000 to support statewide activities and serve as Illinois' link to the National Blind and Physically Handicapped Network.

The remaining $370,000 in funding goes to the Illinois Regional Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped to help fund the Illinois radio information service, an 11-member radio reading network operating out of stations in Belleville, Carbondale, Champaign, Chicago, DeKalb, Godfrey, Macomb, Mount Carmel, Peoria, Rock Island and Springfield. The service provides a closed-circuit radio broadcast to the same people eligible for 'Talking Books.'

Patrons are issued special receivers free of charge, allowing them to pick up daily broadcasts of items from local newspapers, including grocery ads, local news and obituaries. The network also broadcasts talk shows and news of special interest to people with disabilities.

This year, for the first time, the Illinois Blind and Physically Handicapped Network will produce Braille, audiotape and large-print formats for the State Library's "Explore: Check It Out" children's newsletter. This project and several others will be funded through a $70,000 grant to the Heart of Illinois Talking Book Center in Pekin.

All "Mr. Fix-it-Not" readers, listen up!

How many "Mr. Fix-it-Not" readers have been face-to-face with this kind of problem?

Something has gone wrong with the dishwasher, washing machine or dryer and the Mrs., in her most patronizing voice, says, "I know you can fix it. It's not that big a deal. Even a three-year-old could figure it out."

The epinephrine, also called adrenaline, hormone is immediately released into the bloodstream in response to the physical or mental stress. There is a stimulation of heart action, an increase in blood pressure, a change in the metabolic rate, and a blood glucose concentration.

In short, fear and injury are constant companions of "Mr. Fix-it-Not."

Just the other day the spring that keeps our dishwasher door from crashing to the floor either came off its hook or was broken.

"I can handle it," I said confidently, while at the same time the thrill of victory and the agony of defeat pushed my adrenaline hormone to a level only felt by people who for some ridiculous reason decide to go over Niagara Falls in a barrel.

With my trusty tool box in tow, and with tools that are as old as the ones used to construct the Egyptian Pyramids, I tackled the door-spring project.

Fast-forward six hours and up to this point I had managed to remove the "access panel," had discovered the culprit spring, but in my usual "Mr. Fix-it-Not" haste, had sent the spring into orbit somewhere behind the dishwasher motor. I think it was a motor.

By now I realized what I should have known before I allowed my emotions to rule my intellect.

Rule number one for a "Mr. Fix-it-Not" person is never under any circumstances attempt to do any home repair job beyond changing a light bulb.

By now my family had crowded into the kitchen as I lay in a supine position with flashlight in hand looking for the errant spring which was somewhere in the twilight zone.

"Well, 'Mr. Fix-it-Not,'" I heard someone say, "why don't you call the appliance dealer and have a repairman come out and do the job right?"

I pulled myself up off the kitchen floor and staggered to the bedroom and with a broken fingernail and blood pouring from a cut on my hand that called for an industrial strength band-aid, I called the 800 number of the "world's largest retailer."

After determining that indeed my service contract had expired on the dishwasher, the business-like voice on the other end of the line offered me two options.

"We can send out a repairman next week sometime for an initial cost of $40, or you could talk to one of our technicians and maybe you can fix it yourself," said the business-like voice.

Not hesitating a beat, and with adrenaline still flowing through my bloodstream, I inquired further about the "technician thing."

"There will be a charge of $9, which we can apply to your credit card," the business-like voice said, "and the technician can walk you through the repair job over the phone."

"How much walk me through the repair job time do I get for $9?" I asked.

"It shouldn't take that long," said business-like voice.

"What if the guy wants to take a coffee break, go to lunch, or his eight-hour shift is up?" I said, rather sarcastically.

"Have you people, who have started a cottage industry of charging $9 for helping some poor sap over the phone with a home repair job, realized that someday you might run up against a 'Mr. Fix-it-Not?'" I said as I trimmed my broken fingernail and applied a band-aid to my cut finger.

After a long-pause, the business-like voice said, "we could have a repairman out to your house next Wednesday."

"Set it up," I said, "repairman out to my house next Wednesday."

A round of applause went up from my family, and then as my adrenaline returned to the acceptable range, I heard one lone voice above all the others say: "Hey, 'Mr. Fix-it-Not,' did you tell them to have the repairman bring a spring?"

Pullman House Tours

The Historic Pullman Foundation and the Pullman Civic Organization are hosting their 20th annual house tour on Saturday, Oct. 9th and Sunday, Oct. 10th. The tour, always an eagerly awaited event, features a glimpse into eight private homes in the Historic Pullman District. "Although walking tours continue through the district during the tour season, the house tour is an unusual opportunity for visitors to enjoy the interiors of Pullman homes, many of which are quite unique, and this year will include one in the early stages of renovation," reports house tour co-chair Clarice Lamphere.

The tour begins at the district's new tour facility, the Historic Pullman Foundation Visitors Center, 11141 S. Cottage Grove, just yards south of the Hotel Florence, and will be held from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. The tour includes a brief and all-new audio/visual presentation, the Hotel Florence, the Greenstone Church, a number of private residences and other sites in the district, a national, state and city landmark. Visitors may also wish to dine at the Victorian and elegantly appointed 113-year old Hotel Florence, the town's focal point. The hotel's spacious dining rooms, parlor, lobby and bar, dubbed 'The Brass Tapper,' offer gracious service blended with timeless tradition. The tour officially "kicks off" a year's worth of events planned for 1994 which marks the centennial commemoration of the now famous Pullman Strike of 1894. Activities are to include lectures, special tours, dinners, symposiums, and a film series.

In 1880, the best of Victorian architecture, construction and craftsmanship were implemented to create the town of Pullman. George M. Pullman, owner of the Pullman Palace Car Company, built the model town for his employees. It was billed as 'the world's most perfect town' because of its unique architecture and innovative living arrangements. Today, an enthusiastic community is involved in the preservation of Pullman homes and historic buildings.

Tour tickets are available for the discounted price of $8 when purchased in advance. To receive the advance sale discount, checks or money orders should be made payable to Historic Pullman House Tour and mailed to the Hotel Florence, House Tour, 11111 S. Forrestville Ave., Chicago, IL 60628. Tickets will also be available at the door both days of the event. Door ticket prices are $10; $8 for senior citizens and groups of 10 or more and may be purchased until 3:30 p.m. Tickets may also be purchased at the Hotel Florence.

For further information, call (312) 785-8181.

Cadillac is setting new standards for the capability, competency and over-all balance of large luxury sedans with the introduction of the all-new 1994 Cadillac DeVille Concours on Thursday, Oct. 7th from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. at Shirey Cadillac, 101st and Cicero.

The DeVille Concours is a fully-equipped, six-passenger sedan with Cadillac's exclusive Northstar System. The 270 horsepower dual-overhead cam Northstar V8 engine establishes the DeVille Concours as the most powerful front-wheel-drive six-passenger sedan in the world. Cadillac's 4T80-E transmission with viscous converter clutch translates the Northstar's strength into decisive power delivery combined with silky-smooth shifts. With speed-sensitive steering, road-sensing suspension, short/long arm rear suspension, ABS brakes and full-speed traction control, the DeVille Concours provides the latest in innovative Cadillac engineering. Designed as a balanced vehicle, all systems such as powertrain, suspension, steering and braking work in harmony to provide total integration.

"There has never been a car built for the large luxury market with the performance, handling, and superior occupant comfort and safety of the 1994 Cadillac DeVille Concours. Other entrants in the large luxury market will soon begin to compare themselves to this new benchmark for the large luxury segment," said John O. Grettenberger, Cadillac general manager and General Motors vice-president.

The DeVille Concours' exterior treatment shares major body panel styling with the new 1994 DeVille, while adding more subtle accents such as a grille-mounted multi-color wreath and crest, ribbed body side moldings and specific style aluminum wheels with Goodyear Eagle GA performance-rated tires. A "32V Northstar" badge and dual exhaust outlets are the exterior features that provide only a glimpse of the sophisticated Northstar System under the new exterior design.

The Northstar V8 is an aluminum block/aluminum head engine which features a unique two-piece lower block structure with double-bolted main bearings. The durable block design is similar to race engine architecture and results in a very rigid block structure for ultra-low engine noise and vibration. The electronically controlled Northstar engine has no moving ignition parts, therefore no timing adjustments are required. Dual platinum-tipped spark plugs, with an extended change interval of 100,000 miles, provide optimum combustion and plug life.

At low speeds, steering efforts are reduced from those experienced with a conventional passive steering system to aid maneuverability and parking ease. As speeds increase, steering efforts increase in a linear manner to allow for uniform steering feel. At highway speeds, the driver experiences "manual-like" steering effort to maximize control and stability.

DeVille Concours also features Cadillac's road-sensing suspension (RSS) system, first introduced in 1993 on Northstar-powered vehicles. This system optimizes ride control and handling feel while maintaining ride comfort and isolation. RSS utilizes three patented controller algorithms, sophisticated sensor technologies and fast actuators to eliminate the traditional tradeoffs between comfort and control. The result is a leading-edge system which provides vehicle stability and control to manage the power of the Northstar engine without sacrificing the comfort levels required for a vehicle in this market segment.

Fourteen color selections are available, including White, Carmine Red, Platinum, Academy Gray, Sable Black, Dark Cherry, Polo Green, Frost Beige, White Diamond, Light, Medium and Dark Montana Blue, Calypso Green and Mocha.

Cadillac equips all 1991 models with PASS-Key II theft deterrent. A special resistor pellet is implanted in the ignition key which must match the value of a resistor in the ignition in order to start the vehicle. If resistance values do not match, fuel pump, starter and powertrain management systems will not operate. The DeVille Concours has Remote Keyless Entry as standard equipment, activating interior lighting, door locking, unlocking and trunk access at the push of a button from a handheld key fob.

Providing the most comprehensive care in the industry, all Cadillacs are covered by a four-year, 50,000 mile, no deductible, comprehensive warranty covering the powertrain and all major vehicle assemblies. Additionally, Cadillac provides six-year, 100,000 mile corrosion protection.

The annual Homecoming Parade under the theme of "Spartans at Mardi Gras" steps off at 10 a.m. at 51st Ave. and proceeds west on 95th St. to the Warren O. LIBRARY NOTES

The Oak Lawn Public Library, 9427 Raymond, is celebrating its 50th anniversary with a 'Birthday Open House' from 2 to 4 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 10th. The community is invited to stop in to say hello, to browse through the library's collections and to enjoy a piece of birthday cake. Hosting the event will be representatives of the library board of trustees, the Oak Lawn Community Library Foundation and the Friends of the Library.

Although founded by a group of volunteers in 1934, the library officially became the Village of Oak Lawn Public Library by referendum in 1943. It has grown from its one-room beginnings in a former pigeon coop to 65,000 square feet filled with information, resources, meeting rooms, study areas, equipment, reference materials and an unlimited source of good reading.

The open house provides an opportunity for those who are not regular library users to visit the facility and acquaint themselves with the resources that are available. Regular users will want to bring in family and friends to join in.

An Old-Time Radio Show will be presented at the library at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 12th. A local "Those Were the Days" radio group will recreate a radio show when it presents an actual script from a 1940's "Easy Aces" program entitled "Jane Served on a Jury." Easy Aces was a comedy presented much in the style of George Burns and Gracie Allen. In addition, the actors will bring back a script from "The Bickersons."

The program will bring back memories for those who remember the heyday of radio, when imagination brought the scripts to life. It will provide an opportunity for young people to see radio from a different perspective in relation to today's programming. Parents and grandparents are invited to bring their families.

POLICE CALLS

The following incidents were reported by the Oak Lawn Police Department. Readers are reminded that an arrest by police does not constitute a finding of guilt and only a court of law can make that determination.

On Sept. 23rd, James Bruce of Chicago was charged with theft after police on patrol noticed his car driving into an alley in back of the Jewel store, 4650 W. 103rd St. The officer followed and saw him remove a pallet and load it into the trunk of his car, but when he saw the squad car, he took two pallets out of his car and put them on the pile before he was arrested.

On the 24th at 9:32 p.m., Christopher Baxter of Argo was charged with battery after William Bruinius of Evergreen Park told police he was attending a birthday party at Chuck E. Cheese, 4031 W. 95th St., as was Baxter. The two were involved in a verbal altercation, then Bruinius left the building and was getting into his truck with his friend. Baxter followed him to the back lot and punched him in the left eye.

Joseph Farias, 21, and Joseph Felcmay, 21, both of Brookfield, were charged with criminal damage to property and assault, and Felcmay was also charged with reckless driving. Police had responded to a call about two vehicles involved in a traffic altercation and when they arrived on the scene, found two other police units had the vehicles stopped at 96th St. and Kenton Ave. Timothy Shaughnessy, 36, of Oak Forest told police that while he was pulling out from the Oak Lawn Restaurant at 95th St. and Menard Ave., he may have cut off a white Cadillac occupied by two white men, later identified as Felcmay and Farias. He said they exchanged words and the Cadillac began chasing his car and he tried to lose it but when he turned at 103rd & Cicero, Farias pulled out a BB gun and tried to strike his truck. He then went to the Sportmart lot, 9733 S. Cicero, trying to lose the Cadillac. He heard a sound like a gun shot and then noticed Farias had broken out the window of his truck cap and broke the driver's side mirror. Shaughnessy continued to drive through the parking lot and when he attempted to exit, the Cadillac had him boxed in, then the offender struck his truck and fled east on 95th St. where he was stopped by police at Kenton.

On the 23rd at 10:26 p.m., Charles Marchnic of Palos Heights reported his $15,000 Chevrolet conversion van was stolen from the parking lot at 5830 W. 95th St.

On the 25th, Thomas Keating of Oak Lawn reported someone had propelled a large rock through the driver's side door window of his Buick which was parked in front of his house. Estimated damage $100.

Frank Oslahovic of Oak Lawn reported the driver's side window of his car was broken and will cost $400 to replace.

Thomas Smith of Posen reported that the rear window of his Chevrolet pickup was shattered while he was driving southbound on Oak Park Ave. near 94th St. Police found a muffler-type U-bolt that had impacted the window. Estimated damage is $150.

Roman J. Plewa and Jane S. Plewa, both of Oak Lawn, reported an attempted burglary when they found their doors had been pried and molding was missing where they had been forced. Estimated damage $300.

On the 26th at 11:10 a.m., the Racquet Club, 10444 Central, reported the locker of Robert Rago of Chicago had been opened and the offender removed $65 and took his combination lock. Robert Dytch of Oak Lawn lost $100 and John Watte lost $40 and a gold Seiko watch from his locker. Both combination locks were stolen.

On the 27th, Kenneth Czadewski of Oak Lawn told police that while he was working at Sportmart, 9633 S. Cicero, he had parked his car in the lot and when he came out found that persons unknown had slashed the rear tires for an estimated loss of $100. He told police that he did not know who had done this, but this is the fourth incident of criminal damage to his vehicle in the last four weeks while the car was parked in the Sportmart lot and he only works there on Monday nights.

Elisa Romo of Oak Lawn reported someone removed the tattoo machine from her beauty shop. The burglar did not take the power supply cord or the disposable needles. The monetary loss is $800.

Oak Lawn police are searching for a man who held up a shoe store at 3:50 p.m. The clerk at the Foot Locker, 9521 S. Cicero Ave., told police a man had walked in and tried on a pair of gym shoes and said he would buy them. When he stepped up to the register, he put his hand in his pocket and announced "This is a stick-up," then took a brown paper bag and told the clerk to put all the money from the cash register into the bag.

New Sertoma Board

The Sertoma Center for Communicative Disorders, 10409 S. Roberts Rd., Palos Hills announces the new members of the Center Board for Fiscal 1993/1994. New members represent a diversity of interests and backgrounds and among the officers, President William Maloney of Hickory Hills is a teacher in the Chicago Public Schools, while President-elect Raymond Sullivan of Orland Park, is an independent CPA. Secretary Mike Colella of Palos Heights and Treasurer Gregory Pierce of Burr Ridge are also independent CPAs.

New board members include Tom Breier of Hickory Hills, owner of a seed company; Nancy Ciesiel of Chicago, a grant coordinator; retiree Sadie Dells of Orland Park; Ed Dlugopolski of Oak Lawn, owner of a Servicemaster franchise; and Dennis Halik of Chicago, an engineer for the ElectroMotive Company in McCook.

Board members are charged with helping the center carry out its mission of providing a full range of speech and hearing services to individuals of all ages in the community, regardless of the ability to pay.

CHILDREN OUT OF BALANCE

Whenever your child's body is thrown out of balance, his posture suffers and so does his back and other parts of his body.

The bad habit of slouching in a chair to read or watch television may cause this. So can carrying heavy loads of books to school. When this results in poor posture, back ache or other symptoms of physical distortion, treatment may be needed to set things right again.

Backpacks for books are recommended because they help distribute the weight evenly. So is good posture—standing erect, walking at a good pace, and keeping the stomach in.

If your child's body is out of balance, however, sooner or later you can expect him to complain of persistent aches in his back or other parts of his body. This may suggest a possible spinal or pelvic problem that needs correction. Pain-killing drugs can reduce this discomfort, but they won't cure the cause. What may be needed is treatment to properly align the spine and sacroiliac and instruction in how to maintain good posture and good health.

If you have any health questions please feel free to call our office.

LAKE MICHIGAN FISHERPERSONS LOSE OUT—AGAIN - While attending a recent meeting of the ADHOC COMMITTEE ON LAKE MICHIGAN COMMERCIAL FISHING it became obvious that commercial fishermen prevailed.

A "CANADIAN" COMMERCIAL FISHING INDUSTRY SPOKESMAN who admitted he knew nothing about LAKE MICHIGAN spoke on behalf of the four commercial fishermen. When it was all over, three of the five delegates and alternates voted to allow net night sets to the commercial gill netters and an increase to their 55,000 lb. allotment of perch.

Thousands of Chicago area people young and old enjoy perch fishing off our lakefront. This type of fishing is convenient, safe, relatively inexpensive and a boost for the economy. Commercial gill netting of perch should be curtailed or stopped completely; those gill nets also contribute to incidental catches of salmon and lake trout.

■NEW HOURS - Effective immediately the fishing closing hour at the COM ED PIER is changed from sunset to 8 p.m. The pier is managed by Illinois Beach State Park.

■Beginning Sept. 30, hunters may apply for a SECOND PERMIT TO HUNT PHEASANT on Illinois' controlled hunting areas. The second permit must be for a different day than the hunter's first permit, although it may be for the same hunting area if quotas for the area are unfilled. To apply for a permit, call 217/524-6514 weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

■COOLING LAKE CLOSINGS - The last day this season to fish at LaSALLE LAKE STATE FISH AND WILDLIFE AREA was Thursday, Sept. 30. The last day to fish at HEIDECHE LAKE STATE FISH AND WILDLIFE AREA will be Sunday, Oct. 10. The last day to fish at BRAIDWOOD/MAZONIA STATE FISH AND WILDLIFE AREA will be Friday, Oct. 15.

■SALMON SNAGGING SEASON on Lake Michigan began Oct. 1 and continues through Dec. 31. Snaggers must have both an Illinois fishing license and salmon stamp, may take no more than five fish (only three of any one species) per day, and may not snag within 200 feet of moored boats. Snagging is permitted in the north basin of Waukegan Harbor, at the Winnetka power plant discharge area, from the Fullerton Avenue bridge to the southern end of the Lincoln Park Lagoon, and in the inner and outer harbors at Jackson Park Harbor.

■GOVERNOR JIM EDGAR RECOGNIZES SPORTSMEN FOR THEIR CONTRIBUTION TO CONSERVATION - "Sportsmen have been in the forefront of the conservation movement for 100 years, willingly accepting responsibility and imposing necessary regulations on their sport," said Governor Edgar. "Not content with merely vocalizing their support, hunters and fishermen have requested special fees and taxes which help pay for wildlife management and other conservation programs."

■ACCORDING TO A RECENT SURVEY BY THE U.S. FISH & WILDLIFE SERVICE, Illinois sportsmen contributed nearly $1,438,219,000 to the state's economy in 1991, supporting more than 35,000 jobs.

In 1992, Illinois' $326,194 paid hunting license holders raised a total of $9,355,623 to fund wildlife conservation programs managed by the Illinois Department of Conservation (IDOC). This money came from the purchase of hunting licenses, tags, permits and stamps. These hunting license holders also entitled the state to receive an additional $2,400,603 in federal funds for wildlife restoration and $966,000 for hunter education.

In 1992, the state's 843,319 paid fishing license holders raised a total of $6,314,179 to fund fish conservation programs. They also entitled the state to $4,098,329 in federal funds for use in fish restoration programs.

Scholarship Program Announced

Oak Forest Bowl has instituted a Scholarship Program for its youth bowlers. The money will be funded through a 10 percent deduction from every bowler's contribution to the House Mystery Pot and the House Strike Pot.

Inasmuch as this is the first year of the program, it is difficult to estimate the amount that will be available for scholarships.

At the end of the Junior League bowling season, all graduating seniors will be eligible to bowl in a "King of the Hill" type of elimination tournament to determine the girl and boy who will receive the scholarship money for the school of their choice.

Everyone at Oak Forest Bowl, employees, staff and customers, is excited about the Scholarship Program.

Sportsman Harvest At Santa Fe

On Saturday night, Sept. 18th, Santa Fe Speedway hosted the Sportsman Harvest, the final points night of the 1993 racing season for the Sportsman, Lightning Rod, S.T.A.R. and Ladies divisions. The Late Model Championship was decided on Sept. 4th.

Dennis Erb, Sr. captured the Late Model title by just three points over defending champion Bensenville's Frank Reaber. Erb secured the title despite winning only one quarter-mile and one half-mile feature. The Carpentersville native combined one fast time, one heat win, three trophy dash wins and a season of consistent finishes to win his first championship.

Bill Knippenberg, Sr. of Minooka finished third, just 23 points out. Larry Stotts of Justice completed his best season ever, in fourth position. Paul Reaber, Jr. of Bensenville rounded out the top five finishers.

Individual recognition goes to Stotts (8 fast times), Frank Heckenast (5 trophy dashes), Frank Reaber (7 heat races) and Bob Pohlman (5 quarter-mile feature wins). Four different drivers captured the half-mile contests.

In the Sportsman division, Ted Loomis took home his first championship. The Genoa resident led the field in Trophy Dash wins (7) and quarter-mile features (6) in winning the title by 61 points over Bruce Schwartz, Jr. of Countryside. Jim Loomis, Jr. of Kirkland rallied to finish third, just two points ahead of Hinsdale's Dave Lilja. Mark Ervin of Lemont rounded out the top five finishers.

Individual Sportsman recognition goes to Schwartz (10 fast times) and Ervin (8 heat races). Four different drivers claimed half-mile features.

Elmer Fandrey won his second straight Lightning Rod title. The Lemont native dominated the division, winning by 100 points over George Hayes of Villa Park. Woodridge native Dan Curatolo, Jesse Gaylord of Chicago and Dwayne Schnabel of Aurora composed the top five.

Defending S.T.A.R. (Short Track American Racer) champion Don Darrow of Villa Park once again finished on top. Hinsdale's Ron Bliss finished a distant second, 146 points behind. Jeff Hamrick of Elmhurst, Plainfield's Ivan "The Terrible" Trent, Jr. and Greg Mesich of Brookfield battled for the next three spots.

Mean Green Machines defeated 1992 Tournament of Destruction champion Plow Boys to capture the 1993 title. Although both teams finished with 54 points, Mean Green Machines won the tie-breaker by virtue of more wins. The Locomotives, Wrecking Crew and Quick Silver Destruction rounded out the top five teams.

Liz York of Brookfield collared another Ladies Division championship to go along with the one she shared with Berwyn's Fran Mills in 1992, by defeating Donna Carvelli of Hometown by just two points. Janet Wolf of Villa Park finished in third, just ahead of Berwyn's Char Wells and Lombard native Denise Norris.

Brookfield's John Klimek finished 1993 with 144 points, the same total as the year before when he finished third in the Figure-Eight division. This year it was enough to win the Championship. Ivan "The Terrible" Trent, Jr. of Plainfield took the number two spot while Melrose Park's Bryon Johnson finished third.

In the always-exciting Car Train division, Derailed was the first to reach the championship station, just ahead of The James Gang and Orange Blossom Special.

Santa Fe Speedway is located on the corner of 91st and Wolf Road.

Consumers Beware Of Sox Souvenir Cons

With the Chicago White Sox now the American League West Division champs, the purchase of souvenirs and memorabilia is becoming popular. Fans anxious to buy a piece of sports history should be cautious and know the quality of an item before making a purchase.

The Department of Consumer Services urges fans to be particularly cautious of vendors and businesses that establish themselves overnight and may make false claims about the quality or origin of their merchandise.

Caroline Orzac Shoenberger, commissioner of the City of Chicago's Department of Consumer Services, stressed that fans must be particularly watchful for items that may be falsely advertised as "official" or "authentic" American League Baseball products.

"Whenever a sports team is as successful as the Chicago White Sox, you will find con artists ready to make a fast dollar at consumer expense," Shoenberger said.

"Consumers may think they are purchasing an official AL T-shirt, jacket or cap, when in fact it could have been made in the seller's garage."

Consumers are advised to shop only at reputable stores, check for proper labels on the item and make sure your purchase can be returned if not satisfied with the item.

Anyone with a complaint against a business falsely advertising the quality or origin of its merchandise should call the Department of Consumer Services at 744-9400, TDD 744-9385.

Nominations For "Dog Hero Of The Year"

Nominations are now being accepted for the Ken-L Ration Dog Hero of the Year Contest. Celebrating 40 years of extraordinary dog hero feats, the contest honors ordinary dogs for outstanding achievements in recognition of the bravery, intelligence and loyalty of 'man's best friend.'

"This contest celebrates the fact that every dog is a hero to its owner in one way or another," says Steve Willett, Quaker Pet Foods Division.

The first Dog Hero of the Year was chosen in 1954; Tang, a Collie who saved a two-year-old from falling off a milk truck by blocking the truck's path until the driver discovered the little girl.

Since then, valiant Dog Heroes have saved more than 50 lives. They have pushed people out of the way of oncoming vehicles; fought off attacks by wild animals, prevented drownings, and alerted owners to fires and burglaries.

Dog Heroes come in all shapes and sizes. Twelve mixed breeds and 29 purebreds have earned the 'top dog' honors, and winners now represent 22 states. The largest Dog Heroes were Saint Bernards Mijo (1967) and Grizzly Bear (1970), both weighing 180 pounds. The smallest Dog Hero was Mimi, a Miniature Poodle who stood only 12 inches high.

In honor of the contest's 40th anniversary, this year's winning dog will receive a special silver-plated, engraved dog bowl, a year's supply of Kibbles 'n Bits dog food and, of course, the distinguished 'Dog Hero' title. The four runners-up will each receive a six-month supply of Kibbles 'n Bits dog food and a certificate of merit.

To nominate a dog for the 1993 Dog Hero of the Year, send a detailed description of the heroic deed, along with your name, address and telephone number to: Ken-L Ration Dog Hero of the Year, P.O. Box 1370, Barrington, IL 60011. Heroic acts must have occurred after Oct. 1st, 1992. Entries must be postmarked by Dec. 31st. For complete contest guidelines, send a self-addressed, stamped business-size envelope to "Dog Hero Guidelines" at the above address.

The trees will be shipped postpaid at the right time for planting between Nov. 1st and Dec. 10th, with enclosed planting instructions. The six to 12-inch trees are guaranteed to grow or they will be replaced free of charge. Members also receive a subscription to the foundation's news magazine "Arbor Day" which includes regular features about tree planting and care.

St. Anthony's Is Celebrating 90th Anniversary

Nine decades of service to God, country and the community of Roseland will be celebrated on Saturday, Oct. 23rd when 500 parishioners, former parishioners and friends gather to celebrate the 90th anniversary of the St. Anthony of Padua Parish of Roseland. The gala dinner dance will take place at Villa de Bruno in Lynwood, beginning with a social hour at 6:30 p.m., followed by dinner at 7:30 p.m. The evening will end with dancing to the music of Cy-Race Orchestra. Tickets are $35 a person which includes an open bar all evening. Participants will be celebrating a rich history and many fond memories.

The story of the parish begins at the turn of the century when there were about 500 Italian families in the Roseland area. Several Catholic churches were available to serve their spiritual needs, but the newly arrived families felt something was missing. They wanted a church of their own, where they could worship according to their customs and in their language. St. Anthony of Padua Parish was founded on June 13th, 1903 when the first mass was celebrated in a store just a few yards away from the present church. A new church was built and dedicated in 1904. The first pastor was Rev. Horatio D'Andria, followed by Rev. Michael Favero, Rev. Ugo Caviocchi, Rev. Joseph Chiminello, Rev. Adolph Nalin, Rev. Emil Donazan, Rev. Florin Girometta, Rev. Dino Dai Zovi, Rev. Raniero Alessandrini and Rev. Peter Gandolfi, the present pastor.

During 90 years of service to the community, St. Anthony Church performed more than 18,000 baptisms, 9,000 first holy communions, 8,800 confirmations, 4,800 weddings, 5,700 funerals, and about 3,000 children graduated from St. Anthony Parish School. St. Anthony Parish School is still very active with more than 200 children enrolled.

The 90th anniversary staff at St. Anthony Church are Rev. Peter Gandolfi, CS, pastor, assisted by Rev. Italo Scola, CS; Rev. Peter Corbellini, CS; deacon Edward Ryan; Mrs. Carol Miceli, school principal; eight teachers, seven ministers of care; seven eucharistic ministers, and one lay minister.

Tickets must be purchased in advance from Armand DeQui at (708) 474-9791, Ray Rigoni (708) 895-2789, or from Louis Dalla Betta at the church rectory (312) 468-1200.

Joan Patricia Murphy (left) Worth Township Supervisor celebrating her 10th anniversary as a volunteer with The March of Dimes Gourmet Gala. Working on the gala with Joan are James Croli AT&T, and talk show host Aaron Freeman, one of the celebrity chefs who will cook favorite dishes at the benefit which will feature a celebrity cooking competition, gourmet dinner and gala ball. The benefit will be held Saturday, Oct. 30th, at Navy Pier, 600 E. Grand Ave., Chicago. Celebrity chefs will prepare recipes in cooking stations created by members of the American Society of Interior Designers (ASID).

1993 marks the 10th anniversary of the gala, whose theme this year is "A Chicago Pier-spective." Timed with the renovation of Navy Pier, the gala will reflect the lakefront landmark's importance to Chicago and the Great Lakes.

Samuel A. DiPiazza has been named chairman of the 1993 Gourmet Gala. As chairman, he will help cap off March of Dimes Campaign for Healthier Babies Month in October, a nationwide focus to prevent birth defects and infant mortality.

Reservations are $200 per person. For more information, call (312) 435-4007.

Museum Is Holding A Viking Celebration

Chicago's children can take a ride in a time machine and land on a Viking ship on Saturday, Oct. 9th at the Vikings 'R' Us celebration from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Swedish American Museum Center of Chicago, 5211 N. Clark St. in Andersonville. Kids will learn to write their names in Runic, the written language of the ancient Norse, and then try to decipher a Runestone. They'll also have a chance to dress up like Vikings for pictures in a Viking ship.

"Magnus Hroif," a Norse merchant from the era, will tell the children about his life, from the food he eats and the tools he uses and about his adventures sailing all over the world. The Norse were actually merchants and missionaries as well as sea pirates and Hroif wants to show the different aspects of life in the time of the Vikings, including their long presence in North America and in Russia. He wants people to know about the many good things the ancient Norse did, like trading and protecting other countries from invasion, as well as the minority that marauded and pillaged.

TRIVIA TIME.....Can anyone name the three college football teams that had the most former players on opening-day NFL rosters? Answer later in this column....The much talked about flick, "Rudy," the true story of a walk-on Notre Dame football player by the name of Rudy Ruettiger, is slated to open next Wednesday at movie theatres all over the area. The movie is the classic underdog story of how a small-town boy was told he could not succeed let alone ever play football for Notre Dame. However, "Rudy" displays enough grit and spirit to thrill a nation hungering for real-life heroes....Halle Berry and Omar Epps (inset) appear in the hit movie "The Program" which is currently playing at movie houses throughout the area. The movie is about a college football program where athletes are pushed to their max to perform, testing their commitment and character to win at all costs....The once fabled football programs of the Pac-10 may just be a footnote in the history books. Stanford, UCLA and USC have upped their academic entrance requirements for high school athletes and many players who were looking to play on Pac-10 teams are being turned away and are going to other schools.

NOTES TO YOU.....If Los Angeles Police officers Sgt. Stacey Koon and officer Laurence Powell, who are free while their Rodney King civil rights case is appealed to the Supreme Court, lose the appeal, they will be sent to a minimum-security prison in Dublin, California about 40 miles east of San Francisco. The prison is the same one where junk bond king Michael Milken served most of his term for securities fraud. The minimum-security prison is also where Patty Hearst did time....Gene Antry may be 85 years-old but his trademark hit "Back in the Saddle Again" has sold more than 2,000,000 copies since it was included on the soundtrack of the smash film "Sleepless in Seattle."....The Museum of Broadcast Communications will present television's favorite teens tonite during "Images of Teenagers," the second in a five-part series of educational seminars. Elinor Donahue, Melissa Joan Hart, Brenda Hampton, TV critic Ginny Holbert, author Carol Weston and moderator Dr. Mary Ann Watson will explore the growth of teenagers on television.

KIM BASINGER (inset) plays a beautiful ex-con, who is forced to mastermind a seemingly impossible bank robbery in order to start a new life with her son, in the Universal Pictures movie "The Real McCoy" which is playing at movie houses all around the Chicago area....The new Robert Altman film "Short Cuts" will open the Chicago Film Festival tonite and will open to the general public on Oct. 22. "Short Cuts" is a sprawling and unique film that explores the pathos of the everyday, examining the behavior of average, suburban folk and the random, unnerving, funny, poignant, and familiar events that define their lives...."Mr. Jones," a man who effortlessly draws people to him with his infectious charm and fascinating energy, will open on movie screens around the area tomorrow.

GABRIELLE ANWAR and MICHAEL J. FOX (inset) co-star in the Universal Pictures release "For Love or Money" which is currently raking in big bucks at movie box offices all around the Chicago area. Fox plays a hustler who is trying to raise money to build his own hotel when he runs headlong into a romance with an investor's daughter played by Anwar and he must decide between "Love and Money."....The Sarah Siddons Society has established a Mary Robinson-Goodman Theatre Fellowship in honor of Ms. Robinson who is President of Ireland....Although Sharon Stone has become a popular target of jealous Hollywood competitors, actor Brian Dennehy says Stone knows something about acting that Demi Moore has not yet learned: In the November issue of Playboy, Dennehy talks about the pluck of the Irish (he recently bought a home near Dublin) and Stone's sophisticated success. "She has figured out the process is a joke," says Dennehy. It's a gag you play with the audience." Demi Moore, according to Dennehy, wants the thing and you can see it....Stone, he says, has coolness and a great sense of humor....The answer to the trivia question presented at the beginning of this column is UCLA leads the nation with 37 former players on NFL teams at the start of this season followed by USC and the University of Miami who are tied for second with 36 players each on NFL teams.

"Phantom" Is At The Drake Hotel

It's Curtain Time at Chicago's Drake Hotel with an exciting new package featuring Cameron Mackintosh's Tony-Award winning musical "Phantom of the Opera." With the most beloved music of Andrew Lloyd Weber, Phantom has been dazzling audiences globally.

Back in Chicago for a limited engagement, The Drake has secured hard-to-get superb Saturday night tickets.

The "Curtain Time" package includes excellent Saturday night tickets, deluxe accommodations, one night for two persons, and a pre-theatre dinner for two in the Oak Terrace Restaurant overlooking the lake and the park.

Special amenities include fresh fruit on every floor, bathrobes for use during the visit, chocolates at turndown, and use of the exercise facility.

The Drake's "Curtain Time" package is $360 including tax, (gratuities not included), based on availability. Saturday night performances begin Dec. 12 and end March 26.

For reservations call The Drake 312/787-2200, call toll free 1-800-445-8667, or your travel planner.

St. Rita To Hold 'Sock Hop'

"St. Rita High School is holding a 'sock hop' for parents, alumni and friends of the school, featuring nationally renowned D.J. Dick Biondi, on Saturday, Oct. 16th," announced Tim Scanlon, president of the St. Rita Teachers Association. The sock hop features 50s and 60s style music provided by Oldies 104 D.J. Dick Biondi and the Shy Lads. It will be held in the school's gymnasium, 7740 S. Western Ave. This is the second year for the Biondi dance. Last year's was a huge success with over 700 friends, parents and alumni in attendance.

The cost of the evening is $15 and doors open at 7 p.m. Tables of 10 can be reserved and each table of 10 receives a complimentary pizza. Additional pizzas may be purchased. Everyone is encouraged to bring their own hors d'oeuvres. No beverages may be brought in. A cash bar is available serving beer, wine and soda and everyone must be 21 years of age or older. Drawings will be available throughout the night.

Besides Biondi, the dance will also highlight the musical talents of the "Shy Lads," a musical group made up of five Rita graduates from the 60s: Ken Januszyk, Wayne Jakulski, Lloyd Ott, John Simon and Bruce Quintos.

"We are looking forward to a night of fun for everyone," said Fr. Michael O'Connor, president of the school. "It is a time for Rita supporters, young and old, to get together and celebrate the St. Rita family."

For reservations or ticket information, call (312) 925-6600.

The administration and faculty at Marist High School, recently welcomed Eric Chester, from Colorado, to speak at an assembly of the entire student body. This high energy program is designed to motivate students and to teach them techniques for overcoming the challenges of the 90s. His presentation explained how to escape the peer pressure syndrome and become an individual and leader. Chester spoke to the young men about aspiring to achieve excellence in a new way; not by trying to be better than the other guys, but by trying to improve upon themselves.

His main theme centered on what he calls the "X" factor. He told the Marist students that in order to grow they must: eXtract the negative from their lives, eXcentuate the positive in their lives, eXpand their mental horizons, eXamine their priorities, eXecute and make their own choices and eXpress their appreciation of life.

Chester said, "America's teens are tired of being told what not to do. When they are shown how positive performance directly impacts personal growth and happiness, they will focus their attention on this."

Letter To The Editor

Editor,

South suburban communities will soon be asked to sign a 20-year contract with the proposed Robbins incinerator to handle waste. Residents in these communities should ask themselves and their elected officials if they are willing to sign a document that includes numerous uncontrolled costs that could cost millions of dollars. From likely required changes in pollution control equipment to the disposal of ash deemed hazardous, taxpayers in the south suburbs will be called upon to foot the bill. The ash debate alone, hazardous or not, currently in front of the Supreme Court, will add some $3 million per year in costs heaped on residents if ash is finally declared hazardous. According to the "Wall Street Journal," Westchester County, N.Y. is being hit with a $50 million bill to add pollution control equipment. "And north of Boston, 13 communities that send trash to a Saugus, Mass. incinerator are fighting terms of an air pollution control retrofit and other work that costs $145 million." (For a complete analysis of the contract, write us at SSCEAC, P.O. Box 428317, Evergreen Park, IL 60642.)

A better question residents ought to ask is why their communities are considering signing this contract at all. Last fall the South Suburban Mayors and Managers Association (SSMMA) (representing 38 south suburbs) sent out a request for proposal for long-term garbage disposal. They received nine such proposals not including the Robbins incinerator. Currently Galatin National operates a downstate landfill and will take south suburban waste, provide a less financially risky short-term or long-term contract (20 years) and do it for $10-15 less than the Robbins incinerator (Robbins, $48.50/ton; Galatin, $35-40/ton). And yes, their price includes transportation to the landfill. In fact, there is something of an irony here. Reading Energy is probably going to send their incinerator ash to either Galatin or another downstate landfill. Why should south suburban residents pay $10-15 more per ton to establish Reading Energy as a middleman? We do not support landfilling of garbage but these facts are too much to bear. Why is SSMMA pushing so hard to commit garbage to the Robbins incinerator? Why, if there are many and cheaper alternatives available, does SSMMA continue the rush to burn our waste, pollute our air, expose us to millions of dollars of uncontrolled costs? Why is SSMMA helping to build a 37-story smoke stack monument designating the south suburbs as a dumping ground?

Why indeed, don't we stop this madness now? Why don't we use the disappearance of the "garbage crisis" as an opportunity to solve the garbage problem permanently? The problem is how do we get materials from your house to a remanufacturer and back into your house. Yes, that's called recycling. It's being done at a 40 percent rate in many communities around the country. We can do that here, and in time, much better. Don't let your town commit to the Robbins incinerator.

Sincerely,
Martha Work

Cable Agreement

Two weeks after it had voted to regulate Cable TV, in effect taking over the job of the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), the Oak Lawn Village Board reversed itself. Trustees voted at Tuesday night's meeting to rescind their previous stand on regulation. The vote was 5-0 with Trustee Robert Streit abstaining.

When Multimedia Cable Inc., the franchise servicing Oak Lawn became aware of the decision to regulate basic rates by the village, a corporate executive from Wichita, Kansas, met with trustees. An agreement was reached whereby customer relations with Oak Lawn would be enhanced. Part of the agreement was a pledge to have representatives come to Oak Lawn up to four times a year, if necessary, to explain any changes to the village board, including rate hikes.

Oak Lawn, as is the case with any community serviced by Cable TV, would have been limited because the village could mandate only that Multimedia meet certain price ceilings established by the FCC.

Trustee Ron Stancik said that in his opinion, the agreement is a victory for the village. However, he added, if Multimedia should ignore objections to rate increases, the board could vote to regulate. Certification from the FCC to regulate cable rates is granted in about 30 days.

Multimedia agreed to two conditions as a part of the agreement; separate mailings are to be sent to customers concerning rate hikes, rather than the current method of enclosing this information with bills. The second condition is elimination of the $5 late charge made to customers who do not pay bills on time.

Auto Repair Fraud

With auto-related problems accounting for one in every five consumer complaints to the Illinois Attorney General's Office, Attorney General Roland W. Burris is launching a consumer education campaign aimed at preventing auto repair fraud. The project is a joint initiative of the Federal Trade Commission, the National Association of Attorneys General and the American Automobile Association.

The multi-faceted campaign offers a free brochure, "Taking the Scare Out of Auto Repair," with advice on how to recognize basic auto repair problems and avoid breakdowns before they happen. It also includes a three-part feature for television news and radio public service announcements.

"That unexpected, mysterious noise emanating from your car can be one of the most disconcerting sounds you'll ever hear," Burris said. "For many of us, an automobile engine is uncharted terrain and auto repair is an even more ominous unknown. The purchase of an automobile is one of the most important and expensive transactions the average consumer will make and auto repair fraud can have a devastating impact on a person's checkbook. I urge consumers to get referrals for a good, honest mechanic from trusted friends and family members and ask for a written estimate before giving the go-ahead on repair work."

"It is vitally important to know your rights when you take your car in for repairs," Minnesota Attorney General Hubert H. Humphrey III, president of NAAG, said.

"Protection is available at the state and local level, including mandatory estimates, warranties on repair and licensing or registration of service facilities."

The 14-page book provides tips on preventing car trouble before it happens and offers advice on how to find a qualified auto mechanic. It also details what steps consumers can take to protect themselves from dishonest mechanics and where to turn for help when problems occur. The booklet explains the importance of preventive maintenance, how repair charges are calculated and ways to self-diagnose common car problems. Also included is information on warranties and service contracts and tips on how to resolve disputes regarding billing, quality of repairs and warranties.

"Taking the Scare Out of Auto Repair" is available free by writing the Illinois Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, 500 S. Second St., Springfield, IL 62706, or by writing to "Auto Repair," FTC, Washington, D.C. 20580, or your local AAA automobile club.

The FTC is an independent federal regulatory agency that deals with a wide variety of consumer issues. NAAG is the membership organization of the attorneys general from all 50 states, as well as the chief legal officers from the District of Columbia and the commonwealth and territories of the United States. AAA is a not-for-profit federation of 138 motor clubs providing more than 34.5 million members in the U.S. and Canada with travel, insurance, financial and auto-related services.

POLICE CALLS

The following incidents were reported by the Oak Lawn Police Department. Readers are reminded that an arrest by police does not constitute a finding of guilt and only a court of law can make that determination.

On Sept. 29th, Angelina Galardi arrived at her business at 5821 W. 87th St. and discovered that the white parking lot lamp had been pushed off its base and damaged. Estimated cost to repair is $3,800.

On Oct. 1st, Nicholas Zeros of Oak Lawn reported he found his car windshield had been broken by a rock. Estimated cost to repair is $290.

Daniel Manchen, an employee at Sportmart, 9733 S. Cicero Ave., told police he had seen Maurice Smith of Chicago walking to the shoe department where he tried on a pair of black Adidas shoes valued at $107.71. He allegedly put the new shoes on his feet and his old shoes in the box and headed to the front door where he was stopped and apprehended in the parking lot.

John Cavallone of Alsip, president of The Tenth Planet on Cicero Ave., reported that between April 1992 and August 1993, his business lost 11,000 comic books valued at $20,000. He said about three weeks ago he was at the home of Joseph Soltas in Frankfort, a minority share-holder in the business and while he was in the garage he saw the comic books.

Patrick Murphy of Oak Lawn reported persons unknown removed the two front tires, 14-inch Goodrich radials, from his 1984 Buick leaving the car on milk crates. Approximate cost to replace is $180.

Robert E. Murphy of Oak Lawn reported someone broke the windshield of his car parked in the driveway. Estimated loss is $500.

Debbie Czajka of Chicago reported she had parked her car at 10812 S. LeClaire and someone scratched the doors, punched holes in the window on the passenger door, and punctured two wheels on the vehicle. Estimated loss is $500.

Roxanne Ruskak of Peotone reported she had checked her car in the lower level of the parking lot at 4700 W. 95th St. and someone removed a cellular bag phone, an Audio Vox Pro 85 phone, a headset phone box, 12 assorted cassette tapes, for an estimated loss of $236.

Arthur Dion of Oak Lawn told police he was informed by his credit card company there were a lot of charges against the car. Dion said he had not used the card at all. The credit company said the card was used at several stores and for three requests for cash money from Western Union, one for $200, a second time for $750, and a third for $2,000. They said the call-back phone numbers showed the card was used by Adam Alexander and A. Mohamed. Dion said Alexander is a 17 year old friend of his son, John Ausick, and he doesn't know who Mohamed is. Dion said the card was kept in the desk drawer in his bedroom. The credit company told him that approximately $5,000 was charged.

Frank Chor of Oak Lawn, an employee of S&L Construction of South Holland, reported a 36-foot aluminum ladder was taken from the top of the company truck parked in his driveway. Estimated loss is $200.

On Oct. 4th at 7:52 p.m., the security agent at K-Mart, 11000 S. Cicero, reported and the doorman saw two men approach the service desk with a TV set in a shopping cart from inside the store. Upon questioning the offenders, they said they were returning a defective set. They showed a receipt and the agent noticed that the box was sealed. He went to the appliance department to investigate and the offenders proceeded to push the cart to the door and then outside, and a man with red hair helped them load the TV into the trunk of their car and fled. The license number was not on file. Loss is $299.95.

Joseph Maynard of Oak Lawn reported two Hispanic men came to his door and said they were there to paint the apartment. He let them in and they left five minutes later and said they would return. He checked a short time later and found two gold rings, valued at $200, were missing.

On Oct. 6th, Yager Blake of Oak Forest was charged with criminal damage to property after an employee at Cagney's, 4642 W. 103rd St., heard a loud crash inside the men's washroom. When he entered the room, he saw the porcelain bathroom sink lying on the floor in many pieces. He also saw blood on the floor and blood on the offender's hand. Blake, who was transported to the station, told police he was standing in the bathroom washing his hands in another sink. The sink next to his was swaying and fell to the ground. He stated he had cut his finger approximately one hour before this incident. It will cost $250 to replace.

Jeffery Cocco of Worth was stopped for speeding at 10:45 p.m. at 96th & Southwest Highway. The officer wrote out a citation and when he handed it to the offender, Cocco said he was not going to court. The officer advised him to leave because he was going to give him another citation for littering. Cocco put his car in drive and started off. The officer followed and finally stopped him at 93rd and Central. He was also charged with fleeing a police officer.

Richard Mora of Oak Lawn reported he had parked his 1983 Chevrolet in his driveway, adjacent to the sidewalk facing west. At 4 a.m. he found the gas cap laying on the ground, gas tank door open and sugar around the tank opening and on the ground.

Anthony Bednarek of Crete told police he had parked his car at 9020 S. Cicero at the northwest corner of the Lincoln Technical School. He said his girlfriend had her lunch inside the vehicle at 11 a.m. and said she saw his "kicker-box" on the back seat. At 11:30 a.m. Bednarek came out and discovered the box was missing. His girlfriend said that while she was eating, another student, Myron Tate, 18, of Chicago was parked next to her in a green Escort next to his car. When police asked him why he was sitting in the lot, Tate said he was waiting for another student who didn't show up and he left. Estimated loss is $140.

The community of Mother McAuley Liberal Arts High School recently held Mercy Day celebrations at the school. Mercy Day commemorates the efforts of Catherine McAuley, a native of Dublin, Ireland, who established a community dedicated to the education and care of the poor, the sick and the uneducated. Her efforts resulted in the founding of the Sisters of Mercy. Traditionally, Mercy Day is a time for the community to reflect upon and honor the ideals and beliefs held by the school's foundress.

McAuley students celebrated Mercy Day with assemblies for each class level, during which they watched a short historical skit, prepared by students, detailing Catherine McAuley's accomplishments and also received a Mercy Day remembrance from the Sisters.

The National Honor Society (NHS) of Mother McAuley also made special preparations to celebrate Mercy Day. In order to show their appreciation for the time and effort donated to the school by the Sisters of Mercy, members of NHS used their creative talents to make beautifully decorated grapevine wreaths for all the Sisters.

Representing the National Honor Society and displaying their wreaths are seniors Kari Puhf (Oak Lawn), Erin Barton (Beverly), and Christy Gomorzak (Clearing). The moderator of McAuley's National Honor Society is Mrs. Susan Lang.

New Division Focuses On Child Abuse

Illinois Attorney General Roland W. Burris announced that his newly-established division of child advocacy will focus on child abuse prevention. Jo Anne Guillemette, an assistant attorney general with experience in child advocacy issues, was appointed to serve as acting chief of the new division.

Burris also announced the creation of a child abuse prosecutorial assistance team, the establishment of a child death and serious injury forensic advisory board and the appointment of a blue ribbon advisory panel.

Burris' prevention program is to be based on the successful Hawaii healthy families program. He said the office is establishing pilot programs which will target high-risk families by working with them before any child abuse occurs. He added, the program differs from the state department of children and family services (DCFS) programs that react only when abuse already has been detected.

"We all recognize that it would be far better to prevent abuse than to have to deal with it after it occurs," Burris said. "It would be better for the state, better for the child care providers and certainly better for the children."

In addition, such a program would be cost-effective. He said Illinois spends over $300 million annually to provide foster care and substitute care to 24,000 abused and neglected children. In Hawaii, it costs approximately $2,000 per child to prevent abuse and neglect.

Further, Burris said the Edgar Administration was not spending money earmarked and appropriated for child abuse prevention programs. Only five percent of the $500,000 appropriation from the child abuse prevention fund was spent in fiscal year '93, Burris said. In addition; not a single penny of the fund, earmarked by taxpayers on Illinois income tax returns specifically for child abuse prevention programs, has been spent this year. Nearly $1,000,000 was appropriated from the fund by the Illinois General Assembly for spending this fiscal year.

"Unfortunately, this legislative mandate has, like many of our children, been abused and neglected," Burris charged.

The minuscule dollars spent, $27,000, was not even targeted for intensive home visitation and case management, two critical elements of the Hawaii program. According to records on file in the comptroller's office, the money was spent on parental training in Jacksonville. One program was specifically designed to raise the self-esteem of prison inmates who are parents, or will be parents in the near future.

Burris appointed Assistant Attorney General Joseph Ponsetto to head the child abuse prosecutorial assistance team. Ponsetto, deputy director of the enforcement division, will oversee assistant attorneys general who assist state's attorneys in prosecuting child abuse cases. Training for this specialized area will be provided by the American Prosecutors Research Institute of Alexandria, Va.

The child death and serious injury forensic advisory board will be coordinated by Dr. Robert Kirschner, deputy chief medical examiner for Cook County; Dr. Demetra Soter, coordinator of the pediatric trauma center at Cook County Children's Hospital; and Assistant Attorney General Frank Nowicki, director of enforcement. The board, upon the request of local law enforcement officials, will investigate suspicious causes of death and serious injury to children aged 14 and under.

The blue ribbon advisory panel consists of 55 prominent professionals in fields related to child development. The panel will help the new child division establish priorities, assist in the creation of office programs and serve as a liaison to legislators and others involved in child advocacy.

The creation of the division of child advocacy reflects the attorney general's longstanding commitment to children and child advocacy. It is the third such division created by Burris in the department of citizen advocacy. Both the women's division and the civil rights division were created earlier this year. Other divisions in the department include senior citizens, disability rights, and veterans advocacy.

O.L. Teachers Attend In-Service Program

On Aug. 25th, four members of the Oak Lawn Community High School English Department presented an in-service program to the staff of the Lemont-Bromberek combined School District 113 in Lemont. The teachers were Mrs. Barbara Whiteaker, assistant English chair; Mrs. Pam Bibeau, reading specialist; Vern Scarpelli, English I writing specialist; and Jerry Astrauskas, English department chair. The presentation was a hands-on activity filled program that explained innovative ways to develop a system of teaching and evaluating student writing that insures that all teachers are using the same standards and evaluative system for all students. Students are also made very aware of these standards and are given feedback on their writing that is specific and easier to understand because they know how they are being evaluated.

The standards and evaluation for student writing are keyed to three specific types of writing. One type is expository writing used to inform to explain. Another type is persuasive writing which is used to argue or sway the reader's opinion. The third type is narrative writing, used to tell a story. These three types of writing are also tested each year by the State of Illinois I.G.A.P. writing test. Teachers work to develop a set of guidelines for each of these types of writing. These guidelines are called rubrics and are used to help teachers evaluate student success with each of these types of writing. In order to develop uniform standards, teachers employ a practice of evaluating papers that is called holistic grading.

In this process, teams of teachers look at sample papers, apply rubrics for the type of paper and discuss and compare the grades that each teacher has given for the specific paper. Teachers must defend their grades using the guidelines in the rubrics.

Discussion can often become quite lively and animated in an atmosphere of professional give and take.

LCM Offers Reduced Price Mammograms

The Burbank Care Station, a facility of Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers, is offering mammograms at the discounted price of $75 throughout the month of October, 'Breast Cancer Awareness Month.' The price of $75 includes both the mammogram and the radiologist reading. The regular price for this service is $110. The Burbank Care Station is accredited by the American College of Radiologists.

"We feel that breast cancer awareness is extremely important and we're pleased to offer this special discounted mammography price to help encourage women to take advantage of this important preventative measure," said Joan Garrity, director of the care station.

The American Cancer Society recommends women have one baseline mammogram between the ages of 35 and 40; a mammogram every one or two years is recommended between the ages of 40 and 50, and annually after age 50.

Mammogram appointments can be made by calling (708) 424-2273.

The Posen Post Office, 2716 W. 147th St., was held up and robbed on Friday, Oct. 8th, at about 4 p.m., by four black males in their late teens or early 20s. Two of the individuals entered the postal facility displaying a semi-automatic pistol and left with an undisclosed amount of money.

Mike Sziuka, public information officer for the Chicago Postal Inspection Service stated that it is believed that the robbery was "a spur of the moment thing."

Investigators said that the four suspects were first at Newsome Auto Sales, 2705 W. 147th St., where employees "felt uneasy" as the four inquired about cars on the lot. It was stated that they thought the suspects might rob them. However, the suspects left the dealership and employees lost track of them.

The four apparently crossed the street to the post office, where two remained outside the facility and acted as lookouts as the other two entered the building.

The first suspect, described as being 5' 10" to 6' tall, with his face swollen on the right side and wearing a multicolored waist-length jacket, hopped the counter and displayed what was believed to be a 9 m.m. silver-plated pistol. The second suspect inside the facility was described as being approximately 5' 10" tall, 170 lbs., dark complexioned with a flattop haircut. He was wearing a bright-blue waist-length windbreaker. Composites of the two are shown. It was reported that after the robbery, the suspects were seen running westbound on 147th St.

It was said that there were no injuries.

The United States Postal Service will pay a reward of up to $10,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons responsible for the armed robbery.

If you have any information relative to this robbery, contact U.S. Postal Inspectors R. D. Brown or T. E. Cudahy at (708) 260-5677 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. or (312) 765-3187 (24 hours). Your information will be kept strictly confidential.

School Bus Accident

A collision on Thursday afternoon at 127th St. and Cicero Ave., considered the most dangerous intersection in the state, resulted in the hospitalization of two persons. A school bus ran into a van driven by James McMillan, 50, of Orland Park. McMillan's wife Sandra, 48, had to be removed from the van and both were taken to Christ Hospital in serious condition.

The 65-year-old school bus driver reportedly told police that the accelerator stuck as he approached Cicero Ave., westbound on 127th St. According to the report, he chose to swerve into the eastbound lane, rather than rear-end traffic stopped for the light. McMillan's van, which was turning north on Cicero, was hit. The driver of the bus was taken to Palos Community Hospital, where he was treated and released.

Lieutenant David Snooks of the Alsip Police Department said that 13 Marist High School students in the bus were apparently not injured.

Superconductor Research Bearing

The world's most efficient bearing, a superconducting magnetic bearing developed by the research arm of Commonwealth Edison and the U.S. Department of Energy's Argonne National Laboratory, could revolutionize the way electricity is generated and supplied to consumers. This 'super bearing' could help Edison and other utilities cut costs, save energy, reduce pollution, minimize the need to build new power plants and provide emergency electricity during outages.

"The bearing is virtually frictionless," said Commonwealth research engineer Robert Abboud. "Its coefficient of friction is 0.0000009."

"That's three times lower than that of any other bearing we know of," said Argonne engineer John Hull. "It's several thousand times lower than that of the best roller bearings."

The 'super bearing' was the subject of Commonwealth Edison testimony on June 10th before a subcommittee of the U.S. House Committee on Science, Space and Technology in Washington. The subcommittee was informed that Edison and Argonne already have established a world record for low friction in a bearing.

The 'super bearing' could help solve a puzzle that has intrigued scientists for more than a century: how to store and regenerate electrical energy efficiently on a large scale. Because the efficiency of storage devices like batteries is so low, Abboud said, an axiom in the power generation industry is that an electrical power plant must be available to generate electricity as it is needed. But scientists and engineers using a system of 'super bearings' and flywheels could re-write that rule. The bearing uses a permanent magnet trapped and suspended in a magnetic field above a proprietary array of high-temperature superconductors, materials that lose all electrical resistance when cooled by liquid nitrogen.

The permanent magnet was made of a special neodymium-iron-boron alloy by Ugimag, Inc., Valparaiso, Indiana.

When the permanent magnet is placed above the superconductor, it generates an opposing magnetic field that repels the magnet. The magnet and superconductor never touch.

By attaching a system of flywheels to a bearing's permanent magnet, engineers could create a repository for electric power. The Edison-Argonne team already has small-scale flywheels up and running.

Edison's 12 nuclear generating units produce power for only about two cents a kilowatt-hour. By operating these plants at night, when customer demand is lowest, power could be transferred to the flywheels instead of requiring the units to reduce load. The next day, the still-rotating flywheels could provide electricity to customers without the use of additional power plant capacity.

This process would reduce the need for fossil fueled generating stations, with three times the fuel costs, now used during the day to meet higher demands. The system also could hold down costs to Edison and its customers by reducing the need to build new generating stations.

Flywheel systems mounted on trucks could provide emergency electricity during service outages.

introducing the Evergreen HOME Savings Account

A new way to save for a home.

What is the Evergreen HOME Savings Account?
Evergreen Bank is a participant in the Home Ownership Made Easy (HOME) savings program, sponsored by the State of Illinois. If you are a potential home buyer saving for your downpayment, the HOME Savings Account is for you.

How does the program work?

Any prospective home buyer who does not currently own real estate can join the program by depositing $100 in this special Evergreen Bank savings account. The Evergreen HOME Savings Account earns the same interest rate as a regular savings account. After two years, the HOME participant becomes certified and is eligible for a range of benefits.

What are the benefits of the Evergreen HOME Savings Account?

In addition to accruing interest, HOME participants receive exemption from the State Real Estate Transfer Tax, waiver of municipal transfer tax (in those communities which have approved this waiver) and exemption from paying State income tax on the interest earned when all the Evergreen HOME funds are used to make the downpayment on a home. By opening and maintaining your HOME account at Evergreen Bank, you receive even more benefits; the application fee on your Evergreen Bank mortgage will be refunded to you if you keep at least $5,000 in your HOME Account during the last six months that it is open. You will also receive a complimentary Evergreen Mortgage Simply Checking account, with all its benefits, provided you arrange for monthly automatic transfers from your Evergreen checking account to your HOME Savings Account.

For complete information on the Evergreen HOME Savings Account concerning fees and terms applicable, stop in or call your Evergreen Banker at (708) 422-6700.

Center Grand Opening Set

The Chicago Department of Human Services has set 11 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 21, for the grand opening of its Mid-South Family and Community Service Center, 829 W. 119th St. Several political, civic, educational and business leaders are expected to attend the ribbon-cutting ceremonies.

DHS Commissioner Daniel Alvarez, Sr., noting that the Mid-South center is moving from 10833 S. Halsted, said, "This new location is more centralized and offers a better environment for our clients."

Letter To The Editor

Dear Mr. Gibbons:

Once again, thank you for the newspaper article that you wrote on June 10th, concerning the retirement of Jule Conroy, a librarian with the Chicago Public Library for a full 49 years, almost a half-century. We are in agreement that the Irish Collection at the Beverly Branch should be named after Jule Rose Conroy. By designating the Irish collection the "Jule Rose Conroy Irish Collection," we will be recognizing her dedication to the Beverly community.

As you may know, in addition to the American publications of Irish books, the Beverly Library has been receiving works published in Ireland. Our latest emphasis will be on publications highlighting genealogy. United States census information indicates that the Beverly-Mt. Greenwood-Morgan Park area and the surrounding suburbs have the highest concentration of Irish-Americans. Many of these patrons have indicated an interest in seeking their 'roots.' (At the Irish Fest in Milwaukee the most popular exhibit was the one dedicated to genealogy.)

The high concentration of Americans of Irish descent indicates a need for a strong Irish collection on the south side of Chicago. Otherwise, community residents do not have accessibility to the necessary information. Likewise, by naming this collection after Jule Rose Conroy, we will be acknowledging both her dedication and hard work and the commitment and dedication of the other women of the Beverly community.

Again, to further your recommendation that this should be accomplished, you and members of the community would need to write letters to: Ms. Karen Danczak Lyons, Acting Commissioner, Harold Washington Library Center, 400 S. State St., Chicago, IL 60605.

Cordially yours,
Peg Loe Reid, Chief

End Gun Violence

The Cook County Women Elected Officials Against Gun Violence held a recent conference at the Oak Park Village Hall.

Participating in the event was Cook County Sheriff Michael Sheahan who became the first male elected official to sign on to the group's recently authored resolution.

The resolution calls for a ban on the manufacture, sale, and possession of assault weapons; a raise in taxes on firearms sales; and imposition of liability on gun manufacturers.

As co-chairperson for the Caucus, Circuit Court Clerk Aurelia Pucinski commented that, "we must identify men in leadership positions who share our concerns and will join in our efforts."

The list of co-convenors included co-chairperson Palatine Mayor Rita Mullins as well as top female pols from the Legislature, City Council, and local municipalities. The conference discussed specific actions on how to take the resolution from the paper stage to reality in our communities.

"We're trying to expand our group to form a grass-roots effort of people in business, health care, education, legal, religious, labor and community organizations," Pucinski added.

Volunteer Donors Needed

Chicagoland's two largest blood centers are today issuing a joint plea for volunteer blood donations. The chief executives from LifeSource Blood Services of Glenview and United Blood Services (UBS) of Chicago have announced that blood supply levels across the six-county area surrounding Chicago have reached dangerously low levels. Donations are far below anticipated need and are not expected to return to normal levels until late October. Supplies of all blood types are low, but types O and B blood are at critical levels. To alleviate the depleted blood supply, both blood centers urge all eligible donors to donate today.

"We're making an urgent appeal to all blood donors to roll up their sleeves to donate blood today. The donors of our area have always been generous when a crisis occurs. We know that the patients in Chicago-area hospitals can depend on them now to donate again," said Patrick G. Morand, president of LifeSource Blood Services.

There appears to be no single factor affecting blood supply levels. Low quantities are being attributed to a number of elements including donations have not recovered as quickly as usual from traditional summer lows when schools are not in session and people vacation; holidays of any nature negatively impact donations as people 'take a holiday from donating' as well; allergies and seasonal colds have kept hundreds of regular donors away.

In fact, blood centers around the nation have been plagued with lower-than-normal donations since June. Shortages are now reaching critically low levels in many cities.

"The only remedy for this current shortfall in blood supplies is donors. Volunteer blood donors are needed, not only today, but for the next several weeks," said Howie Walz, executive director, United Blood Services. More than 1,200 donors a day must give in order to meet the blood needs of the hospitals served by Lifesource and United Blood Services.

Once blood is donated and tested, it can only be stored for a limited time. Because blood is used by thousands of patients every day, the supply must be continually replenished.

Volunteers interested in donating are urged to call their local donor center for the most convenient donation location; LifeSource Blood Services, (708) 298-9660, or United Blood Services, (312) 751-1701.

Realities Of Health Care Reform

By David D. Haddock and Daniel D. Polsby

Dr. Philip Lee, the Clinton administration's assistant secretary for health at the Department of Health and Human Services, told reporters recently that he is convinced that the United States has too many doctors. Dr. Lee said the administration will propose three-year transitional funding to help hospitals hire more doctors to do work that is presently being done by residents. In return, the hospitals would scale back their residency programs, eventually reducing the supply of doctors. This is a terrible idea.

Consider Mr. Clinton's own longstanding critique of the American health care system. According to the President, the system's two main problems are lack of access for the poor and unemployed, and out-of-control escalation in the price of services. Solving these two problems simultaneously is potentially tricky. Most of the solutions to the access problem - at least those that look interesting to the current administration - will make the cost problem worse. And most solutions that have been proposed for the cost control problem will make the access problem worse.

If you subsidize new demand for health care - in other words, increase access - without also increasing the supply, then the price of health care will rise. And if you legislate against higher prices - cost controls or global budgets - you will make consumers wait in line (which reduces access) and depress innovation in the price-controlled industry. Nobody, rich or poor, gets "access" to medicines, techniques and devices that weren't invented because it wasn't profitable to invent them.

Dr. Lee, however, has found a solution to this apparent paradox. Although it may be difficult to improve access and reduce costs at the same time, it is quite possible to make both problems worse at the same time. Dr. Lee has shown how.

Consider the access problem. What does it mean to say that the poor and the middle class "cannot afford treatment" for a condition? It means that, if the price of health care were lower, the poor and middle class would seek treatment for problems that presently go untreated. Treating more ailments, however, requires more hours of service from medical personnel. Where are those hours to come from?

Will the existing population of doctors work more hours per week? That is unlikely. Many doctors already work extraordinarily long hours. Would we want them to work even harder? Even if we ignore the doctors' own welfare, fatigued doctors make more mistakes than rested ones.

Worse still, if Dr. Lee succeeds in reducing the number of physicians in practice, doctor time will get scarcer and more expensive and its cost will go up even faster than before. If you try to cure that problem by price controlling the incomes of doctors, you are certain to get less output and productivity per doctor than you would otherwise get and - if Dr. Lee gets what he wants - you will be getting it from fewer doctors.

No one doubts that the American health care system sorely needs reform. And it will probably be impossible to address some of the perceived problems in the system without aggravating other problems at the same time. But "fewer doctors" is the answer to a question nobody asked. Neither cost containment nor greater access to the health care system follows from reducing the number of doctors.

(David D. Haddock is a professor at Northwestern University School of Law. Daniel D. Polsby is Kirkland & Ellis Professor of Law at Northwestern and a policy advisor to The Heartland Institute.)

Bids On Highway Projects

Low bids totaling over $32.9 million on highway and bridge improvement projects throughout the state were received by the Illinois Department of Transportation on the Oct. 1st bid letting. Also included are one abandoned mine-lands reclamation project and two airport projects.

Projects in our area include highway lighting on FAU Route 3577 (State Road) from 79th St. to Cicero Ave. The contract was awarded to Harlan Electric Company of Gilberts in the amount of $208,496. Improvement consisting of bituminous concrete surface, widening with bituminous concrete binder, traffic signal modernization, watermain relocation and channelization, all located at the intersection of Ashland Ave. and Vermont St. in the Villages of Blue Island and Calumet Park is scheduled. The contract was awarded to Callaghan Paving, Inc. and All Concrete Construction, Inc. of Hinsdale in the amount of $932,952.

Another project is removal of existing structure and replacement with a structure which carries 86th Ave. over Illinois Route 7 in the Village of Palos Park. Herlihy Mid-Continent Company of Romeoville was awarded the contract in the amount of $949,260.

Info On Cancer

In observance of National Breast Cancer Awareness Month, the American Cancer Society is offering women in the south suburbs a free kit with information about breast cancer and mammography. The kit includes a roster of mammography facilities in the community that are accredited by the American College of Radiology; information about ACS guidelines for mammography and the early detection of breast cancer; and an update on insurance coverage of screening mammography in Illinois.

To receive a kit, call the ACS at 1(800)ACS-2345.

Closing The Gap In '93-'94 School Budget

The President of Illinois' largest taxpayer organization recently demanded that the Chicago school board help close the remaining school budget gap by using $7 million of discretionary funds buried in the 1993-94 school budget, set aside for upgrading its technologically obsolete mainframe computer system.

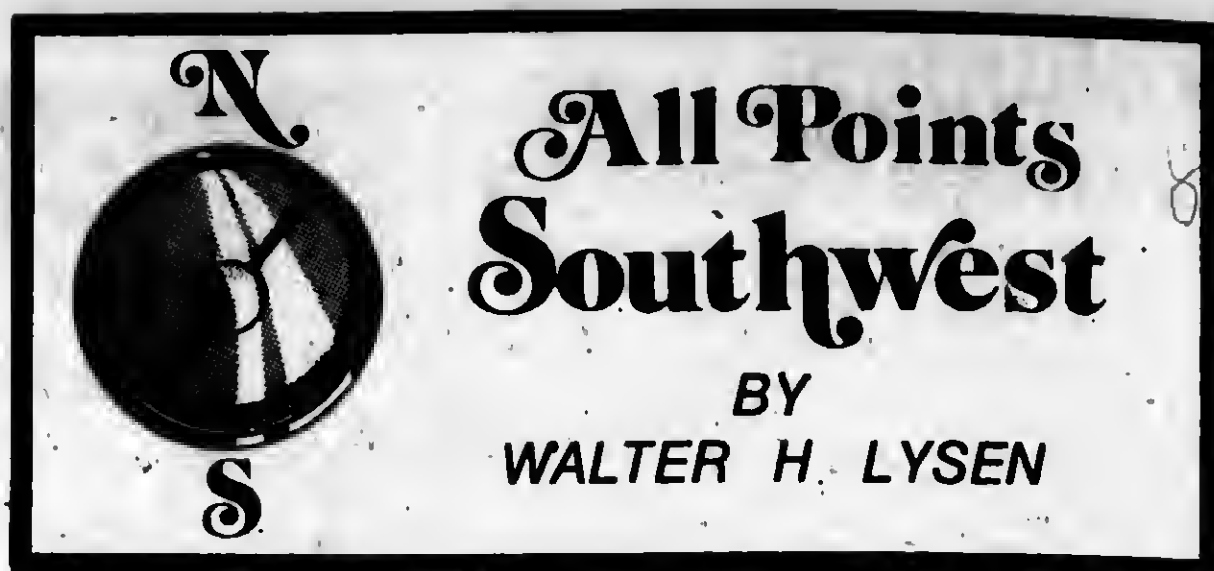

"It took IBM a long time to get the message that those mainframe monsters are obsolete," said Jim Tobin, President of National Taxpayers United of Illinois (NTU), "but IBM finally caught on. Unfortunately, the scandal-prone Department of Management Information Services (MIS) of the Chicago public school system still hasn't gotten the word. While the school system goes down the drain during the haggling over who will concede next, and in what amount, page 48 of the 1993-94 budget shows $6,700,000 set aside for MIS 'Critical Needs,' $1,455,780 set aside for 'Equipment Rental,' $515,000 set aside for 'Equipment

Asks Funding For Set Offense Program

Gov. Jim Edgar said recently he will ask the General Assembly to approve funding for a mandate on court officials to notify school districts and others when their employees are convicted of sex offenses.

"The General Assembly approved worthwhile legislation imposing this requirement, but it did not provide the state dollars to fund its implementation. As a matter of principle, I vetoed the legislation, just as I have consistently vetoed other unfunded mandates that have reached my desk," the governor said.

"However, I am proposing that the legislature approve a $10,000 appropriation during the fall session to enact this notification program. With such an appropriation, an Aurie joins present commissioner John Stroger and Maria Pappas in a bid for the number one county slot in the 1994 Democratic primary race.

Pucinski, who captured 68% of the vote in her second term re-election to Clerk of the Cook County Circuit Court in 1992, enters the race as one of the most successful vote getters in county history. Not only because of her Polish name (38% of Cook County is of Polish ancestry) but because of her long list of achievements in her 13 year political career.

Aloysius Wozniak, the only native Posenite to become a priest, will concelebrate with the Cardinal and Rev. David Krolczyk, pastor.

According to the history written for the Centennial, research shows that in the 1880s the American shores were teeming with Polish immigrants seeking religious and political asylum. There were two most sacred treasures the immigrants refused to relinquish, their pride and their faith. In some ways, St. Stanislaus, 100 years strong in its Catholic tradition, is a living testament to the zeal with which the founders guarded their beliefs.

"Debt Free in 1993" was the motto set down by the committee and true to their word had a mortgage burning ceremony at the Centennial picnic in August.

With environmental and health conscious nations like Sweden, Japan, Denmark and Switzerland having trash incinerators along with cities including Oahu, Minneapolis, West Palm Beach, and Indianapolis, most local communities will fall in line to do business with Robbins.

Political leaders in the Southwest area were present Oct. 1st when Congressman Bill Lipinski (D-3rd) hosted the monthly meeting of the Midway Airport Task Force. The Task Force was designed to inform and listen to leaders from the area regarding the re-development of the Midway Airport area which includes Evergreen Park, Crestwood, Oak Lawn, Chicago Ridge and Burbank.

Mayor Ernie Kolb of Oak Lawn commented that his village... particularly the two largest hotels...the Hilton and Holiday Inn have enjoyed a resurgence of business since the Task Force was successful in keeping Midway open. This also caused a ripple effect to improve restaurant, taxi and shopping in the area, he added.

Mayor Chester Stranczek of Crestwood commented that it was necessary to keep Midway open to aid the expanding South suburban area. He however, advocated a third airport to handle the projected growth of the area.

"The Chicago school board simply can't be believed anymore when its members say there is no more money available. They want to borrow $300 million to be repaid as $600 million in principal and interest with a huge state income tax increase after the next elections. But we found almost nine million dollars of taxpayers' money slated to be thrown down the rat hole on just one page of the 605-page document. It's time for the Chicago school board to take a critical look at its budget instead of believing its own press releases."

override of my veto would be totally appropriate," Edgar said.

"I realize in this case the fiscal imposition on local court officials would have been relatively slight, but the principle is anything but trivial. If the state is going to impose mandates on local governments, we should provide the funds."

If enacted by the legislature this fall, the program would require court officials to determine whether a sex offender is employed by a public or private elementary or secondary school, child care facility or any other entity where he or she works with children under 18 years of age on a daily basis. In cases of such employment, the clerk of the court is then required to send a copy of the conviction.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

A recent article in the Southwest Messenger Press quoted Mayor Vacco of Evergreen Park relative to mandates imposed upon local governments by "Federal, State and County government, and such agencies as the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District (MWRD) and others."

Mayor Vacco is quoted, "These agencies do not have any idea of how to balance a budget."

Mayor Vacco should be made aware of the following: MWRD by state statute is required to present a balanced budget; the district in 1989 self-imposed an annual 5 percent tax levy cap limit on increases; over the last 10 years the district's annual levy has increased an average of only 2.5 percent. Adjusted for inflation, the district levy has actually decreased by an average of over 1 percent annually over the same period. The National Association of Metropolitan Sewerage Agencies (AMSA), which represents all large municipal wastewater agencies in the U.S., cites in their 1990 financial survey that the MWRDGC treats wastewater at a cost lower than any other such agency in the nation; the district has legal authority to levy a corporate fund tax rate for its day-to-day operations up to 46 cents per $1,000 of equalized assessed valuation. The district's 1992 corporate fund tax rate was only 21.6 cents; the Government Finance Officers Association (GFOA) has awarded the district its "Certificate of Achievement for Excellence in Financial Reporting" for the district's comprehensive annual financial report for 17 consecutive years. The GFOA has recently presented an award for Distinguished Budget Presentation for the district's 1993 annual budget. In addition, the district's 1993 budget was recognized as "An Especially Notable Policy Document, Operations Guide and Communications Device." This is the eighth consecutive year that the district's budget presentation has been considered "Especially Notable" and the second year the budget has been recognized for excellence in three of the four GFOA's "Especially Notable" criteria. The district is the only agency nationwide of nearly 500 agencies participating in the program to have received the "Especially Notable" recognition for six consecutive years.

I believe the district's record of fiscal responsibility is clearly evident and speaks for itself.

In addition to the above, I, as a State Representative, wrote the Illinois State Mandates Act which provides that any new program or the extension of an existing program must contain in the legislation the cost of the mandate to units of local governments and school districts; this legislation was passed and enacted into law with the support of the Illinois Municipal League.

Very truly yours,
Harry "Bus" Yourell
Commissioner

Attorney General Roland W. Burris recently announced the creation of his newly-established division of child advocacy, which is focusing on child abuse prevention. Jo Anne Guillemette, an assistant attorney general with experience in child advocacy issues, has been appointed to serve as the acting chief of the new division. Burris also announced the formation of a child death and serious injury forensic advisory board which, at the request of local law enforcement officials, will investigate suspicious causes of death and serious injury to children aged 14 and under and the appointment of a blue ribbon advisory panel consisting of 55 prominent professionals in fields related to child development.

The creation of the division of child advocacy reflects Burris' long-standing commitment to children and child advocacy. Child advocacy is the third new division created by Burris within the department of citizens advocacy, joining the women's division and the civil rights division, formed earlier this year.

Board President Is Pucinski's Goal

Clerk of the Circuit Court Aurelia Pucinski recently announced her bid for Cook County Board President, declaring "...we must pump more trust than money into government."

Pledging to issue a quarterly performance report on the status of her campaign promises to voters, Pucinski said, "What goes in as campaign promises must go out as government action."

Pucinski, in her second term as clerk, announced her candidacy for Board President at a breakfast with neighborhood and local community leaders.

As part of her exploratory effort for Board President, Pucinski reached out, through a series of county-wide meetings, to various neighborhood and community leaders to seek input in the drafting of her campaign pledges and reassembled the leaders, as a group, to unveil her promises.

"To continue the process of citizen outreach, as President of the County Board, I will establish a 'citizens' cabinet' to build trust with neighborhoods and communities," Pucinski said.

Pucinski also unveiled a manifesto, entitled 'A Few Promises,' detailing 50 promises covering the map of county government.

"Some of my promises are modest, some are sweeping in nature. But all are designed to improve the quality of life for county residents and to build trust between the people and their county government," Pucinski stated.

Pucinski cites her record as clerk and an overwhelming re-election margin as measures of confidence in her leadership abilities for the Board Presidency.

"I offered a 40-point plan of promises to reform a scandal-ridden office. I kept all 40 promises, which saved or earned taxpayers more than $34 million, and was re-elected in 1992 by the largest margin, 68 percent, that year," Pucinski said. "I am prepared to be President of Cook County Government."

Pilot Program For Vouchers In Chicago Schools

The director of the state's largest business advocacy group praised an agreement whereby the Illinois House will conduct floor debate and vote on a pilot program to test school vouchers within Chicago's public schools. "The focus of the current special session has been on resolving the ongoing school funding crisis, but legislators also need to be thinking of long-term solutions to remedy many of the defects in our present educational system," said John R. Davis, state director of the 21,000-member National Federation of Independent Business/Illinois.

Davis applauded House Speaker Michael Madigan's agreement with Senate President James "Pate" Philip to bring S.B. 592 out of the House Rules Committee for a floor vote. The bill was passed by the Senate during the spring session. A significant majority of NFIB/Illinois members surveyed about state issues have endorsed the concept of school choice, which would provide tuition vouchers so that students could attend schools that best meet their educational needs.

The four-year, pilot program is limited to 2,000 students per year and is targeted toward providing better education opportunities for lower-income families. The pilot program is to be limited to one elementary subdistrict within a densely populated Chicago school district. Vouchers up to $2,500 each would be issued to parents for tuition costs at private schools that apply and qualify for designation as scholarship schools. As currently amended, the program would be state-funded without reducing funds paid by the state to the Chicago school system.

"The opponents of this bill must come out of their state of denial and unreasoning fear. After all, a pilot program is only a test!" Davis pointed out. "We urgently need to replace knee-jerk emotionalism with a frank and factual discussion about positive ways to stimulate better student achievement and school performance."

"Opinion polls show that nearly three-quarters of Chicago school parents support educational choice that includes the choice of private and parochial schools," Davis continued.

"This is an option now available only to those wealthy enough to pay education taxes and also pay for private school tuition."

Volunteer Effort Recognition

The Illinois State Chamber of Commerce and local chambers of commerce statewide, in partnership with Illinois First Lady Brenda Edgar, will recognize Illinois citizens for their outstanding volunteer efforts in a new "Illinois Reaches Out" volunteer recognition program. The program was officially announced by Mrs. Edgar at a luncheon during the Illinois Chamber's annual board of directors' planned meeting.

"The goal of Illinois Reaches Out is to offer statewide public recognition to Illinois citizens who have volunteered their time and talents to better their communities. It's a special way of saying 'Thank you!' to this state's unsung heroes who strive to better our communities and make a difference in the lives of other people," said Sally A. Jackson, president and CEO, the Illinois Chamber.

Selected volunteers will receive a note from Mrs. Edgar, a certificate of recognition and an invitation to attend a special reception at the executive mansion.

Nominations for the Illinois Reaches Out program will be made by the 277 local chambers of commerce throughout Illinois on a quarterly basis. Sponsoring organizations will also participate in the awards reception. Nominations will be reviewed by the First Lady and her staff.

"The chamber is proud to help publicize and coordinate this program through our local chamber partners," said Jackson. "We fully support and endorse the Reaches Out program, which is consistent with the chamber's mission to forge coalitions, create partnerships, serve as a resource for local communities and to enhance the Illinois business climate."

"As a business organization, the Illinois Chamber encourages and recognizes volunteerism as an important part of the economy. Businesses have learned that supporting volunteerism has more than just social benefits. It also serves as an alternative method to make improvements without tax dollars," Jackson added.

Illinois Reaches Out is patterned after the highly successful state employees reach out program launched by the First Lady in March. To date, Mrs. Edgar has recognized 300 state employees, who contributed more than 50,000 volunteer hours, for their contributions.

The estimated dollar value of volunteers was $217.9 billion in 1991, according to the Independent Sector, a national forum that encourages volunteering. This figure excludes informal volunteering.

Guided Bicycle And Walking Tours

Cook County Board President Richard Phelan announced that the Forest Preserve District and the Nature Conservancy will present a 'Trail Awareness Day' at 9 a.m. on Saturday, Oct. 16th at County Line Woods, one-half mile west of Route 45 on 95th St.

"The themes of 'Trail Awareness Day' are recreation and ecological education," Phelan said.

The Nature Conservancy will lead a guided bicycle and walking tour through County Line Woods highlighting the ecological sensitivity of the natural areas which are frequently used by bicyclists and walkers.

Dave Eubanks, greenway planner for the forest preserve district, will speak to participants and outline various steps bicyclists can take to become more environmentally responsible and respectful in their use of natural areas.

"This is an effective arena for heightening one's appreciation of natural areas which helps with the effort to conserve and preserve them for the future," Phelan said.

At 12 noon, following the running and walking tour, an Oktoberfest event will be featured. Food and refreshments will be available for all the participants.

Anyone interested in participating or obtaining more information can phone Recreation for Individuals Dedicated to the Environment (RIDE) at 1(800)458-2358, TDD (708) 771-1190.

Gov. Jim Edgar recently announced Illinois child support collections in Fiscal Year 1993 reached a record high of $202 million, a $14.5 million increase from the previous year.

"Our aggressive efforts to collect child support are paying off for children, families and taxpayers," the Governor said. "With get-tough measures, including income withholding and interception of tax refund checks, collections last year exceeded $200 million for the first time. And we expect our collections will increase even more substantially this year because of initiatives we have launched."

Parents and their sons will meet in the school's library and from there, tours of the school will begin. Tours end in the cafeteria where teachers will answer questions on academics and athletics. Refreshments will be served.

De La Salle's second open house is scheduled on Sunday, Dec. 5th, and the

ACS Pins For Women

The American Cancer Society (ACS) has a small gift for women in the south suburbs who have mammograms to help fight breast cancer. In observance of October as "National Breast Cancer Awareness Month," a special ACS breast cancer awareness pin is being presented to local women who have screening mammograms this month. The pin, which features a woman's profile and the ACS sword of hope, is meant to encourage conversation about the importance of mammography and the early detection of breast cancer.

The society recommends an annual mammogram for all women age 50 and older. Those between the ages of 40 and 50 should have a mammogram every one to two years and women should begin mammography by age 40.

To receive a pin, women who have had their mammograms during October are invited to call the ACS at 1(800)ACS-2345.

Semantics and double-speak continue to haunt the Clinton administration.

President Bill Clinton and Defense Secretary Les Aspin are now calling our military personnel, who have been captured by Somalia warlord Mohamed Farrah Aidid, as "detainees" and not "prisoners of war" (POW).

A "detainee" is a person held in custody or confinement, a political detainee.

A "prisoner of war" is a person taken by or surrendering to enemy forces in wartime.

The Clinton administration's double-speak regarding our military people captured by Aidid is not the kind of sophistry the military men and their grieving family members need at this time of crisis in their lives.

Chief Warrant Officer Mike Durant, a United States Army Blackhawk helicopter pilot who was shot down and captured by Aidid's followers, was on a military mission not a political mission.

As a "prisoner of war," CWO Durant and others should be granted all the rules of the Geneva Convention established in 1864 pertaining to the treatment of prisoners of war, the sick, and the wounded.

As a "detainee," CWO Durant and other military personnel captured by Aidid and his gangs, can be treated as political prisoners and, therefore, deprived of all the rules of the Geneva Convention.

The rhetoric tug of war has landed squarely in the court of President Clinton and Secretary Aspin.

What is CWO Mike Durant, a "prisoner of war" or a "political detainee?"

The last pictures we saw of CWO Durant, after he was shot down and captured by Aidid's thugs, clearly indicated he was wearing GI-issue clothing, wounded and following standard military orders of simply stating his name, rank and that he was a U.S. Army Blackhawk helicopter pilot.

CWO Durant never once thought to tell his interrogators that he was anything but a member of the United States military and the he was part of a military mission.

However, if he had been afforded the opportunity of listening to the double-speak coming out of Washington, CWO Durant could have told his captors he was flying a heavily-armed U.S. Army Blackhawk helicopter on a political mission and all the helicopter's firepower was simply for political purposes.

In an effort to salvage political capital, President Clinton and Defense Secretary Aspin have resorted to a kind of checkmate verbiage and Chief Warrant Officer Durant is the pawn captured in the verbal chess game.

What started out in Somalia as a humanitarian effort to feed starving people has now escalated into urban guerrilla warfare.

Military personnel, who are trained to destroy or kill the enemy, are being treated as political peacemakers and are referred to by our government leaders as "detainees" when they are captured.

If this continues to be the Clinton administration policy, instead of beefing up our forces in Somalia with an additional 5,300 troops, President Clinton and Defense Secretary Aspin should consider asking for volunteers from big city gang crimes units.

Historically military personnel fight an enemy who is dressed in a uniform different from their own.

However, gang crimes units are accustomed to "waging war" with the type of urban street gangs found in Mogadishu, Somalia who dress and look like your average Somali citizen.

It may come as a surprise to President Clinton and many members of Congress who have never served a day in the military, but soldiers are not policemen—not unless you are a military policeman (MP).

Military personnel are trained to kill the enemy not walk around with rifles slung over their shoulders and grenades hooked to their cartridge belts like cops on a beat.

Members of our armed forces are instructed as to how to respond to their captors if captured under the rules of the Geneva Convention pertaining to "prisoners of war."

The major SNAFU seems to be that the Clinton administration wants to refer to captured American military personnel as "detainees" but the "detainee" word has not filtered down through the chain of command and captured servicemen. CWO Durant is still responding to his captors as if he is a "prisoner of war."

Further clouding the Somalia debacle, two months ago the Clinton administration wanted our troops to seek and destroy renegade warlord Aidid and his henchmen, but now President Clinton wants to enter into a plea-bargaining agreement with Aidid.

The Clinton foreign policy, if you can call it that, would strike a deal where we would turn over the running of Somalia to Aidid in return for his releasing our captured servicemen and a promise to quit sniping at our troops.

Isn't why we are in Somalia because Aidid's roving gangs pillaged UN food shipments leaving thousands of Somalis to die of starvation?

This policy isn't only double-speak it's double-cross.

Next time "don't send in the Marines"—send in gang crimes.

Township Officials Meet Congressman

At a recent conference of the National Association of Towns & Townships, elected officials of Worth Township met with First Congressional District Congressman Bobby Rush.

One of the prime directives of the conference was for local officials to meet with their Congressman to discuss problems affecting their constituency. After breakfasting in the Congressional dining room, the group posed for a picture. Worth Township Supervisor Joan Patricia Murphy stated, "Congressman Rush showed a deep interest, concern and knowledge of the problems facing South Suburban Cook County. Issues discussed were job opportunities, economic growth, health care, NAFTA, and the third regional airport."

"Congressman Rush has pledged to keep in close contact with the local elected officials, both on the municipal and township level." Stated Murphy, "It was altogether a very productive meeting."

Torch Runners

Over 160 runners and walkers participated in the 3rd annual Frankfort/Kennedy Torch Run on Aug. 28th. The event raised over $1,500 for St. Coletta's Kennedy School, and included a TAC Certified 12K run and 5K run/walk through historic Frankfort. All proceeds benefited the Law Enforcement Torch Run and Kennedy School Special Olympics program.

Dennis Gravitt of Oak Forest captured the 12K course record for the second consecutive year with a time of 40:17. The first female 12K runner to cross the finish line was J. Cummings with a time of 49:53. An award was also given to 78 year old Ed Campbell, the oldest 12K runner, who finished with a time of 1:22:14.

First place male and female finishers in the 5K run were Dan Castillo, 18:20, and Carlene Willkom, 23:04. Warren Utes, age 73, set a new national 12K record in the 70-74 age group with a time of 48:54, surpassing the old record by 5:06.

Before the awards presentation, Frankfort Mayor Ray Rossi introduced Special Olympian Anthony Laurie and said, "It's for people like Tony that we have this event each year and we're thankful to all the businesses and participants who supported the run."

Each participant received a T-shirt prior to the race and a ribbon as they crossed the finish line. Medals were awarded to the first three finishers in each age division of the 12K run. Several prizes and donations were drawn for after the run.

Rhonda Salameh, vice-president of Bevel Granite, points to the plaque dedicated last week in recognition and gratitude to the Merrionette Park Fire and Police Departments, and to 12 area firefighting companies. The officials and firefighters were landed for extinguishing a devastating blaze at Bevel Granite Co., Inc. on Oct. 2nd, 1992. The conflagration was the largest in Merrionette Park's history.

Merrionette Park Assistant Fire Chief Jim McSweeney and Police Chief Robert Stevens accepted the plaque on behalf of the village and the firefighters. Bevel President Jim Rogan and Vice-President Tom Rogan were on hand for the presentation.

Firefighters who responded from proximate communities including Alsip, Blue Island, Calumet Park, Dixmoor, Evergreen Park, Garden Homes, Midlothian, Oak Lawn, Orland Park, Palos Heights and the Palos Fire Protection District, were also represented at the dedication of the plaque.

Holy Land Tour Plan

Illinois Benedictine College Professor Fr. Michael Komechak, O.S.B., will be hosting a tour of the Holy Land from Dec. 29th to Jan. 10th, 1994. The tour group is to visit all important Biblical sites along the Mediterranean, through Galilee, in and around Jerusalem. Students may earn one or two academic credits as part of their academic program in the spring semester. Fr. Michael has escorted groups overseas annually since 1981, most between semesters because of low season prices.

"The holiday spirit," he says, "also enhances the joy of travel." The total cost of the trip will be $1,965 which includes round-trip airfare on El Al directly between Chicago and Tel-Aviv, deluxe hotel accommodations, breakfast and dinner each day, and ground transportation. The Y Service League invites all for a pleasant drive (coach) to Rockford and the first stop will be for lunch at the Metropolitan Restaurant on Wednesday, Oct. 20th. Then on to the New American Theatre to see the comedy hit "Evelyn and the Polka King." This is a brand-new play by the author of "Clara's Plan," "The Voice of the Prairie" and "Careless Love." Evelyn is an 18 year old from Texas in search of her long-lost father, the fabled "Polka King" whose dazzling combo sends crowds of folks to dizzying delight with its foot-stomping, whirling polka tunes. The cost of the trip is $39 which includes luncheon, show and coach transportation. Reservations can be made by contacting Helen Langnes at 636-3478 or Harriet Polloway at 425-4579. Buses leave Long John Silver's parking lot, 87th and Cicero, promptly at 9 a.m. and return at approximately 6 p.m. Further information may be obtained by calling the chairperson, Helen Langnes.

The Women's Guild of Salem United Church of Christ, 9717 S. Kostner Ave., is hosting its annual holiday bazaar on Saturday, Nov. 6th from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Featured will be crafters, a drawing, hot luncheon, bakery and white elephant sale. There will also be crafts made by the women of Salem Church. For more information, please call the church office at 423-9717.

The 1994 Entertainment Book ($35) and the Gold "C" Saving Spree ($10) are now offered by the Sunshine Circle of the Southwest Chicago Christian School. You save money and they make wonderful gifts. Call Vi at 422-6064 or Wilma at 429-3201.

"Murder by the Book IV" will be held on Saturday, Oct. 30th and Sunday, Oct. 31st, sponsored by the Southwest Mystery Book Guild and the Oak Lawn Public Library. Space is limited, so they ask you to reserve as soon as possible in order to assure your reservation on the day or days of your choice. The cost is $5 per day or $10 for the full weekend. A Saturday buffet lunch with the authors is optional. For those wishing to participate in the buffet, the cost of $16 must be prepaid by Oct. 25th. Should you have any questions, call Barbara Reiser at 346-5249 or Susan Baird at 422-4991.

The chances are $50 each and the 1st prize is $10,000, 2nd, $1,000; 3rd and 4th prizes, $500 each. For additional information or to purchase tickets, you may contact John Brazis at 636-6389.

Sorry to report that Penny Hempen, president of the Johnson-Phelps VFW Ladies Auxiliary, was putting the flag away after the Homecoming parade for Oak Lawn Community High School on Saturday the 9th when she fell down a few steps and broke her leg in two places. She was treated at Christ Hospital and is now home.

One hears and reads so much about illiteracy, it's nice to be able to report that we have a contingent of students from St. Gerald School who participated in The Amazing Book Capers summer reading program sponsored by the Oak Lawn Library. 211 students participated and they read a total of 3,365 books in a 10-week period. Students who won autographed paperbacks were: Kelly Witte, 5th grade; Jason Scamardo, 2nd grade; and Kimmy Costello, 1st grade. In addition, some of the students volunteered their time to work behind-the-scenes of the summer reading program. They include Owen Gerig and Erin Kupres from the 5th grade; Marie Rehr, Gail Sterns and Sara Wantiez from the 6th grade; Corey Eignan, Joe Rohacik, Sarah Smith, Carolyn Walker and Rachel Zurek from the 7th grade. Congratulations to all of you!

An "Oktoberfest" dinner-dance will be sponsored by the Johnson-Phelps VFW Post and Ladies Auxiliary on Saturday, Oct. 16th from 6:30 p.m. until 12 midnight. The donation for tickets is $15 per person and includes a German-style dinner, dancing to Mike Vlad and his orchestra, and an open bar. For tickets and reservations, one may call Rich Leumen at (312) 767-3515 or pick them up in the lounge. No tickets will be sold at the door.

On Tuesday, Oct. 19th, the Johnson-Phelps VFW Post & Ladies Auxiliary will sponsor a seminar on fire prevention at 7 p.m. in the post hall. Refreshments will be served.

As for the school problems in Chicago, I think Mayor Daley should do as President Reagan did with the air controllers - tell the union to get out, then hire the persons who are looking for jobs as teachers. I know they count on the unions for a lot of their campaign funds, but this gets to be ridiculous!

At the recent legislative briefing, hosted jointly by the Evergreen Park and Oak Lawn Chambers of Commerce, the issue of parking was addressed. This topic is a common concern of businesses, particularly those located on 95th St. Shoppers and users of retail and service locations prefer easily accessible parking.

This concern is being addressed by the Evergreen Park Chamber of Commerce. President Gerald Gibbons (left), past president Laura Shallow (center), and member William Biros (standing), met to discuss alternatives to alleviate these parking problems facing businesses. State Representative Maureen Murphy (right), who spoke at the legislative briefing, presented her views. State Senator Patrick O'Malley, who was instrumental in channeling this concern to the chamber, was in contact via telephone from Springfield.

The parking issue was subsequently discussed at a chamber board meeting. The chamber is interested in representing the businesses, promoting local shopping and encouraging economic development. This business concern will continue to be addressed as a long-range planning goal.

Foreign Language Computer Lab

Foreign language teachers emphasize four basic skills. For their students to grasp a new language, teachers focus on the development of reading, writing, speaking and listening. Initially, students learn slowly. As in any discipline, once students understand the fundamentals, they can comprehend the more complex aspects. Now, however, Spanish, French, German, Japanese, bilingual education and English as a second language teachers in District 218 work with a tool that accelerates the learning process.

This fall, the district completes its installation of 10 micro-computer laboratories at its three campus high schools and at Polaris School for Individual Education. The labs are the creation of Dr. Denise Gil, curriculum coordinator for foreign languages and bilingual education, and Dr. Jim McNamara, the executive director for planning and research.

Gil began developing the labs in March 1992. The labs combine an Apple Macintosh computer, CD-ROM technology, and custom-designed work stations. Because the 10 work stations displaced 10 student desks from each classroom, Gil and McNamara had to design the micro-labs so that they could double as student desks. The result is a futuristic work station with the computer screen housed below a glass desktop panel, and the computer itself located on the side in a ventilated compartment.

Through extensive language software provided on CD-ROMs for each language, students learn vocabulary, grammar and other aspects of the language. The system also features sophisticated audio technology through the high quality sound available on CD-ROMs. Students may listen to a native speaker pronounce words, phrases and sentences. They also can record their own voices, then play the recording back to hear their own pronunciation.

While the computer presents innovative lessons, the real key may be the students' enthusiasm for this learning tool. "It's so visual and user friendly. Students pick up the language quickly," says Gil, who sees noteworthy enthusiasm in the classes that have begun to use the labs.

National Merit Semifinalists

Br. Hank Hammer, F.M.S., principal at Marist High School, has recently announced that along with the seven National Merit semifinalists, 12 seniors have been named as commended students in the 1994 National Merit Scholarship program.

A letter of commendation from the National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC), which conducts the program, will be presented to Michael Berka (Oak Lawn), Walter Burns (Midlothian), Patrick Friel (Palos Heights), Edward Kim (Oak Lawn), Ted Lekan (Tinley Park), James Manthey (Garden Homes), Michael Martin (Alsip), Brian Moran (Hickory Hills), Joseph Odrodnik (Oak Lawn), Ryan Rockaitis (Worth), Matthew Springer (South Holland) and David Tichy (Alsip).

About 35,000 commended students throughout the nation are being honored for their outstanding performance on the 1993 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, which was the route of entry to the 1994 merit program. Commended students have shown exceptional academic promise by placing among the top five percent of more than one million program entrants; however, their qualifying test scores are slightly below the level required to continue in the competition for Merit Scholarships to be awarded in 1994.

An NMSC spokesman stated, "Being designated a commended student in this keen competition is a credit to these young people as well as their schools, which play a key role in their development. We hope that the recognition these scholastically able students receive will encourage them to develop their talents and abilities to the fullest, and that the example they set will inspire other young men and women to strive for academic excellence. Commended students represent a valuable intellectual resource crucial to our nation's well-being."

Argonne Researcher

Oak Lawn Community High School student Patricia Lonosky spent a week at Argonne National Laboratory this past summer. The program, sponsored by the division of educational programs at Argonne was an introduction to scientific instrumentation. Patricia spent time working on sophisticated computers that are used for research purposes. The focus of these research activities was in the analysis of solid and liquid mixtures. The computers determine what is in the mixture as well as how much of each element is in the mixture. Patricia had an opportunity to learn about spectrophotometers which use light energy to analyze mixtures and about computers that use alpha and beta rays to analyze specific metals that are contained in alloys such as jewelry and some building materials. Patricia enjoyed her work at Argonne and feels she learned a great deal about the latest technology.

School Fund Accountability

State Sen. Patrick O'Malley (R-18) says any meaningful reform in the way the state funds public schools must include educational accountability. O'Malley is a member of the Senate Revenue Committee, which met recently to discuss the state school-aid formula. That committee has been directed by Senate Resolution 232, which O'Malley sponsored, to work with public and private groups to study the state's tax system and submit recommendations for change to the General Assembly.

"The Revenue Committee has been meeting since July to examine different aspects of the state tax system. A recurring theme in all of our discussions has been the funding of education," O'Malley said, "on a local level, school funding accounts for the biggest portion of property tax bills, as much as 65 to 70 percent in suburban areas. Statewide, it seems everyone is looking to the state for more funding for schools."

"One thing in Illinois that should bring us together more than anything else is the education of our children. Yet, I have found that the one thing that divides us more than anything is education and I believe the current state school-aid formula is the principal contributor to that division," O'Malley said, "at the Revenue Committee's most recent meeting, we learned more about the school-aid formula from Illinois State University Professor Alan Hickrod, one of the people who helped shape it."

"In 1927," O'Malley continued, "the state moved from the traditional flat grant funding approach to an equalization formula for funding schools. In 1973, the equalization formula was significantly changed by two principal reforms: greater funding for poverty-impacted districts, and an 'equal expenditure for equal effort' concept that encouraged school districts to access their property tax bases by rewarding them with more state funding, unfortunately, in 1980 the 'equal expenditure for equal effort' reform was repealed and school districts were left to make up the difference with local property tax increases. That single change has probably done more to contribute to the overwhelming growth in local property tax bills than anything else." Data provided by Bill Hinrichs of the State Board of Education, comparing regions by their percentage of the student population and state aid, verified the variable impact of the school-aid formula, according to O'Malley.

"Suburban Cook County and the collar counties, with 37.5 percent of the students in Illinois, get 22.2 percent of general state aid. But Chicago, with 23.5 percent of the students, gets 20.8 percent of state aid. Moreover downstate schools, with 39 percent of the students, get a whopping 57 percent of state aid," O'Malley said, "these figures demonstrate how suburban schools have been penalized by the portion of the school-aid formula that reduces state aid proportionate to the growth of the district's local equalized assessed valuation (EAV). State funding for Chicago public schools has eroded in recent years because the student population has fallen and the city's EAV has increased. Downstate districts' EAV growth is indirectly capped because their most valuable real estate comes under a special farmland assessment law that keeps property taxes on farms at a relatively nominal level, accordingly, they are less penalized by EAV growth." Committee members seem to agree that changes in the way Illinois funds its public schools must be tied with education accountability.

"The consensus of the committee is that simply putting more money through any formula doesn't guarantee a good education. In fact, Thomas Downes, an economics professor at Northwestern University, testified that his research cannot substantiate the notion that increasing funding for schools by itself will improve the quality of education," O'Malley said, "What is needed is more accountability in the process. What the state invests in our educational system must be directly related to what we are attempting to accomplish in education. Are we currently getting a good return on our investment? Is the quality of education improving? Are we preparing our kids for the challenges of tomorrow? Those are the questions that must be answered to have meaningful education funding reform."

O'Malley says the work of the task force on education has provided a good beginning for reform efforts with its development of an adequacy methodology and the concept of regional cost differences.

"Perhaps the state should be limited to funding a minimum adequate education for every student in Illinois, but to do so by taking into consideration regional cost differences. Certainly, a $4,000 expenditure will buy a lot more in Centralia than it will in Palos Park," O'Malley pointed out.
